To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now for a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy, and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

"I guess so, father," replied the materfamilias. "He always has gone."

Lots of Coal.

His Interpretation.

"What is your alma mater, Mr. Nurich?" "Well, if you insist I'll take a cigar."

The New Better and Safer Way to Wash Your Hair

Dandruff is the primary cause of falling hair. This disagreeable condition of the scalp and hair glands is almost certain to cause temporary or permanent baldness.

Loss of hair may also be ascribed to the use of improper shampoos containing irritating substances, animal oils and alcohol, any of which may produce gradual decay of the hair.

Don't use a stale liquid preparation that contains too much alkali (a harmful irritant). The surest, safest and easiest way is to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Velnor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of non-injurious liquid that will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff also improve the natural color of the hair. Velnor being in concentrated form never spoils and will keep forever.

MEXICAN FOLK TALES

WEIRD LEGENDS OF LONG AGO PERSIST IN SOUTH.

Swarthy Peons Still Cherish the Mysterious Folklore of the Aztecs and Their Spanish Conquerors—Mexico City Has Seen History of the Most Varied Type—Stories Lost In Antiquity.

Of all the relatively larger cities on the American hemisphere, the capital of Mexico is by far the oldest. Its beginning was long before Columbus sailed on his memorable voyage of discovery, when it was the seat of the Aztec empire. Civilization of a sort flourished there long before the first hardy pioneers settled along the northern Atlantic coast.

It has been a city of many vicissitudes. It has been held by Indian and Spaniard, by viceroy, by republican, by revolutionist, and by northern invader. Many of its streets are of the greatest antiquity. Many of its traditions are so old that no man knows whether they originated in the days of Montezumas or of the Conquistadores.

As is inevitable, the City of Mexico has its own peculiar folk lore, its mysterious legends. There are old tales that have been handed down from generation to generation by word of mouth and are still told by Mexican nurses to the children as they were told centuries ago.

A relic of Aztec folk lore is the tale of the Wailing Woman. Once, a long time ago, the story runs, there was a very bad woman in the City of Mexico. She gave birth to many children, but children bored her, and, as fast as one came upon the earth, she drowned it. Finally her conscience began troubling her. It is supposed that her punishment was to go through eternity looking for her children.

Frequently since then, it is said, watchmen have seen a woman in white, with a white mantilla over her head, roaming through the streets at night. Those who have inquired her business have received an answering inquiry as to where her children can be found. The greatest misfortune always overtakes those who question her. Most of them are stricken dead or become insane. This latter fate is said to have overtaken a gifted young army officer, who once tried to flirt with the Wailing Woman. It is said her lamentations are still heard at night, sometimes.

One story with a foundation in fact is the legend of Don Juan Manuel. As the tale survives in the folk lore Don Juan was an amiable enough gentleman, except that he had a bad habit of wandering out nights and murdering people. His custom was to approach somebody on the street, ask him the time, and, when he replied, telling him he was lucky because he knew the hour of his death, stabbed him to the heart. This went on until one night Don Juan killed his dearly beloved nephew, whom he had not recognized.

Stricken with remorse Don Juan confessed to his priest, who for penance orderered him to go alone at midnight to a certain church, before which was a gallows, and to tell his rosary under the gallows. Three nights he attempted to fulfill the command, but was driven back by the groans of the persons he had murdered. After begging in vain for a lighter penance he finally reached his goal under the gallows. And then angels from heaven came down and hanged him.

As a matter of history there was such a person in Mexico in 1641 and he was a dishonest collector of revenues. He was jailed, and, to secure his liberty, his wife was compelled to suffer incredible humiliations at the hands of a judge. Don Juan broke prison, went to his home, found the judge there, and stabbed him to death. Later he was mysteriously lynched one night before the church, and from this grew the legend that the angels had punished him for his sins.

A striking story of ghostly revenge is the legend of Don Juan de Nava, priest and guardian of his orphan niece, a beautiful girl. A Portuguese nobleman, Don Duarte de Sarraza, fell in love with her, and she reciprocated the attachment, but the priest rejected Don Duarte because he was known as a gambler. One night the priest came upon Don Duarte talking to his niece through her window. Duarte struck the old man with his dagger, which was imbedded in his skull, killing him. He threw the body, dagger and all, into a ditch. Just one year later Don Duarte was found dead at the site of the crime. Kneeling over him, one of its bony hands gripping his body by the throat, was a skeleton in priestly garments, with a dagger sticking in its skull.

Decidedly creepy is the story of Father Lecuona. This good priest, hurrying to the home of a friend, was met on the street by a woman, who told him a dying man wished to make a confession. Yielding to her entreaties, he went to a hovel to which she led him. There he found the emaciated form of a man who looked as if he had long been dead. The man told him that in ancient times he had died unshriven and had been blistering in hell ever since. As a special favor, however, he had been permitted to return to the earth to see if he could find a priest who would hear his confession.

Padre Lecuona thought he had to deal with a madman. He heard the confession and administered absolution. When he told his story at the house of his friends they scoffed at it, one of them saying the hovel had been uninhabited for many years. To make a test of it the priest and companions went to the house the next day. They found the door covered with cobwebs as if it had never been disturbed. When they finally unlocked it and went inside they found nothing except a fresh handkerchief. The priest identified as one he had carried the night before.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its colour and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even colour, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small stand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart colour and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The Youngster Hushed.

When the great French chemist Chevreul attained his hundredth birthday he was entertained at a public dinner, at which his son, a high official in the department of justice, sixty-seven years old, was also present. The old man made a speech and in telling an anecdote made a slight slip, which his son corrected. Old Chevreul turned around quickly and said in a sharp tone, "Hush, youngster, when I am talking." And the "youngster" held his tongue.

Couldn't Forget It.

"Saturday night some miscreant lugged off a whole cord of my wood, and somehow I can't forget about it!" declared Silas.

"Have you tried to forget it?" inquired his friend.

"Yes. Sunday morning I went to church hoping I could get it off my mind, and before I had been there five minutes the choir started in singing 'The Lost Chord,' so I got out!"

Knew It Was Wet.

Wife—My husband came home from the club last night with such a swelled head that I haven't been able to arouse him to-day.

Neighbor—Why don't you try pouring a pitcher of water over his head.

Wife—I did that very thing, but the only thing he did was to call out for an umbrella.

Her Awful Threat.

A youngster who already had eaten more cheese than was good for her was greatly injured when the plate was placed beyond her reach.

"All right for you, mother!" she cried. "When I get to be a woman I'm going to sit up all night and eat cheese and bananas, and"—she shook a small, warning finger—"I'm going to lick my plate!"

LIGHT UNATTENDED.

Platte Fougere Beacon Is Unique Among Marine Guides.

What is declared to be the only unattended lighthouse built on a wave-washed rock, possessing a powerful fog-signal, is the recently completed Platte Fougere Lighthouse, marking the entrance to the Russell Channel leading to the Guernsey capital of St. Peter's Port, a spot which figures in Victor Hugo's great romance, "The Toilers of the Sea." This unattended tower, built of ferro-concrete, which rises on a wave-washed rock, is 80 feet in height. The head of the rock on which it stands is only visible at low tide, while it is difficult to approach even in the smoothest weather, owing to tides and currents. Much of the foundation work had to be carried out under water.

The tower, says The Sphere, is solid for a height of 46 feet above the rock, and the base is formed of Portland cement placed in iron moulds with iron bars driven into the solid rock to anchor the concrete firmly. On the side to which the building is exposed to the heaviest seas, massive beams of rolled steel are driven into the rock so as to impart additional strength to the part of the tower where the greatest strains are likely to be set up.

On the entrance level is a compartment containing an electric motor and air-compressor, while on the floor immediately above is a duplicate installation. The siren projects through the top of the tower, the trumpet being so turned as to throw the sounds in a horizontal direction over the water.

On the top of the tower is a small automatic acetylene-gas plant and light. The foghorn has been heard thirty miles away on the French coast, while the light is brought into being at sunset and extinguished at dawn automatically.

These devices, many of which are the invention of the engineer-in-chief, Mr. E. O. Catford, are controlled from the shore station one and a quarter miles distant, by means of a submarine cable made specially for the work. This cable is 11 inches in diameter, and weighs forty-five tons to the nautical mile.

The tower and its installation cost $68,000, a sum five or six times less than that which would have been needed for an ordinary stone structure.

Confessions.

The woman begged the bachelor girl not to go yet awhile. She was so urgent that the girl finally sat down again. Then the two sat perfectly still and silent, looking at each other.

"I know what you are thinking," said the bachelor girl by and by.

"What?" asked the woman.

"That, now you've got me to stay, you wonder why it was you insisted so. You don't know what to do with me or to say to me, now I'm here to stay."

"How did you guess it?" the woman laughed.

"I've felt just that way myself," said the bachelor girl, "many and many a time."

The Red Sea.

In the Red Sea reefs of bright pink coral are clearly to be seen. Much of the rocky bed of this sea is the work of the coral insect. But probably the true reason for the name of the Red Sea is because along its eastern shore lies ancient Edom. This word signifies "red." It was given to the region not from the color of its sandstone hills, but from its people. These are the descendants of him who came in faint and weary from hunting and said to his brother, "Feed me, I pray thee, with that same red pottage, for I am faint"; therefore was his name called Edom.

A Mistaken Conception.

"What's wrong with Glithers?"

"He has a mistaken conception of his duty as a citizen."

"Yes?"

"He won't put his shoulder to the wheel. He wants other people to do that, while he stands on one side and pots do—n the number of revolutions it makes."

There was never a time when the sacrifices and the help of women were more appreciated than at the present time. Women should learn war-nursing and nursing at home. Stratford, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was a great help to me. During an expectant period I became all run-down, weak and nervous and could not stay—was constipated. I also suffered with backache. I was a complete wreck and was down sick in bed when I began taking Favorite Prescription. I soon commenced to feel stronger and it finally restored me to health. I also took 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' and they helped me greatly. I could do all my work and felt fine. I had practically no suffering and my baby was strong and healthy."—Mrs. Thomas Rumball, 268 Erie St.

Don't Prod Your Liver to Action

NR Overcomes Biliousness, Constipation, Sick Headache, Quickly. No Griping or Pain. Guaranteed.

The organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination—the stomach, liver and bowels—are closely allied, and the proper action of any of these organs is largely dependent upon the correct functioning of all the others.

"Whipping" your liver into action with calomel or forcing your bowels with irritating laxatives or strong cathartics is a great mistake. A better, safer plan is strengthening and toning the whole digestive and eliminative system with Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets), which not only brings immediate relief, but genuine and lasting benefit. It acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys, improves digestion and assimilation, overcomes biliousness, corrects constipation and quickly relieves sick headache.

Get your system thoroughly cleansed and purified for once; stomach, liver and bowels working together in vigorous harmony, and you will not have to take medicine every day—just take one NR Tablet occasionally to keep your system in good condition and always feel your best. Remember it is easier and cheaper to keep well than it is to get well.

Get a 25c box and try it with the understanding that it must give you greater relief and benefit than any bowel or liver medicine you ever used or no pay. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Street Fighting in Budapest—Machine Guns Freely Used—Labour Revolt Feared.

STATE OF SEIGE

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Oct. 30.— The foment in Budapest is becoming chronic, it is indicated in reports from Zurich and Copenhagen. Street fighting, in which machine guns are employed, is common, and many have been killed and injured. Great demonstrations were organized yesterday. There were frequent violent combats, generally between loyal soldiers and students. The Republican movement is still brewing and a general Labour revolt is feared. The Chronicle and Daily News suggest the trouble perhaps is the beginning of a revolution against the Hapsburgs. It is reported that Emperor Karl's opposition to Count Karolyi's proposition for a majority coalition touched off the recent outbreaks.

Proclamation Issued.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 30.— Archduke Joseph, a second cousin of the Austrian Emperor, has issued a proclamation declaring that Karl charged him to effect complete independence of Hungary, which would join the League of Nations, according to a Budapest despatch received here today. Reports received yesterday stated that Count Karolyi, who was elected head of the National Council, already had formed an independent, anti-dynastic state in Hungary, in which the Czecho-Slovaks and Jugo-Slavs had joined.

State of Siege.

Special to The Examiner:

ZURICH, Oct. 30.—A state of siege has been proclaimed in Budapest, following the attempt of a hundred thousand demonstrators to enter the palace of Archduke Joseph. Demonstrators are demanding a republic. German troops are reported to be arriving. Students in the city have formed a council to co-operate with the Magyar National Council.

Local Labour Interested in Meeting Called for Friday Night.

Mr. E. G. Patterson, Supt. of the C. G. E., and Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., are in Toronto to-day meeting Senator Frederic Nicholls, in connection with the big meeting here on Friday.

Mr. Hartley, president of the Trades and Labour Council, will be one of the speakers.

Local Labour is greatly stirred up over the matter of discrimination and will attend en masse on Friday evening.

WAS TAKEN OFF A C.P.R. TRAIN

Military Police Are Still Active in Peterboro.

Herbert Allen Burd, an employee of the Hydro-Electric Commission, was unceremoniously taken off the C.P.R. train last evening by the military police for not having military papers. The papers were sent from Toronto this morning. Mr. Burd paid a fine amounting to $6.10 for his negligence. He resumed his journey to Perth after his unintended "vacation" in the city.

TAKEN TO BELLEVILLE.

David Crowley, a defaulter, two Miller brothers, Milton and Herbert, also defaulters, and Charles Porter, a deserter from an Engineer Battalion, were taken to Belleville to-day by Corporal McBride, M.M., and Constable Eva, of the Military Police.

Allied Advance Continues On a Fifty Mile Front With Increasing Success

Agreed on Main Points

Armistice Terms to Germany Will be Similar to Those Offered Bulgaria.

(United Press.)
(By William Philip Simms.)

VERSAILLES, Oct. 30.—It was anticipated to-day that the armistice terms to Germany will be similar to those offered Bulgaria, although extra precautions will be necessary and there may be some harsher clauses.

The Inter-Allied conference is understood to have already agreed on the main political points of the armistice. The terms must be severe, it was agreed in authoritative circles, because Germany began the war, the renewal of which must be made impossible.

May Last a Week.

Col. E. M. House, representing the United States, has called on President Poincare and conferred with other French leaders. He also has received Greek Premier Venizelos and the Greek Minister to France. House has moved from the hotel where he first stopped and now is occupying a residence on the left bank of the Sienne, loaned by a friend and located in the old aristocratic quarter near the house General Pershing lives in when he is in Paris. United States' signal corps men are installing telephones in the building and Parisians remark that an air of permanence surrounds Colonel House's establishment there. Few believe that the Inter-Allied conference will last more than one week. Since the Allies have already reached an agreement, little remains to be done except the drawing up of the conference's verdict in official form for the representatives' signatures.

Building By-law to Run the Gauntlet at November Meeting

Ald. Edgar warned or advised the Council last night that he would reintroduce at the November meeting the new building by-law which has been kicked around since last spring when a special committee of builders, most of whom are in the Council, decided that they had provided for every condition and contingency that might arise in the future development of the city. When the typewritten volume reached the Council, however, it was deserted by its sponsors, excepting Ald. Edgar. The contracting aldermen on second thought concluded that they had done their work too well, and perhaps not wisely, fearing that the regulations might hamper building operations in the city at a time when too many restrictions were emanating from war conditions. However, the aldermen who insisted on knowing the by-law in its general contents had copies sent to their homes in moving vans, and are supposed to have spent the summer and fall digesting the formidable tomes. Next Monday night therefore the by-law will be dragged in again, and unless some of the aldermen have undergone a complete change of heart it will likely be sent back to the limbo to which it was consigned when the May flowers were blooming.

"Fall digging" and "preparedness" are synonymous terms.

Italians Have Occupied an Important Railway and Communication Centre—Many Guns Captured.

RAPID ADVANCE

PARIS, Oct. 30. — The Italians have taken 25,000 prisoners and more than 200 guns in their present offensive, it was officially announced today. The total casualties are estimated at 40,000.

(United Press.)
(By Henry Wood.)

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMIES IN THE FIELD, Oct. 30.— The Italian and British armies completed piercing the Austrians' last line of resistance, and are rapidly approaching eastward between the two railway lines feeding the Austrians on the Piave front. They have cut off all communication of the Venetian Plains. (The two lines of railway run from Treviso to Cas Arsa, 35 miles north-east of Treviso. The northern line crosses the battle front at Congeliano, the southern at San Dona Di Piave.)

(United Press.)
(By Henry Wood.)

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMIES IN THE FIELD, Oct. 30.—The Allied advance continues on the whole fifty mile front from the Brenta to the Treviso-Oderzo railway. Progress is greatly accentuated on the right flank, north of Treviso. American troops, comprising Ohio units, have crossed the Piave and are ready to take up the advance with their Italian and British comrades. More than a hundred villages and communities east of the Piave have been liberated. The Italians occupied Conegliano, an important railway and communication centre, fifteen miles north of Treviso, yesterday. At nine in the morning a bicycle corps entered the city. Airplanes signalled their arrival and a Rome brigade completed the occupation. The Tenth Army is advancing rapidly eastward, employing many abandoned Austrian batteries to shell the retreating enemy.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS ON THE PIAVE, Oct. 30.—Austrian forces are retreating under ever-increasing pressure and it is felt the attack against the enemy will become overwhelming as soon as the entire Allied force can enter the action.

With three successive days of fair weather, an extremely large body of troops with supplies has crossed pontoons over the Piave. The exhausted Austrian munition supply will give out. There are indications that the enemy's heavy artillery is being withdrawn in an effort to save the big guns. Latest reports show the Austrians retreating steadily to save themselves in the Piave district. Monte Grappa has been violently attacked by the enemy, however, but action resulted in his repulse. More than twenty thousand prisoners have been captured since the attack began.

Official Statement.

ROME, Oct. 30.—The official statement issued last night, announces the capture of another thousand guns, and all together 150 guns. The enemy has been forced to abandon the heights on the left bank of the Piave and is retreating, hard pressed. Several more villages have been liberated.

To Prohibit All Hallowe'en Parties

Crest of Influenza Epidemic Has Been Passed in Toronto.

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—The parents of Toronto have been requested by Dr. Hastings to prohibit all Hallowe'en parties, as he is fearful of the result. "Children of all others," he said, "run the greatest danger playing together and eating together, very often after recovering from an attack. They are carriers and a great risk is run. As for the older boys and girls, they should have more sense. In these critical times the lack of self control and mental poise is lamentable. An organization should be started to develop these necessary qualities.

"The people of Toronto on the whole have done wonderfully well, as the crest of the disease has been passed a week or ten days earlier than in any city of its size.

LONG PERIOD POLICE DUTY

Allied Troops Will be Kept in Russia Long After the Teuton Vacates.

PRESERVE ORDER

(By Carl D. Groat.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—American or Allied troops, or both, undoubtedly will have a long period of police duty in Russia after the Teuton vacates. While the German has been evacuating the Baltic provinces and has stripped down his forces in the Ukraine, he still has a wide belt of influence and a considerable number of troops in the territory between the Gulf of Riga and the Black Sea. Military authorities forsee to-day that if immediate evacuation of the Teuton is compelled, a reign of terror and lawlessness may ensue. Hence, there is some division of opinion as to whether this evacuation should be compelled hurriedly or gradually. In either case it was said that the Allied forces undoubtedly would have to maintain order for a considerable time until the restored region could get a footing politically and economically. If it is decided to increase the Allied forces, their occupation will be solely for police purposes and it will be made clear to the world that this duty will be accomplished as speedily as possible and the troops then withdrawn immediately. Military developments of the past few days are convincing war experts here that German and Austrian morale is only a shell. The Austrian shows signs of cracking badly under the united offensive in Italy. While the German is hanging on grimly along the west front, he is in constant danger of being shaken loose from the pivotal hold in the Verdun region, then being forced back beyond Namur. Military men say he has concentrated his all and can make no real stand short of the Rhine. The general opinion based on morale reports and knowledge of internal Teuton conditions may fairly be said to be that while the German may protest at the forthcoming armistice terms, he probably will yield rather than go on with a losing fight.

A War Book That Differs

"Pen Pictures from the Trenches," by Lieut. Stanley Rutledge. This is a new book by a Canadian soldier, who has given his life for his country, and it has been placed on sale in Trebilcock's store.

This is a book that is different from the ordinary war book. There are no blood and thunder stories in it. It does not deal with gruesome happenings or hairbreadth escapes, but brings out the more human side of the front. Stanley Rutledge found life intensely amusing and unspeakably interesting. No one can read this interesting little book without grasping his vigorous idealism, his keen sense of beauty, his devout and simple religion, and his hold on the preciousness of common things. This book is made up of letters to the papers and to his family, written in the dugout or in the billet. It is just such a book as many would like to send to a friend at Christmas.

FRANK JENNE says:

This war is a race against time. Ships, munitions, food must be rushed along. Every minute counts. Everyone knows it. Canada needs your money to keep up this vital war work. Lend your money to your country, so there may be no slackening. Buy Victory Bonds.

$175,800 Total of First Two Days of Peterboro's Victory Loan Campaign

Subscription Work is Picking Up Speed—C.G.E. Employees Are Well Organized and Responsive —North Ward Heads the City Divisions.

MR. E. B. THOMPSON HERE

Peterboro's Victory Loan blackboard showed to-day a total of $175,800 subscribed during the first two days. The list is as follows:

North Ward	$25,100
South Ward	10,950
East Ward	3,450
West Ward	6,700
Centre Ward	29,450
Banks	9,600
Special	10,500
Norwood and Asphodel	13,100
Lakefield and Douro	5,800
Monaghan	1,600
Otonabee, 7 to 12	7,700
Smith, 1 to 7	9,000
	$132,450
C. G. E. Works	43,350
Total	$175,800

Observations on the progress of the Loan finds that there are more persons producing cash for their bonds than last year. One woman flashed $400 in one chunk at the Hunter street office yesterday, and the smaller sums of $100 and $50 are commonplace. It has been found that the citizens are using the Hunter street office, opposite the Oriental Hotel building, more freely than last year. They are calling to enquire for certain information, and many are bringing their money with them.

QUEBEC TAKES $3,000,000.

QUEBEC, Oct. 29—At noon to-day the local committee of the Victory Loan reported a lump subscription of three million dollars to date. The seven million quota of Quebec will be over-subscribed, reports the committee.

GUELPH GOING STRONG.

GUELPH, Oct. 29. — The result of the first day's work in the big three-week drive for the Victory Loan in South Wellington, was highly satisfactory and the workers are confident that the objective of $2,000,000 will be reached. The special subscription committee announced tonight that $335,000 worth of bonds had been sold during the day. The importance of this announcement can better be realized when it is known that in the 1917 campaign the entire amount in Wellington Couty credited to the Specail Subscription Committee totalled $79,000 for the riding and $25,000 for Guelph city.

MR. CUMMING BEREAVED

Mr. E. B. Thompson, organizer for the district of Eastern Ontario is temporarily assuming the work in Peterboro county that was begun by Mr. Wallace B. Cumming. The many friends he made since coming to this county will regret to learn that Mr. Cumming's father died at Almome since Monday. Mr. Thompson arrived here yesterday afternoon and will carry on until Mr. Cuming returns.

PRESCOTT WINS A FLAG

The first town in this district to win one of the Governor-General's honour flags is Prescott which passed its objective of $200,000 on the very first day. Brockville reports subscriptions that total $600,000, Kingston $737,000, and other nearby towns are doing equally well. Peterboro has not yet struck her best stride, largely because of the difficulty the epidemic of influenza has created. However, the city is fast warming up, and the underwriting here should soon be mounting through the six figure marks.

C. G. E. GOING STRONG.

The C. G. E. workers have swelled their subscriptions by the success of yesterday's canvass when 222 applications were received for $25,050. This makes a total of 404 subscribers who have taken $45,250. The Canadian

Public Funerals Are Banned Here

This action results form a number of cases of influenza and pneumonia which have been traced to the funerals of other victims, especially in visiting homes where persons had just died.

Another Note For Wilson

New Epistle Recites in Detail the New Changes in Government.

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.— Another German note reached Washington today, not addressed this time to President Wilson personally, apparently recognizing that the time of personal appeals has passed. To-day's note supplements the last communication, which stated that the armistice terms were awaited, by reciting in detail the Governmental changes which have taken place in Germany as evidence that the Kaiser has been deprived of all power for making war and the negotiation of peace. The note probably has been forwarded immediately to the Supreme War Council at Paris.

To Raise $2,000 For Memorial

Will Honour Memory of Late Joseph Scriven in South Monaghan.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 30.—A public meeting of the Ministerial Association of Cavan and Millbrook was held here for the purpose of discussing ways and means of providing a suitable memorial to the late Joseph Scriven. It was decided to raise $2,000.00 with which to erect a suitable memorial. A committee was appointed and the matter will receive due attention. Joseph Scriven was the writer of that well known hymn, "What a Friend we have in Jesus."

NOTHING NEW ON WESTERN FRONT.

PARIS, October 30. (Official.) —North of Guise we have advanced on the north bank of the Oise and captured Beaufort Farm. West of Lesquielles St. Germain, on the right of the Peron, we have made a new advance east of Monceau-Lenouf, taking prisoners. In Lorraine the Germans made two raids without results.

GERMANY'S ADVOCATE

This is the Position Germany is Seeking to Force America into —Want Merciful Peace.

FLATTERING STATES

(By J. W. T. Mason.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The crafty statesmen of Germany are now using all their cunning in an effort to break up the coalition of the Democratic nations in the war by tempting America into becoming Germany's advocate at the peace table. The Kaiser is seeking to coax the American people into believing their war against Germany is different from the war of Great Britain and France. He wants to persuade America that the only real democracy in the world is the American democracy. If he succeeds in flattering the United States into this hypocritical belief, the Kaiser anticipates that America in return will insist that Germany receive not a peace of justice but a merciful peace. The Kaiser can expect no mercy from the nations of Europe he has sought to rob of their liberties and flay with his accursed militarism. Nor could he hope for mercy from the American republic, whose women and children he murdered, except by offering to recognize the United States as a nation holier than others and a forgiving judge. Germany must not be allowed to gain the final victory by subtly planting the seeds of future strife between America and the democracies of Great Britain and France.

Romaine St. Sewer Packed With Sand

The Romaine street sewer has undergone another operation, the results of which, City Engineer Parsons expects, will be satisfactory until the inherent, congenital weakness breaks out at some other point. The latest malady was of long standing, and was directly in front of Alderman Saunders' residence. Loads of gravel had been dumped into a hole in the road which refused to stay closed, and this steady undermining of the road was an obvious indication of a break in the sewer through which the sand and gravel was being sucked by the pumps at the corner of George street.

The diagnosis was more than correct. A triangular opening had been broken through one pipe which with those next to it were packed tight with sand. There were breaks in the standpipe, and the connection to Alderman Saunders' house was plugged. After considerable difficulty that might have been somewhat relieved by gas masks, the connection and sewer were renewed and the trench refilled. Mr. Parsons remarked that there are doubtless other breaks or disjointed connections along the street, but the only way to discover them would be to excavate the present sewer or wait until the old weakness shows at some new paint.

No Change in the Tax Instalments

Tax Collector Green's proposal that the taxes be collected in three instalments in future, was rejected last night by the Finance Committee, after it had been discussed at some length. The Committee also decided to protest against paying for the maintenance of five inmates of the asylum of the insane, who are charged to Peterboro. Three of them are accepted as local charges, and one of these died some time ago, but the two others should be Toronto dependents.

THE VICTORY LOAN.

Some collectors for the Victory ...onds campaign report that the ...reatest obstacle in the way of in...ucing many workmen to invest in ...e loan is the lack of understand...g on the part of the latter of the ...ase with which Victory Bonds can ...e turned into cash, if needed. Many ...ho have been canvassed seem to ...ave obtained the impression that if ...ey buy Victory Bonds their savings ...ill be tied up for a number of ...ears, and if an emergency arose ...ey would be unable to secure the ...se of their money. It should be ...horoughly understood that the ...onds are practically as negotiable ...s cash, and if there comes the need ...f converting them into currency, ...here is not the slightest difficulty ...n the way, as they may be sold im...mediately. The fear of having his ...money so invested that it is not ...available if necessary, should not de...er anybody from buying Victory ...Bonds. They can always be sold ...without delay or difficulty.

PETERBORO'S PROTEST

The circumstances in connection ...with the permitting of electrical ma...chinery from the United States being ...brought into this country by the Can...ada Cement Company should be the ...subject of an immediate investigation ...It is a matter that not only effects ...Peterboro because it is injuring the ...Canadian General Electric Company ...but that seems also to be unfair to ...the other companies which have had ...to pay customs duties on imported ...machinery. If it is true as stated that ...a prominent member of the War Pur...chasing Board is connected also with ...the Canada Cement Company, the ...concern which is receiving the bene...fit of the unusual privilege the need ...of an inquiry into the whole affair ...becomes increasingly apparent.

The action of the City Council of ...Peterboro in passing a resolution of ...vigorous protest against the proceed...ing will undoubtedly meet with the ...approval of the citizens generally. The ...Council's resolution points out that ...the machinery in question could be ...obtained in Canada and its importa...tion on a free basis is injurious to ...the manufacturing interests of Can...ada, particularly to the C.G.E. This ...resolution will be emphasized by the ...public meeting of protest which is to ...be held on Friday night and it is hop...ed that the agitation that has been ...caused in Peterboro by the discovery ...of the privilege accorded the Canada ...Cement Company will lead to some de...finite action at Ottawa. Particularly ...should the relationship of a member ...of the War Purchasing Board to the ...Canada Cement Company be investi...gated for the people of Canada are ...entitled to know all the facts in con...nection with the transaction. The ...matter is of vital interest to Peterboro ...and the protest that is to be voiced at ...Friday's meeting should be whole...hearted and lusty enough to arouse ...those in authority at Ottawa.

STICK IT, PETERBORO

Peterboro people naturally have ...civic pride; they are always ready to ...boast to strangers of the advantage ...of the city of its fine recruiting record ...o fthe patriotism of its people and ...other propaganda of the same cheery ...and optimistic vein. Right now how...ever, Peterboro is being put to the ...test. The city is asked to supply an ...investment of $800,000 in Canada's ...Victory Loan. $800,000 looks like a ...whole lot of money—about $40 for ...every man, woman and child ...living in the city limits but our citi...zens have the sum required and ...surely have faith enough in Canada ...and confidence enough in the boys at ...the front to lend to the Dominion ...every cent they can spare.

Thamesville, Prescott and other ...places that Peterboro citizens usually ...pretend are not even to be found on ...a map have already exceeded them ...objective and earned an Honour Flag ...with the campaign not three days old.

We don't want all the little places ...in Ontario "rubbing it in" that they ...won their Honour Flags in the open...ing days of the drive while Peterboro ...fell down.

Why one Ontario village is already ...out to treble its allotment.

To do that in Peterboro the city ...would have to raise $2,400,000.

What's the matter with trying it?

The money's here—let's hand it over ...to Canada and add some more driving ...power to the allied armies.

Do it? Of course we can.

Haven't we always boasted, that ...we have the best city in Eastern On...tario?

And we were right too.

And didn't we send out more sol...diers to fight for Canada than any ...other place in Canada, according to ...population, except Winnipeg?

The figures say so.

Well we've got to back up those ...boys who went out from Peterboro to ...fight—and alas many of them to die—...for us.

We're asked to lend $800,000.

If we stop at that sum we haven't ...got the same spirit as the lads at the ...front.

Stick it, Peterboro, should be the ...slogan until we have earned so many ...crowns there won't be room for them ...on the Honour Flag.

FIGHTING THE FLU

The epidemic of influenza at pres...ent raging in Peterboro while it fortun...ately has not been marked by as high ...a mortality rate as in some other cen...tres has caused widespread suffering ...and distress. There are many homes ...in which practically every member of ...the family is ill and there is no one ...to look after the patients properly. ...Such conditions naturally increase the ...danger of serious complications and ...because of lack of care and nourish...ment, simple cases have assumed a ...more virulent type. Many volunteer ...nurses have done and are doing a ...most valuable work in homes where ...there is no one well enough to attend ...to the needs of the patients. The ...difficulty is however, that some cases ...are not heard of in time to properly ...fight the disease.

Under such circumstances it might ...be possible to organize a body similar ...to the Neighborhood Welfare Associ...ation in Toronto which has been of ...invaluable assistance in checking the ...spread of the influenza and in caring ...for its victims. If in each polling sub...division in Peterboro a committee of ...volunteer workers could be formed to ...look after the interests of its own sec...tion many distressing cases could ...be relieved. One duty of such a com...mittee might be to take a daily sur...vey of its district keeping in touch ...with the different families and in this ...manner fresh cases could be reported ...upon as soon as developed. Such ...nighborhood bodies would prevent ...some of the conditions that have been ...discovered in the past two weeks—...cases in which the patient might ...have had a splendid chance for recov...ery if the proper authorities had been ...informed in time.

An Opinion on After War Conditions

Many opinions have been given and will continue to be given to the public on conditions after the war and the following by Goodbody & Company, New York, in the "Metal Market" of October 24th, will be read with interest:

As business men and investors the big facts that will affect our immediate future are, as we see them, about as follows:

1. The war will end soon.
2. Industry will have to be reorganized.
3. Millions of workers in munition plants will be unemployed unless, as is improbable, new industries are started promptly.
4. Many women will hold on to their war jobs.
5. Wages will decline.
6. Prices made high by the war will decline sharply when the war ends—except (as in the case of wheat) where minimum prices have been fixed for a certain period. The prices on steel, copper, etc., are really maximum prices. They are not likely to be maintained long after peace comes.
7. With falling prices and shrinking inventories, come depression and failures.
8. Partly because of slackness in business and partly because the Government will liquidate its contracts, the demand for capital will fall off and interest rates will decline.
9. As profits will probably decline faster than will interest rates, the common stocks of most industrial corporations are likely to decline. They are not likely soon to decline to the 1914 level, because equities have been greatly increased.
10. Where (as in the case of railroads) earnings are guaranteed or where ample earnings to cover dividends are assured (as in the case of most preferred stocks) stocks (both preferred and common) will advance as money rates decline.
11. As the interest on most bonds is usually secure the prices of bonds will rise as interest rates fall.
12. Assuming then that money rates will decline with peace, we see that good bonds and preferred stocks and common stocks with guaranteed earnings are the best peace securities.
13. Public utility and gold-mining corporations, having fixed prices or rates for their products or services, have suffered much by high wages and high prices of materials and supplies. Hence, they will gain much when peace comes.
14. Because of the pent-up peace demand for steel, copper, clothing, automobiles, etc., many good judges think that prices will hold up sufficiently well to sustain the present prices of steel, copper, etc., stocks. This we do not expect. We look for sharp declines in most metals and foods soon after peace comes.
15. We do not look for a business or financial panic immediately after the war ends. Credit conditions are too good and liquid assets too large for falling prices to cause a panic.
16. If a panic comes it will probably come at the end of a peace boom or after futile attempts to maintain the solvency of one or more great European nations.
17. History seems to show that the prices of stocks begin to fall soon after victory is assured and that they continue to fall until and after peace comes. Never before, however, were prices fixed and speculation restrained in war times as they are now. Never before were taxes so high or currency so little inflated a sthey now are in this country. With changed conditions, history is not likely to repeat. Peace panics belong to Berlin and Vienna and not to New York, London or Paris.
18. Summarizing, we conclude that peace will bring lower prices, wages and interest rates and that good bonds and preferred stocks are preeminently peace stocks and should be bought and held for much higher prices. Railroad stocks, because of assured earnings, for a limited period, are also good peace stocks. Public utility and gold-mining stocks are also good peace stocks.
19. What earnings are equally assured, the security that is likely to advance most is the one with the biggest yield.

"Well, gentlemen," said Tompkins to a couple of his friends, "you can talk as much as you please about the inferiority of women, but there are lots of them that can discount most of us for brains. "I's got no home," retorted the offending driver. "Now whut yo' gonna do 'bout dat?"

SURNAMES OF HUNS.

Some of Them Are Odd But Appropriate.

Odd surnames are to be found in every nation; but in Europe, for downright eccentricity, vulgarity, obscenity, and unpleasantness generally, the palm must readily be awarded to Germany, in whose directories appear cognomens one can hardly imagine being suffered by intelligent individuals of any nationality.

Very many of these German surnames suggest most unpleasant origin, while collectively they cast a curious sidelight on the mentality of the modern Hun.

For a surname is at once a history, originally designating occupation, estate, place of residence, some particular thing or event that related to the person; or perhaps some physical peculiarity of the original owner's—as we see in English names such as Carpenter, Woodville, Blackburn, Strong I' th' Arm, Whitehead, and so on.

In the first place there is Wilhelm II. of Germany, whose family patronymic is Hohenzollern. His English name, cut down all his resounding titles, would be plain William Hightaxer.

In the Berlin directory are to be found a clergyman named Brawler, a captain of infantry named Sourherring, a milliner called Mrs. Blistervillage and a rate collector who can scarcely rejoice at his name of Murder. We also find a professor of theology named Hatred, and an accountant named Extortioner. Mrs. Wickedvillage is a laundress, Mr. Cowardly is a police official, Mr. Scorn is a cheesemonger, and Mr. Giantcabbage an engineer.

What intelligent Briton, for instance, would care to have inscribed on his or her visiting-card as a surname any one of the following English equivalents for German individual names listed in the Berlin and Hamburg directories: Mandevil, Wooddevil, Squint, Littlebeast, Gizzard, Chitchatmountain, Beastcorner, Falsehood, Cat, Buglife, Gooseeye, Mustardlife, Cucumber, Rage, Potsprinkler, Doornail, Cat's-elbow, Horsedeceiver, Frothmountain, Panhandler, Tigerstream, Doubleflourish, Scissors-corner, or Scoundrel?

Yet these, and hundreds of others like them, are the patronymics of modern Berliners. Such names uttered among Germans occasion no surprise, afford no humor; they are quite usual. But a German royal duke who bears the farcical title of "Brown Be Silent" is the limit. Such a one figured in the Almanach de Gotha some years ago, and may be there still, for aught I know—or some successor.

Deutschland, in its original meaning, is Heathenland, a name much more appropriate than "Germany"—which would seem to be of honest Keltic origin.

As most of the world knows, Wilhelm II. styles himself Der Allerhochste—the All-Highest. Each time he returns to his capital the fact is announced in the following outrageous and ungrammatical formula: "His Majesty are returned to Berlin. All-Highest the Same Ones (Allerhochst-dieselben) rejoice themselves in possession of a blooming health," etc.

According to the Berlin Press, Wilhelm still enjoys his "blooming health." One is tempted to wonder for how long.

Victory Comes High, but WE MUST HAVE IT!

THIS is no time to count the cost of Victory--when hundreds of thousands of our own Canadian boys are charging, full speed ahead, with the Huns on the run. This is no time for loyal Canadians to stop and consider the terrible price, in blood and tears, this war has already cost the world.

When the word goes forth over there to CHARGE, every man is on his toes, straining every muscle, eyes front, head up, bayonet fixed, to sweep the German hordes back out of Belgium, out of France, back, ever back, until they throw up their hands with "Kamerad! Kamerad!" on their cowardly lips.

Here, in Canada, when the word goes forth to "LEND," let us all be worthy of the gallant boys who have given up home, and comfort, and even life itself, for the cause of Victory.

We, at home must furnish the funds that will keep the victorious Canadian troops supplied with food and clothing, with guns and ammunition, with tanks and shells and airplanes.

Victory is within our grasp. Continue the great offensive and the war will be won.

Every dollar you have, or can borrow, is needed to bring back the boys VICTORIOUS.

Canada needs your money, but Canada is willing to pay for the use of it.

Every dollar invested in Victory Bonds will be returned to you with interest.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water, and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

NOTICE

Military Service Act, 1917.

EMPLOYMENT OF MEN IN DEFAULT UNDER THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT.

The following Regulations, recently approved by the Governor General in Council, impose strict obligations upon every employer TO ASSURE HIMSELF THAT EACH OF HIS EMPLOYEES OF MILITARY AGE AND DESCRIPTION IS IN POSSESSION OF DOCUMENTS PROVING THAT HE IS NOT IN ANY WAY IN DEFAULT UNDER THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT.

An employer who is charged with having a defaulter in his employ must be able to prove THAT THE MILITARY SERVICE PAPERS ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OR MILITARY AUTHORITIES TO THE EMPLOYEE IN QUESTION WERE PRODUCED FOR HIS INSPECTION at the time when the employee was taken into his employment, and that it was reasonably established to his satisfaction that the man was not in default under the Military Service Act. It should be clearly understood that the Canadian Registration Certificates given on June 22, 1918, at the time of general registration, in no way define the status of a man under the Military Service Act.

REGULATIONS.

"106. Every person who employs or retains in his service any man who has deserted or is absent without leave from the Canadian Expeditionary Force, or who is in default in the performance of any obligation or requirement for reporting or for military service, imposed upon him by the Act or Regulations, or any proclamation thereunder, shall be guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by a penalty of not less than One Hundred Dollars, and of not more than Five Hundred Dollars, or by both such imprisonment and fine, unless such person prove that he made due inquiry and that THE MILITARY SERVICE PAPERS ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OR THE MILITARY AUTHORITIES TO THE MAN SO EMPLOYED OR RETAINED IN HIS SERVICE WERE PRODUCED FOR HIS INSPECTION, and that it was reasonably established to his satisfaction by such inquiry and papers that the man was not a deserter or absent from the force without leave, or in default in respect of any of the obligations or requirements aforesaid."

"106a. Every person who HARBOURS OR CONCEALS OR IN ANY WAY ASSISTS ANY MAN WHO IS A DESERTER OR ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE FROM THE CANADIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, or who is in default in the performance of any obligation or requirement for reporting or for military service imposed upon him by the Act or Regulations or any proclamation thereunder, shall be guilty of an offence punishable upon summary conviction by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by a penalty of not less than One Hundred Dollars and of not more than Five Hundred Dollars, or by both such imprisonment and fine, unless such person prove that he was not aware and had no reasonable ground to suspect that the man so harboured, concealed, or assisted was a deserter or absent from the forces without leave or in default in respect of any of the obligations or requirements aforesaid."

TWO DIED IN TENT

INDIAN'S FAMILY WAS FOUND IN DISTRESSING SITUATION

COBALT, Oct. 28.—Investigating a report that an Indian family were in hard circumstances at the mouth of Mill Creek, in the Township of Bucke and just south of the Haileybury boundary, Chief of Police Collins, of Haileybury, yesterday found two children lying dead, the parents and the four remaining members of the family helplessly ill, food supplies gone for forty-eight hours past, no heat or protection from the weather except a small tent. The victims were a girl of about 6 years of age and a boy some years younger. They are understood to have succumbed to influenza.

Board of Governors for Peterboro Emergency Hospital

Mayor G. H. Duncan Appointed Chairman—Pneumonia Cases are Becoming More Numerous in the City.

The Board of Health has appointed a Board of Governors or a Senate, clothed with complete authority in matters concerning the new Emergency Hospital on Hunter Street. This new "cabal" consists of Mayor G. H. Duncan, Chairman William Buller, of the Board of Health, and Dr. Amys, M.O.H.

Dr. Amys was affirmed by the Board as medical superintendent of the hospital, and Miss H. Reid, of the Isolation Hospital, was established as lady superintendent. All accounts certified by the medical superintendent and the lady superintendent will be passed by the Board of Governors.

Trained Nurses.

Trained nurses at the hospital will be paid according to the regular wages of such a nurse, about $21 weekly.

The lady superintendent was authorized to engage help and untrained nurses at a salary compatible with their duties. The salaries will be paid on the 15th and last day of every month.

"The people have been very generous," said the Mayor warmly, "both in donating beds, bedding equipment and the time which they have spent preparing the building for patients. The transformation is marvellous. The letter-carriers came over in a body last night, and have done the same to-night. They are rendering valuable assistance. I want to move a general vote of thanks to the citizens of Peterborough for their time, energy and material; also to those city officials whose duties did not call them there."

The resolution was seconded by Mr. James Murty, and passed unanimously by the Board.

The Equipment.

His Worship the Mayor will write to Mr. Owen, superintendent of Barnardo Homes at Toronto, and explain to him why the Margaret Cox Home was not accepted, and thank him for the offer. The building, with the whole of its equipment, was offered the city by Mr. Owen. The city has availed itself of some of the equipment for the new hospital.

Affairs are going smoothly at the hospital, and a policeman was in charge last night.

Dr. Amys reported that the number of pneumonia cases in the city seemed to be on the increase, although the "flue" has abated somewhat.

"If patients would only listen to the doctors' orders and stay in bed, so many pneumonia cases would not develop," said the doctor.

Connection Between Canada Cement and War Trade Board

Broad Hint That Suspension of Duty on American Electrical Machinery for the Cement Company Was Smoothed and Facilitated—Council Passes Resolution of Protest.

Through the following resolution, passed by the City Council last night Peterboro voiced its protest against the admission into Canada of electrical machinery, free of duty, for the use of the Canada Cement Company:

Moved by Ald. A. A. McIntyre, seconded by Ald. Dobbin:

That this Council of the City of Peterborough has been informed that permission has been given to import electrical machinery into Canada free of duty for the use of the Canada Cement Company, and that this Council protests vigorously against such action, because the machinery can be obtained in Canada, and the permission for free importation is unnecessary, is unfair to companies which have been compelled to pay customs duties on machinery which they had to import, and is injurious to the manufacturing interests of Canada, and is particularly unfair and injurious to Peterborough where the extensive works of the Canadian General Electric Company are situated, as it will deprive the workmen who have been employed therein of work and will harmfully affect the business interests of the City. And that a copy of this resolution of protest be sent to the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden, Premier of Canada, and to Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P.

Ald. McIntyre, in moving the resolution, said that, if the electrical machinery required by the Canada Cement Company could be manufactured here, the United States machinery should not be admitted free of duty. "We must protect the interests of our workingmen," he declared.

Is on the War Trade Board.

Ald. Edgar said that if there was any semblance of truth in the newspaper report, the Council should take action. If the Government was going to admit this machinery free of duty, then it was the Council's duty to back up the local industry, and the employees of the C.G.E. Company, who largely contributed to the prosperity of Peterboro. "I think that a copy should be sent to the Minister of Customs in addition to the Premier, in order that he may know that we are bringing this matter to his attention."

Ald. Worth suggested that a copy be sent to the War Trade Board.

"I don't think that would be of much use," Ald. Edgar replied. "The President of the War Trade Board is a member of the Canada Cement Company and it would seem that he hopes to make some money by getting this machinery from the United States Government without having to pay the usual duty."

Ald. Worth pressed his suggestion, and the mover and seconder of the resolution accepted it.

Swiss Admire Ideals of American People

(By United Press.)

Washington, Oct. 30.—Friendly sentiment toward America is shown by many Swiss newspapers and writers. An excellent example of this sentiment is the following article by Prof. W. E. Rappard. The article appears in a Swiss paper just received here.

"Liberal Europe is at last breathing again.

"The recent military successes and the moral comforts which they have procured she owes in the place to the intervention of the Americans. Had they have ennobled the war. They would have been their benefactors.

"But there is more. In entering this struggle without selfish ambitions, to make the world safe for democracy and the future for liberty, they have ennobled the war. They have have dowered it with new ideal rather they have restored its primitive signification, the purity of which was somewhat tarnished by the deception caused by reverses, the violence of reprisals and compromises of diplomacy.

"Since its discovery, the New World has been peopled by those whom religious intolerance, political tyranny and economic servitude drove from the Old. By means of a double resolution as courageous as it was generous, these victims of oppression became, first, the pioneers of America, and now, the champions in the world of human emancipation. Would one not say that the soldiers from across the sea bring back to Europe to-day, to divide it fraternally with all its peoples, this sacred gift of justice and of democratic liberty, which the colonists, their first ancestors, formerly took with them in exile to save it from oppression?

"America has not only, in the moment of the greatest perils, saved liberal Europe from the aggression of exterior Imperialism. She will be ready again at the hour of final victory, to oppose her own ideal of justice to the contagion of this Imperialism if it should spread internally.

"Switzerland is placed in the centre of Europe. Switzerland lives by means of right and democratic liberty In saving democracy in Europe, America assures, therefore in a two-fold sense the salvation of Switzerland. We know it and we shall not forget it."

SALUTE COSTS LIFE

(By United Press.)

While returning a salute from one of his men, near Sheerness, he failed to notice an approaching train. He was struck and killed.

THE HONOR FLAG

will be the chief emblem in the Victory Loan Campaign. It is presented by His Excellency the Governor-General to all cities, towns and villages that attain their objectives, and is expected to be flown by them. It is very attractive and is sure to be sought after.

DON'T KILL THE FLYER WITH A SAD LETTER

(By United Press.)

Washington, Oct. 30.—Be careful of letters you write to an airman!

This is the emphatic advice sent out this week to families and friends of our fliers by the U. S. air medical service. While at first glance it may seem somewhat strange that the service should attempt to dictate as to what should and what should not be written to a flier, a moments thought will reveal the fact that letters are a vital point in helping to win the war and maintain army morale. It is bad enough for any soldier to receive the "kill-joy" type of letter from home—the one telling about grandpa and all the little babies being sick, the landlord pressing for the rent, and how sweatheart is receiving marked attention from a slacker who has not been drafted.

But it is much worse for a flier to receive bad news from home for the reason that his highly specialized training and work in the air keeps him in a state of high tension and often he is more susceptible to unpleasant news from home than the man on the ground.

"By all means avoid writing that piece of advice, 'be careful and don't take any chances while in the air,' which so many people write!" admonishes Lieut-Col Isaac H. Jones of the U. S. Air medical service. "If a flier is to become an air fighter, he must take chances and take them often, too. He understands that and is perfectly willing. But when he receives a letter from one of the folks, telling how she dreamed the night before that he had crashed to the ground in a nose dive, it is quite liable to have a bad psychological effect upon the boy. He may get to thinking too much about it, and this combined with homesickness may spoil his mental condition, or even make him "ship shy" rendering him unfit for flying for a day or more.

"At Love Field, Dallas, Texas there was a young cadet whose wife used to write letters that failed to cheer, and always begged him to be careful. He worried about his wife and smoked cigars to excess, even before and after breakfast because smokes consoled him somewhat. He did not sleep enough and this combined with the nicotine no doubt dulled his brain to such an extent that at a crucial moment he was not sufficiently alert and was killed when his ship got into a tail spin.

"Sometimes cadets worry over the letters to sweethearts and others so that instead of getting eight hours sleep at night they only obtain three or four, especially in Texas in summer when the nights are very hot. Then when they are in the air in the morning these men become drowsy and fall half asleep so that a crash is quite likely to happen whereas if they were sufficiently rested to remain alert so that the droning of the motor and the vibrant singing of the wires would not incline them to drowsiness they would be perfectly safe. The flight surgeons and directors are doing wonderful work to counteract "air trances" and other troubles of the flier, and the people at home must cooperate with them

"Send them cheerful news, even if it is necessary o avoid telling the whole truth. Do your part to keep up the morale of our air service."

$100 Victory Bond Bought by Girl in West Virginia

Miss Clara E. Hodgson, Wheeling, West Virginia, U. S. A., an old Peterboro girl, has written to her uncle, Mr. H. Rush, as follows:

Dear Uncle Harry: I am enclosing a postal money order for $10 as first payment on a $100 Victory Bond. Will you send me by mail five application blanks, one for myself to cove: this payment, and I think that I can sell two or three more down here. All the schools, theatres, churches, etc., are closed here, and have been all the month, and to-day an order is out requiring all stores to close at six o'clock. We have only had about 380 cases, yet many of them were fatal. Pittsburg, Philadelphia and New York are very bad, while our army camps have had a large percentage of deaths.

Next month we are to have a war chest campaign for a fund for Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Jewish Association, Knights of Columbus, the Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Associated Charities, etc. This town is asked for $700,000. My employer, who is the president of it, says we will get a million. The plan is to canvass all stores, factories, houses, etc., asking for one day's income a month for one year. In this way they hope to eliminate separate campaigns for funds so that for the next year, at least, we will only be solicited for Red Cross membership, and Liberty Bonds, two issues of which we have to prepare for in the spring.

Why Not Insure The Payment of Your Premium?

Suppose you are thirty-five years old, and carrying $10,000 of Life Insurance costing you, say $300.00 per year, would you not like, (in case of serious accident or illness destroying your earning power) to have the payment of this premium paid for you as long as you live?

Then Read The Following:

The Sun Life of Canada will give you a further insurance of $5,000.00 if you are still insurable, and if you become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the Company will not only relieve you of all future premiums on THIS policy during such disability, but they will guarantee to hand you a $500.00 cheque every year, which you see will pay the premiums on your $10,000.00 and in addition will give you a handsome CASH XMAS BOX each year and, nevertheless, will pay the face of your policy at maturity or death.

Many people hesitate to take out Life Insurance, lest some catastrophy should force them to give it up. Well, that bugbear is removed by the Sun Life of Canada.

Mountains of Good, Cheap Coal in Huge Culm Banks

Millions of Tons That Could be Hurried On to the Market Were it Not for the Rapacious Coal Barons—The Market Would be Flooded With Cheap Coal.

IT MAKES BRIQUETTES

Coalless days and lightless nights have been necessary only through the rapacity and greed of the coal barons, says the New York Evening World, which publishes the reports of a special investigator whom it has had working on the fuel problem. The Evening World has contended that vast culm banks in the anthracite fields could be shipped to the market at a low cost to the people, and so relieve the coal shortage.

The Evening World says: "There are millions of tons of this coal which is called culm lying out on the surface of the anthracite region, piled mountain high all through the district.

"This coal was mined years ago before the small sizes of coal were in use. To-day all coal is marketable.

"This culm coal practically costs the companies nothing, since the miners were only paid for mining the larger sized coal and were "docked" for mining the smaller sizes.

"Experts have estimated the cost of putting this culm on cars for the market as ranging from 10 cents to 40 cents a ton, and yet when it comes to the market to-day there is no distinction made as to price from freshly mined coal.

Greed of the Barons.

"The investigation of this newspaper shows that there has been no need for coalless days and lightless nights, except the greed of a few coal barons.

"The official coal bulletin says:

"Reclamation of the culm banks of the anthracite district in Pennsylvania is described in a statement issued by the Anthracite Operators' Bureau of Information, in part, as follows:

"'Possibly 15 per cent. of the anthracite now going to supply urgent demands for coal is being extracted from the culm banks. Washery breakers, with special equipment, have been provided. In some cases washery and fresh-mined coal go through the same breaker together, and are prepared simultaneously. The washery operations which separate good fuel from waste, are thus supplying anthracite in large tonnage, which otherwise, with labor conditions as they are, it would be impossible to provide.

"'Culm banks yield from 15 to 60 per cent .of its bulk in good coal. Most of it is pea and the smaller steam sizes.'"

Culm Easily Loaded.

"The culm is easily lifted from the banks and swiftly sent through the washeries and breakers to the waiting railroad cars below.

"It requires little labor to load this material and various experts have found that in many places there is as high as 80 to 90 per cent .of good coal in the culm banks.

"The estimate of the Bancroft Washery, near Pottsville, Pa., a picture of which the Evening World printed ,is that there is 80 per cent. good coal coming through, and the cost is about 13 cents a ton to load on the cars. Dr. Garfield admits that culm coal is as good as freshly mined when washed and screened like fresh coal.

"What was there to prevent millions of tons of this culm from coming to market at a low price—a price commensurate with the cost?

No Car Shortage.

"It could have been sent to replace tons of freshly mined coal ,thus relieving any labour shortage. The President of the Reading Coal Company told me that there was no car shortage this summer, that they had plenty of cars on hand.

"Then why could not more culm coal have been sent, fine coal which can be readily used in hundreds of factories and apartment houses, and thus have relieved the larger sizes for domestic purposes?

"The one big fundamental reason is this: If these vast culm banks were reclaimed to the full possibility of their tonnage, the market would be flooded with low priced coal and the freshly mined coal would naturally have to come down in price also.

"But the rich controllers of coal, who have for years built up such close corporations of railroads and coal, as make it practically impossible for anybody to try to compete, have forestalled any such activity.

"Every effort has been frustrated to secure leases on the culm banks that would assure an output of any appreciable size. Washeries have been broken up for lack of leases.

"The Evening World investigation continues to disclose the squeezing qualities of the tight grip of the czars of the coal industry—a grip that has brought about robbers' profits and cruel shortage to the great pain of the consumer.

"As has already been said in these columns, almost the entire anthracite region is controlled by two companies, which also control the railroads that carry the coal."

Making it into Briquettes.

Asked to express an opinion regarding the above an official of the Ontario Fuel Administration said it was understood that the United States Administrator was going fully into the availability of stock of small coal now on the culm banks. "Some of it is already being used to mix with larger sizes and also in the form of briquettes; more of it is being found unfit for use because of the high percentage of rock, 'bone,' and slate contents. However, so far as Canada is concerned, we must accept the situation as it exists, and take it for granted that the United States Administration is doing everything possible to improve the consumers' position.

"Ontario and Quebec particularly are entirely dependent upon the good will of the United States for their supply of fuel and must take whatever is provided for our needs, and be thankful that we are treated as generously and on exactly the same terms as the various States of the Union. If Dr. Garfield does not see his way clear to use all the coal on the culm banks, he must have his reasons, and those reasons must be regarded as good and sufficient so far as Ontario is concerned."

HUNS TO KNOW FATE SOON, ALLIED COURT CONVENES

Meanwhile, Marshal Foch Continues to Press Along West Front From Holland to Meuse—Discouraged Murmurings Seep Out From Germany.

THE CENTRAL POWERS ARE DISINTEGRATING

(By William Philip Simms.)

VERSAILLES, Oct. 30.—As the Allied chieftains gathered here yesterday and to-day for the purpose of deliberating on terms of an armistice with Germany, the central powers seemed disintegrating under pressure from within and without.

Marshal Foch is continuing his pressure along the west front from Holland to the Meuse, with the Huns giving ground at important points. Discouraged murmurings seep out from Germany as Von Hindenburg's whole scheme of retreat is imperilled.

Berlin is hanging on the words which will emanate from Versailles. She will not have to wait long, as a few days, as most, are deemed sufficient, once the formal sittings are under way.

Foch and the allied generals are believed to be ready with the purely military demands which will be necessary if Germany gets an armistice.

Austria-Hungary is considered as already having ceased to exist as she was known before the war.

Turkey is merely waiting to see what Germany will do before taking action.

Germany herself is in a political condition scarcely less chaotic than that of her two allies.

"The allies' moment has come," a high personage said to the United Press to-day.

"Whether the war ends in the next few weeks, or is prolonged indefinitely, depends on how the situation is handled to-day.

"Absolute unity is more important now than ever, and every atom of strength must be put into our next blows, both political and military."

"Y" Orders 200 Tons of Gum for Soldiers

(By United Press.)

Paris, Oct. 3. (By Mail.)—The voracious appetite of the American Expeditionary Force for sweetmeats is shown by the orders of the Y. M.C.A. for candy, sugar and chocolate for October delivery. The "Red Triangle" people will distribute about 6,664,000 pounds of sweets to American soldiers during the month, or 3,332 tons.

Included in the order are 200 tons of jam, 200 tons of chocolate bars, 175 tons of boxed candy and many tons of other forms of candy.

Altogether the "Y" has placed orders or 6,268 tons of sweets and miscellaneous supplies for delivery in France in one month One of the largest items on the lists is tobacco —820 tons of cigarettes, 187 of smoking tobacco and 176 of chewing tobacco.

For the natives of Missouri and adjacent regions the "Y" is ordering two-fifths of a ton of "barnyard meerschaums" or corn-cob pipes. To afford facilities for the boys to write home, the order includes one-fifth ton of fountain pens and three-fifth ton of fountain-pen ink. One of the items usually associated with war needs is one ton talcum powder; three tons of shaving soap and about three tons of safety razors, razer blades and shaving brushes. Another unusual item is seven tons of playing cards.

Among other more interesting entries on the monthly order is one-fifth ton of watches, three-eight ton of pocket combs, 31 tons of cough drops, 17 tons of tooth paste and two tons of tooth brushes.

One of the biggest demands is for soap—of which 9 tons are requisitioned, together with 6 tons of towels. And last and most remarkable on the list is 77 tons of chewing gum.

QUIT MEAT WNEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS BEFORE BREAKFAST IF YOUR BACK HURTS OR BLADDER IS TROUBLING YOU.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly, can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver troubles, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat, and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM A DOURO SOLDIER IN FRANCE

Pte. T. J. Fitzgerald Was Wounded in August Last—Refers to Death of a Companion.

Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, of Douro, received the following letter from her son, Pte. T. F. Fitzgerald, wounded on August 8, 1918:

Orpington, Kent,
Sept. 29, 1918.

Dear Mother:—

I received your most welcome letter of August 2 yesterday, along with a few others. It took a long time for my letters to reach here, but now that they have started to come, I expect to get a good bunch.

It was up to London on pass the other day. I called to see Mrs. Player and heard some more particulars about Pat's death. She was working in the Can Record Office last fall when he was killed, and she saw a letter to a fellow in his company. She knew by his number that he had been a 190th man, so she wrote to him. This fellow was in hospital in France, but gave the facts to a fellow coming to England, and he called to see Mrs. Player.

It happened that this fellow was a friend of Pat's, and they had been together all the day of the 26th and had a rough time. Apparently they were in support for when night came on, it calmed down and they sort of looked at each other and wondered how they had lived through it all, and then started to look for some place to sleep. They got separated and when he had found a place Pat had a place with two other fellows. In the morning he inquired and found out they had all been killed. He saw Pat and said there was not a mark on him, just as if he were sleeping. He was killed by concussion, that is from the force of explosion when a shell drops close by. The concussion is worse if you are in a hole with overhead cover, but as you know a hole protects you from the shrapnel.

Perhaps it would be as well if I did not tell you all the details, but I was glad to get them, and I think a person always feels more satisfied when they know the particulars of a thing. I have never met a 46th man out of A Company that came through Passchendaele.

I have not heard any more from Roy Carlow. I wrote three letters to the address he sent but got no answer.

My arm is getting on well. It was quite a large surface wound, and takes some time to heal. I can use it quite well for anything except to raise it above the shoulder. But I should worry. This is the best hospital I have struck yet.

I got a parcel from the Warsaw women last night. No more news this time, but I must get busy and answer a few of my letters.

Love and best wishes to all,

TOM.

Doctors Dubious of Vaccine Value In Influenza Cases

The efficacy of the vaccine that is being widely used as a preventive against influenza, has not been definitely determined, according to a local doctor, who was inclined to restrict his opinions to his own experience. Some of those who had been inoculated had shortly afterwards become ill with the disease, and others escaped it. In some of these cases it may have been that the disappointments were due to an injection which had not manifested itself when the vaccine was injected.

At any rate while the doctors have inoculated all those who have applied for it, they have not been lauding it as an absolutely reliable preventive. It may be regarded as a precautionary help but apparently the doctors will not recommend it beyond that point. In this connection the views of Dr. Hastings, Toronto's M.O.H., may be interesting:

"There have been hundreds of thousands of people in the United States who have been vaccinated," he said, "and yet the highest authorities there are very cautious in expressing themselves in regard to this vaccine, and in my judgment advisedly so. Some two weeks ago I wired Surgeon-General Blue of the Public Health Service in Washington asking for a statement in regard to vaccination and its preventive properties so far as the present outbreak of influenza was concerned, and he replied that vaccine as a preventive of influenza was still in the experimental stages, and that it was not advised for general distribution.

"The Commission appointed by the Massachusetts Department of Health after careful investigation of statistics in regard to the vaccine as a preventative of influenza and the serum used for treatment, reported that this is still in the experimental stage," he added.

Still Experimental.

"I therefore feel it necessary to advise the citizens that there is no definite and reliable knowledge up to the present as to whether or not this vaccine is a preventative of influenza," said the M. O. H. "All we can say is that it is along scientific lines and that it may possess preventive properties, and that administration under asceptic precautions is devoid of danger, but it must be distinctly understood that it is purely in the experimental stage, and this is the opinion held by all the recognized medical authorities."

Dr. Hastings quoted the American Medical Journal in support of this view. In conclusion he stated that this epidemic would no doubt afford an opportunity of perfecting a vaccine and possibly a serum that will in the future prove most reliable.

Very Little Pleasure Travelling Say Local Railway Officers

There is Not Much of a Demand for Tickets to the Big Centres, Says Mr. A. McNab, of the G.T.R.

As far as pleasure seeking and casual visiting is concerned travel is practically at a standstill. Mr. A. McNab of the local Grand Trunk Office said this morning. The only people who are moving about at present are the commercial men, military service men and Imperial Munitions people. One feature of travel Mr. McNab particularly noticed is the almost total absence of ladies in travelling. Whether they are more afraid than men or have their hands full with sick people at home he does not know.

CALL FOR TICKETS

Three is very little call for tickets to the big centres and the only travelling done is locally even it has been cut off one half during the latter half of last week and the beginning of this.

TAKING PRECAUTIONS

As a precaution against spread of influenza in the Grand Trunk trains they have all been thoroughly fumigated lately.

SLIGHT VARIATION

A comparison of the ticket sales of yesterday and one month ago at the C.P.R. show a very slight variation in the amount of travelling done on October 25th 8 tickets were sold to Toronto while on the same day in September 10 tickets were sold for the same place. Mr. Skinner said that the usual number of tickets to the big centres such as Chicago, New York, Hamilton and Winnipeg are still being sold. If there is any falling off in travelling Mr. Skinner thinks it is not on account of any fear on the travelling public part but because of illness.

MILLIONS OF MISTAKES.

Errors Which Are Constantly Being Made by Well-Informed People.

Has it ever occurred to you that in ordinary everyday conversation we often use phrases and make statements which are, scientifically, absolutely wrong?

For instance, what a number of people there are who talk about "lead pencils."

Nowadays, there is no such thing. When pencils were first made real lead was used for the centre, but experience showed that this was too easily broken, and at the same time very dirty, so another substance had to be found. Modern pencils are made of graphite. Sometimes this is mixed with clay to make a harder variety. Of course, neither clay nor graphite has any connection with lead, so the name "lead pencil," though used every day, is now quite out-of-date.

When water is boiling, say in a kettle, a white cloud comes out of the spout.

What is this cloud made of? Nine people out of ten will say "It is steam." They will be wrong. The cloud is made of water vapor. The word "steam" has a particular meaning, and ought only to be applied to the vapor rising from boiling water. Such vapor is the same temperature of the water, and is quite invisible. The moment it begins to cool it condenses, forming very small drops, so light that they are suspended in the air. A great many of these, seen in a mass, have a white appearance.

The difference can be well seen in an engine blowing off steam. Just above the funnel there seems to be a space. This is filled with invisible steam, which, as soon as it has begun to cool, forms the minute drops that are visible as the white cloud.

If you ask the average man to define a volcano he will probably answer "It is a burning mountain."

Now if this were the case one would expect the mountain to burn away in time; but the tendency is for the volcano to become larger by the addition of lava thrown out by the crater.

In olden times men used to see active volcanos giving off smoke and what seemed to be huge flames, so they naturally imagined that the whole thing was on fire.

When a volcano is active the crater is quite open, and for the time molten red-hot rock is exposed. The seething mass is continually giving off gases, water vapor and smoke. These, as they rise over the crater, reflect the glow of the red-hot rock, and might easily be mistaken for flames.

How often we hear pearls referred to as "precious stones." The word "precious" applies, certainly, but strictly speaking it is quite wrong to call a pearl a stone.

Stones belong to the mineral kingdom, and have nothing to do with life of any kind; while pearls owe their very existence to certain kinds of animals.

They are made by some shell animals such as the oyster.

You will have noticed how unfamiliar the phrase "shell animal" is in the above paragraph. One always hears oysters referred to as "shell fish."

Real fish, of course, are much more highly organized than oysters, the chief indication being that their skeletons are inside their bodies instead of outside in the form of a shell.

Nearly everyone makes the mistake of calling a whale a fish. He is not a fish at all, but belongs to the same class as the horse, dog, and even man. He is a mammal.

Unexpected Testimony.

A farmer had an old horse that he wanted to sell, so, having doctored it up to make it appear as young as possible, he soon found a purchaser. The latter before taking away the horse told the farmer that he should like to ask the carter a question or two. Imagine the surprise of both buyer and seller when that worthy in reply to a question as to the qualities of the horse blurted out:

"Why, maister, I've knowed this hoss for twenty years, and I've never knowed un kick or bite!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Short and to the Point.

A coal merchant who was a man of few words once wrote to an agent the following brief letter:

"Dear Jones—';' "

In due time the agent's reply came as follows:

"Dear Mr. Sinclair—';' "

The coal dealer's letter, translated, said, "See my coal on," which is the semicolon expressed verbally.

The agent informed the dealer that the coal was shipped by saying simply, "Col-on."

Weak In French.

Miss Ellis, the teacher of French looked at Bertie in surprise, and said:

"Im surprised that your French is so weak, Bertie. Now, think for a moment. 'Chapleau.' What is that?"

Bertie remained silent, apparently lost in deep thought, but to no purpose.

"Well," said the teacher impatiently, "what does your father throw up when he's merry?"

Bertie brightened.

"His job, ma'am," he replied.

Getting Off Easy.

"Very well," she said, "if you are afraid to ask father for me we will consider our engagement at an end."

"Thank you," he replied, "I was afraid you might be disagreeable about it."

Didn't Get a Chance.

She—What did papa say when you asked him for my hand?

He—Why, he couldn't say a word.

"He couldn't?"

"No. Your mother was there!"

NOTICE TO SOLDIERS ON HARVEST LEAVE

Attention is directed to a recent announcement published in the Press by the Military Service Branch, Department of Justice, regarding extensions to be granted to men EXEMPTED AS FARMERS.

It is pointed out that this DOES NOT IN ANY WAY AFFECT MEN WHO HAVE BEEN ORDERED BY THE REGISTRAR TO REPORT to Depot Battalions and who have thereafter received leave of absence from the Military Authorities.

Once a man has been ordered to report for duty by the Registrar he leaves the jurisdiction of the Registrar and comes under that of the Department of Militia and Defence, and is to be considered as a soldier. This applies to men of the 20 to 22 Class who have been ordered to report by the Registrar in virtue of the cancellation of exemptions by Order-in-Council of the 20th April last, as well as to those ordered to report in the usual way on refusal of claim for exemption, or on expiration of exemption granted.

All men, accordingly, who have been ordered to report, and are therefore SOLDIERS, and who have subsequently been granted harvest leave by the military authorities, MUST, NOTWITHSTANDING THE NOTICE ABOVE REFERRED TO, REPORT ON THE EXPIRATION OF THAT LEAVE, unless they are notified to the contrary by their Commanding Officer or by general notice published by the Department of Militia and Defence.

Canada's "Scrap of Paper" Good as Guinea Gold

IN CANADA, as in all right-thinking nations, good faith is the foundation of all our business dealings. Without a sound basis of credit our whole financial structure would crumble and decay.

Credit is the belief of the creditor in the borrower's intention to pay.

You do not hesitate to exchange four silver quarters for a Dollar Bill, because you know that Dollar is as good as Guinea Gold. Yet a Dollar Bill is only a "scrap of paper" bearing Canada's statement that it will pay one hundred cents for it.

You have read that statement so often that you have come to accept it without question.

And Canada has always made good its promises concerning every "scrap of paper" it has ever put on the market.

Canada is now offering to investors Dominion of Canada Bonds, bearing interest a 5½ per cent. per annum. The interest is payable half yearly, and the Bonds are issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500 and $1000, making a most attractive and profitable investment.

It is Canada's desire that Bonds of the Victory Loan, 1918, be distributed as widely as possible among private individuals.

The last Victory Loan, which was largely over-subscribed, had more than 800,000 subscribers, or 1 in 9 of the entire population of Canada.

Every available dollar of private capital in Canada is urgently needed to surpass that record. BUY VICTORY BONDS—they are good as Guinea Gold.

From the standpoint of Patriotism your duty is clear. But, apart from any consideration of duty and patriotism, Canada's Victory Bonds represent the safest, surest and best investment in the world today.

Two Millbrook Brothers Have Made the Supreme Sacrifice

A Third Brother Is Still Fighting in France.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 30.—The following letter was sent by Captain Stephen H. Baxter, M.C., Surgeon 2nd Battalion, 60th Infantry.

Harry Stewart was given as next of kin of Pte. Van Stewart. They are sons of Mr. Noble Stewart, Millbrook. This is the second son of Mr. Stewart who has died for his country. Still another son is in France:

Mr. Harry Stewart,
2403 Howard Street,
Louisville, Kentucky:

My Dear Sir,—You have doubtless been notified of the death of your brother, Van, who was killed in action on Sept. 16. To that bare statement I wish to add a few personal remarks of appreciation of his courage and of the heroic manner of his death. He with one other man of the medical corps had been put in charge of his litter-bearer squads and attached to one of the companies of this battalion to give first aid and convey wounded from the field.

On September 16, the battalion was situated in a dense woods. The line troops had had opportunity to dig in to a slight extent and protect themselves in shallow pits, but the men of the Medical Corps had to serve whenever the necessity came, and were thus even unable to have the slight protection of a pit. Under these conditions the enemy began an intense bombardment of the woods by artillery.

The position was one calling for the exhibition of the highest courage and I am proud to say that not a man of the Medical Corps wavered or failed to do his duty. Without arms or protection, unable to reply or to defend themselves, they heroically continued to serve the wounded until all had been brought back to the dressing station. Your brother was severely wounded in the head by an exploding shell which probably immediately rendered him unconscious, and he died about a half hour later without regaining consciousness.

The same shell severely gassed his comrade, who is now in the hospital.

It is with great regret that I have to report the death of a man of such character, but he died heroically as a soldier in a noble cause. He set an example worthy of being followed by any soldier and you may be proud of him and of his conduct, as we are.

Very sincerely yours,
Capt. Stephen H. Baxter, M.C.,
Surgeon 2nd Battalion,
60th Infantry.

General employees are hitting up a fast pace, manifesting an interest in the Victory Loan that speaks eloquently of the spirit of patriotism that pervades these shops.

Other factories are getting under way. Last night Mr. Thompson and Mr. Bradburn met the Quaker Oats staff of canvassers, and set before them the details of writing the loan. At the same time there were short addresses on the necessity of the new Victory Loan to Canada, and the importance that rests in the earnest co-operation of the canvassers who undertake to solicit the other workers in the shops. Thus, the Quaker Oats, Matthews-Blackwell and De Laval sectors are reported active today and it is expected that each of these plants will take handsome blocks of the local allotment.

WAR SUMMARY

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.— The Associated Press this morning issued the following summary:

One year ago the Italian armies were streaming westward from the Isonzo with a great military disaster in prospect. To-day the Italians, with the British and French divisions fighting with them, are pouring through what appears to be a breach in the Austrian lines east of the Piave river. Valdobbiadene has been captured, Conegliano has been occupied and along the line stretching south to Treviso Oderso Extrod the Allies are moving steadily ahead. Reports from the Piave front indicate that after the first rush of the Allies, Austrian resistance weakened greatly and there are indications that along the centre of the line the enemy's defence has been crushed. The sweep of the Allies eastward appears to have gained momentum during the past day and it seems probable that the next few days may see the whole Austrian army front on the Piave retreat towards Tagliamento. Not only are the Austrian lines yielding on the Piave front, but further north and west the Allies are reported to be advancing. The capture of Conegliano, the key of the Austrian position, is considered a fatal blow to the enemy's plans to hold the north of the line where the Allied wedge has been driven deep into the Austrian lines.

Bitter fighting has been going on in the Meuse sector during the past day or two. East of the Meuse, American forces have moved ahead once more and have wrested important positions from the Germans. West of the Meuse the Germans have been heavily bombarding the American lines and back areas with gas and high explosive shells. American long range artillery has been pounding the German supply lines at Conflans. West of the Argonne Forest the French have begun the attack, which seems to promise a turning of the Aisne line, which is the main objective to the French advance immediately west of Argonne in the region of Vouziers. A new attack was over the front from St. Quentin Le Petit to Herpy, north of the Aisne and progress made in the first few hours of the onslaught indicated that important results are within reach.

TIGHTENING HOLD.

On the Oise-Serre front the French are slowly tightening their hold on the lines about Guise, while south of that town they are moving ahead in spite of desperate resistance on the part of the enemy. North of Valenciennes the French, British and Belgians have improved their lines, but do not appear to have succeeded in breaking through the German defensive lines defending Ghent. The Versailles conference has, it is reported, agreed on terms for an armistice and also on final peace demands. It is said they will be submitted simulaneously to the German Government. London reports that the Allied nations will demand the surrender of the German fleet, including all submarines, and occupation of all fortified towns on the Rhine.

Internal conditions in Germany and Austria appear to be rapidly growing worse. Rioting, in which a large number of persons were killed, is reported from Budapest. In the Germany, the population is said to be in a panic. Banks are being stormed by depositors. It is reported from Washington that Austria's renewed appeal to President Wilson will be transmitted to the Versailles conference, but no official statement on the subject has been made public.

LITTLE NEWS FROM PARIS

World is Awaiting Announcement From the War Council.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. — The armistice programme said to have been prepared by the Supreme War Council, had not been reported early to-day, by the American representatives. The American government is known to favor terms equally as drastic as those described in the press despatches as agreed upon at Versailles.

A despatch from Paris says: The meagreness of the news during this important period is due to strictness of censorship. This relates to proceedings of inter-allied council formulating terms of armistice. The despatches are also being held up owing to congestion of cables caused by exchange of communications between United States Government and representatives at conference. It is stated that the new German communication makes no change in the situation. The next step is expected to be the announcement from one or all of the capitals of the co-belligerents of the armistice terms.

WHERE DO YOU COME IN?

Victory for the Right is within sight, though not within grasp. And —where do YOU come in?

The past four years have been the most momentous in your life — the most momentous in the history of the world. What sort of a part have you played in them? To what finer issues have you been touched? What has your citizenship meant to Canada? Of what value have you been to mankind?

Put on your considering-cap and think these questions over. Search your heart and your conscience for the answers. Don't try to bask in the reflected glory of the boys who have done their part. Come now, be honest. Just where do YOU come in?

Have you fought for Canada in this war? Have you wrought for Canada in this war? If you have done neither, you still have your chance to do your heart and your conscience for drive is coming. It is up to you to save, and, later, to sacrifice for it—or be altogether shamed. It is up to you to show that—anyhow—you come in here. Buying Victory Bonds means buying arms and equipment. It means saving human lives. For you it means one thing more. It means keeping your self-respect. Make sure of keeping it. Get ready to buy.

Ex-Mayor Ketcheson's Wife Passed Away

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 29.—After a brief illness, Mrs. Ketcheson, wife of ex-Mayor Ketcheson, of this city, passed away last evening On Oct. 17th she was stricken with influenza and on Friday last was the victim of a stroke, which caused her death. Patients Moved Into the Emergency Hospital To-day

As a Pre-War Effort the New Hospital Would Have Been a Nine Days' Wonder—Nursing Staff Moves In.

In pre-war days the opening of such an institution as the Emergency Hospital, in the old Oriental Hotel, would have furnished a nine-days' wonder. To-day, however, in less than four days a hospital ready to accommodate thirty patients, has been made ready with very little said about it. This afternoon the three first patients suffering from influenza, were moved in. While the hospital is not strictly ready for the patients, Miss H. Reid, the Superintendent, and Miss Alford, rushed preparations to accommodate the cases which need to come in very badly.

This morning was occupied in the work of making beds in the men's, women's and children's wards, and making hospital supplies, all of which was done voluntarily. Several business men turned in and carried beds from one room to another, and helped out in setting them up.

The Mayor Initiated.

Mayor Duncan, who has been extremely busy with the work of the new hospital, is filled with wonder at some of the orders issued by Miss Alford. When asked to see about the "hoppers," he was at a loss, and when it was explained it was "something to wash in," he walked off still with a mystified air. Mr. F. W. Miller has turned into an expert carpenter with the pressing need for such work and this morning improvised a very satisfactory medicine chest in the dispensary.

Staff Moves In.

So far the staff which moved in to-day consists of Miss Reid, Miss Alford, Mrs. R. Hall, Miss Watt, of the Belleville Hospital, and three members of St. John's Ambulance Class. These ladies, assisted by voluntary help, have the wards pretty well in hand. Their quarters were ready for them to move into this afternoon.

Generous Response.

The public generally has made a splendid response to the call for furniture, nourishment, and hospital supplies, and the telephone was kept busy this morning answering calls volunteering such help.

Federal Aid to Schools is Plan

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—A secretary of education is to be the next addition to the President's Cabinet, if a bill now pending in the Senate becomes law.

The bill has the backing of the National Education Association, was recommended in a recent report by the Commission on the Emergency in Education, and has the support of Sen. Hoke Smith of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Education Committee. It seems likely to have little active opposition.

The bill's title says it is "to create a department of education, to appropriate money for the conduct of said department, and to appropriate money for federal cooperation with the states in the encouragement and support of education."

One hundred million dollars a year is appropriated by the bill for subsidizing training of teachers, physical education, education of immigrants, and adult illiterates.

The Secretary of Education is to be on an equal basis with other members of the cabinet, and is to have three assistant secretaries. The secretary's salary is fixed at $12,000, and the assistant secretaries are to receive $10,000 each. The appropriation contemplated for salaries, incidental expenses, and general financing of the new department is $500,000 a year.

It is proposed that the department inaugurate a system of attaches to American embassies abroad, to deal with educational methods in foreign countries.

One of the aims of the proposed law is the abolition of illiteracy in America. The Commission on the Emergency in Education found adult illiteracy one of the most serious obstacles to establishment of true democracy.

Federal aid to state efforts to improve educational conditions is to be given only when the state shows the proper spirit and enterprise by appropriating an amount equal to the sum paid it by the federal government, for improvement of its educational status in certain specific respects.

KITCHENER FIRST CITY TO LIFT BAN ON ALL MEETINGS

GATHERINGS WILL BE ALLOWED AFTER THURSDAY, DECIDES BOARD.

KITCHENER, Oct. 31.—At a special meeting of the board of health it was decided to lift the ban on churches, schools, theatres, pool-rooms and other places of public assemblage on Thursday morning. The board was satisfied that conditions here in connection with the epidemic were sufficiently improved to warrant such action. Public gatherings are no longer considered to be a menace to public health in this city.

Apples, cored, stuffed with raisins and nuts and baked make a delicious dessert.

Never keep a sick fowl in your poultry yard; it is likely to infect the others.

Preserved eggs should be rinsed in clean cold water and used immediately.

Influenza Epidemic Has Hampered Farm Operations

Most of the Silos Are Well Filled—Sales Are Poorly Attended.

The following is a summary of reports made by Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The prevalence of influenza has somewhat hampered farm operations, despite the remarkably open weather of the last couple of weeks. Dispersion Sales have also been poorly attended.

Cattle have continued to improve on the unusually good October pasture. Beef animals have been going off rather slowly, but dairy cows are in good demand at from $100 to $200. The yield of milk has kept up remarkably well for the time of year. Cheese factories in Peterborough are still running three days a week.

The marketing of hogs has been about normal, prices ranging at from $17.25 to $18.00 a cwt. Young pigs are selling at from $6.50 to $8.00, according to size. Halton states that the good grain crops have done much toward increasing the hog supply.

At a sale of purebred Shropshires in Victoria County last week twelve two-shear ewes averaged $37.

Reports concerning the young fall wheat are on the whole encouraging, more especially in the case of that planted early. October growth was unusually good, and many fields have now a splendid top.

Potatoes vary in price from $1.80 to $2.25 a bag. The Port Arthur Representative states that seed potatoes raised in that district are finding a good market in the east at prices which are satisfactory to the producer.

Roots are being taken up under most favourable weather conditions. Sugar beets on the whole have given much satisfaction to growers. Mangels have done fairly well. Most of the turnips are still in the ground, as recent weather has been favourable for growth.

Considerable oats are being marketed at from 73c to 75c per bushel.

Hay is selling at $18.00 to $20.00 a ton, and is now being carefully husbanded.

Norfolk reports another car of flax loading for shipment to Ireland.

Most of the silos are well filled, with a little extra corn for cutting on hand; but in some cases it has been difficult to get help in filling the silo. Some farmers are using tractor power to assist in this work.

A Delicious Breakfast Helps to Restore Brian's Good Nature

CHAPTER XXVI

"This rice pudding is delicious," Ruth said nonchanantly as she took a spoonful. "Do you remember the one I tried to make, that first week after we took the flat, Brian? I used half a dozen eggs and it was hard as a rock. Mrs. Crawford doesn't use any eggs at all. She says it never is creamy if you do."

"The pudding is all right," Brian grudgingly admitted, then, "See here, Ruth!! are you going to stop this (—— foolishness, or not?"

"What foolishness?"

"You know very well what I mean. I suppose you think because you are earning more than I am, that you can act as you please and pay no attention to my wishes but I tell you I won't stand for it," he blustered, showing Ruth she had been right in her deductions.

"Why, Brian, I have no intention of doing anything to which you possibly could object. You surely aren't making a fuss because my boss has discovered I am worth more than he was paying me. Of course if I were in business for myself, as practically you are, I should be willing to go on earning very little because of what it meant to me in the future to be my own boss. But when you are working for someone else, it seems to me you are worth all they pay you, or they wouldn't give it to you; and that you should get all you can. You see, one doesn't have the same independent feeling one has when one is situated as you are," she finished tactfully.

"There's something in that," again the admission was grudgingly given, "but I don't like it just the same. No man wants a woman crowing over him because she earns more than he does, and"—

"Oh Brian! you don't think that I"—

"Well most women would," he interrupted, looking a bit sheepish.

"I'm Ruth Hackett, not 'most women' and so I shan't 'crow,' as you put it. Come on, hurry up and finish that pudding and we'll go to a show."

Brian said nothing more. They went to a play at a theater in the neighborhood then he proposed they get a rarebit before they went home—proposed it with an air of braggadocia that made Ruth smile, while it brought tears suspiciously near.

"It is because he's hurt," she said to herself, as she readily agreed.

They had the rarebit and a glass of beer. When he paid the check, Brian gave the waiter an unusually large tip for him, and gave it with a flourish that didn't deceive Ruth.

"Poor fellow! he'll get over that!" she muttered as she saw. "He's sore tonight."

Neither of them mentioned the raise again. But long after Brian slept, Ruth was planning how she could propose they move into better quarters, and she pay the difference in the rent. She would wait a few days until he got over the first shock she decided, smiling in the darkness at the thought of his sulking as he had.

"Just like a little boy," she murmured, leaning over and smoothing his hair.

Ruth had found, long ago, that Brian was apt to be morose for a time when he was crossed in any way, and that the best way to deal with him, when in that mood, as not to notice.

The morning mail came while Brian was in his bath.

"Lucky for once!" Ruth exclaimed as she saw the thick letter the envelope bearing her aunt's handwriting. She knew her aunt's feelings on the subject of women doing anything out of the home, so was sure the letter would be filled with objections and perhaps reproaches. She slipped it into her pocket. She would read it after Brian had gone.

When he came to the table she was immersed in the morning paper, and at once commenced to read him the war news, in which he was intensely interested.

Germany had declared war, and the French had joined the British in the common cause of defeating her, Brian had, from the first, been greatly taken up with the advices from the other side; and alto the fighting had scarcely begun, he often declared it would mean a long war, and that, in his opinion, other nations would inevitably be drawn into it before much time had passed.

So now he listened while Ruth read, and forgot to ask if there had been any mail. Then, too, the breakfast was so good, so to his liking, that he had to hurry to get to the office at his usual time.

Ruth had been up earlier than usual because of her wakefulness, and had gone out and purchased a grapefruit, Mrs. Crawford had cooked crisp, tender bacon, eggs poached like little bird's nests on crisp slices of toast. Then a golden brown waffle with maple syrup finished a breakfast which Brian enthusiastically declared.

"A meal fit for the gods!" yet Ruth thought, with a little sinking of the heart, that had it not been for her work and because of that work, her pay, he would have had no such breakfast. She couldn't have cooked it to save her life. Why would he not be sensible and let her talk over her plans with him? She cared for the money, the comforts it brought, as much for his sake as for her own. And she HATED housework.

GOLF WITH ANY OLD CLUB.

He Was a Shy Man, Too, but Surprised the Clever Amateur.

He was standing looking idly round him when I came forward to the starting tee at Blackhill golf course, a little dapper man, whom any one would have guessed could not play for nuts. Perhaps that latter idea is what caused me to ask if he meant to play a round. I should love to give somebody a proper whacking.

"I would like a round," he said, almost shyly, "but I have no clubs." This was not a chance to be missed. I would let him use mine. How pleased he was in his simple way. Any old club would do for every shot. "Well, well," I crooned to myself; "it the man is out for a thorough drubbing I am the last to deny him it."

He took a dirty ball from his pocket, made an easy sort of swipe at it, and I have never seen a ball so eager to get to the hole as that one was. His method of attack seemed to consist of one or two iron shots and a putt. I will vouch for it that he deliberately allowed me to win a hole or two. I have never felt so completely humiliated in all my life, yet he was quiet, inoffensive and almost shy.

"You are a brilliant golfer," I gushed as we made for the nineteenth hole. "Oh, ay, I ha'e to be!" he said quietly. "It's my work, ye see; it's my work!"

Mrs. J. A. Wallis.

Threw Away Her Crutches

MRS. WALLIS was cured of inflammatory rheumatism ten years ago, and tells in her very interesting letter how cure was discovered. The treatment used was so effective that her system was restored to good condition, and she has had exceptionally good health ever since.

In order that others may have the benefit of her experience she has kindly written this letter and allowed the use of her portrait. Any reader wishing further particulars of her cure will find Mrs. Wallis only too glad to do what she can to help them.

Mrs. J. A. Wallis, 17 House avenue, Brantford, Ont., writes:

"About ten years ago I was troubled with inflammatory rheumatism, and my system was in a generally run-down condition. I tried several doctors here and many different medicines, but received no benefit from any of them. I kept getting worse, and became so bad that I had to use two crutches to get around the house. One day I felt 'all in' and completely discouraged. The baby was sitting on the floor playing with a newspaper. She tore a piece off, and I happened to pick it up. I glanced over it, and my attention was attracted by a letter from some one who had been cured by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I had never tried this remedy, but decided right then to see what it would do for me. While taking the first box I found they were doing me good, as they seemed to put more life into me, so I continued the treatment, using box after box until I had taken 24 boxes. I felt so much better that I did not need any more medicine of any kind, and have not taken any for years. The Nerve Food relieved my rheumatism so I could do without the crutches, and I have enjoyed extra good health ever since. I can heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to anyone suffering from either a run-down condition or inflammatory rheumatism."

This report should convince the most skeptical of the effectiveness of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in enriching the blood, building up the system, and thereby removing the cause of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, locomotor ataxia, paralysis and scores of other diseases which prey upon a run-down condition of the body.

You can obtain Dr. Chase's Nerve Food from any dealer or direct from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. 50c a box, 6 for $2.75. The portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box.

The War Garden

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

It was, indeed, a "war" garden and near to becoming a sanguinary battlefield. A vacant lot twenty by one hundred feet was the scene of acrimony, contention and bickering. John Ford, average business man, had arrived to look over the prospect. William Ashe, who lived down the block and whom he knew only by sight, appeared as the first-comer was measuring off the lot space with a tapeline. Ashe sniffed suspiciously.

"What you think you're up to?" he queried casually.

"Planning out a war garden. There's just space enough to get in potatoes for the winter and—"

"You don't mean to say you are pre-empting this special lot!" interrupted Ashe sharply.

"Oh, hardly that; Mr. Richardson, who owns the lot, has given me permission to use it for the season."

"Why, that's queer. Mrs. Richardson, before the family went South, distinctly told me to utilize it for a garden. What's more, I'm going to do it."

"You won't while I'm around to protect my rights," declared Ford, flushing up.

Then both spoke some bitter words, neither backed down sufficiently to share the space and each went home with an enemy for life on his list.

Now neither knew that pretty Nellie Ford, when she went to the public library to spend an hour or two in its reading room, had met clever, impressible Warren Ashe more than once. The latter was just ready to plan for an introduction to papa and mamma when the storm broke. Of course he heard all about it at his home, just as Nellie did at her own. The next day the twain met in a public park, deploring the bitter feud that bade fair to wreck their plans and hopes.

"And I was just thinking how happy I would be sitting on your porch evenings with your folks," mourned Warren.

"You are thinking of some way out?" she propounded.

"I am—hard," replied Warren, with vim. "Will you meet me here tomorrow?" and Nellie nodded assent, forlornly questioning him mutely with her eyes, but gained neither revelation nor promise for the present.

"I've arranged something fine," he spoke next day, when they met as usual at the library and then found their way to the little park retreat. "Nellie, I've arranged for the most famous war garden spot ever was. It came to me like an inspiration. I have a friend who owns the old dismantled factory near the river. You know there is all kinds of prairie space in its unused yard. Well, I have got permission to use a two acre plot. It will be plowed up by Monday and here's the list of seeds we need, and here's the money to purchase them. We'll look it over and if any particular vegetable suggests itself to you, note it down."

"Papa just dotes on chard," submitted Nellie.

"And my father vows he never had enough of salsify," said Warren. "Write both down, Nellie. We'll teach those two born fighters a lesson and see if it won't help on our deplorable case a bit."

Nellie came home from her afternoon stroll tired out many a time, but mother thought of tennis and passed by the incident. Warren became addicted to early morning exercise and ate breakfast like a farm hand, but papa Ashe never suspected that his son was one of the principals in a direful plot.

Then work at the hidden garden let down somewhat, for the seeds were all in, and the harvest promised. It was a day of unspeakable joy, that upon which Mr. Ford came home to find a large basket bearing a card with the words: "From a friend." He declared it took him back to boyhood days to feast over a stanch meal of good old-fashioned chard, such as he had not enjoyed for over twenty years. At that same hour, as mysteriously presented with a great hamper of salsify, Mr. Ashe smacked his lips in anticipation of a satisfying side dish of vegetable oysters for a week to come. Mr. Ford got up from his desk one afternoon a week later at receiving an unsigned note, saying: "If you want to know how your daughter is passing her afternoons, go to Wilson's old plant at 5 o'clock this afternoon."

He shrugged as, thither bound, he saw a little ahead of him Ashe, who had received a similar note as to his son. They both stood stark still rooted, as they came in view of a garden patch and Nellie and Warren, rakes in hand, smilingly confronted them. At one side was a great heap of chard, near to it a pile of salsify.

"Welcome, gentlemen!" hailed Warren cheerily. "Miss Ford and I thought that, as younger people and having more time to spare, we were duty bound to carry on your war-garden idea."

The two enemies regarded one another sheepishly. "I'm a mule—kick me!" uttered Ford.

"Just land me one for an old twisted grouch!" said Ashe, but their hands joined in handshake instead.

And those of Nellie and Warren stole together and they smiled rapturously, for the future was clear.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Meeting Sister

By CATHERINE PARSONS

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"You're a hopeless woman hater, Kenny," groaned Lieutenant Campbell. "But if you refuse to meet my attractive sister-in-law, at least, you will consent to meet my attractive wife—she's quite harmless as far as you are concerned and well worth knowing."

Kenny grinned.

"You bet, I'll meet your wife, Fred—the sooner the better! It's only a lot of silly girls I can't stand."

"Well, she's here now. She's taken a little apartment about a mile from camp—10 Main street. We'll expect you to afternoon tea tomorrow—that will be before her sister gets there, so you won't have to worry. Is that O. K.?"

"It sure is. So long, now—I've got to get back to my job."

The next afternoon was cold and clear, and Kenny walked briskly along and thought rather pleasantly of the hot tea he would soon have offered to him. And he was really anxious to meet Fred's wife, too. They had known each other since they were boys and his friend had married only a month or two before—just after he left training camp. The girl he imagined Fred would pick out would be tall and stately and dignified and very good-looking—he could see her perfectly in his mind's eye.

But he had quite a shock when his ring was answered and he was ushered into the tiny living room to Mrs. Campbell's apartment. To be sure, his hostess was there—very much so—but she was small, very pretty and ridiculously young looking—Fred should have prepared him a little for this.

"We're glad you could come, Lieutenant Kenny. Fred took my sister out for a few moments, but they will be back directly. Do sit down and tell me something about the camp—I'm dying to hear all about it."

"Sister!" thought Tom Kenny, groaning inwardly. "Then she did come after all. Curse my rotten luck!" Aloud he said:

"I've just been thinking it's so wonderful out—perhaps you would like to see something of the place yourself—I we could take a little walk out in the direction of camp if you want to and you think Fred won't mind."

His one idea was to get outside before sister returned—he hoped she never would return!

"Mercy, no—Fred won't mind! He'll be only too glad to get me off his hands for a while."

Having made up his mind to make the best of things, Tom found his little companion decidedly good company. She laughed at his jokes and made herself so agreeable that he found himself feeling almost disappointed when they finally turned towards home. But the whole afternoon she never mentioned her husband once. When they first started out Tom had turned to her questioningly:

"You are quite sure your husband won't care if you do go off like this?

"My husband!" echoed the girl, blankly. Then light dawned in a moment and she turned her head away to hide the twinkle that shone in her eyes.

"He'd trust me with you, I know," she returned, smiling. "I'm just going to have a good time and forget all about him."

When they got back to Mrs. Campbell's apartment it was so late that Tom begged to be excused, as he had to be back at camp in time for mess. Fred's wife did not urge him to come in, but asked him to come to tea two days later to meet her sister. He tried to refuse, on some sort of pretense, but he found it too hard to refuse anything this girl asked him, when she really wanted to have her own way. So he promised and went back to camp, thinking that Fred was a pretty fortunate man to have such a wonderful little wife, and wishing there were more women in the world like her!

On Friday afternoon he found both the ladies home, and he went through the painful ordeal of meeting sister. She was far more stately than Fred's wife, and possibly very charming, but Tom hardly noticed her at all.

"I was so sorry about the other afternoon," apologized Miss Ely. "Fred told me it would only take a minute, and then I found so many things I had to attend to that before I knew it it was terribly late. I was so sorry not to meet you."

"Mrs. Campbell was very kind, and entertained me royally," assured Kenny.

"I'll bet she did," agreed Fred Campbell, and a gleam of amusement passed between him and his now very demure little wife who was seated at the other end of the room.

"We had a beautiful time Freddie, dear," she cried enthusiastically. "And I've been thinking we ought to get up some nice little parties while sister is here—just the four of us. I do so love to chaperone."

Fred laughed. "Anything you suggest will be all right, my dear."

"Then let's go skating Sunday afternoon—it's heavenly on the lake. Will you go, Lieutenant Tom?"

"If Fred's willing. Are you fond of skating?" he asked the silent sister, who had not entered into the conversation for some time.

"I adore it!" she assured him. "I haven't been on skates for two years, but I'll probably get along with a little help. You won't mind giving me a few points till I get used to it, will you?"

"No, indeed!" he assented, almost too promptly, and he thought he noticed Fred cough slightly to cover a laugh. He began to wonder how he could get sick on Sunday, but his thoughts were dashed to pieces. He knew that unless he poisoned himself he could never deceive Fred.

"Oh, it will be such fun!" exclaimed Mrs. Campbell, and she smiled at him happily.

They had a very pleasant hour, but Tom had little conversation with Fred's sister-in-law. By mutual consent Fred seemed content that he should talk to his wife, while he himself entertained the stately sister. Tom understood that Fred wanted him to know his wife better, so that he might be more interested in women in general, and that he would approve of his friend's choice. So he listened to the charming little lady and he became her abject slave for evermore. And he also thought that Fred had done better than he deserved—he couldn't possibly appreciate such a marvelous girl. And he told him so on the way home. Fred laughed heartily.

"You're wrong, Tom," he contradicted him. "I assure you that I think my wife is the most wonderful girl in the world, and I adore the ground she walks on. But I thought you would be more interested in my sister-in-law. I really think you are, too—but you don't know it!"

"You're crazy, Fred. She may be wonderful, but girls don't interest me at all—I'm through with all that sort of thing forever!"

But Fred only laughed again and told him he'd be married himself in six months, and Tom walked off indignantly.

The next afternoon Tom Kenny had a note from Mrs. Campbell.

"Dear Lieutenant Kenny:—I'm sorry, but I shan't be able to go skating with you all tomorrow. I've strained my ankle slightly, and would not dare to try to skate on it so soon.

"But the party will be just the same, for my sister is anxious to go. Will you come for her at the same time, and we shall expect you to come back to supper with us. Too bad Fred doesn't care much about skating.

"Cordially yours,

"ELEANOR CAMPBELL."

Tom shuddered. The worst had happened. He would have to get Miss Ely and pull her around the ice alone, and Fred would stay home and laugh at him. It was too much!

But he could not find a way out, so he avoided Fred and appeared at Mrs. Campbell's at the appointed hour. To his surprise he found her alone in the room, evidently dressed for going out.

"You're better?" he asked. "I was sorry to hear you were sick."

"I wasn't," she denied, "it was my sister."

"But you wrote me—"

"No, I didn't write you—that was my sister, too!"

"I don't understand at all—so many sisters and things that I'm all mixed up. Whose sister are you, anyway?"

"Fred's and Eleanor's—I thought you knew in the first place, but you didn't. And then you began to think I was my sister, and it was all so funny that I just let you. Eleanor thought it was a good joke, and they helped me pretend the other afternoon when you were here. Oh, I hope you won't mind because I'm not Fred's wife—I'm so sorry if you're disappointed in me!"

Tom could hardly believe his ears, and in his excitement he took the girl's hand in his.

"Disappointed!" he cried. "Why, I never was so pleased about anything in my life. I'm so glad you are only Fred's sister that I can't think! The only thing I wouldn't like would be to have you promise to be a sister to me, too. Please don't do that, will you?"

Dorothy Ely blushed and laughed as she got to her feet and walked toward the door.

"You'll have to invite me to be one first—and besides, I have two brothers of my own. Shall we go skating now, or do you want to wait till my sister can come along and chaperone us?"

"No, I don't, but I'm ready to go anywhere in the world you ask me to, provided you are there, too. Do you think you could be?"

Dorothy looked up at him and then blushed again, and Lieutenant Campbell knew that his suit was won.

Righteous Wrath.

A man will lose half a day's work and all of his temper to attend a depositors' meeting if he has $4.13 in a suspended bank.

If this boy were your boy

If you had a boy in France to-day, you would make your purchase of Victory Bonds large enough to represent a real personal sacrifice.

You would be thinking of that lad—out in the hell on earth that is No Man's Land—cheerfully offering his life for Freedom's cause.

And you would do your best to save that life.

You would help—with all your might—to provide the money that will shorten the war and reduce the cost of Victory, in human lives.

You would buy all the Victory Bonds you could possibly find the money for—and you would find it by stinting yourself down to the barest necessities of life.

Come—share in the glory of those whose lads are in France to-day. Dig deep into your income—as the kin of soldiers dig into theirs—to buy the Victory Bonds that will carry our armies on to Victory, and give us back our boys.

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

Agriculture Aided By Victory Loan

Wonderful Trade Expansion Due to Success of Canada's Loan Issues

Since the war started Canadian agriculture has grown in importance as a national industry. More than ever it is a source of strength to the country. The demand by Great Britain for food, not only for her soldiers but for her civilian population, has opened a market of tremendous possibilities. In 1915 our total agricultural exports amounted to $209,000,000. At the end of the fiscal year of 1917-18, the total had jumped to $740,000,000.

This wonderful addition to the National wealth was, to a large extent, due to the Victory Loan of 1917. It was so in this way: Great Britain found that, owing to her vast expenditures on her army and navy, and the necessity of giving monetary aid to some of her stricken Allies, she was no longer able to pay for her purchases of food with ready cash. Rather than see our products lose a sure market the Dominion Government decided to advance such sums out of the proceeds of the Loan issues to pay for a good part of the food that was sent to Great Britain. The farmers had been asked to "produce more food" and they had responded with a will; it was, of course, for the Government to see that the increased production was marketed.

In this way Canada's entire exportable surplus of wheat, cheese, bacon and other commodities was financed. This year there will be for export possibly 100,000,000 bushels of wheat valued at $225,000,000. If the proceeds of the Victory Loan meet the expectations of the Finance Minister a great part of this wheat will be financed by the Government. The export of cheese will be over $40,000,000, and of butter, eggs and condensed milk another $10,000,000. Bacon runs into millions. In the past twelve months the Government has advanced nearly $100,000,000 to finance exports of live stock products.

VICTORY LOAN AND CANADIAN INDUSTRIES

Last Year's Subscription of Great Benefit and Bigger Work Will Follow This Year.

The Imperial Munitions Board receives advances of nearly $25,000,000 a month from the Dominion Government.

It has received over $650,000,000 in advances from the Dominion Government and the Canadian banks.

It has placed $1,200,000,000 worth of war orders in Canada for the British and other Allied Governments.

An advance of $10,000,000 enabled it to give orders to Canadian shipyards for 44 wooden ships. To this program 46 steel ships were added. Total value over $60,000,000.

An advance of $6,000,000 enabled the Board to begin the manufacture of airplanes in Canada; 3,000 have been built to date of a value of $30,000,000.

Between 250,000 and 300,000 people are working in Canada on war orders obtained through the Board.

It has $500,000,000 of war orders in sight for 1919.

To carry out this program will require millions in advances which must come from the Victory Loan.

BE A SOLDIER AT HOME.

Canada's 1918 Victory Loan is asking for $500,000,000. These dollars are needed to win the war. You must do your share in providing them by buying as many Victory Bonds as ever you can. Invest every dollar you have in them. Borrow to buy more.

Your money will be absolutely safe. The security is the finest in the world. It is all Canada. In addition, you will be paid 5½ per cent. on your money—the money you will be lending to your country to protect your home, your safety, your freedom, your family and yourself. Did you ever hear of a safer investment plan—or one so supremely advantageously to the investor? Never, on your life. Never in your life.

Then do your share. Sacrifice something — anything — everything —to buy Victory Bonds. Be a soldier at home. Act at once, BUY!

IN FLANDERS' FIELDS.

In Flanders' fields, the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved; and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe.
To you, from falling hands we throw
The torch. Be yours to lift it high.
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders' fields.

Garden for Invalid.

If you have an invalid friend, you can make her a garden that she will enjoy for a very little money. Buy a small gold fish bowl and have a piece of glass to fit over the top. Then go out into the woods and get a piece of moss for the bottom and find a small plant or a tiny fern and set it out in the moss or plant a nasturtium seed. The moisture from the plant will keep it growing; there will be no need to water it, and the invalid can have her little garden right near the bed, can even take it in her hands and watch it grow. It will be a joy for weeks.

Tantalus.

Tantalus was a king of Lydia in Greek mythology and is represented by the poets as punished in hades with an insatiable thirst and placed up to the chin in a pool of water, which disappeared when he attempted to taste it, and other tantalizing punishments were inflicted for his sins.

The Poor Men.

To make stewed carrots, take some new carrots, 1 ounce fat, a little stock, 1 teaspoonful chopped parsley, 1 teaspoonful cornflour, salt and pepper to taste and 1 tablespoonful milk. Clean the carrots and put them into an enameled saucepan with the stock and a little salt; simmer gently till tender, add the cornflour and fat (blended together), and stir till thoroughly mixed. Add pepper, milk and parsely. Cook for a minute or two longer and serve. If liked, a little chopped onion may be added.

The Austrian War Office Announces the Evacuation of the Occupied Territory

The Evacuation is Made "In View of the Pending Armistice"—The Allied Advance East of the Piave Is Continuing Without Check.

ON THE ITALIAN FRONT

(Special to Examiner.

LONDON, October 31. — British troops have entered Asiago, an important town, which forms the chief bastion of the mountain region of the Italian front, it was officially announced by the war office to-day.

The advance, which has thus widened to more than eighty miles, is continuing rapidly. The Italians have taken the great supply base of Vittorio.

American troops, composed of the 332nd infantry regiment, are cooperating with the Italians, British and French, in the fighting east of the Piave, it was announced by the Italian war office.

The allied advance east of the Piave is continuing without check, the war office announced to-day. British and Italian cavalry have reached the outskirts of Sacile, fifteen miles beyond Piave. The Italians have occupied the important railway town of Oderzo.

The latest estimate of Austrian prisoners in the present drive is forty thousand.

The entire Italian front is ablaze, a Central News despatch from Rome says. Italian troops have entered Sacile, the War Office announced to-day. Thousands of additional prisoners have been taken.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Fifteen Austrian divisions operating between the Brenta and Piave rivers on the Italian front, have had the retreat cut off through operations of Italian and Allied troops. Advantage is being pressed to the utmost and crisis is near, as Austrian losses are appalling.

OUR GAINS IN FLANDERS—The shaded area shows the progress of the Allies in Belgium in the past week. The Schools May Re-open Next Week

There is a possibility that the city schools may be opened again on Wednesday of next week ,although this is not certain just yet, and will depend upon developments in the next few days. In the meantime Dr. C. H. Amys, the Medical Officer of Health, advises the parents of school children to have the children taken to a doctor and inoculation with government serum against the influenza. This should be done at once, as the inoculation may cause a slight illness for a short time. Furthermore, it should be thoroughly understood that when the schools are re-opened, no pupil who is suffering from a cough will be admitted.

GLEANINGS FROM BATTLE FRONTS

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Turkey has agreed to an armistice. It is presumed this means Turkey's acceptance of the Allies' terms. This means that Turkey is definitely out of the war.

Has Voted for Separation

Railway Communication Between Berlin and Vienna Has Been Cut.

PARIS, Oct. 31. — Communication between Agram and Fiume and Budapest and Vienna has been totally interrupted. The Czecho-Slovaks have cut the railroad between Berlin and Vienna near Bodenbach and German trains can go only as far as Schnadau. The Crotian Parliament has voted for a total separation of Crotia, Slavonia and Dalmatia from Hungary, according to a Geneva despatch to Natin.

Fiume is the principal seaport of Hungary. Agram is the capital of Croatia and Slavonia, and is situated near the Save river, 75 miles inland. Bodenbach, where the railroad between Berlin and Vienna has been cut, is a town in Bohemia near the Saxon frontier and is situated on the Elbe river.

WILL PUNISH MURDERERS

This Will be One Condition of Surrender for Turkey—Adequate Force to be Landed.

NOTE EXPECTED

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Oct. 31.— A note from Turkey asking for peace is expected momentarily by the Allied government, the Daily Express says. The Allies, the newspaper adds, will demand complete and unconditional surrender.

In order to insure compliance with the demands the Express continues the Allies will insist that Turkey permit their fleets to pass the Dardanelles and permit an adequate force to be landed on Turkish shores. Turkey must also deliver up certain persons accused of disregarding the rules of civilized warfare. These individuals will be tried, and if found guilty, will be punished.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—It is officially announced that preliminary conversations of the Allied Peace Council in Paris have concluded and "more important discussions" are now beginning.

Government Serum Is Free to Doctors

Some of Them Assert That Fees for Injection Should be Nominal.

The reopening of the schools is foreshadowed in the communication from Dr. Amys who with the usual caution says that they may be open next Wednesday. The Medical Officer of Health also advises parents to have their children inoculated with the Government serum with which the doctors have been liberally supplied. This is only a recommendation, and it has already been carried out by many citizens. However, it touches upon a sore spot of recent abrasion. One family of three persons were charged $10 each for one injection of the vaccine. A young girl who was inoculted as a precaution to her volunteer nursing by which she desired to help some families that were stricken with influenza, this girl was charged five dollars. It is understood that some doctors have bought a special serum, but the public should know that the Government serum is supplied to the doctors free. The only charge they should make is for their time and the simple operation of giving a hypodermic injection. Some doctors state their charge is fifty cents. They are the first to denounce any fee that smacks of profiteering at the expense of a sorely tried people. Since this epidemic broke upon Peterborough there have been some reputations in business and above it that have not been enhanced by prices and fees.

LAY FOR A WEEK HELPLESS IN WOOD

Maimed Soldier Was Thrown From Carriage on Lonely Road.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 30.—Private Andrew Stackvale, of the Original Fighting 26th, an inmate of a military hospital here, who had been lost since October 22, was found in the woods, bruised and helpless last night by a searching party. Stackvale, who was 15 months in a German prison camp, lost one leg in the war. He left the city October 22 to drive to Minto. On a lonely, not-much-frequented road he was thrown from his carriage and the horse ran away. Being without crutches and helpless because of a fracture to his remaining leg, received by being thrown from the carriage, he was unable to move. He lay in the bushes just a week, subsisting on roots which he could dig up with his hands.

He was brought back to the military hospital here, where it is feared the other leg will have to be amputated ,as blood-poison has developed from the fracture received.

Hallowe'en Noise Strictly Forbidden

Owing to the prevalence of serious illness, Chief Thompson urges that the usual celebration of Hallowe'en be suspended to-night. This is made as a request to the young people, who are reminded that many of the citizens are either sick or recovering from influenza or pneumonia, and out of consideration for them the quiet of the evening should not be disturbed by the noises that are inseparable from Hallowe'en fun. Chief Thompson added that the force will be considerably increased to-night, and any offenders who appear in police court will not receive the leniency that usually marks the November 1st police court.

To Suppress 1 Man Control

That is One Purpose of War Says Roosevelt and Taft—The Wilson Policy.

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Urging the election of a Republican Congress, Ex-President Roosevelt and Ex-President Taft to-day issued a joint signed statement in reply to the appeal of President Wilson for the election of a Democratic Congress. The statement, which was made public by the Republican National Committee, laid stress on the present peace conversation with Germany, and declared that "the President has indicated a willingness to make a peace by negotiations. He has not demanded, as he might have done in three lines, that which the American people demand, 'an unconditional surrender'."

Roosevelt and Taft declared the war was being fought to suppress one-man control. President Wilson's fourteen peace terms were called general and vague, and fear was expressed that they would not lead to a real peace treaty.

The statement was said to be the first ever composed and signed by two former presidents of the United States.

The Manifesto.

The manifesto says in part:

The terms of peace should be settled not by one man only. It is one-man control we are fighting in this war to suppress. If the peace treaty is to be useful in the future, it must be approved by the great body of American people.

His exchange of notes with Germany has caused a deep concern among our people, lest he may by his parleying with her, concede her peace around a council table, instead of a sentence from a court.

Partisan Lines.

"We approach this subject as Americans, and only as Americans. When this war broke out we would have welcomed action by the President which would have eliminated all questions of party policies. It would have enabled us all to stand behind him to the end, without regard to anything except national considerations. Instead of this, partisan lines have been strictly drawn from the first, and now the President announces that only Democrats can be entrusted with future power and only those Democrats who do his will. Because of this reflection on other patriotic Americans we appeal for fair play. The next Congress will serve from March 4, 1919, to March 4, 1921. In that period,

Four Elements.

First, the war must be fought to unconditional surrender, unless this is achieved before.

Second, terms of world peace must be settled.

Third, the Democratic administration after expending billions of treasure and exercising more absolute power than any administration in our history must give an account of its stewardship.

Fourth, the change from war conditions to peace must be brought about with least disturbance, and the work of reconstruction must be broadly begun.

A Republican Congress will be much better qualified than one controlled by Democrats to aid the country in adopting the measures needed.

FRANK JENNE says:

These cool days plus the influenza danger makes it necessary for us to dress warmer. It is time to discard the lighter weight underwear and get into something warmer. Our lines of underwear are complete. They comprise three well known lines—Penman's, Stanfield's and Mercury Mills, "Come to me" and dress warmer.

LONDON, Oct. 31.— Anarchy growing in Hungary, according to ports received from various sources day.

At Budapest, armed crowds are ading the streets, plundering shops and munition stores.

Kaiser Assailed.

GENEVA, Oct. 31.—Demonstrations against the Kaiser are being staged daily throughout Germany, according to advices received to-day.

Frequent demands are made for the abdication of the whole Hohenzollern family.

PRINCESS ST. SEWER HAS BEEN BEGUN

Residents of Princess street are going to have their dream come true within the next few weeks. It wasn't much of a dream at that, but in fancy they have imagined that their greatest need was supplied, in short that the sewer they had agitated for so long was completed. Having finished the repair work on Romaine street City Engineer Parsons has begun the Princess street sewer, and the deputations headed by Mr. W. W. Yale must be happy in the prospect of sewer services in the near future. They will doubtless regard with composure the excavation of the street, accepting it as a necessary evil.

Should Rebuild These Streets.

It has been suggested that the Board of Works should put forth a special effort to rebuild Prince street and any others in that district that will be scored and torn up by the sinking of a sewer and its connections. If this work is to be done this year, it should be started soon, and particularly to anticipate the mud that will make these south end streets impassable next spring. In some places the soil is blue clay possessing an adhesiveness that would make traffic impossible if the street is left in its present harrowed condition. The ratepayers are probably so satisfied with the sewer, which they had begun to look upon as a new sign of the milennium, that they hesitate to ask the Council to restore Prince street. Alderman Weir's department has given the south end residents so much satisfaction in the new sewers that no cause for disappointment should be left in the condition of the streets torn up for the laying of the sewers.

WHITE FLAGS ON U-BOATS

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The white flags reported by crews of vessels arriving yesterday at Stavanger as having been at the mastheads of several German submarines passing Karmo Island last Saturday, doubtless were mistaken for the German battle flag, which is white with a black eagle in the corner. At the British Admiralty to-day it was thought the U-Boats sighted probably were returning to their bases in view of the apparent policy of German submarine inactivity.

THE COAL SITUATION.

With the comparatively mild weather of the past few weeks and with the distress caused by the influenza epidemic taking the public attention away from other problems, the coal situation has been lost sight of by the majority of citizens. Unfortunately, however, the outlook for the winter has not improved since the prevailing epidemic has crowded it out of the public mind, and a notice just sent out by the Fuel Commission of Ontario to the different municipal fuel commissioners shows that the situation is critical as far as anthracite coal is concerned. It should be understood that the United States authorities had limited the export of anthracite to Canada for the coal year to approximately 4,000,000 tons, a reduction from the coal year of 1917-18 of 1,200,000 tons. This shortage would have been serious enough, but in the past few weeks a new and more serious situation has arisen. The epidemic of influenza has played havoc with the output of coal. The working forces at the mines have been swept by the disease and there are grave fears as to the ability of the mining companies to turn out the estimated tonnage and supply the province's allotment in fuel.

The fuel commissioners of the different municipalities are called upon to put forth every effort to deal with the emergency, and every citizen has a responsibility in the fight against the fuel scarcity. The public is urged to get in any kind of fuel. To "realize that the problem is not one of comfort but rather one of not freezing while this war is on," to quote C. A. Magrath, the Dominion Fuel Controller. 1,200,000 tons of bituminous coal have been alloted to Canada for domestic purposes, and the people of the central provinces of Canada must realize the imperative necessity of burning as little anthracite coal as possible, especially at this time of the year, and of using wood or bituminous coal as a substitute.

The following extract from the bulletin should be carefully observed by the people of Peterborough:

Each and every citizen must be impressed with the patriotic necessity of saving coal—late lighting of furnaces, the use of grate fires during moderately cold weather, and a reasonable self-restraint by those who have coal—will assist those who have no fuel to secure at least a temporary supply, and it must be again and again emphasized that the coal shortage is a war situation, in which the duty of every citizen is to save fuel, and keep on saving fuel, thus doing his or her part in winning the war.

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS

The people of Peterboro will be surprised to learn that the daylight savings system caused "inconvience and turmoil among our peace abiding citizens". The general opinion seemed to be that the plan was adopted with surprising smoothness and satisfaction. Yet "Democracy" who assailed daylight savings the other evening in a letter to the press returns to the attack with the statement quoted above and other assertions in line with the general accuracy of this particular quotation. The letter is published to give "Democracy" an opportunity to reply to the editorial reference to his previous communication but the Examiner does not propose to enter into a prolonged controversy on the subject. From all it has been able to learn from local citizens the advantages of daylight savings were appreciated by all classes in Peterboro, particularly by the workingmen who with the five o'clock closing hour adopted by the majority of factories had a long period of daylight after working hours for recreation or gardening. The editorial comments in other Canadian newspapers tell the same story and the Examiner has not yet seen in the urban press of Canada any indications of a desire to abandon the scheme next summer. It has given satisfaction in the United States and in the British Isles where the clock was put on two hours during the summer months.

Here is Democracy's letter which winds up the argument for the present as far as the columns of this paper are concerned.

"In yesterday's Examiner you essay to answer my letter of the previous day but having no proof for your contention, you merely give your ipse dixit instead, as if you expected the public to acquiesce in your bald statement. You pay a poor compliment to "public intelligence" when you arrogate to yourself the right to force your opinion upon the public and to denounce your opponents statement without adducing any proof or reason therefore.

You admit that many of the farmers are dissatisfied with is so called "daylight saving scheme," when as a matter of fact their dissatisfaction was universal and the change was not observe by any of them. Indeed ninety per cent. of the Canadians as a whole were dissatisfied with it, and that fact would have been borne out had a poll been taken. It was no fault of parliament if they passed it as a war measure, and now that the war is drawing to a close, let the scheme die with it and cause no inconvenience and turmoil among our peace abiding citizens.

To say that the scheme was advocated by practically every daily newspaper in Canada, is misleading. Why not speak of the press as a whole when the daily papers form but a small proportion of the press? Indeed some of the papers treated the scheme with the greatest severity. If the balance of the papers were in favor of the change, it is not a matter for surprise that they should be induced to fall into line with the advocates of the scheme.

You still strive to mislead the public by using the misnomer of "daylight saving scheme". I challenge anyone to cite any authority to shew that it saves one minute or even one second of daylight. Old Sol unremittingly files his diurnal appearance in pursuance of the laws of the universe regardless of the laws of pretentious man, who would bid the sun stand still.

If the manufacturers and profiteers stand to benefit by the scheme, it is at the expense of the working man, who has no chance to do his chores and other necessary work until at the end of a strenous days labor of ten hours for his employer under unhealthful and exhausting conditions; nor can the production of foodstuffs be enhanced by him while thus exhausted and his vitality reduced.

You admit yourself that even for the short time the scheme has been in existence, it was too long and should have been curtailed.

Before the change in time was inaugurated, our time was put forward about a quarter of an hour in order to conform with the railway time tables, which with your ideal change of one hour brings our midday at 10.45 in the morning while yet the sun is many degrees aslant from the meridian.

Yours etc.,
DEMOCRACY.

THEY'LL QUIT THIS KIND OF TRICK SOON

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(By Mail.) — An English sergeant, just back from imprisonment in Germany, tells the following story about the treatment he received there:

He mas captured at Cambrai. During one of the visits of the German doctor to the prison camp he suddenly looked at the prisoner's right hand and said: "Ach! What's the matter with your finger?"

The sergeant assured him the finger was quite all right, but the doctor insisted that the finger was poisoned and that he would have to lance it. He did so, and three days later three of the Englishman's fingers became very much inflamed. It went from bad to worse and eventually the hand had to be amputated.

The victim of this atrocity declares that originally there was nothing wrong with his hand, and that the finger was lanced in order to make him unfit for service in the army should he ever get back to England.

Mrs. Dougald Brown is Bereaved

Father Died While on His Way to Vancouver.

Mrs. (Rev.) Dougald Brown, 255 Reid street, received word yesterday afternoon that her father, Albert Hamlin, died in Carberry, from heart failure, aged 65 years.

Mr. Hamlin, who was superannuated from the service of the G. T. R. last August, had practically all his life been an engineer on the road.

Recently with Mrs. Hamlin, he visited Rev. and Mrs. Brown, and left two weeks ago to spend the winter in Vancouver with the intention of residing there if the climate proved satisfactory. He was on his way out when death overtook him at Carberry. He leaves his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Brown, city; Mrs. (Rev.) A. Torrie, Toronto; and Miss Dorothy, residing with Mrs. Brown; also two sons, Victor, with the C. P. R. at Vancouver, and Leo, at Shelbourne.

The remains will be brought to his former home in Midland, where interment will take place on Sunday.

INFLUENZA APPEARS IN INDIA AND CHINA

All Populous Centres of Globe Affected.

DESPATCHES TO U.S. HEALTH SERVICE SHOW RAVAGES ARE INCREASING IN PORTUGAL—MEXICO QUARANTINES SPANISH SHIPS—VESSELS CARRY INFECTION.

WASHINGTON.— The pandemic character of the prevailing influenza contagion is revealed by cable reports received by the United States Public Health Service and the State Department, indicating its presence in practically all the populous centers of the globe.

The malady has made its appearance in various parts of India and has been reported in sections of China. It still is epidemic throughout Canada and is said to be spreading rapidly in Mexico. The latter country has declared a quarantine against vessels arriving at Mexican ports from Spain.

Word from Spain, where it is believed the present epidemic originated states that the disease, with pneumonic complications, still is general throughout the country. It is causing increasing fatalities in Portugal.

The ease with which the infection is carried by vessels travelling the ocean lanes in every direction is illustrated by a dispatch from Porto Rico. Two vessels from New York arrived at San Juan with more than half of their crews suffering from the disease.

It was also brought to Cuba by an American vessel recently reaching Cienfuegos. Outbreaks in the Azores, Bermuda, and Brazil also are reported.

A dispatch received today said that there were more than 4,000 cases at the port of Punta Delgado, Azores, which is the scene of activity on the part of the United States Navy.

Another cable announces that conditions were so serious in Portugal that the authorities of Lisbon had called upon the newspapers and public-spirited citizens of the city to assist in raising funds to alleviate the suffering which has become widespread.

The experience of a vessel arriving at Lisbon from an African port on Oct 21 was cited as showing the swiftness and deadliness of contagion. An outbreak occurred abroad the ship after leaving Africa and while enroute 108 individuals out of a total of 617 passengers and members of the crew died.

Fuel Administrator Garfield announced tonight that the spread of the epidemic in the coal fields throughout this country has been checked.

Peterboro Exhibition Board Getting Ready for 1919

New Cattle Sheds Will be Erected and Other Buildings Added as Fast as Possible.

WORK BEGUN

The directors of the Peterboro Exhibition Board are leaving no stones unturned to make the 1919 show, the greatest ever. Work has been started at the grounds to get them in tip-top shape, teams are now plowing and craping the high places into the hollows and when this work is completed it will be as level as a bowling green. New horse and cattle sheds will be erected and other buildings will be added as fast as possible. Every citizen of Peterboro and the surrounding country should help boost this once-a-year fair, its a credit to us all, and by the right co-operation can be made the largest and best in the Province outside of Toronto, Ottawa, and London.

Food Board Flashes

820,000 in commerce.
819,000 in metal and chemical works

Voice of The People

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Peterborough will probably subscribe a million dollars to the Victory Loan. This will mean five thousand dollars in commissions, which goes to the canvassers, the exact amount needed to reach the Red Cross Society objective here. A golden opportunity is now presented to the men of Peterborough to emulate the men of Windsor, who are pooling their commissions and giving the full amount to the Red Cross. The fighting still goes on and wounded men still look to us for succour. Since the war began men of this city have given day after day canvassing for subscriptions for the Patriotic Fund, Belgian Relief, Red Cross, Y.M.C.A., Sailors' Relief, etc. They worked without pay and only for the cause. This war has been won by sacrificing, not gain.

Yours truly,
PRO PATRIA

WINTER CAMP AT STRATFORD

STRATFORD, Oct. 30.—Stratford is to have over one thousand soldiers quartered in the Mooney biscuit factory this winter. Sergt Griffiths is in the city making preliminary preparations. The building, it is thought, will be in readiness for the troops here by the end of November.

A PETERBORO RETURNED SOLDIER TOOK PART IN DOUBLE WEDDING

(Special to the Examiner.)

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 31.—The home of Mr and Mrs. Hugh Curry, 266 Johnston street, of this city, on Wednesday, was the scene of a very interesting double wedding, when their two daughters, Catharine and Ina, were wedded to two returned soldiers, who came back from overseas to claim their brides. The family came from Carleton Place to Kingston, some years years ago, and the father is at present employed in the Canadian Locomotive Works here.

The double wedding took place very quietly, Rev. J. W. Stephen of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, officiated. The bridal couples attended on each other, and Miss Mamie Curry, sister of the brides, acted as maid of honour.

The first couple to be joined in matrimony was Catherine, the eldest daughter, and Ernest Bell, of Peterboro. The bride was formerly a nurse in training at Rockwood Hospital, and the bridegroom was one of the original members of the Princess Pats, and in three years he saw action in many hard fought battles. He was finally invalided home and discharged. The bride was tastefully dressed in a gown of silk embroidered net, trimmed with pearls, and a cap veil, with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of tea roses, and maidenhair fern with streamers. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a gold pin with sunburst. The couple left for Peterboro, and will make their home there.

The Second Wedding.

The second wedding was that of Ina, the second daughter, and Carl McLaren, formerly of Bristol Corners, and now of the Audit Department in Kingston. He enlisted and went overseas with the 65th, a Western infantry battalion, and served in France with a machine gun company. He was wounded and returned to Canada and was discharged.

Both couples were the recipients of many useful and valuable gifts.

A CHILD GETS CROSS, SICK AND FEVERISH WHEN CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated clean little liver and bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

Prelate of Holy Land is Captive

(By Henry Wood.)
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Oct. 4.—(By Mail.)— Monsignor Luigi Barlassina who was recently nominated somewhat hurriedly as auxiliary patriarch of Jerusalem, has left also somewhat hastily for the purpose of assuming his new post.

The reason for all of the hurry is that Monsignor Camassei, patriarch of Jerusalem, has been taken prisoner by the Turks and is still being held prisoner by them at Nazareth.

Diplomatic efforts of the Pope through the papal nuncio at Constantinople and through the German government having failed to secure the release of Monsignor Camassei, Monsignor Barlassina has been created auxiliary patriarch of Jerusalem and dispatched there to take over the important Catholic interests of the birthplace of Christianity.

With his arrival in Palestine, Monsignor Barlassina will more than have his hands full in picking up the threads of all the various Catholic institutions that existed there before the war, and which when it became apparent that Jeusalem must fall into the hands of the English, were sacked by the Turks.

Most of these institutions were under the care of the Salesian fathers, of whom 13 were carried off by the Turks as hostages and are still being held. All diplomatic efforts by the Vatican to get news of these Christian martyrs have failed.

Meantime the Italian school at Jerusalem has been re-opened by the Salesian fathers. Among other Salesian institutions that remain closed are the orphan asylum at Bethlehem, from which the Turks carried away all of the highly perfected tools and machinery for teaching trades; the Italian school at Jaffa, the Institute of the Young Jesus at Nazareth, the agricultural colony at Cremisan; and the Italian schools at Smyrna.

ABSORBED BY GEN. MOTORS.

McLaughlin and Other Canadian Concerns Taken Over.

Purchase of the McLaughlin Carriage Co., Ltd., McLaughlin Motor Co., Ltd., and the Chevrolet Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd., by the General Motors Corporation is confirmed. The entire interests of these companies, including their manufacturing plants at Oshawa, Ont., and branch houses and service depots throughout the Dominion, will be taken over on Nov. 1, and from that date will be operated as divisions of the parent company. Other divisions will be added in the near future to take care of the Cadillac Oldsmobile, Scripps-Booth, General Motors and Samson Tractor lines.

The General Motors Co. will manufacture in Canada its motors, axles, transmissions and other important parts and, with that in view, has recently purchased a manufacturing site at Walkersville, Ont., consisting of 38 acres, where these operations will be centred.

Men of Military Age in Peterboro Must Carry Papers

Regulations Will be Made More Drastic—Papers Must be Carried on All Occasions.

Inspector Harry Ward, of the civil branch of the Canadian Military Police Corps, now operating in Peterborough county, again warns all employees and citizens of the necessity for men of military age to carry the necessary documents with them at all times to show their exemption under the Military Service Act. This applys to all men of the apparent ages between 19 and 34. Married men must carry either their marriage certificate or a copy of same, or a letter signed by two reputable citizens vouching for them as married men and how long married. If exempted for medical reasons, a certificate to this effect must be carried. If discharged from the army, either the discharge certificate or a copy of same, must be carried. If exempted as farmers, shell-makers or toolmakers, etc., a certificate to this effect must be carried. If registered under the 19 year old class, certificate to this effect must be carried.

If a man looks, say 19 or 20, and is only 18 or under, or a man is 35 or over and looks younger than 34, a proof of age must be carried by them.

Must Carry Papers.

The necessary papers must be carried at all times.

Inspector Ward finds that many men do not carry these papers to work with them and in several cases the men are allowed to bring these papers to the station later. This privilege will not be granted in future.

It is the intention of Inspector Ward to go through all the factories again shortly, and no excuses will be accepted. All men not carrying out these instructions will be prosecuted, and are liable to be fined up to $50, and also to be sent to Kingston and put in uniform until such a time as the necessary evidence is produced.

Two Platoon System is to be Adopted in City of Hamilton

Similar System Proposed for Peterboro—Aldermen Will be Fined for Non-Attendance.

The Hamilton Board of Control has approved the recommendation of the fire, police and jail committee regarding the two-platoon system for firemen. This is similar to the system proposed for Peterborough. The recommendation goes on to the council. During the discussion reference was made to the fact that in other cities the firemen had to pay for their own clothes.

"Then they should do it here or we should equalize it," declared the mayor. "We must do as other cities do."

It was pointed out that the city provides each fireman with two shirts. These cost at the rate of $5.08 per shirt.

Under the new regulations time on and off duty for the firemen will be 10 hours for the day and 14 hours for the night shift, a system which has been found satisfactory in other cities.

The men on night duty, with the exception of the watch, will be permitted to sleep at the fire stations.

No meal hours off duty will be allowed the men. The question of annual holidays was discussed and though the report was against the granting of an annual vacation it was laid over for future discussion.

Will Fine Aldermen.

Aldermen must not miss council and committee meetings next year. For each meeting that anyone is absent from he will be docked in pay. The board of control at a special meeting, disposed of a number of matters that are coming before the council. One of these was to pass the by-law providing for pay for aldermen at the rate of $300 a year.

The by-law is to provide that for each regular meeting missed, whether of council or committee, the alderman missing will forfeit $4 of his pay. The checks will be handed out quarterly, minus forfeitures.

SAVED HIS GRENADE.

By United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 1, (By Mail.) — Walter Ernest Brown, an Australian infantry corporal, is a strenuous advocate of the "knock out."

When a group of enemy snipers started picking off some "Aussies," Brown, acting on his own initiative, crept out along the shallow trench, and made a dash towards the Hun post.

With a grenade in his hand he stood at the door of the dug out and called on the Germans to surrender.

One of the enemy rushed out, and Brown knocked him cold with his fist, retaining his grenade for the others.

Loud cries of "Kamerad!" were heard and from the dug out an officer and eleven Heinies appeared.

Brown brought the entire lot back, and recently was given the Victoria cross for his exploit.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

AN EASY WAY TO ACQUIRE LOVE FOR MUSIC

Have you ever realized the power that music has to carry the memory back years and years until the illusion is so realistic that when your mind returns to its immediate surroundings you realize with a start it was only a day dream—that you were not actually and physically where your thoughts were? A few bars from one of the old songs carries you back to the old home. You see the fields, the river, the "ould kirk" in the hazy distance. You almost feel the evening breeze on your cheek and hear the familiar sounds—the lowing of the kine and the bleating of the sheep. You're living again those dear old days just as vividly as you did long ago.

Or the strains of an old waltz reminds you of your first dance years and years ago. You live over again the days before the dance when you were so busy getting everything ready—and then the great night arrived. You remember your entrance into the brilliant ballroom. You saw all those old friends who you thought you had forgotten until now. Then the excitement and the pleasure and the wonderful dances—the people you met for the first time and the faces you saw for the last time. All this recalled by just a few bars of music.

This is one of the reasons why music has such a great hold on people—and why its charm never wearies—why some music no matter how old, no matter how familiar or oft heard, is always new. It is a necessity that there should be such music in every home, and thanks to the ingenuity that made possible the talking machine and the player-piano, the musically untrained are not dependent upon there gifted and tutored friends for this blessing.

THE MUSICAL HOME

A home in which a musical atmosphere is created early in life is one that should develop in the young a love of home, a happiness in it, a pride in it that otherwise they might not develop.

Children today have had an introduction to music that the children of a generation ago never enjoyed. Now children demand music. They realize if we do not, that they have not had enough music. Music in the home today is a necessity. We used to consider it a luxury. It is educational. Few things are more educational than music. It develops and inspires. It cultivates in mind and body. It lightens the tread and lightens the heart. It breathes the spirit of grace, beauty, love and patriotism. There is yet in many places a notion in Canada that music was an unessential. To play the piano was an accomplishment. Young ladies took music lessons as some persons went to church, not because of desire but because it was considered proper.

What a change has been wrought in a comparatively short time from the Puritan like period to the present .To-day we have Canada becoming a great music-loving nation, yearning for music and demanding music. To-day we have army generals calling on their governments to double or treble the number of instruments in the bands of their regiments. Today we have music recognized as a health builder in the hospitals. It is sought for by the soldiers. Y. M. C. A. workers and Red Cross officials urge the public to give the boys music in training camps and hospitals. They recognize the influence in maintaining morale in keeping the fighter fit.

REPETITION IS GREAT EDUCATION.

Catchy tunes appease the appetite quickly, but the taste does not last well. A classical number does not gain the same response from your musical taste on first hearing, but repetition impresses the music deeply on your mind. People will say they simply cannot stand what they call classical stuff, but by way of exception they do appreciate such pieces as Handel's Largo. Dvorak's Humoresque, Paderewski's celebrated Minuet in G.

The reason why they consider these as notable exceptions may be given in one word—repetition. They have heard them often and the full message of the composition has hold of them. Had the same person heard other compositions as often, they would have enlarged the list of classical selections they enjoy. Repetition is a great educator. The great influence of the phonograph and the player piano in cultivating a living for the better class of music, is due to the ease with which those who cannot produce music themselves are able to play notable selections over and over again. For one who seizes every opportunity to hear a great pianist, symphony orchestra, band, chorus, organist, violinist or 'cellist there will spring up a deep appreciation for the classics that will continue to develop as repetition makes it possible.

... THE TITLE DOES MATTER ...

Does the title have anything to do with a composition's success? Some would answer "no" at once. To the few thoroughly educated musicians probably not. But to the vast majority of us ordinary folk, the eye has more influence on our intellects than has the ear. To us the finest piece of music ever composed calls forth little imagination under the name "Melody in F," "Ballade in A Flat," "Reverie," "Nocturne," "Prelude" and a number of similar indefinite titles Of course everybody knows 'Nocturne" is a piece suggestive of the night and so on but even then the title offers no definite appeal to one's imagination.

On the other hand the same compositions announced to the world as "An Egyptian Sunset," "In a Monastery Garden," "Ships that Pass in the Night," and "Out to Sea" or something of that nature immediately stimulate the imagination to picture certain scenes to be called up by music. And that the ability to do this adds to the enjoyment of a number cannot be denied. Suppose Paderewski or Hofmann or Godowsky or some other great pianist were to come out on the platform in response to a demand for an encore and say "Shall I play Beethoven's Sonata Opus 27, No. 2, or the 'Moonlight' Sonata," which think you, the audience would choose?

It may be that some second-rate composers use beautifully alluring titles to sugar-coat a weak composition but that does not alter the fact that other things being equal, the selection with a title that puts the imagination to work, is going to win its way into the heart of the masses the more quickly.

How Much Are You Willing To Loan For The Defence Of Your Freedom?

HOW can you answer this question? Only by imagining for a moment that you were about to lose that freedom, that upon your willingness to loan depended your life and the lives of your family. There could be but one answer—you would give all you possess.

For four years the Allies have fought a gallant fight for freedom, and Money has paid for it. Your money has helped to pay for Canada's share in this wonderful struggle against the forces of oppression. Last year 800,000 people in Canada loaned their money to Canada to protect their homes & firesides from the ruthless advance of the enemies of civilization.

To-day, NOW, Canada says to you, "We are on the threshold of Victory; one grand rally and we shall push the madman of Europe back across his own frontier and draw the teeth of the gray wolf of Germany.

To-day Canada asks her people for a great enthusiastic response to

The Victory Loan 1918

Canada will not ask in vain. Since the 1917 Loan was floated last year we have seen the German hordes advance through France, devastating and spreading ruin as they came. We have seen them checked. We have seen them pushed back, and we know that Money, and Money alone, has enabled our gallant men to do what they have done. We know that money in vast sums has organized our armies, clothed and fed them and supplied them with guns and ammunition.

To-day Money is needed for the last great stages of this war for freedom. More than a million loyal and patriotic Canadians will come forward this year with all they can afford.

And You will be one of these! And having loaned your money to Canada, you will tell of it to others, that our Victory Loan 1918 may be the greatest Canadian success of this war.

Canadians Need Only the Opportunity

By Dr. Frank Crane

This is not a war of dynastics. It is a war of peoples.

This is not a war of words. It is a war of ideals.

This war will not be won by the superior schemer. It will be won by preponderance of resources.

The combined autocracies of Middle Europe and Asia, those three holdovers from Medievalism, Turkey, Austria and Germany, are making the last gigantic gesture to impede the progress of civilization.

In the madness of their egotism, in the fever of their septic pride, they set about to sweep back the encroaching waves of the ocean of Democracy.

It is Humanity they have attacked. It is Humanity that will defeat them.

It is not the Governments of the world, nor the statesmen, nor long trained armies of helots or janizaries; it is the uprisen and outraged People.

The Canadian people would have sprung to the defense of civilization, no matter what the action of their Government, just as the people of France, of Italy, of Great Britain and of the United States have swept their governors into this conflict.

They stand ready to contribute their last dollar, as they have contributed their best manhood, to sweep back the hordes of barbarism.

The Canadian people need no exhortation to lend to the Victory Loan. All they need is opportunity.

In the friendly competition of nations, Canada will not be behind in the largeness and enthusiasm of her contributions.

ON YOUR TOES--EVERYBODY!

"How do things line up in your district for the Victory Loan?" I asked of a rural friend a few days ago.

"Everybody's on their toes," was his reply.

And that's the way it should be with Canadians everywhere — from the Atlantic to the Pacific—from the Arctic North to the 49th Parallel.

On Your Toes—EVERYBODY!

What's a home without a Victory Bond?

I know a business man who has sold his business and realized $10,000 and he is putting all that sum into Victory Bonds. I know a newsboy, ten or eleven years of age, who has been saving nickles all year that he can buy a hundred-dollar bond, and present it to his widowed mother—whose husband rests 'neath the red poppies of Flanders.

Almost every single Canadian can afford to buy Victory Bonds—some a hundred dollars and some a hundred thousand—and every true Canadian should buy, according to his means.

All should go the limit—buy to the utmost.

We've got the MEN (God bless 'em) over there—Let's get the MONEY—over here!

The appeal has come from our Glorious Army: "Send more supplies; we're on the road to Victory; help put the power behind the final punch—the punch that means success or defeat!"

And how will Canada respond?

Are we the same stuff as the heroes of Vimy Ridge?

Are we related to the Invincibles who struck terror to the Hun's heart at Ypres?

Are we bone and blood of the boys who were first to cross the Hindenburg Line? If we are, there can be but one response.

And let's prove that we are! Let's go over the top with the Victory Loan!

Let's back our Boys to Berlin — clearing the way with a veritable Barrage of Bonds.

Victory Bonds mean success to our Army in France, and the safeguard of business and prosperity at home.

They are safer than life insurance and more profitable than bank investments.

Canada is on trial as to both her financial and moral stability.

Mr. Average Canadian, do you realize what that means—now and in the future—to be on trial before the world at this time?

On your Toes—Everybody!

Boost Victory Bonds—Think Victory Bonds—Buy Victory Bonds!

We've all got a snap compared with the boys who are doing our fighting in hell's cockpit!

Hit the bull's-eye of your pocketbook, and get a Victory Bond for your prize!

Don't wait to be coaxed—or even asked.

Line up like a good soldier—Meet the matter squarely.

Eyes front! Shoulder to shoulder! Now—All Together!

On your toes for the Victory Loan —EVERYBODY!

Copy of Resolution That Will be Presented to the Mass Meeting to be Held To-morrow

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., and Mr. E. G. Patterson, of the Canadian General Electric Company, Return From Toronto—Senator Nicholls Will Address Meeting.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., and Mr. E. G. Patterson, of the Canadian General Electric Company, have returned from Toronto, where they interviewed Senator Frederic Nicholls, President of the C.G.E., in connection with the alleged case of tariff discrimination against the Canadian General Electric Company. Senator Nicholls and others will address a mass meeting to be held on the market square to-morrow evening. The meeting has been sanctioned by Dr. C. H. Amys, Medical Officer of Health. Following is a copy of the resolution that will be presented to the meeting:

The Resolution:

"Whereas, it is desirable that every facility should be afforded to the United States, and to every other friendly power, by Canada for necessary purposes of war, and whereas, there is no objection to the same if the property and profits of the enterprise belong to the powers referred to. There is, however, every objection that (and business enterprise is not wholly governmental) coming under the Canadian tariff should be permitted to complete arragements really involving business partnership of the character referred to, whereby those enterprises participating in the profits may receive tariff favours over their competitors and, whereas, it is alleged that the Vice-Chairman of the War Trade Board is also managing director of the Canada Cement Company, and that such arrangements have been permitted, and other favours have been received on a vast scale as referred to, to the profit of the said company, and to the detriment of others, and whereas, the evidence adduced is of such a startling and important character as to warrant this meeting making a request to the Prime Minister for an immediate investigation and report and, whereas, the Council of the City of Peterborough, on the evidence placed before it, has taken a course similar to that suggested by this resolution Therefore, this public mass meeting of the citizens of Peterborough, city and county, in the public square of the City, presided over by the Mayor, and assembled here hereby enter a protest to the Prime Minister of Canada against Orders-in-Council permitting of partnerships and profits to Canadian business enterprises as against the tariff and the meeting respectfully requests that the Prime Minister send to the Mayor of Peterborough an explanation of the course followed in the case of the Canada Cement Company, and Order-in-Council No. 11-1760, of date the eleventh of July, 1918, or other companies, to their private profit and advantage of such companies as against the tariff and competing enterprises of Canada that come under the tariff."

THE EMERGENCY HOSPITAL IS NOW A GOING CONCERN

Five Patients Were Installed in the Institution This Morning—Epidemic is Passing Over.

Five male patients were installed in the Emergency Hospital this morning before nine o'clock. The ambulances have become so familiar a sight on Hunter street they do not attract even a comment from the passersby.

Dr. C. H. Amys, M.O.H., under whose direction the hospital was fitted up is well satisfied by the almost superhuman efforts made by the public generally in preparing a well equipped hospital at four days notice. Miss H. Reid, the superintendent said today that she is quite satisfied with the conditions generally in the hospital.

WORST OVER

While precautions are going on exactly as during the past two weeks Dr. Amys thinks the worst of the epidemic will be over this week. However, should they be needed there are 30 beds in readiness for any new cases which may come in.

COUNTRY ATTENDED TO

During the height of the epidemic the doctors were so rushed with city cases they were unable to get at the country patients of which here are a great many. However, now that the worst is over they are making their country calls as regularly as the city ones.

MILD CASES

While Doctor Amys says the worst is over, he adds that there are many new cases cropping up constantly but any of the latter ones are of a mild type.

DON'T BE DYSPEPTIC.

The dyspeptic has thought only of the stomach when the real source of trouble is the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills thoroughly cleanse and purify the digestive and excretory system and in this way put the organs of digestion into splendid working condition. A little patient urging on of the organs when sluggish will restore the habit of healthful digestion.

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Deputy Boussenet, a member of the Naval committee of the Chamber, urged to-day that the armistice terms include:

Allied control of the U boats.

Removal of all marine mines.

Occupation of Cuxhaven, Heligoland, Pola and Cattaro.

Taking over of all German tonnage in neutral ports as partial replacement of the 10,000,000 tons of Allied shipping sunk by German submarines.

AUSTRALIA'S TOLL FOR WORLD LIBERATION

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 29.—Some conception of what Australia has done in the war and of the losses sustained by the Commonwealth can be gained from figures which has just been officially issued. Out of a population of 5,000,000 Australia has sent abroad 336,000 men. The total casualties numbered 290,191, including 54,431 dead.

Recruiting in Australia is now at the rate of 4,240 a month.

7,000 Refugees Reach Holland From Flanders

Many Pathetic Incidents Reported — May Return by the Sea.

AMSTERDAM, Oct 31. — When the German retirement in Belgian Flanders began it was expected that 250,000 refugees would seek safety in Holland. Up till Saturday night, however, only a small fraction of this number had arrived. At that time about 7,000 had passed through the wire gates marking the Dutch-Belgian frontier. On Friday alone 4,996 arrived. All but thirteen were French people from the districts of Valenciennes, Douai, Cambrai and Quesnoy.

There is no congestion, as in 1914, when the mass of refugees from Belgium threatened to overwhelm the hurriedly organized bands of willing helpers.

This time the stream began to trickle in slowly. At first several hundreds arrived each day, but the number has now increased to thousands. However, there has been time to organize at all frontier centres of the Dutch provinces of Brabant and Limbourg. Food depots in charge of committees are cooperating with the Dutch Red Cross. Doctors and nurses also were sent to the border and they are being assisted by sisters of mercy from the convents in the southern provinces of Holland.

So far there have been two main streams, some thirty miles apart. One point of entry is where the Dutch provinces of Brabant and Limbourg meet, and the other is across the Meuse River into Maastricht, the capital of Limbourg province. At these points the fugitives are registered by the military authorities and and must undergo a physical examination.

SHARED FOOD.

The spectacle of the weary, travel-stained war victims toiling through the mud and rain was moving, and the sufferings of the old and infirm men, women and children on the 150-mile tramp were intense. Most of the French civilians had been on the road a month; others six weeks or two months. All the French spoke of the kindness of the Belgian people, who shared their food with them.

The fatigues of the journey were too much for some of the travellers. The weaker ones died on the way and a few others succumbed soon after reaching the hospitable soil of Holland. Many of the refugees are suffering from grippe and bronchial affections. The worst cases had been given immediate assistance at the nearest hospitals and convents, but the examining physicians say that the number of sick thus far has been lower than had been anticipated.

PATHETIC INCIDENTS.

Many pathetic incidents occurred during the march. Among the refugees reaching the Dutch border was a young mother with the body of her six-months-old babe clasped to her breast. The babe had died four days previously, but the mother refused to bury the body in soil held by the enemy. An old woman of Cambrai travelled for three weeks in a chair tied on a cart. Scarcely had she reached neutral soil when the cart overturned and the woman was killed.

AFTER ARRIVAL.

To distribute the fugitives in Holland the Government last week ordered the burgomasters of Deventer, Assen, Zutphen and Arnhem, and other provincial towns further north, to arrange to accommodate refugees to the extent of two per cent. of the populations of the towns. To these centres the fugitives are now being taken on fourteen special trains, each carrying 1,000 persons.

WELCOMED REFUGEES.

The Dutch villagers on the frontier have received efficient first assistance to the refugees, although food is not plentiful as in 1914. At Maastricht great crowds welcomed the refugees by singing the "Marseillaise" and the "Brabanconne" and loaded them with food and dainties.

MAY RETURN BY SEA.

The French Minister at The Hague has been investigating the possibility of repatriating the refugees to France through the liberated section of Belgium, but the plan is not yet feasible, as bridges have been blown up, and the railways and tramways are in no condition for use. Meanwhile a scheme for repatriation by sea is being considered.

A Dollar Is Like A Bicycle
—IT STOPS BEARING BURDENS THE MOMENT IT CEASES TO ROLL

THERE is a vast difference between hoarding money and saving it.

The wage-earner who keeps his money hoarded up at home is worse than the slacker who dodges military service.

Put your dollars to work for your Country at a fair remuneration for every day's work they do.

The great Victory Loan 1918 Campaign will enable you to keep your dollars rolling and bearing their share of Canada's burden.

The people of other nations now at war with Germany are making far greater sacrifices than we in Canada have ever been called upon to make.

England is paying the price in pounds Sterling, largely earned by the Five Million Women who have, voluntarily, gone to work to fill the places of the men at the front.

Hundreds of England's brave women have engaged in the manufacture of T N T —that dreaded explosive which devastated the city of Halifax. This work destroys the hair, ruins the complexion, and turns the skin yellow. But even at the sacrifice of their beauty, these noble British girls are cheerfully serving their Country in this great fight for freedom and humanity.

The least we can do is to lend our money to Canada, at interest—upon the best of security — that the world may be made free, for all time, from the menace of war and militarism.

Even at the sacrifice of some comfort—some favourite luxury — it is the duty of every Canadian, regardless of age, or sex, or station, to

Fuel Commission Urges the Churches Not to Use "Sized" Coal

Suggest Run of Mine Anthracite and Soft Coal for This Winter—One Company Has Run of Mine That Consumers Have Declined —Will Attend to Coupon Orders.

MEETING LAST NIGHT

At a meeting of the Fuel Commission last night it was resolved that the secretary send a notice to those citizens from whom newspaper coupons were received, saying that they had no coal, and who have not yet received any, that they may obtain a supply at the City Fuel Yard by leaving their orders at the City Treasurer's office.

The following telegram was received form E. L. Cousins, Fuel Administrator for Ontario: "Anthracite situation acute, especially by reason of influenza epidemic demoralizing labor situation in transportation and mines. It is therefore imperative that your dealers at once meet the almost certain shortage in your municipal anthracite allotments for this year by immediately putting in stocks of wood and bituminous coal. You will impress dealers that they must act on this advice immediately."

A copy of this telegram has been sent to the local dealers urging them to follow its suggestions.

A letter was read from the Peterboro Fuel and Transfer Co. saying that they had a large quantity of run of mine anthracite coal which the citizens would not buy, and asking permission to sell it to farmers.

It was resolved that the churches be urged to use soft coal or run-of-mine hard coal and not to burn "sized" hard coal ,even if they have it, as it seems to be certain that there will be a serious shortage of coal for domestic use; and to tell them that the Board understands that the Peterboro Fuel and Transfer Co. has run of mine hard coal, and that several dealers have soft coal; and also to request them to hold as few week day or night meetings as possible, and to combine for their services so far as circumstances will permit.

The secretary was instructed to write the Peterboro Fuel and Transfer Co. and call their attention to the regulations regarding the distribution of coal, and to say that these must be strictly observed.

The filing system is now completed and a tally is kept on all coal going into homes. The public are warned against any infringement of the regulations as those getting in fuel against the restrictions will be penalized.

WOMAN WENT AFOOT TO BELGIUM'S RUINS

Miss Burleigh Says the German People, as Well as the Kaiser, Must Be Whipped if World is to be Safe.

NEW YORK.—"It is not the Kaiser with whom we have got to reckon; it is the people of Germany. The Kaiser is a figurehead, and his presence on the throne does not alter matters in he least. Germans have the sort of government they themselves want, and the Germans themselves must be absolutely and thoroughly whipped before peace and safety can come again to the world."

This was the opinion expressed by an English girl, Miss B. Bennett Burleigh, whose experiences with the German war machine in all the horror of its occupation and devastation of Belgium cover probably more adventures than have fallen to the lot of but few women. Miss Burleigh is the daughter of a famous English war correspondent, the late Bennet Burleigh. When the war broke out, and her four brothers joined the colours, Miss Burleigh, then a reporter on the British paper, The Queen, decided that she would see something of the fighting. Accordingly she crossed to Belgium, and passed on foot all alone through the German lines which were then drawn around Brussels.

She was in Holland for several months and saw there the work of German intrigue, the extent of which, she says, has been scarcely comprehended in this country or in England.

"I couldn't stay home when war was declared," said Miss Burleigh, who has just come to America, where she is going to deliver a series of lectures. "I had to go, so I got a passport and started out 'on my own.' I landed at Ostend just after the Germans had closed on Brussels, and there the stories I heard should have warned me of what I was to see, but, like the rest of the world, I couldn't believe them then.

Started Out Afoot.

"I have spent a good deal of my life in Belgium and I know the country and the people pretty well, so it did not seem to me much of a task to walk to Brussels. I started out all by myself and after several days on the road got through to Brussels. On my way I was joined by a party of Belgian women and old men, refugees who were wandering homeless in the face of the ruin wrought by German soldiers. I was not stopped by Germans a single time, though once or twice I had to get off on the side of the road to let thousands of them go by. They were then all hurrying forward to crush the Allies before England's full might could be thrown in the battle.

"I think I owed my safety at this time to the fact that I was going toward Brussels. The Germans did not bother much with people going in that direction, for there was the main body of their army. Also, the fact that I was a woman helped, I think, for they thought I was just another of those left helpless in the face of the prowess of the Kaiser's armies. Again, remember that the troops I passed were going to battle, and were going as fast as they could, so their commanders did not stop women tramping all alone beside the road. Otherwise I do not believe anything could have saved me, for at that time I did not know the frightful efficiency with which the German Intelligence Department works.

"In Brussels I stayed with an old school friend, whose family had not left the city. She was very hospitable and gave me a bed, although you can imagine her astonishment when I walked in and announced that I had come all by myself from Ostend.

"While I was in Brussels wondering what I could find of interest to write about, for the German troops seemed to paralyze the whole city by their mere precence, I heard of the burning of Louvain. I could hardly believe it was true, but I thought to myself that here was the story I wanted if I could only get it. So I left Brussels one morning about 6 o'clock and started on foot for Louvain. During the day I saw several bodies of German troops, and had to take to my heels. Once I had behind a haystack to let German soldiers go by. But most of the troops I saw were artillery batteries, and they were not particularly dangerous to me. Near Louvain I met Belgians fleeing horror-stricken from the ruins and I think it was then, for almost the first time, that I realized what German domination meant.

"I cannot bear to describe Louvain. It was horrible. The place had been simply blotted from the face of the earth. There was hardly enough shelter left for a stray dog. I saw scores of new-made graves of Belgians who had been executed by the Germans, and in some cases I found embers of what had once been a house still glowing where a recent atrocity had been committed. The next morning I returned to Brussels.

War of Brutality.

"By this time, I had come to realize that the Germans were waging war as it had been fought a thousand years ago; that no one had any rights in the eyes of either their soldiers or their high command, and that the individual soldier was being deliberately encouraged in his acts of frightfulness. It's a wonder to me now that I escaped through it all, for as I look back upon it I had hardly one chance in a thousand. From now on, you can believe, I hid from every gray-coated soldier I saw.

GERMANY LACKS HOUSES.

School Buildings Taken for Dwellings—Landlords are Hard Profiteers.

Berlin newspapers reveal an extremely severe housing condition in Germany, not confined by any means to the capital, but extending even to the most remote provinces. Widespread demands are arising that the Imperial Government make due provision, not only for the relief of the present distress, but for the housing of millions of soldiers who will return from the front after the war.

Building material and labor alike are lacking, and although an appropriation of 500,000,000 marks was made to promote adequate housing, the money apparently has not been expended, and seems to have resulted more in discussion than accomplishment.

The Berlin Municipal Building Association has been forced as a temporary measure, to commandeer 110 school buildings from the educational authorities and to fit them out as dwellings. This means that the children of Berlin lack 3066 classrooms, ninety four halls for entertainments, and sixty five gymnasiums. In order to provide some sort of school system for the children it has been suggested that the remaining sixty sixty school buildings in Berlin, be opened from 8 o'clock in the morning till 7 o'clock at night, for six days in the week, so that all the children may be accommodated.

Rent profiteering has been rampant in Berlin. The Vorwarts says editorially:

"Many landlords demand an increase in rent October 1st, although the lease runs until April 1st. They are not so ignorant as not to know that this is inadmissable, but they calculate that many a tenant, ignorant of the conditions, will fall into the trap. Consequently it is no novelty to see three rent rises in a year and a half. Furthermore they refuse to make a guaranteed rent reduction, and demand not only the full rent,' but also an increase. They try to make these agreements with the soldiers' wives alone, behind the backs of the relief committees, before which they have agreed to make rent reductions, and oftentimes they persuade the soldiers wives not to inform the fiscal authorities of this, so that the landlords remain assured of the municipal allowances for rent."

JAPAN GIVES SWORD AND FIELD MARSHAL TITLE TO GEORGE V

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The presentation to King George of the sword and badge of a field marshal of the Japanese army by Prince Yorihito on behalf of the emperor of Japan took place at Buckingham Palace yesterday. In acknowledging the honor, King George paid high tribute to the Japanese forces on land and sea.

Most of London newspapers take occasion, in connection with this ceremony, to comment on the great service rendered by Japan to the cause of the Entente powers.

HER TROUBLES HAD COST THOUSANDS

Mrs. White Says Tanlac Overcame Troubles After Everything Else Failed.

"Actually, a few bottles of Tanlac did more for me than all the other medicines and treatments that have cost me thousands of dollars," recently declared Mrs. Kittie White, whose husband is proprietor of the University Paint Company, and who lives at 1812 Forty-Second Street, East, Seattle, Wash.

"Fifteen years ago," she continued, "I was as strong and healthy a woman as you ever saw, weighing in the neighbourhood of a hundred and seventy pounds. My troubles started when I contracted asthma, which got so bad that many a time I have had to sit up night after night wheezing and gagging, hardly able to get my breath and suffering so terribly I really thought I was going to die. Then my stomach went back on me, my food would sour, and the gas that rose up in my throat would almost strangle me, and start me to vomiting till I would be in such misery I would almost go distracted. My head ached like it would split and my back hurt like it was going to break in two. I lost over forty pounds, I was but a shadow of my former self, and was so weak, and felt so wornout that I was barely able to get around.

"Now this was just the awful condition I was in when one of my friends told me about Tanlac, and I thought if I could get my stomach in good condition and regain my strength, maybe I could stand the asthma better, so I got me a battle. Well, sir, the results have far surpassed anything I expected. Why, my appetite is so great, that I feel ashamed to eat enough to satisfy myself, and my stomach is in good condition. But the greatest surprise of all is I haven't suffered a particle from asthma since I have been taking Tanlac. I felt so fine on finishing my first bottle that I just couldn't get another one quick enough, for I couldn't afford to miss a single dose. I sleep so sound now, that I don't know a thing from the time I go to bed till I get up in the morning. I never know what a headache is and those awful pains in my back are all gone. I have already gained several pounds and am gaining in weight and strength every day. Why, I can do any amount of hard work now without getting tired, and can't remember the time when I felt as fine as I do to-day. I am so happy over my great improvement that I want everybody to know what a splendid medicine Tanlac is."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

"NEW FANGLED" GRIDIRON GAME POPULAR AMONG SOLDIERS OF ALLIES.

PARIS, Oct. 31. — Modified football game that promises to rival the American and Canadian games, has gained immense popularity among the allied soldiers in France during recent weeks. Even one time gridiron stars who were at first suspicious of any attempt to alter the rules of their favorite pastime, now agree that it was "tres bon." In its fundamental the modified game is much like the regulation pattern. It is played on the same kind of a field with eleven men on a side. The teams line up in the usual manner, signals are used, the distance to be gained, and the offside rules are the same.

The big difference between the revised and orthodox types is found in the rule that prohibits tackling. In the new style of play in order to arrest the progress of the ball it is necessary for an opponent merely to slap the man carrying it on the back between the shoulders. The runner must stop instantly when this slap is administered and the referee marks this down at the spot where contact took place.

Another difference between the modified game as it is now being played and the regulation code is that any kind of forward pass goes in the former ,and there may be any number of these passes in the same play. Passing is thus made the principal means of advancing the ball.

LITTLE BLESSINGS

It was dawn and very chilly, and one man was unable to find any of his outer garments. He wandered about, asking all his mates if they knew where they were.

"Has anyone seen my b-b-blanket?" he demanded, and was told that no one had.

"Has anyone seen my t-t-trousers?"

No answer.

The unfortunate soldier scratched his head for a moment.

"Well, I'm g-g-glad I have got on a nice w-w-warm pair of sus sus suspenders."

Famous Surgeon Killed by Patient

According to Milton V. Snyder, London correspondent of the New York Sun, the assassination of Dr. Pozzi in Paris, has ended the useful life of one of the most illustrious of French surgeons and perhaps the one most widely known in England and the United States. He was the victim of a man upon whom he had performed an operation for a cerebral lesion, but whom he was unable to cure. This man, owing to increased sufferings and mental disturbance, was obsessed with the idea that the famous surgeon was responsible for his condition, and in his demented state resolved to avenge himself upon the scientist who had done his utmost to restore him to normality. Professor Pozzi had a wide acquaintance in Paris, where he is mourned by thousands of poor women, whom he treated in the hospitals, and by thousands more in aristocratic and artistic circles, where he was a welcome friend. In the course of his long professional life he had been a surgeon in the hospitals a professor of the Paris Faculty of Medicine, and had made many innovations in surgery, especially with regard to the diseases of women.

LIKE A VENETIAN DOGE

He had created model wards for the diseases of women at the Broca Hospitals, where he was surgeon-in-chief for 30 years. He was 71 years old and had almost ceased operating. His art demands the vigorous hands and the clear sight of man who has not yet passed maturity. But he always continued to take a passonite interest in everything pertaining to his profession. It was he who, as the result of a journey to the United States, made known in France the splendid discoveries made by Dr. Carrel in his New York laboratory, discoveries which found a fruitful application in the treatment of war wounds. In his youth Pozzi was a splendidly handsome man, and, despite the years, he had aged very little outwardly. An admirable portrait of him by Sargent, is in existence. In it he is pictured draped in his red robe of professor of the Faculty of Medicine—the professors of the four faculties, literature, law, medicine and science, are the only ones in France who have preserved the pomp of this costume Pozzi kept this air of a Doge of Venice with which he went through life.

LANCET OR PEN.

The great preoccupation of this illustrious surgeon, to whom no honour was lacking, was to live as a gentleman. He was a magnificent horseman, and in the salles d'armes a fencer of the first order. He would lay down the lancet to take up the poet's pen; last year, in the Revue de Paris, might have been seen two sonnets by him, sonnets which had real merit, revealing nothing of the amateur. He was a real lover of the arts, and had the operating theatres of his hospitals decorated by artists of talent. He bought their pictures. He also bought the antique that brought him one day into conflict with Anatole France in an amusing way. The latter, in the course of his travels in Turkey, had discovered in the shop of a Jewish merchant a Grecian statue of a good period. "I cannot take it with me," he said to the dealer, "but if you should come to Paris on business, fetch it with you and I'll buy it."

THE SYRIAN'S SHREWD GUESS

Some time later the Syrian Jew made the voyage with the statue only, instead of taking it to Anatole France, he knocked at Pozzi's door "I thought," he said ingenuously, "that a great surgeon must make more money than a novelist and that you would pay me more." He was not mistaken; Pozzi bought the statue. Anatole France bore him a grudge for a few days only, and after the pair of them laughed over the incident. But above all, Dr. Pozzi was inimitably gracious toward women. Sometimes this graciousness was a trifle surgical. To a lady who said to him one day, "Oh, doctor, how nice you are to I can boast that, of all the surgeons who have ever operated on women, I am the one who has left the smallest scars; I am too great an admirer of their beauty to wish to destroy it."

A YOUNG PEASANT LIFE.

Mr. Snyder recalls an occasion when he dined with Dr. Pozzi with a distinguished company, among whom was another eminent doctor, a specialist upon diet. He passed his life saying "Don't eat that, ladies; whatever you do, do not drink that." "I don't understand him," up I have always said to myself that if I could not have an agreeable life and a long one I'd rather have the agreeable one. And you see that has not prevented me from having a long one, too."

And while he drank his Burgundy and ate truffles with the appetite of a young man, says the writer, I admired his majestic and almost youthful head. The madness of a patient cut short his existence, for he ought to have lived long years yet. He was honoured with a military funeral in virtue of his rank as Surgeon-General. The religious service was celebrated at the Protestant Church in the Avenue de la Grande Armee. The President of the Republic was present, as well as M. Clemenceau, who was a personal friend of Professor Pozzi.

ESKIMOS HAVE NO SURNAME.

Eskimos are not able to trace their ancestors back for more than a generation or two because the Eskimo names do not run from generation to generation, and in every Eskimo family each person has a separate name.

Mendalook, who is a teacher at Kotzebue, says that the Eskimos call themselves "Enupeak."

"We learn that name from our forefathers," he continued. "It means 'a real human being.' White people are called 'Nalluakmeult,' which means in English, 'people who come from white tan sealskin.' Our forefathers gave the white people that name because of the colour of their skin but called themselves 'Enupeak,' or 'real human beings.'

"Let us try to 'Enupeak' in every right way we can. One way is to have an 'Enupeak' surname. We are not a real people because we have no 'Enupeak' surnames. In every Eskimo family each person has a separate name, so we cannot trace our forefathers a generation. We know hardly our great-grandfather's name, only our grandfather's name, and because there is no family name.

"We may be given a name by white people, but that will not be a real name to us, as we are 'Enupeak.' We must use our 'Enupeak' name for our last name. If we have no 'Enupeak' name, our name will sink as a stone when we throw it into the water. And then our next generation will hardly know our name.

How Much Are You Willing to Loan for the Defence of Your Freedom?

HOW can you answer this question? Only by imagining for a moment that you were about to lose that freedom, that upon your willingness to loan depended your life and the lives of your family. There could be but one answer--you would give all you possess.

For four years the Allies have fought a gallant fight for freedom, and Money has paid for it. Your money has helped to pay for Canada's share in this wonderful struggle against the forces of oppression. Last year 800,000 people in Canada loaned their money to Canada to protect their homes and firesides against the ruthless advance of the enemies of civilization.

To-day, NOW, Canada says to you, "We are on the threshold of Victory; one grand rally and we shall push the madman of Europe back across his own frontier and draw the teeth of the grey wolf of Germany."

To-day Canada asks her people for a great enthusiastic response to

The Victory Loan 1918

Canada will not ask in vain. Since the 1917 Loan was floated last year we have seen the German hordes advance through France, devastating and spreading ruin as they came. We have seen them checked. We have seen them pushed back, and we know that Money, and Money alone, has enabled our gallant men to do what they have done. We know that money in vast sums has organized our armies, clothed and fed them and supplied them with guns and ammunition.

To-day Money is needed for the last great stages of this war for freedom. More than a million loyal and patriotic Canadians will come forward this year with all they can afford.

And You will be one of these! And having loaned your money to Canada, you will tell of it to others, that our Victory Loan 1918 may be the greatest Canadian success of this war.

"Smoky Joe" Wood's Battle With Hendrix Was Cause of Downfall

Red Sox Pitcher Threw His Arm Out In Training Game at Hot Springs.

One of the tragedies of baseball was the passing from the limelight's glare as a hurler of "Smoky Joe" Wood.

The rival of Walter Johnson for the American League twirling honours a few years ago, he passed into the discard about two years ago, and has remained there except for outfield duty.

Wood was born in Kansas City 29 years ago, October 25, 1889, and is about two years younger than his former rival, Walter Johnson. In 1912 "Smoky Joe" performed the phenomenal feat of winning 34 victories out of 39 games, and then twirled two victorious games in the world's series.

It was a pitching duel at Hot Springs, Ark., the following spring that ruined Joe's career. The Red Sox were pitted against the Pirates in a work-out game. Hendrix was in the box for the Buccaneers, and he displayed a lot of stuff, fanning several of the world's champions. "Smoky Joe" was not to be outdone, and he put everything he had on to the pellet. The Red Sox finally won, 5 to 4.

The next day Wood was unabel to lift his flinging arm higher than the height of his shoulder. Both Wood and Hendrix had bad years, and in both cases the lack of form was probably due to that twirling duel at Hot Springs.

That indiscretion of Wood's was responsible for quite an upheaval in the baseball world. Joe's inability to win games in 1913, with the consequent slumping of the Red Sox, started a rookus which brought about the dismissal of J. Garland Stahl as manager, and the appointment of Bill Carrigan to the job. It also led to the strife which made it necessary for James R. McAleer, president of the Boston club, to dispose of his interests and pass in his checks as a magnate. Rob McRoy also lost his job as secretary of the Red Sox.

MARLBOROUGH HOUSE STORED WITH TREASURE

The collection of treasures at Marlborough House, which was the London residence of the late King Edward, in the way of gold and silver and works of art, is one of the most valuable in the world. And every article at Marlborough House is the personal possession of Queen Alexandra, with the exception of the famous Golden tapestries which belong to the nation, says Answers.

These were accounted by King Edward as being among the most valuable works of art in the possession of the royal family and they were perhaps on this account specially prized by Queen Alexandra.

The late J. Pierpont Morgan is said to have offered $250,000 for them in the late reign; but of course the offer was not made directly to King Edward.

Virtually all the gold and silver treasures in possession of the late King, which His Majesty bequeathed to Queen Alexandra, are stored away in a vast steel-lined room on the ground floor of Marlborough House. Court jewelers and goldsmiths several years ago roughly fixed the value of the treasures at $10,000,000.

Guests of Queen Alexandra visiting Marlborough House for the first time are always shown this famous royal treasure room.

It is difficult to convey in words any idea of the wealth of treasure revealed by a sight of the vault. The walls are lined with immense glass, ebony-bound cases crammed with gold and silver treasures—huge Pilgrim bottles, immense gold and silver drinking cups, shields of Oriental design, ornaments of every sort.

CASES OF TREASURES.

In one case there are twenty-four silver tea services, twenty dinner services and more than 1,000 massive solid gold candlesticks. And this is one of the smallest cases. A large case in the centre of the vault is filled with the various racing trophies won by the late King, and underneath the case at each side of it is a deep drawer, filled with all manner of gold ornaments, boxes, etc., that were given to the King by his various friends at home and abroad.

In one drawer there is a solid gold box, the sides of which are about a quarter of an inch thick. It is about a foot square and six inches in depth. On the outside of the cover are the letters "E. R." surmounted by a crown set in the rarest jewels. On the inside of the cover are carved the words, "From His Majesty's devoted and loyal subject, Alfred de Rothschild." This is but one of hundreds of such gifts that these drawers contain.

In one case is a small glass, silver-mounted salt caster. Intrinsically, its value is probably not more than $5, but it is one of the objects among this wealth of treasure that Queen Alexandra particularly values. It was given to King Edward years ago by a close friend, and the late King always regarded this caster as a sort of mascot.

His Majesty had it sent up every morning on his breakfast tray, and even when he went to the house of a friends the mascot was among the articles always taken with the monarch. It appeared on his breakfast tray when it was sent up to his room in the very morning of the day he died, and the dying King said to the servant.

"I am glad you have not forgotten my mascot. I shall never see it again."

IN THE GREEN ROOM

But the treasure vault contains only a part of the treasures at Marlborough House. In the green drawing room are two carved, tapestry-covered chairs, given to Their Majesties by the late Sir Richard Wallace, the man who bequeathed the Wallace Gallery to the nation. These chairs are said to be worth 10,000 apiece.

Under a glass case in another apartment is a fan of beaten gold, ornamented with a most delicate tracery work. It was despatched as a Christmas present to Queen Alexandra by an Indian Prince years ago. It was carried by a servant of the Prince. The first part of the servant's journey lay through a jungle, and here he was attacked and killed by a tiger. The case containing the fan afterwards was found and sent back to the Prince, three years after it had been first sent. Once more it was despatched, and this time reached Marlborough House in safety.

One of the rooms in Marlborough House is furnished with all the furniture, ornaments and pictures that were in King Edward's writing room at Buckingham Palace.

Two objects of art in the green drawing room specially prized by Queen Alexandra, are two genuine Tanagree statutettes, purchased in Paris for her by the late King during one of their early trips after they were married. In this room also is a pencil sketch of King Edward when Prince of Wales, done by an artist in a restaurant in Paris at which His Majesty was dining; and a screen completely covered with photographs of the late King's personal friends. The first photograph was pasted on it two years after the King's marriage and the last a year after his accession to the throne.

HOW PUNY IS MAN AFTER ALL

How feeble is man after all! An organism so tiny that even the most powerful magnifying glass is unable to bring it before the eye, now has the whole world in its grip. The mightiest mind which modern science has been able to produce, is balked before this tiny, and so far as we know, brainless thing, which by virtue of its ability to multiply, has been able to close the doors of the churches and cripple the realm of commerce. In the face of this how can any man or woman think conceitedly on himself?

The tiniest insect known, if allowed to live at will, unchecked by the birds, would soon demolish every particle of vegetation upon the earth, and consequently put an end to all animal life as well. Man would be utterly helpless before the onslaught, yet men and women seek to impress on the world their own importance.

A multi-billion dollar gun has for years been thundering into the skies, ploughing up cities, and launching deadly discharges into the deep, in a, so far, vain effort to bring a selfish nation to its knees and make it recognize the rights of God and man. And it might play for another four years, in vain, if operated by the puny hand of man alone. Surely this war of all others, has taught men not to make the laughing mistake that by their powerless hands the course of the nations is molded.

Victory Loan Now $250,000

City Took $80,000 and] DeLaval Company $25,000—Yesterday's Total Incomplete.

Peterboro's Victory Loan passed the $250,000 mark to-day, moving steadily toward the county and city's combined objective of $1,600,000. The local canvassers had not reported their success of yesterday, but there were various individual subscriptions that warmed the committee and the workers to the work.

The Peterboro City Trust took $80,000 worth of bonds, and the De Laval Company $25,000. These alone made a total of $105,000.

The Factory Drive.

To-day's news from the C. G. E. shops showed that 487 employees have bought $50,150 worth of bonds, and are making a big bid for an honor flag which is given to any factory which subscribes ten per cent. of its annual pay-roll, exclusive of the salaries of its executives, and of which 75 per cent. of the employees are Victory Loan bond holders.

The Bonner-Worth employees, De Laval, Quaker Oats and Matthews-Blackwell, will be heard from one of these days, and the headquarters staff are confident that the factory total will be a splendid one.

Alphonse Was Remanded for Week

Walked Into Police Station Looking for Registration Card.

Alphonse Lange walked into the police station this morning about seven o'clock inquiring if his registration card had been found by the police. He was invited into Chief Thompson's office and asked to give an account of himself. His tale runs something like this:

"I am a Russian, born in Russia, but of German extraction. I have been in all parts of the world. Three days ago anybody could have found me in Sudbury, two days ago I was located in Toronto. Since then I have been in Tweed and a few dozen other places around here. Now I am here."

The Magistrate was somewhat suspicious of his cognomen and remanded him for a week till his antecedents can be looked into.

COST OF BREAD IS STATIONARY

AVERAGE FOR DOMINION SIX AND THREE-QUARTER CENTS POUND

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—The success of the bakers in the use of substitute flours, such as rye, corn and oat flours, during recent months is acknowledged in the report of the cost of production of bread in Canada during August made to the Minister of Labor by the cost of living branch. "It is," says the report, "creditable to their skill, for they have given us a palatable and nutritious loaf on a ten per cent. basis of substitute, and with the new Government standard flour on the market even better results may be expected."

The average cost of bread for the Dominion is 6 3-4 cents per pound.

Heavy Death Toll Taken by Disease in South Africa.

Cape Town, South Africa, Oct. 24, via London.—Influenza is spreading throughout the native districts. Some small communities have been almost completely wiped out. SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural colour is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

GRAIN MARKET

Cash oats, C.W.'s are quoted easier as a result in part of the recent sharp declines and freer movement of corn, which for the first time in many months was quoted by the Board of Trade committee as offering in the Toronto market, though there has been quite a little trade in corn of late. In the option market corn was again on the down grade, but November and December oats were higher.

Passage to the Black Sea and Release of All Prisoners Included in Armistice Terms

General Townshend Was Released by the Turks to Act as Their Messenger—All the Turkish Forces on the Tigris are Captured.

ANNOUNCEMENT IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

PARIS, Nov. 1.—Terms of the Turkish armistice include the following, it was officially announced here:

Free passage of the Dardanelles for the allied fleets, as far as the Black Sea.

Occupation of the Bosphorus and Dardanelles forts.

Immediate release of all allied war prisoners.

Gen. Townshend Bore Turkey's Request.

(By John De Gandt.)

PARIS, Nov. 1. — General Townshend, commander of the British Mesopotamian force which surrendered at Kut-El-Amara, was the messenger who bore the Turkish request for an armistice to the allies, it was officially announced.

A few days ago, General Townshend was freed to go to inform the British admiral commanding in the Aegean Sea, that the Turkish Government asked that negotiations be opened with a view to conclusion of an armistice between Turkey and the allies.

Rear-Admiral Caulthorpe replied that if the Turkish Government sent regularly accredited plenipotentiaries, he had the necessary powers to inform them of the conditions under which the allies would consent to cease hostilities, and that he had the power to sign on behalf of the allies an armistice based on these conditions.

The Turkish plenipotentiaries arrived at Mudros at the beginning of this week. The armistice was signed by Rear-Admiral Calthorpe on behalf of the allies, and it became effective yesterday at noon. It is impossible to publish the complete terms, but they include:

Free passage of the allied fleets through the Dardanelles to the Black Sea.

Occupation of the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles forts, as necessary to guarantee the security of this passage.

The immediate release and return of all allied prisoners of war.

Sir Geo. Cave Announces Terms.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Sir George Cave, Home Secretary, in the House of Commons announced the terms of the Turkish armistice, which are now in operation. They include free passage of the allied fleet in the Dardanelles and immediate repatriation of British war prisoners.

Cave said that Gen. Townshend, commander of the British army that surrendered at Kut-el-Amara, was released some days ago for the purpose of conducting the negotiations for Turkey. This statement was greeted with cheers.

Major-General Charles V. F. Townshend, after defending and holding out with inferior forces for twenty weeks at Kut-El-Amara was forced to surrender in the spring of 1916. His force had advanced with phenomenal success to Bagdad when new Turkish military operations compelled his retreat down the Tigris to Kut.

7,000 Prisoners in Mesopotamia.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The entire Turkish force which has been opposing the British on the Tigris has been captured, it was officially announced. The text of the statement reads:

"The hard fighting on the Tigris, which began on October 24, ended on the 30th with the capture of the entire Turkish force opposed to us on that river. The prisoners are estimated at about 7,000, with much material."

Started in November, 1914.

Turkey, which now has been granted an armistice, entered the war in November, 1914, when she severed diplomatic relations with Great Britain, France and Russia. She is the second of the Central Powers to ask the allies for an armistice, Bulgaria having been given an armistice, which led to unconditional surrender, barely four weeks ago.

Military operations began against Turkey on November 5 and Great Britain annexed the island of Cyprus. Turkey entered the war only a few days after the German warships Breslau and Goeben had sought shelter in the Dardanelles, which was at once blockaded by the allied fleet. In April, 1915, allied troops were landed on the Gallipoli peninsula, but the campaign failed and the allied troops were withdrawn in December of the same year.

The British began a campaign along the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers in November, 1914. The British advanced to within less than 100 miles of Bagdad, but were defeated and forced to retreat to Kut-el-Amara, where they were later forced to surrender. Early in 1917 the British renewed the offensive in Mesopotamia, and have continued it successfully ever since until now they are within a few miles of Mosul.

Turkey sent armies against the British in Egypt and against the Russians in the Caucasus. Both campaigns had a measure of success at first, but the allies soon drove the Turks back beyond the Turkish frontiers. In Palestine the allied drive under Gen. Allenby resulted a few days ago in the capture of the important base of Allepo. The Russian campaign in the Caucasus was rendered fruitless by the rise of the Bolsheviki to power.

For several weeks after the U. S. declared war on Germany, Turkey took no action, but on April 21, 1917, she severed diplomatic relations. However, there has never been a declaration of war by either the U. S. or Turkey.

Turkey's war activities under the leadership of Germanophile Turks like Enver Pasha, has been marked by the severity with which the Turks have treated the subject nationalities in their power.

The Turkish army has many German officers, and the Turkish navy is controlled by Germans. It was reported several weeks ago that the Germans in Turkey would probably resist if the Turks opened the Dardanelles to the allies. It is not unlikely that one of the principal provisions of the armistice will be that the allied warships shall occupy the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus and that allied troops shall take control in Constantinople.

DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP

But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Removed the Cause of this Woman's Illness.

Worcester, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a weakness and pain which used to keep me in bed for two days each month. I tried many doctors without benefit until I was really discouraged. My mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had helped her so much. I did so and soon saw a change for the better. I kept on taking it and am now so well and strong that I can do all my housework, even my washing and I have a little baby who is as healthy as I could ask—thanks to your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. F. CHASE & SANBORN MONTREAL

THE RIVER SEINE.

The Most Historic Stream In Gal... France.

Though the Seine has apparently escaped any prominent part in the present war, it has shown that well-known tendency of getting into French history which is one of its greatest assets. There is the example of the Franco-Prussian war, when here was trouble because the Germans sank British ships in the stream, though the result of the international dispute is all but lost in the voluminous correspondence conducted between Great Britain and the offenders. This time, however, the Seine has come into the war through Havre, the military port and base of dispossessed Belgium; through Rouen, which has the temporary aspect of a Little Britain, and through at least two of its distinguished children, the River Oise and the Marne. There has always been, indeed, an intimate association of the River of France with France's fortunes. In days of Norman conquests, the frontiers were placed at La Roche Buyons, on its banks; and to-day, as one looks up at Richard Cœur-de-Lion's "Saucy Castle" of Gaillard, which Richard built as the most outlying bastion of his Normandy, the feeling that the river was somehow conscious of its power to save France from her enemies becomes irresistible.

This peculiar association of the Seine with France's history accounts, perhaps, in a measure, for the particular bent of the Frenchman toward the stream. An Englishman, most assuredly, would have made more practical use of a river so full of scenic charm and so historically rich as is the Seine. But in comparison with, say, the Englishman, in his active enjoyment of his Thames, the Frenchman stands somewhat aloof from his beloved river. When Zola wrote of the Seine, he showed what the admiring eye could catch of vistas and noble buildings along its quays. Sardou reversed the process by writing rapturously of the glorious events the Seine had witnessed across the ages as the story of France unfolded itself upon its banks. The Frenchman is not essentially a sportsman, or a man of the outdoors. The Seine is to him only in a limited sense a Thames, with its rowboats, punts and canoes, its sailing boats and boat houses, and its al fresco picnics. It is his history book. Let the numerous stone quays of Paris and its vicinity be witness of that. There are the quays Voltaire and Anjou, Bourbon and Conti, Henri IV. and l'Horloge, Passy and d'Orsay, and perhaps a dozen others equally renowned through the past.

Perhaps there are no other spots more beloved of the Parisian than these stoutly walled banks. He has crowded them with activity. The parapets, all but hidden by the boxes of the second-hand booksellers, have become famous to every book-lover and bibliophile in the world; whilst below, almost unnoticed, humble trades and professions are plied, like those of the washers and shearers of pet dogs, the anglers, and the bargees.

The Ile de la Cite, the Island of Paris, which sails the waters of the Seine like a great vessel, the golden mast of which is the spire of Sainte Chapelle, has always been the axis of France as well as of Paris. The Pont Neuf early became its main thoroughfare, and it used to be a saying of the Paris police that if, after watching the bridge for three days, they did not see a particular man cross it, it was certain that he had left Paris. And, of course, if one be a true Parisian, he will know beyond all doubt that the Seine and Paris are one, and are loath to part with each other. That, apparently, is why the Seine makes those broad, deep curves, bending like mighty Ulyssean bows, on the northwest of the city, why it bestows upon Paris not only the beauty of ever-changing vistas, but those outlying jewels like St. Cloud and Sevres, Neuilly and Meudon, Boulogne and St. Germain, and a score of others which the city has boldly appropriated as suburbs.

Twice since the war began, the enemy has crossed the Marne, and the Marne flowing to Paris, has sent its waters under the score or more bridges and brought its message. But each time the waters have told Paris of victory. Now it is the turn of the Oise. But the waters of the Oise go, not to Paris, but to Vernon, Gleors, and Rouen, and thence to Havre, where the seed of the Belgian nation lies dormant. The story the Oise tells, however, is always one of hope.

Ruth Discovers That Travelling is Part of Her Work

CHAPTER XXVII

When Brian had left, Ruth opened her letter. As she expected, Mrs. Clayborne was both shocked and surprised. Not only that, she was undoubtedly angry.

"If your husband can't support you, come home. Don't disgrace us all by joining that class of vulgar women who want to usurp men's places in the world. There are men enough to do the kind of work you are doing. Had I dreamed you would put your knowledge to such a use, I never should have allowed you to acquire it. It was all well enough for you to decorate my rooms, here in the home that had always been yours but to go to work in a shop, side by side with men, is beyond all decency. That a niece of mine should so degrade herself and—me, is beyond my comprehension."

There was much more, all in the same strain, and the letter wound up with a repetition of her invitation:

"Remember what I said! If Brian Hackett can't support you, pack your trunk and come home where you belong, and don't let me hear any more nonsense."

Ruth laughed, then she cried over her aunt's letter. It was just what she had expected, but now that it came she was hurt and disappointed. No one believed in her, in her ability to do things. Or if they did, they didn't want her to do them. She realized that her aunt, like Brian, would rather she washed dishes and do the menial work of her own kitchen than to work among surroundings that were a constant delight, just because they had foolish old-fashioned ideas about women working for others.

She would have them both to fight, she thought, as she tore the letter in tiny bits. Well she would, if she had to. Certainly she would never give up work in which she was happy, just because they thought it beneath her. Yet between them they had taken all the zest from her happiness, all the enthusiasm she would have shared with them. And it was a very sober Ruth who left for the office, a few moments later; it scarcely seemed the same person who, the night before, had hurried home, her eyes dancing with joy, her lips wreathed in smiles because of the good news she was anxious to share with Brian.

But once in the shop, all was forgotten in her absorption in her work The "Cary house" at Newport had been turned over to her almost entirely—she to consult with Jules La Monte if she found herself in need of advice. It was a big, and an important piece of work. The entire house was to be redecorated and refurnished. Also the entire scheme of the rooms was to be changed.

"Oh, what a chance!" she had exclaimed when she was told it was to be "her job."

"Yes, Mrs. Hackett, it IS a chance. And a task that Mr. Mandel would not intrust to you did he not think you entirely capable. But if I can help you, do not hesitate to call on me. There may be details you do not yet understand."

"Thank you Mr. La Monte, I surely shall need your help. It is a prodigious piece of work and I appreciate Mr. Mandel's faith in me, my ability, more than I can express.

"It 's like some sort of a soothing plaster, after the way Brian and Aunt Louisa acted," she murmured when La Monte had left her alone with the plans of the house. But a few minutes later she felt anything but soothed when he came and told her that Mr. Mandel was going to Newport to look over the house and grounds and wished her to go with him.

"You will have time to go home and pack your bag. Of course you can't get back until late tomorrow-night—maybe not then. I'll have a taxi called for you. Keep it while you pack, and then drive directly to the station. Don't look so non-plussed!" he laughed, "after you have been here a while longer you will become accustomed to these hurried trips. Miss Candee called herself 'the Lightning Bug' because of the haste with which he sometimes required her to take long journeys for the house."

The mention of "Miss Candee," her predecessor, acted like a tonic upon Ruth. She had been terribly taken aback when La Monte told her she was to go away at a moment's notice—was to leave Brian alone in the flat while she was away on business with her employer. But anything Miss Candee had done, she could and would do. Even to being a "lightning bug," if necessary she thought.

"Very well, Mr. La Monte," and, rising immediately, she got her hat, then asked: "Shall I take these?"

"Mr. Mandel will have all that is necessary. The taxi is waiting You have no time to spare," he finished as he told her the time the train left.

Ruth didn't feel as quiet as she appeared. Her mind was in a turmoil as she rode home in the taxi. If only they had waited a few days; this coming immediately after her disclosure of last night, would be hard on Brian—and on her. But when she reached the flat, she put all her fears behind her and after telling Mrs. Crawford what to put in her bag she called Brian on the telephone.

"I am going to Newport to look at a house that is to be redecorated," she told him.

Tomorrow—Ruth has a delightful trip to Newport with Mr. Mandel.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

A small bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy.

Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after two weeks use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small stand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries it.

Worse and Worst.

An old lady, well known for her philanthropy, used to take a great interest in various asylums. During a visit to one a certain old man roused her special compassion.

"How long have you been here?" she asked him.

"Twelve years," was the reply.

After asking him a few more questions she passed on.

Turning to her guide, she noticed smile on his face. On asking him the reason she heard to her consternation that the old man was no less than the medical superintendent. In great haste she rushed back to make her apologies.

"I am so sorry, doctor," she said; 'this has taught me a lesson. I'll never judge by appearances again."

90 cents for 10-inch, double-sided

Everything is Peaches Down in Georgia — American Quartet
Carolina, I'm Coming Back to You — Peerless Quartet } 18497

"Everything is Peaches Down in Georgia" is as lively as the words would lead you expect. "Carolina, I'm Coming Back to You"—on the reverse side—is quite a contrast to the above; more tender in sentiment.

Oui, Oui, Marie — Arthur Fields
We Don't Want the Bacon — Peerless Quartet } 18505

"We Don't Want the Bacon (What Want is a Piece of the Rhine)" is a typical doughboy song, full of zinger. It's worth a packet full of money to hear Arthur Fields put "zin" and "rah" in the refrain of "Oui, Oui, Marie" on the reverse side.

Hindustan—Fox Trot — Jos. C. Smith's Orch.
'N' Everything—Fox Trot — Smith's Orch. } 18507

"Hindustan" has the oriental touch: vigorous melody and insistent rhythm. On the reverse side is "'N' Everything," full of energy and "pep."

Oh! How I Wish I Could Sleep Until My Daddy Comes Home — Henry Burr
There's Nobody Home But Me — Chas. Hart } 18506

The suggestion for bedtime for the little one in "Oh! How I Wish I Could Sleep Until My Daddy Comes Home" is brought out strongly by both song by Henry Burr. On the reverse side—"There's Nobody Home But Me," applies to the brave spirit of a little eight-year boy in khaki by Charles Hart.

it's a WDC Pipe, a genuine French briar; it's a good smoke; it's peace; it's comfort; it's quiet meditation—all done up in one sweet brown package. THE LAND OF OPHIR.

Territory Now Derelict Where Solomon Got His Gold.

The coast of southeastern Africa is not usually regarded to-day as a region of any especial interest. It mainly belongs to the vast undeveloped territory of Portuguese East Africa. The interior is wild and thinly inhabited, nor, apart from their political position and their rather trifling commercial importance, are the towns — Sofala, Mozambique, and their fellows — especially inviting places.

Nevertheless, there is much that is of great, perhaps supreme interest in this more or less derelict territory. It is certain that it has been in the past of great commercial importance. This is by no means an unparalleled phenomenon in history. The decayed town of Novgorod, in Russia, was once the emporium of northeast Europe; the awful desert of Mekran in Beluchistan has been a great trade highway.

There is ample evidence that the region behind Sofala, part of which is now known as Mashonaland, was anciently of vast importance owing to its gold mines. It contains a remarkable series of ruins, mostly, as is plain from the evidence afforded by them, those of gold mining centers. One of these deserted settlements is tolerably well known under the name of "Zimbabwe," but it is only one of many.

Concerning the people who built these settlements and exploited the mineral resources of this still auriferous region there has been much controversy. So much seems certain that they were not an artistic race. This at once rules out the Egyptians. The almost entire lack of artistic objects and their very poor character might seem to point to Phoenicians, but since the Cretan discoveries the Phoenicians are being relegated to a lower place in history than they have hitherto occupied, and purely Phoenician enterprise in southeast Africa is highly improbable.

The indications rather point to Arabia. The commercial importance of Arabia before the Mahommedan era is certain. The Sabaeans of Yemen might very well have explored the eastern coast of Africa. The distance from Aden to Delagoa Bay is some 2,600 miles less than that from Tyre to the Scillies, and there is really no solid reason against the probability of the accomplishment of such a voyage by Arab seamen; it was merely a matter of lengthy coasting. The gold fields would furnish an irresistible argument for systematic settlement.

It is indeed possible that the country is the land of Ophir wherefrom Solomon obtained his gold. We know that the treasure ships sailed from Eziongebir on the Red Sea; we know also that Solomon had relations with the Sabaeans. The voyage was a long one; the ships are said to have come once in three years. This obviously points to a distant country, not to one comparatively near at hand, such as Somaliland.

The geographers of the Roman Empire were perfectly aware of the commercial importance of southeast Africa. Ptolemy names several towns. One he places, of course vaguely, at 16 degrees 25 minutes south, and calls it Prasium. The situation corresponds approximately with that of Kilimane at the mouth of the Zambesi. Other trading stations are known. Gold, however, is not mentioned. There is reason to believe that the settlements were then deserted. All show unmistakable traces of having been destroyed by fire, and presumably some eruption of savagery from the interior overthrew them. They were rediscovered about A. D. 1000 by the people of Mogadoxo, and again became immensely important, but if they did indeed furnish Solomon with his treasure their older glory will probably always outshine that of later days.

Sunday School Lesson Questions

APPETITE AND GREED—(World's Temperance Sunday) Gen. 25: 27-34.

Golden Text: Every man that striveth in the games exerciseth self-control in all things. Now they do it to receive a corruptible crown; but we are incorruptible. 1 Cor. 9:25.

1. Verse 27. Which was the elder, Esau or Jacob?

2. What reason was there then, and what reason has there ever been, for making more of the elder son than any of the rest of the children?

3. Of two sons, one fond of hunting and other sports, and the other inclined to industrial pursuits, which from your observation, is more likely to be prosperous and why?

4. Verse 28. Which of the parents, Isaac or Rebekah, were the more spiritual at this stage, and why do you think so?

5. What is generally the result, when parents show partiality to one child more than to the rest?

6. If one son brings his father the things he likes best to eat and drink, and the other son seeks to minister to his father's mental or spiritual comfort, which, as a rule, will the father like better?

7. Verse 28. Which gets the more praise from the public the man who ministers successfully to the material needs of the people, or he who ministers successfully to their spiritual needs? Why is it so?

8. Should parents train their boys so as to form their habits and natural inclinations, or should this be left to themselves and why?

9. Upon which does a boy's natural inclinations as to his habits, more depend, and why, heredity or environment?

10. Verses 29, 30. Which and why are the ruling passions in the average man; those of the body or the mind? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

11. Which and why, are the more numerous and virulent, the sins of the body or the sins of the soul?

12. Which today is working greatest moral disaster, the evils of gluttony or of drunkenness, and why?

13. Verses 30, 34. If a man is controlled by his physical desires, when they are in opposition to his spiritual needs, what is the invariable result?

14. Why is it that God allows the body to be such a powerful temptation to jeopardise the interests of the soul?

15. What was the birthright which Esau sold for a mess of pottage? (See Deut. 21:17.)

16. Verses 30, 34. How do you account for the folly of so many, who barter their happiness for time and eternity for the gratification of some temporary physical desire?

17. Jacob while mindful of the present, looked more to the future, while Esau seemed to live in the present only, which and why is the more excellent way?

18. What are some of the chief lessons to be learned from the lives of Jacob and Esau?

Lesson for Sunday, Nov. 10, 1918. Jacob deceives his father. Gen. 27: 18-29.

Mules and War.

Along all the frontiers of the world wherever there is a war there is a demand for the mule. Compared with him the much vaunted war horse is a vanishing figment of the past. His strength, his sureness of foot, his wariness of eye, his ability to endure hard ship and hard work on little food and with little care, have made him invaluable as a campaigner, whether in deserts or mountains. The mule has seen the camel and the elephant disappear from armies. He may see the horse vanish. He has seen the motorcycle and the motorcar come in. He may see the aeroplanes numbered by thousands. But it is not likely he will ever see himself superseded in his own line of work. There may be mules without war, but probably never a war without mules.

Now that a man has turned twenty-one loops in an aeroplane the banana peel may be said to have been vanquished as a purveyor of thrills.

Ignorance is the stepmother of argument.

The man who bottles his wrath is a corker.

Money by any other name would be as hard to get.

The best way to deal with secrets is not to have any.

Cupid rules some marriages, and others are ruled by cupidity.

The judge isn't the only person who complains that life is full of trials.

Love is the only thing in the world that is at once a necessity and a luxury.

Talk about coals to Newcastle! An American firm has opened a laundry in Peking.

There are people who are as silent as the tomb until they run across a batch of bad news.

The New York criminal whose finger print is a blank must be the long looked for John Doe.

Cruel Woman.

"I shall never believe in women again," he said with a sigh that seemed to come from a broken heart.

"Why?" she asked.

"You ought to know, after the way you have treated me."

"I don't see why you should complain. I told you at the start that I didn't love you."

"That's what I'm kicking about. If you had told me at the start that you loved me I shouldn't have cared for you, and all the money I've spent trying to make you think you never could be happy without me might have been saved."—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Distinction.

"I'm not a millionaire," said he;
"I own no motor stocks or land.
But you may still be proud of me—
I play the tuba in the band.

"I cannot bring you wealth or fame,
Nor promise you a life of ease
If you consent to wear my name,
Nor furnish all life's luxuries.

"But such distinction as is mine
I gladly place within your hand.
Not every dub along the line
Can play the tuba in the band."

SOUND BUSINESS MAXIMS.

Use Your Ability and Take No Stock in the Law of Chance.

Most men who have amounted to anything started with nothing but ability and determination, a combination which recognizes no man made limitations.

Any kind of work is better than idleness, which is directly responsible for most of the unhappiness in this world.

Idleness is a dangerous thing. It may grow into a habit that might stick to you after you get back in harness, and the man who loafs on his job is only fooling himself.

Eternal, intelligent effort is the price of commercial growth, and where there is no progression there is bound to be retrogression. Business is something like aeroplaning—to stop is to drop, and to drop is generally to bust.

If I had an enemy and wanted to get even with him I could wish him nothing worse than to land in a soft job and get the loafing habit. It would only be a question of time before he or the job petered out, and the longer he held on the worst off he'd be in the end, for there is a law of compensation which somehow or other makes us work in old age for the time we waste in youth or suffer if we can't make good.

Pin your faith to this law of compensation, but don't take any stock in the law of chance; there's no such thing. Waiting for something to turn up in the belief that things are bound to come your way eventually is throwing dice with fate. Many a good dog never got a decent bone until his teeth were gone.—Maurice Switzer in Leslie's.

Unreasonable.

"Why did you divorce your first husband?"

"He did not remain around home enough."

"And your second?"

"He remained at home too much."

"But I should not think that would be an objection?"

"But he wants me to remain at home also."

As Charlie Says:—

You can't judge everything by the price, or Arabella would cost at least a dollar-for-three It's so satisfying for a mild cigar.

Give her BOVRIL

Bovril is one of the most precious food substances in the world. Its beneficent effects are immediate; it acts like a glass of champagne, but without the reaction which wine sometimes brings. Bovril does permanent good by building up the very fabric of the body.

To get the full benefit of Bovril, take it regularly day after day. The value of "a course of Bovril" has been scientifically demonstrated by the independent investigations of Professor Thompson.

Bovril taken.

After bringing human subjects to a constant weight on a standard diet, he added Bovril to the other food, and found the body-building powers of Bovril to be 10 to 20 times the amount taken.

TO SAVE SEED CORN

Straw May be Used Much More Freely for Idle Horses.

Vegetable and Root Crops Grown This Summer Must Be Carefully Stored to Prevent Loss — Proper Temperature Checks Decay—Sand Will Ensure Firm Vegetables.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE year 1917 provided, both in the United States and in Ontario, conditions very unfavorable for the production of good seed corn. Excess of moisture in the crop was followed by freezing and these conditions resulted in one of the worst seed corn years in a generation. As a result of this, much of the seed corn sown in Ontario in 1918 was, to say the least, of varieties that were late in maturing. A very high percentage of this corn which will be used for seed next year, now contains a large amount of moisture. To make this corn of the greatest value for seed purposes, it should be harvested, if possible, before heavy frost and thoroughly dried. Maturity is one of the essentials in producing good seed corn, but no less important is the thorough drying of the seed.

It is not even necessary for corn to be frozen to lose some of its vitality, it will deteriorate at ordinary temperatures if not well dried. When freezing occurs, greater loss in vitality is experienced. Corn which is harvested with an excess of moisture should be dried as rapidly as possible as this removes the danger of injury from moulding, fermenting and freezing. In the process of drying, a free circulation of air should be provided and, if necessary, artificial heat used. Seed corn can be most readily dried when stored in the ear.

Where the corn is well matured and is grown in large quantities, the corn-crib provides one of the most satisfactory drying mediums, as it supplies the best of air circulation along with protection against storms and vermin.

A post in which a number of nails are driven at an angle of forty-five degrees, and the ears stuck on the protruding ends, provides a good medium for drying seed corn ears. These posts with a platform at the base may be readily removed to places where artificial heat can be used if necessary.

Where relatively small amounts of seed corn are used, selected ears may be hung up to dry in the attic, kitchen or furnace room.

Corn which has been thoroughly matured and thoroughly dried gives the highest percentage and most vigorous germination, but seed corn which has reached the dough or firm dough stage of maturity, when harvested, if well dried, usually makes good seed. When thoroughly dried and surrounded by a dry atmosphere, even zero weather will not injure the germination of seed corn.—Prof. W. J. Squirrell, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Straw for Idle Horses.

Straw is a feed very high in fibre and the horse's digestive system is not suited to the liberal use of this roughage. It is not a suitable feed for horses at hard work, but during the winter months may be used to advantage where hay is scarce, and particularly if a little grain is fed along with it. It is just a question whether it is more economical to feed good hay and no grain than it is to feed a percentage of bright straw and a ration of crushed oats. Only clean, bright straw should be used for horses and one or two feeds per day, replacing hay should be found advantageous under certain circumstances. We have seen horses wintered in good condition on oat straw and a light grain ration. If hay were available for a light feed once a day the other two feeds could be composed of straw, and less grain would be required than where the entire roughage ration was straw.

Oat straw makes the best feed, barley straw coming second and wheat and rye straw last. A few roots may be used to good advantage with the straw, and under no circumstances is it good policy to winter horses on straw without supplementing it with at least one or two light feeds of oats per day.—Prof. Wade Toole, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Hints on Harvesting Root Crops.

Root crops should be taken up before the weather becomes too wet and disagreeable in the fall if in any quantity. It is slow work at any time and becomes much more so under cold damp conditions. Lift the roots with a digging fork and twist off the tops, putting them in piles and covering with the tops. If a large area is to be lifted and one is expert with a sharp hoe he can very quickly remove the tops, but they will not keep quite as well. The roots should be ploughed out, throwing them as much as possible on the top. Bins with slatted sides and bottom should be used for storage where possible, as this gives the roots a chance to sweat. If the storage room temperature is above 40 degrees F. cover them with sand. Carrots should not be deeper than two feet in a bin, others may be four feet. Where cellar storage is not available use pits. These should be three feet wide, two or three feet high and of any length. Run the pits north and south where possible, and have them on well drained ground. Put a layer of straw on the ground and cover first with straw six inches deep, then six inches earth, and as frost gets harder cover with fresh strawy manure. Have ventilations every 15 or 20 feet as all roots sweat in storage. These may be filled with straw during cold periods.

All roots should be as free from dirt as possible when put in storage. It is often advisable to leave a few days in small piles so that at the second lifting any adhering will be removed.—A. H. MacLennan, B.S.A., Ontario Vegetable Specialist.

NOTICE TO SOLDIERS ON HARVEST LEAVE

Attention is directed to a recent announcement published in the Press by the Military Service Branch, Department of Justice, regarding extensions to be granted to men EXEMPTED AS FARMERS.

It is pointed out that this DOES NOT IN ANY WAY AFFECT MEN WHO HAVE BEEN ORDERED BY THE REGISTRAR TO REPORT to Depot Battalions and who have thereafter received leave of absence from the Military Authorities.

Once a man has been ordered to report for duty by the Registrar he leaves the jurisdiction of the Registrar and comes under that of the Department of Militia and Defence, and is to be considered as a soldier. This applies to men of the 20 to 22 Class who have been ordered to report by the Registrar in virtue of the cancellation of exemptions by Order-in-Council of the 20th April last, as well as to those ordered to report in the usual way on refusal of claim for exemption, or on expiration of exemption granted.

All men, accordingly, who have been ordered to report, and are therefore SOLDIERS, and who have subsequently been granted harvest leave by the military authorities, MUST, NOTWITHSTANDING THE NOTICE ABOVE REFERRED TO, REPORT ON THE EXPIRATION OF THAT LEAVE, unless they are notified to the contrary by their Commanding Officer or by general notice published by the Department of Militia and Defence.

Military Service Act, 1917.

EMPLOYMENT OF MEN IN DEFAULT UNDER THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT.

The following Regulations, recently approved by the Governor General in Council, impose strict obligations upon every employer TO ASSURE HIMSELF THAT EACH OF HIS EMPLOYEES OF MILITARY AGE AND DESCRIPTION IS IN POSSESSION OF DOCUMENTS PROVING THAT HE IS NOT IN ANY WAY IN DEFAULT UNDER THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT.

An employer who is charged with having a defaulter in his employ must be able to prove THAT THE MILITARY SERVICE PAPERS ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OR MILITARY AUTHORITIES TO THE EMPLOYEE IN QUESTION WERE PRODUCED FOR HIS INSPECTION at the time when the employee was taken into his employment, and that it was reasonably established to his satisfaction that the man was not in default under the Military Service Act. It should be clearly understood that the Canadian Registration Certificates given on June 22, 1918, at the time of general registration, in no way define the status of a man under the Military Service Act.

REGULATIONS.

"106. Every person who employs or retains in his service any man who has deserted or is absent without leave from the Canadian Expeditionary Force, or who is in default in the performance of any obligation or requirement for reporting or for military service, imposed upon him by the Act or Regulations, or any proclamation thereunder, shall be guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by a penalty of not less than One Hundred Dollars, and of not more than Five Hundred Dollars, or by both such imprisonment and fine, unless such person prove that he made due inquiry and that THE MILITARY SERVICE PAPERS ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OR THE MILITARY AUTHORITIES TO THE MAN SO EMPLOYED OR RETAINED IN HIS SERVICE WERE PRODUCED FOR HIS INSPECTION, and that it was reasonably established to his satisfaction by such inquiry and papers that the man was not a deserter or absent from the force without leave, or in default in respect of any of the obligations or requirements aforesaid."

"106A. Every person who HARBOURS OR CONCEALS OR IN ANY WAY ASSISTS ANY MAN WHO IS A DESERTER OR ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE FROM THE CANADIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, or who is in default in the performance of any obligation or requirement for reporting or for military service imposed upon him by the Act or Regulations or any proclamation thereunder, shall be guilty of an offence punishable upon summary conviction by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by a penalty of not less than One Hundred Dollars and of not more than Five Hundred Dollars, or by both such imprisonment and fine, unless such person prove that he was not aware and had no reasonable ground to suspect that the man so harboured, concealed, or assisted was a deserter or absent from the forces without leave or in default in respect of any of the obligations or requirements aforesaid."

ECCENTRIC CHESTERTON.

He Doesn't Mind How He Dresses, and His Wife Is His Guardian.

There is one English author at least who admits quite frankly that he is practically dependent on his wife, and that is big G. K. Chesterton. Like most geniuses—and G. K. C. is generally admitted to be one—Chesterton is too much absorbed in the details of his creative work to bother much with mere business and social ones, and how many of his commissions would be executed and how many of his appointments kept if it were not for Mrs. C. goodness only knows. She acts as his "business conscience" and goes with him on almost every journey.

It is on record, however, that once when Chesterton had a journey to make visitors arrived, and Mrs. Chesterton, being called upon to play the part of hostess, was unable to accompany her husband. However, she started him off with the words, "Now, Gilbert, you know where you are to lecture and what your subject is," and Chesterton went to the railway station. Arriving there, he banged down a sovereign at the booking office and said, "A ticket."

"Where for?" asked the astonished clerk.

"Free Trade hall," replied Chesterton.

"Oh, Glasgow, then!" said the clerk, and Gilbert, assenting, received a ticket for that station.

Stepping into the street at Glasgow, he was hailed by a friend: "Hullo, Chesterton! What are you doing here?"

"Oh, I'm lecturing at the Free Trade hall."

"Oh, no; you're not," said the friend.

"Oh, yes; I am," protested Chesterton. "I booked the engagement some months ago."

"But you cannot be," maintained the friend, "for the place is being renovated and the painters are in."

It slowly dawned upon Chesterton that he was at the wrong place, and he, further to justify his claim to greatness, sent a telegram to his wife: "Am here. Where ought I to be?"

Even Mrs. Chesterton, however, apparently cannot always compass the feat of having her rotund husband costumed according to Hoyle. I remember quite vividly a soiree which I once attended at the Chestertons' flat in Overstrand Mansions, Batterses, and even more vividly how G. K. C. was dressed. Part of his costume consisted of trousers and waistcoat of a brown mixture and a dark red tie, and with these he wore—it is almost incredible, yet true—a dinner coat! He was in great form that evening and kept us all well edified and entertained. I don't suppose he had the faintest idea what he had on!—Hayden Church in Philadelphia Ledger.

An Embarrassing Moment.

There are moments when a man would sooner be anywhere than where he is.

Take the case of the young man who was talking with an heiress who can write checks with five figures.

"Which do you consider the most conducive to happiness, Mr. Gigglesworth, money or beauty?" she asked.

What could he say?

The heiress is as plain as the law permits heiresses to be.

If the young man said "beauty" the lady would be offended. If he said "money" she might consider it a proposal.

Then he rallied.

"Having neither," he said, "I'd rather not be quoted."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He Saw the Joke.

A hearty laugh had gone almost around over the story of the fisherman who, to locate the place on the lake where he had good luck, cut a nick in the side of his boat. "Almost around," for the Englishman sat solemn and silent. About five minutes later, however, he awoke with a roar of laughter, and when asked the trouble, replied: "Well, wouldn't it be a corking good joke if that fisherman got a different boat the next time he went out!"

Deep Breathing.

"Learn to sit or stand erect and breathe deeply," says a health expert. "Remember that your blood cannot be properly washed with half a lungful of air any more than you can take a proper bath in a few pints of water." Everybody must know what a joy there is in the deep breathing of the pure air of the morning. The lungs respond to the stimulus much as the body reacts from a dash of cold water.—Columbus Dispatch.

Driven to It.

"Can you make me a bureau with a secret drawer?"

"Yep. Place to hide a will, eh?"

"No; I just want to have a place where I can keep a few clothes. My wife's things occupy all the visible space."

Pleasant.

FORTUNES IN SONGS.

The Mocking Bird Made $3,000,000 For Publishers.

The death of "Stephen Adams," in private life Michael Maybrick, composer of such world-famous ballad songs as "A Warrior Bold," "Nancy Lee," "The Midshipmite," "The Star of Bethlehem," "The Holy City," "They All Love Jack" and "Thora," reminds one that, unlike many other composers of popular songs, who have usually sold their compositions outright instead of on the royalty basis, he must have made a good sum from his music.

It is true that he sold "A Warrior Bold" for a dollar, a song that produced royalties for its lucky purchaser that ran into four figures, and he also offered "Nancy Lee" to a publisher for $100. This, however, was refused, but after hearing Stephen Adams sing it at St. James Hall the publisher offered $500. This time the composer refused, and the song, which the publisher might have had for $100, ultimately cost him several thousands in royalties.

But it is doubtful if Maybrick received as much for any of his songs as the $200,000 which the universally popular Queen of My Heart earned for its composer. Sir Arthur Sullivan drew $50,000 in royalties from The Lost Chord," while "In Old Madrid" rewarded composer and publisher to the tune of $75,000. "My Pretty Jane" is said to have yielded a revenue of $10,000 a line, and even after many years of popularity some old favorite songs are worth a substantial sum, for not long ago the copyright of "For All Eternity" was sold for $11,000.

"For All Eternity" was refused by several publishers before a well-known firm agreed to undertake to publish it, while all that the composer of "Listen to the Mocking Bird," by which the publishers are said to have realized $3,000,000, received for the song was $35.

"Alice, Where Art Thou?" was offered to several publishers for $25, and declined with thanks, while "Kathleen Mavourneen" was actually parted with for this absurd sum. Who can estimate the golden harvest that has been reaped from these two songs, which won wide popularity and undying fame? And the same might be said of Balfe's exquisite "Come Into the Garden, Maud," sold by the composer for $500, and of "Cheer Boys, Cheer," sold by Henry Russell for $15.

"When Mary Comes Home!"

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

"What you want is an awakener," pronounced Bruce Warren oracularly.

"An awakener?" repeated Mr. Ralph Bayne, owner of the leading department store in Fairview.

"Exactly, and I am the man to act the part. I am a stranger to you, I have no credentials, you will have to take me on trust, but I will guarantee to double your business in a month, or no pay."

"You are certainly an original genius," commented the merchant millionaire, with a whimsical smile. "How did you come to apply for a position?"

"Oh, just drifted into Fairview," replied Warren airily, "caught the current business gossip, knew that competition was at the boiling point, and guessed that you would welcome a man who could solve the problem."

"Very good," said Mr. Bayne. "I like your nerve and confidence. I'll take you on trial for a month."

Mr. Bayne had retired from business activity a year since, but the store had been thrown on his hands by a debtor. There were two department stores in Fairview and the fight for patronage was intense.

Warren appeared at the store early the next morning. "I'm not a graduated efficiency expert," he remarked to Mr. Bayne, "simply a hustler. "I'm not here to sell the goods. My mission is to drive in the customers and see that the clerks sell them right."

People "sat up promptly and took notice." Warren started an active advertising campaign and every crossroads was decorated with glaring signposts, pointing the way to the "Bon Ton Emporium."

He gave band concerts in the store. He organized bargain day trolley tours from other towns. He had the store front redecorated and display space increased.

"It's working," he reported to Mr. Bayne. "You see that, don't you?"

"I must admit it as quite manifest," acknowledged the gratified capitalist.

"Summer is coming on," proceeded Warren, in his breezy, rattling way. "We'll have two tanks of free ice water at the main entrance, screen doors and electric fans. We'll give away hand fans with our advertisement on it."

Warren had become popular in a business way and socially. There was much speculation as to his antecedents, but when some inquisitive gossip strove to pierce the veil, Warren would good-naturedly assume a half quizzical, half mysterious air and evade direct disclosures.

"When Mary comes home things will liven up," a young lady told him and many repeated it, and Warren heard so much about the daughter of his employer that he began to look forward to the return from a distant seminary of Mary Bayne.

He was returning from a business trip to another town one morning in the light store gig, when he came upon a stalled automobile. Helplessly surveying its mechanism was a young lady. Warren was soon at her side.

"Are you in trouble?" he asked. "And can I help you? Ah! I see," as he investigated within the metal hood a loose ignition wire.

"I am so stupid about the machine, except the wheel and levers, that I am not to be trusted to run the auto alone," said the young lady.

"You will do very nicely now," spoke Warren, after adjusting the wire at fault, and felt repaid for his brief efforts as the young lady smiled sweetly, thanking him for his signal assistance. When he reached the store he noticed the same automobile in front of it.

"My daughter, Mr. Warren," introduced his employer, as Warren entered the office, and his lady of the country road mishap brightly recognized him.

Then came to Warren the pleasantest period of his life. Mary Bayne had graduated and they met often. It was one year to a day from that upon which Warren had assumed the managerial duties, when he entered the office.

"Mr. Bayne," he spoke in his clear, definite way, "I love your daughter and I think she likes me. I haven't told her what I impart to you. May I?"

Mr. Bayne looked troubled. His face grew serious.

"Warren," he said, "I have feared this and I am sorry for it. I have never more valued a man's services nor more admired unfaltering loyalty and integrity, but there are social distinctions and my wife is a stickler for them."

"Oh," interrupted Warren lightly, "if that is all, the remedy is speedily at hand. Are you willing to write to my father what you have just said to me—as to my making good in a business way?"

"Your father—write? You shall always have my unqualified indorsement."

"Thanks," nodded Warren, brightening up, and he scrawled a name on a card.

"'James Raleigh.'" read his employer, "the bank president of Springfield, member of congress—"

"Et cetera, et cetera," laughed Warren. "I am his son, Bruce Raleigh. I disappointed him, chained down to a desk, and asked a year to demonstrate, and prove that I was worth something, acting on my own initiative. You'll ratify to that and smooth out affairs, won't you?"

"Warren, you are irresistible!" exclaimed Mr. Bayne.

Many of the brave women who attend our wounded heroes in this war are women who have used Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, or who recommend it. The hospital, with its work and long hours, imposes extreme hardship on a woman's strength. Every woman should make herself fit for war's call at home or abroad. She should obtain a book called the "Medical Adviser," either at her nearest drug store or by sending 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, Courtwright St., Bridgeburg, Ont., for this book which tells about Nursing, Bandaging, Anatomy, Physiology, Marriage.

Thousands of women in Canada have overcome their sufferings, and have been cured of woman's ills, by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Sold by druggists in liquid or tablets. Send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c for trial pkg.

Chatham, Ont. — "I am very glad indeed to add my recommendation to the many others that have found relief in 'Favorite Prescription.' After motherhood I could not properly regain my strength. I was very weak and nervous, also had a terrible cough. I was very miserable when I began taking the 'Prescription.' I noticed a marked improvement before I had finished one bottle. I kept up its use and was completely cured of my cough and it built me up in a good, healthy state. Favorite Prescription is one of the best tonics for women."—Mrs. Geo. Hill, 210 Wellington St. E.

Money Didn't.

A guest was expected for dinner, and Bobby had received 5 cents as the price of his silence during the meal. He was as quiet as a mouse until, discovering that his favorite dessert was being served, he could no longer curb his enthusiasm. He drew the coin from his pocket and, rolling it across the table, exclaimed: "Here's your nickel, mamma. I'd rather talk."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Dominion Police Moving.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 30.—Today the headquarters of the Dominion Police for the military district were moved to Trenton and Tweed and the police are being moved from Kingston to these points. Some of the work of rounding up deserters is being done by the members of the C.M.P., under Major Porter. It is rumoured in well-informed circles that the Dominion Police force will soon be dissolved, and the men will be grouped under the C.M.P.C., the members of which will wear uniforms.

Complete Isolation of Germany is the Latest Development in Colossal Drama

End of War is in Sight—New Governments Formed in Austria and Hungary—Down With the Hapsburgs Shout Vienna Workmen—Soldiers Wave Red Banners.

CHAOS PREVAILS

LONDON, Nov. 1. — The complete isolation of Germany as a result of the desertion and surrender of her allies, is commented upon as the outstanding feature of the latest development in the "colossal drama of victory."

The effect of this isolation upon her armies, coupled with desperate internal conditions in Germany, is regarded almost everywhere as bringing the end of the war very near, although in some quarters the warning is raised that the German army and navy is still in existence, and in the hands of desperate men, are formidable and dangerous. The general tenor of comment, however, indicates that the Germans must sooner or later accept virtually any terms the allies impose.

A successful revolution has taken place in Budapest, and the Hungarian National Council has taken over the government according to a message sent by Count Michael Karolyi, to the Berlin "Tageblatt."

Waved Red Banners.

The new National Government in Austria has assumed full power, it was announced by Herr Renner, the Socialist leader, according to a despatch from Vienna to-day. Crowds outside the building, where the national council was in session, cheered the announcement, and waved red banners.

Numbers of Austrian marines have revolted, seizing the warships at Pola, and placing them at the disposal of the Hungarians and the Jugo-Slavs, it was reported to-day.

Soldiers' Council.

A provisional workmen's and soldiers' council has been formed in Vienna, and the Berliner Tageblatt and the Vossische Zeitung declare thousands of workmen are reported to be parading the streets shouting, "Down with the Hapsburgs!" They are being joined by throngs of soldiers returning from the front, bearing red flags. Prof. Lammasch, the new Austrian Premier, and Count Andrassy, the new Austro-Hungarian Minister, probably will resign, the German newspapers say.

Two Separate States.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 1. — The German portion of Bohemia has been formally constituted a republic, a Vienna despatch announced to-day. The German members of the Austrian Reichstag elected Herr Pacher, a Radical, as President, and selected Reichenberg as the Capital.

Two separate states apparently have been formed in Bohemia, one by the German population, and the other by the Czechs. The latter constitute about 75 per cent. of the population of 6,500,000. They have selected Prague, midway between Vienna and Berlin, as their Capital.

Reichenberg, a cit yof 35,000, is located 58 miles north east of Prague.

LEFT THE CITY.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 1. — The organization of the new Czechos-Slovak state is proceeding in an orderly manner, according to the reports from Paris received here by way of Berlin. The National Council has appointed a new railway telegraph and postal official. There have been no special acts of violence to the Germans.

After the proclamation of the republic in Budapest, Archduke Joseph, representative of the Emperor, left the city, according to the Exchange Telegraph despatch from Zurich. Emperor Charles, the despatch adds, before leaving Vienna, personally gave orders that all conflict with the population be avoided. He instructed the authorities to yield without resistance.

NEW YORK PRESS COMMENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Under caption, "Germans Stand Alone," the New York Times this morning editorially says:

"Germany now stands alone." Abandoned one after another by her accomplices in crime of 1914, she confronts the wrath of the civilized world and infinitely is the greatest malefactor of all; the instigator of a war in which her allies only did her bidding. There is no trace of heroism in the attitude she assumed in the hour of defeat. She has shown no pity herself, so deserves none. Her criminal nature transends all human experience, and the only concern the world feels as to the degree of her punishment is that she completely and forever put it out of her power to bring about another embroilment of nations.

The Herald says:

The capture by the British forces of the Turkish army, which has been operating on the Tigris, undoubtedly bears the relationship of cause to surrender. Prussianism is striving as hard as it knows how to drag the victorious Allies to negotiated peace. Until Germany surrenders unconditionally there will be no stopping off, no let up in the war. On with it. We have just begun to fight.

Count Tisza Assassinated

Revolver Shot Killed Former Hungarian Premier.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 1. — Count Tisza, former Hungarian Premier, has been killed by a soldier, according to a Budapest telegram to-day. The Count fell a victim to a revolver shot while he was out walking.

Count Tisza, whose life is reported ended by assassination, has long been one of the strong centres of Hungarian politics. It has been charged that Count Tisza was one of four men responsible for the war, and the accusation has been made that he instigated the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand.

A Magyar and Hungarian to the core, Count Tisza was pro-German. He was born in 1861, the youngest son of Kalman Tisza, a leading Hungarian statesman, who gave Hungary a consolidated government. Count Tisza was twice Premier of Hungary, from 1903 to 1905, and from June 6, 1913, to May 23, 1917. He was the centre of many riotous scenes in Hungary Parliament within the last year. He has urged peace, and in a speech on Oct. 19, declared he no longer had hope for an Austro-German victory. An unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate Count Tisza in Budapest on Oct. 17. His assailant at that time was arrested.

The Allies May Attack Germany From the East

Ships Are Passing Through the Dardanelles.

(Special to Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 1. — An allied attack on Germany from the East, was foreshadowed by George Nicholl Barnes, a member of the British war cabinet, in a speech last evening at the American officers' club in London. The armistice with Turkey might have been signed earlier, said Mr. Barnes, 'but we had Turkey on a string." He explained that the allies were committed to a free Arab state, with Aleppo as the capital, and there was no hurry to get Turkey out of the war until Aleppo was captured. Other places as necessary to the Arabs as Aleppo must also be surrendered. The British have been assembling ships at the mouth of the Dardanelles, and Mr. Barnes said he understood vessels already had started through the streets.

He concluded: "There is now nothing to prevent the fleet from going into the Black Sea and up the Danube to Germany's back door and if the Germans are going to defend their territory they must divide their remaining forces between the western front and the back door, at which we shall soon be knocking."

Surrender Not Long Delayed

Hohenzollerns May Have to Repudiate the Government's Debts In Order to Square Debts to the World.

WASHINGTON VIEW

(United Press.)
(By Robert J. Bender.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The complete surrender of the Central Powers to the forces of civilization is drawing nearer, official Washington believed to-day. Already Mitteleuropa has been crushed by the Allied armies. Austria's abject capitulation is expected momentarily in the wake of her frantic appeal for an armistice on the field of battle. When this comes, Germany will face the world alone. How long she will hold out is a matter of conjecture, but authorities here believe not more than six months. Germany, these authorities say, must be weighing thoughtfully the consequences of the debacle of her allies, as she awaits the call for surrender from the Versailles conference. Austria's exit from the war, military authorities point out, will expose the entire southern German frontier, where the morale is weakest and where the feeling against Prussia is most bitter. Bavaria, Saxony and Silesia would be the first points of contact with Allied troops, and Munich, Dresden and Breslau, leading south German cities, would be the first cities feeling a drive from the Austrian side. Debts are now haunting the Germans. Already the Hohenzollerns face the probability of having to repudiate the government's debt at home in order to square its debts to the world. This, on vast taxation measures to meet the outstanding bonds of $40,000,000,000 and payments which the peace table will force for territories devastated by Germans, appears certain, officials say.

Government repudiation of its debt to the people, officials here say, would make the peoples power supreme. The Krupps, for example, with millions of marks invested in Government securities would be reduced suddenly to a position where they no longer would constitute amenace.

Damage to Belgium.

Estimates of the damage done by Germans in Belgium place a load of approximately $4,000,000,000 on Germany. This has grown up from fines, levies, war contributions, removal of raw and manufactured products to Germany and wholesale destruction of property. The German invaders levied in fines and contributions upon the Belgians, $40,000,000 in 1914; $90,000,000 in 1915; $115,000,000 in 1916; $100,000,000 in 1917, and to October 1, 1918, they have collected $72,000,000.

Belgium lost approximately $1,200,000,000 worth of raw and manufactured products, machinery and other industrial equipment to invaders, according to a published German boast in 1917. The same announcement estimated that German destruction to Belgian territory aggregated approximately $2,000,000,000. These figures do not include the deportation of 1,720,000 Belgian men into Germany, whose production was entirely lost to their home land. Billions in plunder and destruction have been charged against the Huns to Northern France, Serbia and other invaded sections. These debts will demand a reckoning at the peace table. Definite developments from the Versailles conference are expected soon. It was said to-day that it was quite possible Germany would get their armistice terms and pass on them before they would be published to the world. Agreement on the basic peace principles is imminent, according to reports.

WAR MAP — THREE MONTHS' AIR BOMBING OF GERMANY. — In the above map, reproduced from the London Daily Mail, the British bombardments of German towns in June, July and August, are shown. The figures represent the total of bombardments in each case. The bombardments of airdromes and other military objectives are not included, but most of the airdromes were attacked nearly twice as often as the towns.

Important Features of the Fighting During Past Week on the Western Front

The Enemy Has Been Compelled to Evacuate the Angle Between the Oise and the Serre—French Have Made Considerable Progress—Official Despatches.

STRATEGIC CENTRE OF WESTERN FRONT

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(By British Admiralty Wireless.) — A military correspondent of the British wireless service writes regarding the past week's activities on the western front: "The most important features of the past week's operations has been the progress made by the British between the Scheldt and the Sambre-Oise Canal, which is gradually turning the line of the Scheldt and already has compelled the enemy to evacuate the angle between the Oise and the Serre.

"On this latter front the French have been making considerable progress and further east still they have established themselves on the northern bank of the Souche, as well as on the front between the Souche and the Aisne. No more important progress has been made in Flanders, although some further ground has been gained east of Lys.

"The most immediate threat to the enemy is the British progress between the Scheldt and the Oise-Sambre Canal for several reasons.

Natural Obstacles.

"In the first place there are fewer natural obstacles on this front and no previously prepared positions exist, whereas the enemy possesses further east along lines of the Serre and Aisne rivers very strong defensive positions and the nature of the country consisting of a succession of high ridges and fairly wide rivers presents great natural facilities for defense.

"On the northern part of the front also, the Scheldt and other waterways in Belgium constitute formidable obstacles. It is worth while noting that the line of advance which our main attack is being delivered has from time immemorial been the historic line of invasion of successive armies advancing from France in Belgium, leading as it does up to the valleys of the Oise and Sambre, directly towards Namur which stands at the junction of the Sambre and the Meuse, and may be called the strategic centre of the whole western front."

British Official.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—British troops resumed the offensive south of Valenciennes this morning. Field Marshal Haig, in his report to-day says good progress is being made.

British troops in minor enterprises near Lequesno Thursday captured a number of prisoners.

French Official.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—(Official).—Violent artillery battles were in progress during last night on the French front along the Oise River near Guise and the Aisne region near St. Fergeux, northwest of Chateau Porcien.

A Thoughtful Plan

Every plan that makes it easier for the people in ordinary circumstances to buy a Victory Bond is worth considering. Harry Zacks proposes an arrangement by which people who intended buying house furnishings or stoves, can still do it and have the money they expected to pay out, to use in buying Victory Bonds. Read all about it in his large advertisement on the last page of the first section of this issue.

BUSINESS HANDICAPPED BY SICKNESS

BRINGS ON A SACRIFICE SALE AT THE "WALK-EASY" SHOE STORE

Illness, unseasonable weather, and prevalent disturbing conditions have played havoc with business at the "Walk-Easy" shoe store, 350 George street. In order to turn present stocks into cash as fast as possible, the manager has announced that he will sell out all goods now on the shelves during the next fifteen days at a sacrifice. This sale has been running since Wednesday and the prices offered have made extra business each day since. To-morrow will no doubt bring out many buyers who have not cared to venture down-town during the week. The price-cutting of this new fall stock of smart footwear should bring large crowds as long as the stock lasts. Read some of the prices on another page.

STATEMENT TO THE PRESS

Senator Frederic Nicholls Explains the Conditions Relating to the Order-in-Council Affecting the C.G.E.

THE CORRESPONDENCE

The Editor, Examiner,

Dear Sir,—As you are aware, the Canadian General Electric Company has taken objection to the passage of certain Orders-in-Council which have permitted the importation of electrical machinery into Canada free of duty.

The situation from our standpoint is fully set forth in the accompanying correspondence, which includes a letter to the Right Honourable Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister, and a letter to Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance.

As the citizens of Peterborough are well aware, our company since the war has suffered from lessened production. Such a state of affairs may happened at any time, either in peace or war, but what is now complained of is that large quantities of apparatus, such as has already been manufactured or could be now manufactured in Canada, may be imported free of duty by reason of the privileges granted by certain Orders-in-Council.

I came to Peterborough with the expectation of personally placing the facts recited in the correspondence before the mass meeting this evening, and desired to approach the subject in a temperate way, but on my arrival here, having read in the local press a copy of the resolution which it is proposed to submit, I feel that the resolution is of such a character that I cannot support same.

This company has made no charge against any individual, nor has it alleged that there is evidence of a startling character that demands an investigation, the whole tenor of our complaint being that the Government itself, in Council assembled, and not by any individual action of any member of the Council, or anyone outside of the Council, has acted unwisely in permitting the importation of electrical machinery free of duty for the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, the Canada Cement Company, and others, without regard to the injury thereby inflicted on Peterborough's chief local industry, and on the employees thereof.

This is not a political question, but a business one, and the Government has evidently not fully realized the far-reaching affect of certain decisions which have been made without consultation with those whose interests might be vitally aqected. For instance, the Dominion Iron and Steel Company is a great and enterprising company, one that Canada has reason to be proud of, and they are entitled to credit for the enterprise they have exhibited in arranging for the erection of a mill in which to roll steel plates for shipbuilding purposes. To encourage them in this enterprise I understand the Government have entered into a contract whereby they agree to purchase from them at an arranged price a given tonnage of ship plates per year for five years, and in addition have given them, by Order-in-Council or agreement, the right to import all the machinery and accessories required free of duty, and it is right here that I join issue with this policy. If the Government desired to encourage this new industry, why do so at the expense of an old-established one? If they desired to give further employment to men down by the sea, why take away the bread and butter from the men in Ontario? Could they not have given a bounty per ton, or an extra price per ton, which would have been repaid either by the Customs tariff collected if the machinery were imported, or by the taxation contributed by Canadian workers engaged in its manufacture?

Peace, let us hope, is near, and munitions manufacture will cease, and tens of thousands employed in this industry will have to seek other employment, and hundreds of thousands of returned soldiers will also have to find employment.

I desire to express my great regret that any misunderstanding has occurred. I appreciate fully the great interest that the citizens of Peterborough have taken in this matter. Our industry here and the City of Peterborough have grown up together and anything which affects the earning power of the community is of public interest.

It is with great regret, however, that since arriving in Peterborough I have had an opportunity of reading a copy of the resolution that was published in last night's local papers, with the statement that it is intended to submit this resolution to the public mass meeting this evening. This resolution was not submitted to me before publication, and I regret to say contains statements and charges which, personally, I believe are unwarranted, in so far as by inference it charges improper motives to individuals, whereas our contention is that the Government itself has, by permitting Orders-in-Council to be passed favouring one industry as

FRONT HAS COLLAPSED

Austrian Prisoners Are Coming Down From the Mountains in Flocks.

ITALIAN WAR NEWS

Special to The Examiner:

ROME, Nov. 1.—The Austrian front in the Grappa region has completely collapsed, the Italian War Office announced to-day. It is impossible to estimate the number of prisoners, which are coming down the mountain in flocks. All the enemy's artillery has been captured.

The Italians have forced the gorge of Quero, and have passed beyond the spur east of Monte Resen and are advancing in the Piave valley.

British infantry and mounted troops have occupied the important railway town of Sacile, on the Livenza river, the War Office announced to-day.

The Livenza has been reached on a four mile front, from Sacile southward to Brugnera by troops of the Tenth Army (with which the Americans are brigaded.) Between the Oderzo-Portegruare railway the Austrians are falling back rapidly.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. — Official despatches to-day describing the victorious sweep of the Italians and Allied armies, say the lines are moving forward in such great leaps that it no longer is possible to identify towns retaken or to count prisoners and guns captured or Italians liberated.

CAR CRASHED INTO STREET CAR

THE DRIVER WAS BADLY CUT ABOUT THE FACE

Mr. William A. Burrell, 551 Bethune street, an employee of A. Comstock's, was the victim of a bad accident today at noon. While driving north in a car on George street the steering gear refused to work with the consequence that the car hit the oncoming street car from the north. The front window in the street car was shattered, head lights and windshield were broken on the car, the radiator was badly damaged, also the engine hood. The left hand tire on the front wheels was blown out. Mr. Burrell was thrown against the window and his face and knee cap as badly cut. He was taken to Nicholl's Hospital and is reported to be progressing favourably.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1ST, 1918.

THE FIRST REQUISITE

Canadians everywhere will acclaim the report from London that the immediate release of all British prisoners and the punishment of those responsible for the German atrocities are to be insisted upon by the British government as the first requisite of the armistice terms. No less drastic conditions would satisfy the people of Canada who like their fellow citizens of the British Empire have had their hearts hardened towards the "blond beasts" by the constant revelation of heartless treatment of prisoners, the barbarities inflicted upon the defenceless people of Belgium and northern France, the murder of Edith Cavell and of Capt. Fryatt, the crucifixion of wounded Canadians, the slaying of merchant sailors and of women and children upon the high seas and the hundreds of other incidents of cruelty and torture that have shown how Germany makes war.

The revelations in the House of Commons as to the manner in which British prisoners of war are being treated in Hunland have aroused a tremendous feeling in the old country a feeling that cannot be satisfied by council table peace. The guilty parties should be punished—that is the concensus of British opinion and nothing less will satisfy the people who have sacrificed so much and suffered so cruelly because of the Kaiser's dream of world domination.

THINK IT OVER

This little talk is for the Peterboro youngster who is not long out of school and is now employed in an office or in a factory.

You have not been paying much attention to the Victory Bond Campaign have you?

You have got a sort of a feeling that it doesn't concern you very much.

Been thinking that Victory Bonds are only for the big fellows, the men with lots of ready money?

But you are wrong.

The Victory Loan is the best opportunity that has come your way.

You'd like to save a little money, wouldn't you?

Have been thinking about a bank account, but somehow the wages have kept slipping away, and you have not saved anything.

You have your chance now.

Invest in a $50 war bond.

Your employer will carry it for you and deduct a small sum from each pay until you have paid for it.

You will never miss the amount deducted.

In a surprisingly short time you will have a savings account in the form of a Victory Bond.

That's worth while isn't it?

But it isn't all.

You will be helping to win the war.

You will be helping to win an honour roll for your factory.

You will be helping to win an honour flag for your home city.

You are too young to fight but you can put some money into the war, some driving power into Canada's war effort.

Think it over, youngster.

THE WINNING FACTOR

Money in the long run will be the winning factor in the war. The "Silver Bullets" of which Lloyd George once spoke are needed to complete the downfall of Prussianism. Canadians should realize these facts and also realize that the Canadian Victory Loan is absolutely necessary if the Germans are to be thrashed to a finish. The prevailing feeling that peace may soon come is a dangerous one. It is true that Germany is in a tottering condition, her allies are leaving her and in the long run there can be nothing but complete defeat for her. It is a time for increasing our efforts and any thought of slackening the pressure because peace is in sight is risky to say the least. Germany may not yet be ready to accept the allies drastic terms. She may elect to fight on to the finish and it must be recognized that although the German armies on the western front have been badly beaten and are no longer capable of assuming the offensive, they are by no means demoralized and are capable of putting up a stout resistance. The Boche may have to be hammered harder yet before he is ready to shout "Kamerad" all along the line and unconditionally surrender. That is the possibility we have to face and that is the reason why there must be not let up, no suspension of activities, no slackening in war efforts. That is why we must support Canada's Victory Loan to the limit.

Suppose we take the most optimistic view of the situation. Suppose they throw up their hands tomorrow and accept the terms that will be dictated by the Versailles conference. Every cent of Canada's Victory Loan will still be needed. Let that idea sink in. Peace or no peace the money will be required. If Germany is not ready to surrender the War Loan will be necessary to bring her to her knees. If the Kaiser throws up the sponge, the Loan will still be required. Canada's army must be demobilized, a vast task that will require many months of work. In the meantime the soldiers must be paid and maintained and their dependents at home must be looked after. Great Britain's purchases in this country must be financed an item that will require a huge amount of money.

The Loan will all be needed. Any feeling to the contrary, if allowed to interfere with the Victory Loan would be disastrous.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Stick it, Canada!

Victory Bonds mean disaster for the Kaiser.

Money talks. Let yours tell Germany the game is up. Invest in Victory Bonds.

The war is not over. Canada needs five hundred million dollars to finish her part of the struggle. Get in line with your "silver bullets."

"Unconditional surrender" is the demand the Allies will make upon the Huns. And the Victory Loan makes the same demand on the people of Canada.

The boys over there are offering ther lives. We are only asked to lend our money—at almost double the usual rate of interest.

THREE TURKISH ARMIES COMPLETELY DESTROYED

When the Turkish armistice was signed, General Allenby's army held Aleppo, more than 300 miles north of Jerusalem, in which region his offensive started in September. Aleppo is the southern key to Constantinople, 575 miles to the north-west. He had wiped out three Turkish armies and completely destroyed Turkey's military power in Palestine and Syria. At the same time, Gen. Marshall, who began a new advance in Mesopotamia last week, was within 45 miles of Mosul, 215 miles north-west of Bagdad. The British in their entire Mesopotamia campaign had thus penetrated 525 miles inland from the Persian Gulf.

MINISTERS PASS A RESOLUTION

Object to Medical Health Officer's Reference to Churches.

"Resolved that we regard it as most unfortunate that in these days, when so many homes are passing through a Gethsemene, that our Medical Health Officer should indulge in any such flippancy as that represented in the remark reported as coming from the lips of Dr. Amys. The ministers of Peterboro have stood loyally by the Medical Health Officer during this trying month, and are convinced that the overwhelming majority of Peterboro's citizens are surprised and humiliated that the institution which above all others has always administered to the world's troubles, should be spoken of as slightingly as has the Christian church in Yesterday's Examiner.

"These are days in which we have been taught to trust the judgment of this officer, and we feel that we must say publicly that the terms in which he now chooses to express his judgment are entirely out of keeping with the solemn times in which we are living."

If Dr. C. H. Amys, M.O.H., had simply said yesterday that the churches would remain closed on Sunday, as they will be closed in many other cities, the form of his statement would have been beyond criticism. But he spoke with a lightness that in cold type may sound baldly flippant. The shade of meaning that tinged the doctor's renewed ultimatum was lost in the typographical process, and the levity expressed vocally did not sound so grave as it reads. In justice to Dr. Amys this explanation should be made, although it may not extenuate the seeming gravity of the expression for those to whom Dr. Amys' mannerisms are unknown.

Two Meet Death In Lumber Camp

LINDSAY, Oct. 31.—Word reached this city this afternoon that Messrs. Charles Crowley and Joe O'Keefe, two Lindsay men, were found dead in their tent at a lumber camp at Pakesley, Ont., this morning. Messrs. Crowley and O'Keefe left Lindsay on Wednesday for the shanty. The cause is unknown. Pakesley is situated near Parry Sound.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.

against another, and one section of the country as against another, not acted in the best interests of the community at large.—Yours truly,

Frederic Nicholls,
President.

October 30th, 1918.

The Right Honourable,
Sir Robert L. Borden,
Prime Minister of Canada,
Ottawa, Ont.

My Dear Sir Robert,—I am sorry to say that our electrical works in Peterborough are at the present only able to give employment to less than one-half the usual number of employees; that is to say, that while during noraml times we have given employment to from two thousand to twenty-five hundred work people, our staff at the present time has been reduced to nine hundred.

The City of Peterborough has been very much concerned, as our Company has been the largest employer in that city, and has distributed very large sums in payment of wages to the direct benefit of the trades people, and in fact to every interest, in that city. On being requested by the City of Peterborough for information as to the reasons for lack of employment I have of necessity had to tell them that it is largely as a result of Orders-in-Council passed by the Federal Government permitting the free importation of machinery, the manufacture of which in Canada would have kept in this county millions of dollars which are being diverted to United States manufacturers, and would have given employment to a very large number of Canadian workmen.

It is a fact that the permission to the Dominion Iron & Steel Company to import all their requirements for their plate mill free of duty means the purchase of from $750,000 to $1,000,000 worth of electrical machinery in the United States. Again, we were recently asked for quotations by the Canada Cement Company on a very large quantity of electrical machinery for the manufacture of munitions, but after submitting all engineering details, prices, etc., were were told that they were permitted to import all their requirements free of duty from the United States. Again, I understood that the Leaside Munition Works have been given the same privilege, and I have been told, although I have no definite information as to the fact, that the Imperial Munitions Board have also been able to import their requirements of machinery free of duty.

This policy has had the most depressing effect on our electrical industry, and indirectly upon the prosperity of the City of Peterborough, and I have been invited to attend a public meeting in Peterborough on Friday evening next for the purpose of making an explanation in regard to these reasons for our staff of employees being compulsory reduced. While the munition orders are of great importance, I think you will admit that it is of even greater importance that the permanent industries of the country should be encouraged instead of being discouraged, as after the war it will be these permanent industries that will be looked upon to bear their share of the burden of taxation, and do their share towards giving employment to returned soldiers and others who will be diverted from the special industry of munition making.

I am quite sure that your Government when passing these Orders-in-Council had no idea of the far-reaching effect on established industries, and I therefore think it but right to forward to you this information. As a matter of fact several millions of dollars worth of electrical apparatus alone, in addition to many more millions of dollars worth of other machinery, is being imported under these Orders-in-Council, and the money therefore being forwarded to the United States at a time when every citizen of the country is being asked to abstain from the importation of any article that can be produced in this country, in order not to further prejudice the balance of trade against us with the United States.

Respectfully submitting all of the above for your consideration.

Your very sincerely,
President.

October 31st, 1918.

The Honourable Sir Thomas White,
Minister of Finance, Ottawa.

Dear Sir Thomas:—

I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 30th instant, and perhaps I can best reply by enclosing a copy of a letter that I yesterday wrote to Sir Robert Borden.

It is a fact that the Dominion Iron & Steel Company, a very wealthy corporation, has been given the right to import free of duty all machinery and apparatus required in connection with the erection of a plate mill. I quite realize that it is a wise policy to encourage a new industry, but not at the expense of existing Canadian industries that are not only capable of manufacturing much of the machinery required but which are suffering from lack of Canadian orders which would enable them to keep employed a normal working force. The electrical machinery alone required by the Dominion Iron & Steel Company will amount to not less than $750,000 in value.

It is also a fact that when we tendered to the Canada Cement Company on one hundred 25 H.P. motors required for the manufacture of munitions for the United States we were advised that the order was placed with United States manufacturers of these motors, as by an Order-in-Council permission had been granted to import these free of duty.

I can cite other cases, but these two are quite sufficient to establish a serious loss to Canadian manufacturers by these Government regulations. I have further made inquiries and am unable to find that the Order-in-Council permitting the United States Government to ship machinery into Canada free of duty has been published for general information. We ourselves, and many other concerns, are manufacturing munitions for the United States Government, but have had either to pay duty on the machinery imported, or have purchased same in Canada wherever it was available. As a matter of fact I believe the machinery was not shipped in by the United States Government, but was purchased by the Canadian manufacturer, although the money to purchase same may have been advanced by the United Sttes Government, but other manufacturers, including ourselves, have had no such facilities offered to them. We had been advised that it was the desire that we should deal with the United States only through the Imperial Munitions Board, and not attempt to sell munitions direct to the Ordnance Purchasing Department of the United States, and therefore we could only have been aware that the United States was advancing monies and granting privileges to same Canadian manufacturers had we been so advised by the Imperial Munitions Board, which has not been the case.

As pointed out, our operating staff at Peterborough has run down from twenty-three hundred to nine hundred, and I have had necessarily to give the reasons to the people of Peterborough, who are seriously effected by the reduction of our pay roll. This Company has always endeavoured to show a patriotic attitude, before and during the war, and I am simply doing my duty as President of the Company in drawing attention to occurrences which seriously militate against our ability to give employment.

Surely a normal industry, which always carried its fair share of national burdens, and given employment for over a quarter of a century to very large numbers of Canada work people should not be prejudiced for the advantage of other industries which are of later growth. When peace is declared the manufacture of munitions will cease, but the old established industries will be called upon to endeavour to carry their fair share of the burden of taxation and find employment not only for those who will be diverted from the industry of munition making, but the hundreds of thousands of work people now in the army, who will have to find employment on their return.

I think that the foregoing includes the information you desire, but if not I am, as ever, at your service.

Yours very truly,
President.

THE SALVATION OF RUSSIA WILL BE FACILITATED BY PASSAGE OF ALLIED FLEET

With Bulgaria and Turkey Out Russia Is Likely to Take an Important Position in the Situation.

(United Press Service.)
(By Joseph Shaplen.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The salvation of Russia from German domination will be facilitated by the surrender of Turkey and the passage of a great Allied fleet through the Dardanelles, officials believed to-day. Arrival of the Allied fleet and an Allied army at Odessa and an advance through the Ukraine to Kieff is now possible. This will enable the Russian and Czecho-Slovak forces to advance westward from the Vulga to unite with the Allies in the formation of a new eastern front.

The Knockout Blow.

The Allies probably will be joined by several corps of Russo-Ukrainian troops on Ukrainian soil. If Germany wants to continue the war she must therefore face not only the possibility of an Allied advance through Austria which is sure to come with an Austrian surrender, but she must also eventually face a new eastern front in Russia. The appearance of Allied troops in South Russia will electrify the Russian people as nothing else could. With Bulgaria and Turkey out and the surrender of Austria imminent, Russia is again likely to take a most important position in the international situation should Germany refuse to accept the armistice terms now being prepared for her at Versailles and decide to continue fighting. She may make desperate efforts to organize Bolsheviki Russia as a reservoir of troops and material, but the Ukraine the most fertile and richest part of Russia, will be closed to her. She may obtain some men among the dupes still in the clutches of Lenine, but the overwhelming majority of Russia and Russians in the Ukraine, Siberia and in the north will flock to the Allies for the knockout blow that will be Russia's revenge.

Nine New Patients Admitted to the Emergency Hospital

This Brings the Total Up to Fourteen—Plenty of Accommodation.

SITUATION BETTER

Nine new patients were brought during last night and this morning to the Emergency Hospital making the total fourteen at present, seven male and seven female. Miss Reid, the superintendent, however, has plenty of beds ready for new patients as they arrive.

Hurrying up and down the halls the voluntary nurses are kept in perpetual motion attending to their duties and are doing their work absolutely satisfactory to the trained nurses who are in charge.

Mayor Duncan, who has made the new hospital practically his headquarters, said this morning that he is proud of the way in which the Peterboro people have met the present crisis. "They didn't wait a week to think about helping", he said "but went to it and put it through splendidly." He would thank the people generally who assisted in anyway in the hurried opening of the institution.

JANITOR SECURED

General Hemming secured the discharge of Pte. Jackson, who ran the Oriental furnaces before he went overseas where he was wounded and gassed and he undertook his old duties again today.

GRATEFUL FOR DONATIONS

Miss Reid is grateful to all who are sending in nourishment to the hospital where it is really badly needed. She wishes the public generally to know that nourishment will not be sent out from the hospital but from the soup kitchen at Trinity.

SITUATION QUIET

Dr. C. H. Amys, M.O.H. said today that there are no new developments in the epidemic and everything is pretty well quiet.

MATTHEWS-BLACKWELL STORE IS ONE OF THE BEST IN THE CITY

The New Store Presents an Attractive Appearance—A Big Stock of Household Necessities.

Remodelled and thoroughly equipped, the Matthews-Blackwell meat and provision store, destroyed by fire last December, was re-opened yesterday at 356 George street. The new store, modern and attractive in appearance, is really an addition to the general appearance of George street. From the outside, which is finished in white the cleverly arranged tile sided windows cannot fail to attract the passer-by.

Inside everything is scrupulously clean and sanitary, and finished regardless of expense. White tiled walls form a back ground for the rows of well stocked shelves. Of the new marble topped counters and seven sets of weigh scales, the management is particularly proud; also the new stock of cooked ham and bacon cutters newly installed. The office has been moved to the back of the store, and not only provides additional room, but adds greatly to the general appearance.

The staff, larger than before, have adopted a progressive big city appearance, by wearing white caps.

The Stock.

Few stores in the city carry so large a stock as the new Matthews-Blackwell. Practically every household need for the table can be furnished from a brand new stock of canned goods, pickles, catsup, olives, etc., and fresh meat, brought twice daily from the factory. These are delivered with the utmost despatch by the motor delivery waggons.

CHARGE DISMISSED THIS MORNING

John McMurray Was Accused of Harbouring a Deserter.

The charge against John McMurray of harbouring his son Thomas, a defaulter under the Military Service Act, was dismissed this morning when an official record was produced showing that Thomas McMurray was in E category.

It will be remembered in the proceedings held a week ago, the defence asked for evidence proving that Thomas McMurray was a defaulter.

Magistrate Dumble allowed the Crown a week to get into communication with the authorities there and ascertain his status in the army, with the above result.

British Troops Advanced To-day

Have Advanced Four Miles Since Yesterday.

(United Press.)
(By Lowell Mellett.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 1.—British troops advanced in to-day's fighting to within less than three miles of Audenarde. They passed Anseghem, Lingestraat, Caester, Rougge, Tregan, Waermaerde and Tenhove. The Rescaut was crossed at Kerkhove and their gains are being exploited beyond the river. An additional penetration of nearly two miles has been made, making the total advance since the attack began yesterday, nearly four miles. A thousand additional prisoners, three guns and four ambulances have been taken.

A striking cape is made of black satin, and has a clasp of silver.

The straight frock of jersey may be simplicity itself, but it should have somewhere a touch of richness.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The levity of the Medical Officer of Health in connection with the continued closing of the churches, reported in your issue of yesterday, must have grated on many ears. It has also served to emphasize the need of placing the matter in the hands of an authority capable of weighing the religious merits of the case, which have heretofore received fair consideration. While there are some people who, as the M.O.H. intimates, are able to get along without the churches, there is also a representative body of the community that regard their closing as a most serious matter. I believe I am expressing the concensus of opinion among church goers when I say that the present world-wide epidemic is only added reason for a public acknowledgment of God in our midst and that the closing of His house at such a time is a grave reflection upon our faith.

Yours faithfully,
R. B. GROBB.

SERUM SUPPLY IS LIMITED

Peterboro, Ont., Nov 1, 1918.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—In your issue of yesterday, under the heading "Government Serum is free to doctors", the impression is given that a supply of Government serum has been available for use free of charge. That is not true. Up to the present there has not been any Government serum available for public use. Only two or three days ago, I in company with some other Medical men, asked Dr. Amys if we could get the Government serum and he stated most emphatically that we could not, except for the personal use of the doctors and nurses. To-day we were notified for the first time that a "Limited Supply" was available for public use. Any serum we used up to the present time we were obliged to buy in the usual way and at the usual price. I do not know who the author of the article referred to was, but they were either ignorant of the facts, or deliberately tried to misrepresent them.

Yours truly,
A. MOIR

SPECIFIC FOR BRONCHITIS.

The turpentine used in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is not the ordinary commercial article, which is little used because of the unpleasantness of taste, but is specially extracted from tamarac and spruce gum and so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be at the same time pleasant to use and wonderfully effective in the cure of affections of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

MRS. LARSON HAS GAINED 14 POUNDS

Says the Way Tanlac Helped Her is Nothing Short of Wonderful.

According to the testimony of multiplied thousands who have tried it there is nothing so well adapted to the needs of a run-down system as Tanlac, and in every case where a fair test of its powers is made another enthusiastic witness is the invariable result. Recently in telling of the remarkable benefits she has derived from the medicine, Mrs. Agnes Larson, residing at 1948 South G. Street, Tacoma, Washington, said:

"The way Tanlac has relieved me of my suffering and built me up is nothing short of wonderful. Why, I don't only feel like a new woman, but I have actually gained fourteen pounds in weight besides. I was in an awfully weak, run-down condition for two years and so nervous that the least little thing out of the ordinary would upset me. I suffered all the time with a pain across my kidneys, which was so bad at times, my back felt like it would break. I was very restless at night, up and down at all hours, unable to sleep. I also suffered a great deal with dizziness and faint feelings, and was so weak that I could not get through with my housework without stopping several times to rest.

"One day I was telling a friend of mine how I felt, and she advised me to try Tanlac. So I got a bottle, and that was one of the best things I ever did. My husband, who was suffering a great deal with indigestion and gas on his stomach, commenced taking it the same time I did, and between us we took eight bottles, and are in splendid condition. His stomach is in such a good condition that he eats just anything and it all agrees with him fine. And as for me, it has built me up until I feel altogether different. My nerves are so much stronger and better that I can sleep all night long, and my appetite is just fine. I no longer have those weak, dizzy spells and the pain has left my back entirely. Both myself and husband think Tanlac is great, and if I ever feel my system getting rundown again I shall take more Tanlac because I know so well what it will do.

BETTER PAY SYSTEM.

(By United Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 2.—(By Mail.)—Under the new "pay book" scheme recently started American soldiers no longer will have to wait months for their pay because their service records happen to be delayed or irregular. Each soldier will be given a little book, which will have almost the facility of a handbook in enabling him to collect from Uncle Sam. At the beginning of every month, the holder of a "pay book" can collect the past month's pay promptly. Another radical innovation provides that men arriving in leave areas may collect their pay for fractional parts of a month. The "pay book" scheme already has been approved by the controller of the treasury and G.H.Q., and is scheduled to be in use this month.

Has Left for the Front on a Special Mission

Rumours of Kaiser's Abdication are Premature.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 1.—Rumours of Emperor William's abdication are at least premature, the Berlin Vossische Zeitung says in Thursday's issue. It adds, however, that the abdication question was discussed at latest meetings of the War Cabinet and it is stated that former Vice-Chancellor Delbrueck has left for the front on an important mission for Chancellor Maximilian. It is generally supposed, the newspaper says, that Dr. Delbrueck will present the Emperor with an abdication document.

MANPOWER RUNNING OUT

Few Enemy Divisions Are Up to Strength—Troops Move From Russia to Western Front.

SERIOUS SITUATION

LONDON, November 1. — (By British Admiralty Wireless.) — The serious condition of the German army may be judged from the fact that whereas in March of this year the enemy had a reserve of eighty fresh divisions, and that at that time divisions were, except in very rare cases, never re-engaged in battle without a full month's rest and training, at the present time the number of divisions in reserve has fallen to fifty, only seven of which have had as much as a fortnight's rest and none have had a month, writes a military correspondent of the British wireless service.

"The Germans therefore have not a single division in reserve which can be called fresh," according to previous standards, while the average interval between re-engagements has fallen to nine days ,thus entirely preventing systematic training and recovery of troops. Not only, however, is the interval too short to allow of the recovery of the troops, but they have to be replaced in line without having been brought up to strength, and cases have actually occurred in the last fortnight of German divisions reappearing in the line and being unable to muster one thousand rifles but of a establishment of 6,750 rifles, excluding machine gunners.

In one case a division had been reduced to 783 rifles, roughly the strength of a battalion. In forty or fifty divisions regiments had on October 3rd been reduced from a four to a three company basis, and in one division regiments had on that date been reduced from nine companies to three.

The seriousness of such a situation will be realized when it is remembered that during the past six months twenty-five German divisions have been disbanded, while in the last four weeks five third rate and ill equipped divisions have been transported from Russia to the western front.

AT GERMANY'S BACK DOOR

Allies Will Demand Passage for Their Troops Through Austrian Territory.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(By British Admiralty Wireless.) —The effect of the Austrian break up on the war would be immediate, said the London Daily News to-day. It is obvious that the Allies would consent to no armistice which did not provide, as in the case of Bulgaria, for the unhindered passage of their troops and the prosecution on Austrian soil of the war against Germany. Even if Austria were disposed to refuse that demand she would be powerless to resist it. Her constituent people are in revolt against her and the Czecho-Slovaks and Jugo-Slavs have been recognized by the Entente powers as Allied belligerents. That is enough in itself to secure to the Allies an entrance to and passage through what has hitherto been enemy territory. The importance of that is not its effect upon Austria, but its effect on Germany. It means that his back door is forced. Bohemia, now passing rapidly into the hands of the Czecho-Slovaks, adjoins Prussia, Saxony and Bavaria and the eastern frontiers of none of these states is organized for defence. Without moving a man from the west the Allies could draw from their southern and eastern fronts a force more than sufficient to drive away into Saxony or Bavaria—and that without taking into account the support the new independent Slav races might render against that fatal encirclement. Germany cannot struggle.

Pneumonia Takes a Heavy Toll in Peterboro

Thirty Five Deaths From That Cause During Month of October.

During October, 35 deaths were caused by pneumonia, la grippe and complications of Spanish influenza. Of these deaths the primary cause in seven was pneumonia, influenza sixteen, pneumonia with influenza three, la grippe two, broncho-pneumonia one. The immediate cause of twenty-one deaths was pneumonia, of influenza one, and of heart disease following pneumonia, nine.

EMERGENCY KITCHEN HAD FEWER CALLS.

Fewer extra calls were sent in today to the Trinity Emergency Kitchen than during the past four days, and only a matter of three or four new families were supplied. The ladies at large are confident that, judging by the falling off of cases reported, the epidemic must be abating in the city.

Tariff Revision to Help Agriculture is Advocated by United Farmers of Ont.

Policy Outlined to be Presented at the Canadian Council of Agriculture in Winnipeg—Decided Not to Form a Farmers' Party.

REPORT OF TORONTO MEETING

The United Farmers of Ontario held an important meeting in Toronto this week, revising a policy for the farmers which will be submitted to the Canadian Council of Agriculture in Winnipeg this month and also to the Ontario convention of the U. F. O. in Toronto in December.

Nothing that was done at this meeting was intended to bind the farmers' movement in the Province, "Farm and Dairy" says this week. It was held in order to consider the problems that have arisen and to see that information concerning these is prepared in a way that will facilitate their discussion at the approaching convention.

A National Policy.

The National Policy that was adopted by the farmers' organizations some three years ago was first considered in order to find to what extent it needed revision as several planks in it have been adopted by the Government since their endorsement by the farmers. In the main this platform was practically reaffirmed in full except that its wording was changed in a few particulars and a few new planks were added. The meeting reaffirmed its belief that the tariff at present is so adjusted that it bears with great severity on farmers as a class, while promoting city industries unduly. It was therefore held that it should be rearranged so as to promote agriculture in every legitimate way possible.

In this connection it was recommended that the tariff should be reduced on agricultural implements and other supplies purchased by farmers as their raw material. It was also recommended that the British Preference should be increased until within five years Canada shall have complete free trade with the Motherland.

Free Speech.

Exception was taken to the action of the Government in curbing the freedom of public discussion and it was recommended that the freedom of speech and of the press should be re-established. Exception was also taken to the ruling of the country through Orders in Council as being directly contrary to the spirit of representative Government.

As a means of raising revenue a direct tax on unimproved land values, including all natural resources, was advocated, also the principle of a sharply graduated income tax, inherit ance tax on large estates and similar taxes on the profits of Corporations. In connection with the latter the taxing of watered stock was urged.

Other Reforms.

Other reforms endorsed were the nationalization of all railway, telephone, telegraph and express companies, and similar public utilities. The Government was urged to refuse to alienate any more natural resources, but instead to bring them into use only under short term leases. Direct legislature, including the initiative and the referendum was approved as well as publicity of political campaign fund contributions and expenditures, the abolition of the patronage system and Dominion prohibition. The stand was taken that Canada should not be tied up after the war by its representatives to Imperial Policies without the people first being given an opportunity to decide upon the matters involved.

Farmers' Candidates.

A lengthy discussion took place regarding the advisability of the United Farmers establishing a separate party in the legislature and in the House of Commons or working through the existing parties. A difference of opinion in reference to which was the best policy was evident, but the majority were in favour of following the practice that has been followed in Western Canada.

The view was expressed that were the farmers to attempt to establish an independent party there would be great danger of wrecking the whole farmers' movement as was done years ago in Ontario, as it would ultimately lead the two old political parties as well as other classes in the community to combine in order to defeat the farmers' party.

In western Canada the practice has been where the candidates of both parties agree to accept the Farmers' Platform, and where these men are acceptable to the farmers, not to take any part in the election, but allow the candidates to fight it out between themselves. Where one candidate accepts the Farmers' Platform and the other refuses to do so then the farmers support the candidate that accepts their platform. Where neither party puts an acceptable candidate in the field, then the farmers are free to bring out an independent candidate, where they so desire.

As any action taken in this matter, as far as federal politics is concerned, will be influenced by the support it will receive from the farmers' organizations in other provinces, it was felt that this matter should be discussed fully at the next meeting of the Canadian Council of Agriculture.

Members in Parliament.

A discussion was held as to whether or not an offer of the farmers' organization, when elected to Parliament or to the Legislature, should resign his office in the organization, although not necessarily his membership. It was unanimously agreed that he should do so. A by-law bearing on this will be submitted for discussion at the next convention of the Association.

The main reason that led to this decision was the possibility that when an officer of the association is elected to parliament it opens the way for the Government or his party, to work through such a member on the farmers' organizations in a way likely to divide his interests and thereby possibly be prejudicial to the best interests of the farmers' movement.

The repeal of the "War Times Election Act" was recommended.

Returned Soldier Problem.

Sergt. Hunter, a returned soldier, addressed the meeting on behalf of The Great War Veterans' Association in reference to after the war problems.

A resolution was passed urging the government to start immediately to deal with the labour problems that are sure to arise after the war. In this connection it was urged that returned soldiers, who have had a practical training in agriculture and who desire to stay on the land, be given an opportunity to do so in the older settled districts of the province rather than in New Ontario, as cleared land in Old Ontario is cheaper and better adapted in every way to the needs of the soldiers than the land sparsely settled in the colder districts of the province.

Messrs. R. W. E. Burnaby and J. J. Morrison were recommended for appointment as delegates to the next meeting of the Canadian Council of Agriculture in Winnipeg. A third representative may be appointed.

The Dominion Government is to be urged to appoint a representative of the farming interests on the Dominion Railway Board, there being no representative of the farmers on the Board as there was when it was first appointed.

COMMUNICATIONS SEVERED.

Italians Have Completely Cut Line Between Austrians in Piave and Trentino Regions.

With the Italian Armies in the Field, Nov. 2.— The Italians have completely severed communications between the Austrian armies in the Piave and Trentino regions.

Following the brilliant operation which resulted in the capture of Mont Cezn, the twelfth army, after a night of forced marching occupied the summit of the entire ridge east of the Piave for thirty kilometres (13 miles) in desperate fighting. This gave them complete domination of the Piave gorge from Feltre to Belluno.

AUSTRIANS FLEE UDINE, LEAVING VAST STORES

Italians Again in City Used as Headquarters of Enemy Activity Against Them Since Last November—Only 12 Miles From Austria's Border.

OFFENSIVE CONTINUES ON 125-MILE FRONT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.— Austrian forces have evacuated Udine, abandoning vast quantities of war materials and supplies. In their hasty flight, a despatch to the Italian Embassy to-day is reported.

It has been used since last November as the headquarters of the enemy Government in the occupied Italian territory.

Udine is 45 miles from the Piave and only 12 miles from the Austro-Italian border.

AUSTRIANS STILL RESIST.

Regardless of Reports of Revolution, Fighting Continues in Italian Offensive.

Italian Headquarters East of the Piave, Nov. 2.—Regardless of reports of a revolution in Vienna the Italians continue their advance. At some points the Austrians still resist. Since October 24 Gen. Diaz has carried out his campaign as planned. The lock to the mountains and plains was opened here by the taking of Monte Cismon, which gives to the allies command of the valleys of Bretna and Cismon. Domination of the Bretna virtually means possession of the Trentino. The command of the Cismon opens the road to Feltre, Belluno and beyond.

ENEMY'S PLEAS UNHEEDED

Offensive Keeps Up—Austrians Have Retreated Beyond the Tagliamento.

Washington, Nov. 2.— The Italian advance is continuing on a front of more than 125 miles, despite the Austrian appeals for an immediate armistice, it was officially reported in a despatch from General Diaz to the Italian Embassy here.

The Austrians, the despatch said, have retreated precipitately beyond the Tagliamento, pursued by the allies forces under Duke A'Aosta.

"The Tagliamento, which forms the principal defensive line between the Piave and the Isonzo, flows from twenty to thirty miles inside the farthest eastern boundary of Italy."

"As the Italian army prosecutes its victorious advance," says the despatch, "most deplorable evidence is coming to light of atrocities by the enemy during the period of invasion. In Italy, as in France, the fury of the barbarians has been intense against things and persons. Such fury has been witnessed not only by Italian soldiers, but by representatives of Italian and allied press accompanying advancing columns.

"Everywhere there are tokens of wilful, useless destruction and brutal frobberies. Terrified eyewitnesses narrate horrible scenes.

"The Italian Government, the military authorities and the allies will not fail to carry out rigorous inquiry regarding abominations committed, of which he enemy must give an accounting.

"Italians found in freed zones are in a terrible state. They lack everything because the enemy during a year of occupation destroyed, burned, sacked and carried off everything."

CATTLE MARKET

There has been a distinct improvement in the tone of the market this week. Anything of weight and quality in butcher cattle has found a good and moderate active demand. Heavy steers in particular were in good demand and selling stronger than the week before. Choice butcher steers and heifers were wanted, more especially the latter part of the week, when offerings in this class were extremely small in proportion to the total receipts.

Total supplies of cattle for the week were light, probably as a result of the steady breaking in prices in the two or three preceding weeks. With an apparently rapidly falling market in sight, shippers evidently had decided to hold back for awhile their best cattle. As a result only a very few loads of good to choice steers and heifers were available. As the packers were all out for good quality, prices began to stiffen and improvement being steadily maintained to the end of the week.

The trade for stockers and feeders continues comparatively quiet, though showing a slight improvement over the previous two weeks.

Altogether the feeling of the trade in the closing market was that prices in the recent declines had touched bottom, and that from this out the markets will be firmer with an upward tendency for anything of fairly decent quality in the butcher killing class.

Lambs were generally lower the early part of the week, stiffening a little towards the close. Good breeding ewes were firm, and choice killing sheep steady.

Choice veal calves are firm and wanted. The common grassers are too plentiful to command high prices.

Hogs were 50c lower for the mid-week markets, but recovered 25c at the close.

Holstein-Freisian fanciers throughout all Canada will learn with regret of the tragic death of the veteran breeder, Mr. A .C. Hallman, Breslau, Ont. Mr. Hallman was one of the earliest to take up with the black and white breed in Canada and was one of the few survivors of the band who organized the Holstein-Freisian Association of Canada in 1883. For thirty-five years he was a prominent figure in the business, winning many prizes in the show ring in earlier days officiating as judge at our largest shows in more recent years. He was a past-president of the association, and for years had acted as one of its auditors. He was active in municipal affairs in his own county of Waterloo, and was mentioned of Parliamentary honors at the last general election. Mr. Hallman was fately injured by a fall from the top of his silo, and died on October 16 at the age of 59 years.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Ruth Has a Delightful Trip in Newport With Mr. Mandel.

CHAPTER XXVIII

The gasp Ruth heard was not reassuring.

"What's that you say?" Brian asked, and his voice was so raucous, it made Ruth shiver with dread of what he would say when he realized she was really going.

"I am going to Newport to look at a house to be done over. I'll be back to-morrow night! If I find I can't, I'll wire you," then, before he could answer she glanced at the clock. She must go at once. "Good bye, I can't wait another minute!" and she hung up without waiting for an answer.

It was hard to go away without even hearing him say "good bye," but perhaps it was best. He perhaps was angry, and by the time she returned would have cooled off. Nevertheless her eyes were swimming with tears when she gave her final instructions to Mrs. Crawford.

"Be sure you give him all the things he likes to eat," she cautioned showing she, like other women, knew one way at least to placate a man.

"Indeed I will and don't you worry, ma'am," Mrs. Crawford had soon understood how matters were, had sensed Brian's dislike to having his wife work, even though it made him more comfortable.

Mr. Mandel was waiting at the station.

"Just on time!" he said pleasantly, as he took her bag and helped her into the train. He had two seats in the parlor car, on the shady side and had laid late magazines on both of them. His own luggage also had been placed in the car before her arrival.

"This is comfortable," Ruth said as she sank back in the chair, and the porter, in response to a motion from Mr. Mandel, brought her a hassock for her feet.

"Travelling is hard enough at any time and under all circumstances. I believe in being as comfortable as possible," he returned, then picked up a magazine and was soon buried in its contents.

Ruth was thankful she did not have to talk. Her mind was full of her own affairs. She could not forget the gasp she had heard when she first told Brian she was going away, and she felt decidedly uneasy as to what he would say on her return. He would be terribly put out, that she knew,—perhaps angry. But he would have nearly two days to think it over. Perhaps he would be sensible and not be so angry as she feared. With an unconscious sigh at his lack of sympathy in her venture, she also picked up a magazine. She had failed to notice the sharp glance Mr. Mandel gave her when he heard that sigh.

Neither spoke until luncheon was announced. Then he laid aside his magazine and said:

"Suppose we go right in. I reserved a table, and the food will be better if we go at once."

Ruth rose obediently. She had traveled so little, was really unfamiliar with dining cars to such an extent, that she, like a child, considered it a treat to eat in one.

She ordered a very simple luncheon, which he insisted upon supplementing with a dish or two.

"You will find your appetite when you commence to eat," he told her. "One always does when traveling."

Luncheon finished, Mr. Mandel went into the smoking car and did not reappear for an hour. He had chatted pleasantly through luncheon not mentioning business, and so preventing Ruth from doing so, although there were several things in connection with their errand to Newport she would have liked to discuss.

"Perhaps he doesn't believe in talking business when he's away from the shop," she thought. So she contented herself with reading the magazines he had provided and in looking out of the window. She never had been east of New York and so was interested in all she saw.

After Mr. Mandel returned from the smoking car, she asked a question which proved her unfamiliarity with the country through which they were passing.

"Have you never been to Newport?" he asked.

"No, I never have been much of anywhere" she confessed naively. "Aunt Louisa didn't much believe in girls leaving home. I reckon she and I visited New York once before I was married and we my husband and I stayed at Atlantic city for a while. You see I am not much of a traveler."

"So I see!" he replied, looking at her with an added interest. It was wonderful that this delicately nurtured southern girl, who still "reckoned" when she talked, should have become so proficient in an art to which he had given many years' hard study.

From that time until they reached the end of their journey, he pointed out all places of interest they passed giving her a little sketch of that part of the country at the same time.

"You will revel in New England homes," he said explaining that, as one went further east, the homes were still filled with gems of old-fashioned furniture chippendale chairs, and windsor tables and cabinets. In fact he made himself so entertaining that Ruth was almost sorry when they reached Newport, and she had bade him good night in the hotel to follow the boy to the room reserved for her.

To-morrow—Ruth Sees Newport's famous Ocean Drive for the First Time.

HOSPITALS IN THE AIR.

Americans Are Perfecting Adequate First-aid System.

Our American allies are perfecting an adequate first-aid system whereby many valuable lives may be saved in connection with aviation.

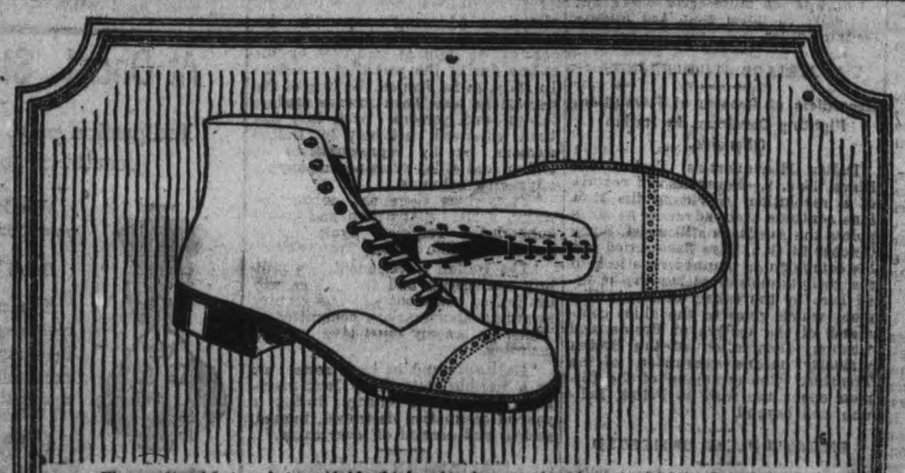
This system will probably be adopted by our own air forces, for use both at home and abroad, and we may shortly expect to hear of good work of this description being done at the front. Special airplanes are kept constantly in readiness, equipped with a compact "first-aid" outfit, and a doctor occupies the observer's seat. A skilled pilot waits beside the machine, ready to ascend with his medical "passenger" without a moment's delay.

The "flying aid-post" is ready for any emergency. The pilot and the physician are stationed close to the machine which is ready for instant flight, the engine being tested every half-hour or so in order to obviate delay through starting troubles. Look-out men are posted at various positions whose duty it is to keep a watchful eye on any planes which may be operating in their vicinity.

At the slightest sign of a machine falling, or descending in trouble, they immediately telegraph their information to headquarters, stating whereabouts the machine may be expected to land. On receipt of this information the "aerial hospital" sets out at once for the scene of the accident, ready to offer medical assistance, if such assistance should be required.

A fire-engine and a ambulance wagon follow by road, with the result that the unfortunate flying-man receives every form of assistance in an incredibly short space of time, after his accident.

The importance of this "quick help" system cannot be over-estimated. First aid on the spot will doubtless be the means of saving the lives of many airmen.



The easy fit and foot comfort provided by this broad toe last appeal to a large class of men. Straight-laced or Blucher, black or brown leather. $6.00 to $10.00.

Your Safest Guide to Value

IN buying shoes, unless you yourself are an expert, you must take somebody's word for value in them. Price alone is not a safe guide, for prices today are determined by such a broad sweep of abnormal conditions. The "looks" of the shoe will not assure you of value, for its wearing qualities are mostly invisible.

You will seldom be led astray if you will go to a reliable dealer and benefit by his advice based on knowledge and experience. If in addition you will see that the manufacturer's trade-mark is on the shoes you buy, you will have double assurance of service and satisfaction.

The manufacturer's trade-mark is a direct guarantee to you of shoe quality at fair prices, and it is the strongest possible endorsement of your dealer's judgment of values. It is your safest guide to service and economy.

COMFORT SOAP

Empress Wanted "Strength."

A policy of "unrelenting power" was urged upon the former Russian Emperor by his mother, the Dowager Empress of Russia, early in 1906, according to the secret diary of the Emperor published by the Izvestia of Moscow. The alleged letter was dated Jan. 14, 1906, shortly before the assembling of the first Duma. According to a Moscow despatch to the Rheinische Westfaleische Zeitung of Essen the abbreviated text reads:

"Dear Nicky: We are deeply thankful for your dear letter. It breathes a new spirit. If earlier we had been more energetic and shown more firmness in the exercise of power much would have been avoided. I do not understand why Witte (one-time Russian Premier) lost so much time.

"Now the question which greatly occupies and disquiets me—the question of the Cabinet and Crown domains, which these swine want to take from us, according to their various party programs. They must be impressed with the fact that no one shall dare to interfere with these personal rights of the Emperor and his family. It would be a great historical mistake if we now gave way in the slightest point. Every concession would be interpreted as weakness. Our absolute principle must now be a policy of unrelenting power."

The letter, which was written partly in Russian and partly in French, closes with the repeated admonition "be strong."

Flight Across Alps.

Merely as a "matter of routine," as the British official statement nonchalantly remarks, two Royal Air Force officers have flown from Great Britain across France, Italy and the Mediterranean to Egypt. One or two momentary stops were made to renew the supply of petrol.

This is a greater achievement that flying across the Atlantic. The Alps are more dangerous to cross than any area of the ocean between Newfoundland and Ireland.

From England to Egypt is over 2,000 miles. From Newfoundland to Ireland direct is only 1,800 miles. The heads of the leading airplane manufacturing firms in Britain are confident that that 1,800 miles can easily be crossed in twenty hours in the new British airplane, now doing such deadly damage to the Huns on the western front.

The Color of a Smell.

Can we say that a thing has a "green odor," or a "pink smell?" Prof. R. W. Wood of Johns Hopkins thinks so. It seems that colors bear a certain relation to odors. This is especially true of gases. Bromine and peroxide of nitrogen, for instance, are both reddish-brown in color, and although chemically different they affect the sense of smell in the same disagreeable manner. The air we breathe is composed chiefly of nitrogen and oxygen, two colorless and odorless gases. But if these two elements are combined in the proportion of two molecules of nitrogen to four of oxygen the odor becomes so unpleasant that we should call it "dark brown" when expressing it in the terminology of colors.—Popular Science Monthly.

Swell Job.

At the lunch hour we heard this conversation between the office boy and his evidently unattached friends:

"Gee, how long you been workin' here?"

"Ten days already."

"Good job?"

"Swell."

"When do you hafter go to work?"

"Any time I want to."

"Aw, go-wan! Whatcha tryin' to do, kid me?"

"Nope. I c'n go to work any time I feel like it, just so I ain't no later than 7 o'clock."

Suppose you are thirty-five years old, and carrying $10,000 of Life Insurance costing you, say $300.00 per year, would you not like, (in case of serious accident or illness destroying your earning power) to have the payment of this premium paid for you as long as you live?

THE COST OF LIVING IS SOARING IN ITALY

(By Henry Wood.)
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Oct. 5.—(By Mail.)—From what was in all probability before the war the cheapest country in which to live, Italy has become unquestionably the most expensive. At least, no other country amongst the allies has been harder hit in the matter of the cost of living than has Italy.

Statistics just issued by the Italian government show that the average increase since the beginning of the war ranges from 305 to 533 per cent. The smallest increase, that of 305 per cent., is in shoes, clothing and soap; the highest increase, 533 per cent. is in food not much used; while the next to the highest increase, 336 per cent., is on all the food stuffs of general consumption.

This astounding change in the cost of living in Italy perhaps is due to two principal causes. First, the great depreciation of Italian currency on foreign markets makes it necessary for Italy to pay almost double the regular price of everything that is purchased abroad. Secondly, Italy has been more dependent than any other of the allied countries on importation of all manufactured products.

The statistics just issued by the government on the increase in the principal necessities of life are as follows:

Shoes, Clothing, Etc.

	August 1914	August 1918
Men's clothing, average cost per suit	$ 15.00	$ 42.80

Olive oil, exclusively for cooking, per quart	.18	.40
	$ 1.13	$ 3.86

Average increase over 1914, 336 per cent.

Average increase, 533 per cent.

As the government, in order to prevent speculation and insure a just distribution of all foodstuffs available, has overtaken distribution and fixing of prices, it has likewise endeavoured to increase the average income of each individual so that he can live under these circumstances. Laws have been enacted forcing employers to give increases in salary, but these very seldom have exceeded 35 or 50 per cent.

Merchants generally have solved the problem by raising prices on everything that is not controlled by the government. Many classes of workmen and day labourers have been able to exact increased pay. In general, however, the disproportion still continues very great, and the Italian public generally is feeling the effects of war more in its daily life than that of any other allied belligerent.

BRAZIL A USEFUL ALLY

WHAT COUNTRY HAS DONE SINCE ENTERING WAR.

Ships, Men and Goods Have Been Sent by the South American Republic to Help the Allies—Country Is Rich and Prosperous and Eager to Do a Share In Smashing Germany.

SINCE Brazil declared war against Germany on October 26, 1917, she has rendered valuable assistance to the Allies in more ways than one, says the London Times, and some account of the part she has been playing was given to a representative of the Times by Rear-Admiral Francisco de Mattos, Chief of the Brazilian Naval Mission to Europe.

Admiral de Mattos, attended by Lieut. Neiva, staff officer, left Brazil en mission at the beginning of the present year and travelled to the continent by way of this country. He decided to discharge the continental portion of his mission first, and since February he has been in Italy, Greece and France, where he has visited the naval squadrons, ports and arsenals, and also the great munition works. He is now about to make a similar study here, and the Brazilian Naval Mission will be permanently established in this country until the end of the war. The object of the mission, stated in official language, is "to follow the operations of war of the Allied squadrons, and to superintend the naval operations of Brazil in Europe."

So far Brazilian co-operation in the war has been mainly, though by no means exclusively, naval. "Since war was declared," said Admiral de Mattos, "we have carried out patrol work in conjunction with the British and American navies for the protection of Allied commerce. Our ships have operated in this manner in several zones of Allied traffic. Again, when the war broke out, there were 53 German merchant ships interned in Brazilian ports. These have been taken over by the Brazilian Government, and 39 of them, representing a tonnage of 250,000 tons, have been ceded to France in order to relieve the maritime transport difficulties of that country. We have also had submarine-chasers at work." It may be explained that the Brazilian navy, though not a large one, is up-to-date. It includes two 20,000-ton battleships, two cruisers, 10 destroyers, and a number of submarines. Practically all these vessels have been built for the Brazilian Government in British yards, and the navy is the creation of the present Minister of Marine, Admiral Alexandrino de Alencar.

"I always entertained hopes that the submarine menace would be overcome," said Admiral de Mattos. "What I have seen since I came to Europe has augmented those hopes. I am more confident than ever. In fact, I consider that the submarine war is already in its death throes. The submarine is definitely beaten."

Apart from naval co-operation, Brazil has 50 military surgeons working in hospitals in London and Paris, and she has sent a large number of naval and military airmen to Europe. The former are in training in England; the latter are in France. Furthermore, Brazil has been able to send quantities of meat, cereals, and other foodstuffs to the Allies. "All these foodstuffs are very plentiful," said Admiral de Mattos, "and Brazil's capacity to supply the Allies is only limited by the tonnage available. If we had the ships, there would be no need for rationing."

Speaking of the effect of the war upon conditions in Brazil, Admiral de Mattos said the country was very prosperous. "I do not mean to say that lots of people are making money out of the war," he explained, "because, whatever may be the case elsewhere, I do not think that such a statement would be true of Brazil. But, undoubtedly, the effect of the war has been to start into life and to develop hitherto dormant economic forces in the country, and it has given a marked impetus to the production of coal and meat. Generally, the whole agricultural industry is thriving. The cost of living has increased but very little owing to the development of our own resources. Of course, imports have largely ceased, but there is no real deficiency of anything. The people are enthusastic for the cause of the Allies, and there are no pro-German manifestations. We have a large number of German residents in Brazil, but they keep quiet."

Referring to his experiences on the continent, Admiral de Mattos said that what had surprised him most was the wonderful development of Italy. "I knew," he said, "that Great Britain and France were able to cope with the onslaught of the Central Powers, but I had no idea that Italy had made the strides she has done. Her scale of production is marvellous and her enthusiasm unbounded. There is no doubt that Italy is thoroughly prepared. I am not a bit surprised at the result of the Austrian offensive. I am confident that Italy is well able to hold her own. I may add regarding the western front that I do not believe that the enemy will get to Paris. In my opinion, the Central Empires are done. They remind me of a bull in the ring. The bull expends his force, under the goading of the picadors, in the blind rush to get out, and then falls an easy prey when the matador comes on the scene."

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth); then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about four-fifths of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

"Perhaps you are right, Mary, I think I will follow your advice"

"IN what way?"

"By trying Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I have been reading here about the symptoms of exhausted nerves, and the description just suits my case."

"I am sure it will help you just as it did me when I had nervous prostration, for you know yourself that nothing else seemed to do me any good."

"That is about right."

"Well, I have been telling you that the Nerve Food is what you need."

"I know you have, but I did not think there was anything wrong with my nerves, for I was always pretty well. One thing sure, I cannot sleep nights, and get up so tired every morning that I do not feel like taking hold of work like I used to.

"I have felt that I am losing grip on business and sometimes get discouraged. Of course, I have been working hard since we are so short-handed, and I suppose this is beginning to tell."

"Well, I have been worried about your health, but you would not take my advice and so I could do no more. I am awfully glad you are going to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for I am sure it will build up your health."

"I have been reading here a letter from Mr. Myles of Lindsay, and I am not going to delay treatment until I get like he was. When the Nerve Food cured him it will surely help me."

This is the letter:

Mr. Alex. Myles, 5 Regent street, Lindsay, Ont., writes: "For the last five years I had been troubled with my nerves. At times I could not put on my coat alone, and often when trying to read the paper my hands would shake so that the paper would rattle, and I could scarcely read it. When drinking a cup of tea it was difficult to get it to my lips. I did not sleep well, and sometimes would only be asleep a short time when I would wake up and then lie awake the rest of the night. Then, also, I used to take cramps in my legs so badly that I would have to get up at night and walk the floor. Sometimes during the day the cramps would bother me, too. My muscles seemed to tie up in knots. I had tried different medicines without success. Last fall I secured a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and as this one box helped me, I got some more and continued taking them till my nervousness was cured. I feel much better generally, can eat well, and sleep right through the night. I have not had any cramps for two months, and I give all the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Some years ago, too, I was troubled with piles, and upon the advice of a friend, used Dr. Chase's Ointment, which cured me. I have great faith in all of Dr. Chase's medicines."

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies to the body the vital substances from which new, rich blood and nerve force is created it cannot fail to be of benefit to the system. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. The portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., is on every box of the genuine.

Washington Worries About Next Speaker

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Republicans, confident of winning control of the next House of Representatives, today were discussing chances of various members for the speakership.

Democrats are just as confident of victory as Republicans, but in their case, it is practically certain that Speaker Champ Clark will succeed himself.

Republican Leader James R. Mann, Illinois, would be the leading Republican candidate if his health permitted his accepting the place. Mann, however has been away from Congress for several months, and while he is on the road to recovery friends say, he would not risk a set-back by assuming the burdens of the chair.

Acting Majority Leader Gillett, Massachusetts Rep. Nick Longworth, Ohio, son-in-law of Theodore Roosevelt, and Rep. Horace Turner, Iowa, are mentioned after Mann.

If election returns show Republican strength still lies in the east, Gillett is conceded the place.

A big turnover which would send a big G. O. P. delegation from the west probably would result in election of Towner, the leading parliamentarian of the Republican side of the house.

A 3rd possibility is an even division of west and east with Ohio holding the balance of power. This would mean the election of Longworth, who has distinguished himself by his work on the ways and means committee.

Longworth's taxation ideas differ radically from those of Democrats in congress, but in many cases they closely parallel those of Sec. McAdoo.

COULD NOT SLEEP.

Miss Gertrude Pratt, Wolseley St., Barrie, Ont., writes: "I was very much run down and could not sleep either day or night, and my arms and legs ached so that life was very miserable. After using six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I feel well and strong again."

PRETTY TOUGH FOR ABDULLAH BEN ALI

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(By Mail.)—A curious case of a grievance, religion and revenge has been decided by a military tribunal in France.

In one of the labour battalions was an Arab soldier, by name Abdullah ben Ali, who had lent another soldier 5 francs—and failed to get it back. He became resigned to the loss and decided that Kismet had decreed he was not to have the money, but was to seek revenge.

He decided then to kill the debtor. As, however, it was the month of Ramadan, when it is unlawful to kill, he asked the authorities to put him in prison till the month was over, fearing that the force of his desire might lead him to transgress the sacred law.

The authorities refused this request, and Abdullah was more than ever convinced that the gods had ordained that he should kill—which he accordingly did.

After hearing the evidence as to the points of religion involved, the Court sentenced the man to five years' penal servitude.

INDIA'S LOYALTY.

Germans as Usual Made a Bad Guess At It.

Perhaps the most pronounced example of loyalty which the war has developed is that of India. That vast domain of more than 100,000,000 people was supposed to harbor deep-seated resentment against British rule. It was believed in Berlin and perhaps elsewhere that the East Indians were merely waiting for a long-dreamed-of opportunity to revolt; that they were prepared to spring upon the British garrisons and that a world war would give India the chance for which she had waited centuries.

But India has stood by Great Britain with a staunchness and fearlessness that have utterly confounded the Central Powers. Instead of revolution there has been absolute national co-operation. Instead of the massacre of British troops stationed at Indian posts the Indian troops have joined those of England in facing a common enemy.

Half a million soldiers were contributed to the Allied cause by India during the first three years of the war. Just before the beginning of the fourth year it was announced from Simla that a second army of 500,000 additional men had been recruited for service in the field. And in announcing this decision the Provincial Government reaffirmed the resolution of loyalty passed at the original Delhi conference.

On top of all this comes the final announcement that India is proposing to raise a third army, also of 500,000 men, and that the machinery for its voluntary creation as well as for its equipment is now being put into motion. This will put 1,500,000 Indians into the war.

The East Indians now in the service are fighting on three fronts and they are fighting with the gallantry which characterizes the operations of all the British Colonials. A total of 70,000 Indian troops were sent to France more than two years ago. That number has probably been increased to 100,000 by now. Indians compose a large part of the British army advancing against Turkey through Palestine, and Indians comprise almost the whole of the British force driving against the Turks through Mesopotamia.

Hun Delighted With War.

Henry Morgenthau, American Ambassador to Turkey, in his memoirs which are now being published gives an interesting sidelight on German military training. "Col. Wehrle," he says, "whom I met at the Dardanelles, took great delight in showing me the batteries. He had the simple pride of the artist in his work, and told me of the happiness that had come into his days when Germany had at last found herself at war. All his life, he said, he had spent in military practices, and, like most Germans, he had become tired of manoeuvres, sham battles, and other forms of mimic hostilities. Yet he was approaching fifty, he had become a colonel and he was fearful that his career would close without actual military experience — and then the splendid thing had happened and here he was, fighting a real British enemy, firing real guns and shells! There was nothing brutal about Wehrle's manners; he was a 'gemutlich' gentleman from Baden, and thoroughly likeable; yet he was all aglow with the spirit of 'Der Tag.' His attitude was simply that of a man who had spent his lifetime learning a trade and who now rejoiced at the chance of exercising it. But he furnished an illuminating light on the German military character and the forces that had really caused the war."

A short answer seldom helps things along.

Men make houses, but women make homes.

Some men do no wrong because they are too lazy to do anything.

When a man borrows trouble the interest eats up the principal.

The most expensive education is that got in the school of experience.

When the men have to do the house work they probably will turn naggers too.

A woman can break a man's will more easily than he can break her won't.

Half of our diseases are in our minds and the other half are in our houses.

A Paris scientist says that cooks should wear gloves. Too many frills spoil the cook.

Of course it is less trouble to make enemies than friends—but friends are worth the trouble.

DEAF PEOPLE CAN HEAR.

But Not the Way Others Do—Feel Vibrations.

That the deaf can really hear and do hear, but in a different way from ordinary people, is a fact that few persons who are not deaf understand. Stanley Robinson, who became deaf at the age of ten, tells just how they do it.

Not only do the deaf hear sounds, but they are often greatly annoyed by them. They feel sounds through the concussion on the diaphragms of their ears and the vibrations reach the brain, according to Mr. Robinson, through the nerves of feeling rather than by way of the auditory nerves. A deaf man feels the motion of a passing truck, through the vibrations it causes on the pavement. He does not feel the passing of a rubber-tired vehicle on an asphalt paved street, because this causes no vibrations. He feels the footsteps of a horse if nearby and not on the soft earth. He does not hear a stamp upon stone pavement unless it is quite close to him.

"A deaf mute," says Mr. Robinson, "will be conscious of all the noise in the room which he occupies. He will feel the door slam, the fall of a ball, an apple, an orange, a key, or any other weight; the footsteps of persons in the room, if it is not carpeted, or if they do not have on rubber shoes or slippers; also the noise which he makes with his own knife and fork when eating.

"A deaf person never feels the sound of a bell, as its vibrations are confined solely to the atmosphere. I think there is no way by which the sound of such an instrument can be imparted to our feelings."

Some of the devices employed by deaf persons to warn them of the ringing of the door bell are most ingenious. One household has a rubber ball suspended from the ceiling of the living room, and the ringing of the bell causes this to swing back and forth. One man has a flag that drops when the bell rings. Another has the bell attached to an electric lamp so that it lights up when the bell-push is pressed.

One deaf man has an alarm clock attached to the foot of a brass bed. He feels the vibrations when the alarm goes off just as plainly as if he could hear them.

Rose to the Occasion.

Even dead men on the stage have their embarrassing moment, as a certain actor who recently played the role of a poacher in a melodrama discovered. The poacher had been shot by a rival at the end of the second act, and the curtain should have fallen as he dropped dead. As ill luck would have it, however, it stopped short when a few feet from the stage and opposed all efforts to lower it further. The audience began to titter; the situation became tense and painful, when the dead man saved it. Rising wearily, he said, in a sepulchral voice, "Alas, there is no rest even in the grave!" and glided spectrally off the stage.—Cassell's Journal.

When Mother Sang.

They tell us now her singing lacked
In tonal quality;
Her voice was never true to sound,
She often missed the key!
They say she could not read the notes—
She learned the songs by ear;
But this I know, when mother sang
We stopped our play to hear.

"By Cool Siloam's Shady Rill"
Came trembling, solemn, low;
And "Mary to the Saviour's Tomb,"
In tones all sacred-slow.
"Sweet Galilee," and "By and By,"
And then "Sweet Hour of Prayer,"
When mother sang on Sabbath days
The firelight on her hair.

A hope lies deep within my heart,
That on some shining way
Where all is joy and sweet content
And happy children play,
A group of wee ones—can it be?—
Are gathered round her chair
To listen, eager-eyed and rapt,
When mother sings—up There!

Why Belgian Cities Starve.

"You might think that in some of the Belgian cities, so near the fertile fields—those big cities like Brussels, Antwerp, Bruges, Liege — there would be markets of country produce. You might imagine that as in peace times there would be endless lines of peasants' cars lined up in the city squares. In reality the squares are mainly deserted." This says C. C. Clayton, is because "no peasant can enter a city with his produce without a German permit and the only purpose for which a permit will be given is that produce may be delivered to a German agent. Soldiers stand at every gate and on every road to confiscate the goods of all who lack a permit. One can readily see from this one reason why the city people (nearly half of Belgium's population is urban) have suffered so terribly."

now use what are known as combination or double-acting baking powders. This style of baking powder has two actions. It acts first when cold water or milk is added in the mixing bowl. Its second action requires the heat of the oven. This strong, double leavening power is what is needed for the heavy war flours and wheat flour substitutes.

EGG-O Baking Powder

is a pure, strong, double-acting baking powder that Canadian housewives are finding just right for war-time baking. It bakes light, easily-digested, deliciously flavored bread, cakes and tea biscuits.

If you are having trouble with your baking, try Egg-O instead of the ordinary baking powders. You'll be delighted with the results.

WORSE THAN GERMANY.

British Sea Captain Tells of Experience With Austrians.

From the experiences of a British sea captain, it seems that the Austrian treatment of our mercantile is worse even than the German treatment, says the London Express.

While homeward bound the captain's vessel was torpedoed early one morning in April of last year off the Italian coast. The third engineer and two firemen, all British, were killed by the explosion, which wrecked the engine-room. The vessel sank stern first in 20 mintues. The captain and the remainder of the ship's company got safely away in their boats.

About four hours later a submarine bore down on the master's boat, and ordered him aboard their vessel, telling him that he was to be taken to Germany as a prisoner of war. He remained a prisoner on the submarine for 13 days, after which he was landed at the Austrian port of Cattaro. Here he was subjected to a number of indignities, and was subsequently sent to Germany. He spent a year in prison camp there, and is now interned in Holland.

In a statement made since his internment in Holland, the captain says:

"I was on board the submarine 13 days, and the only time we got anything to eat was when we sank a ship and had time to go on board and pirate her. I don't think there were ever such pirates as the German submarine men.

"Those masters and officers who had the misfortune to be sunk in the Mediterranean will never forget the brutal treatment to which we were subjected by the Austrians, being hungered and degraded until we got out of the country. An improvement took place in Germany as far as treatment was concerned.

"I was seven days in the train from Cattaro to Crefeld, and given two loaves of black bread for the journey, one of which I used as a pillow whilst lying in the corridor of the train for three days and nights out of the seven.

"My happy release from Germany was quite unexpected, for, considering there were 105 officers in camp, only eight of us were permitted to have our freedom. Some of the officers left behind are well on to 70 years of age. Of our comrades remaining, some are in a very bad way!"

Germans Expect World Hatred.

Herzog, a German trade expert, has outlined the commercial plans of the Germans as fully as Bernhardi outlined their plans for war. His report was intended for German authorities only, but Herbert Hoover succeeded in getting a copy of it, a digest of which appears in the World's Work, Herzog says:

"German exporters must expect that for a long time after the end of the war German manufacturers will be outlawed among our present enemies. It would be idle to live in the opinion that peace will banish hatred at once. The latter must be reckoned with in German industry.

"The German 'makeup' is to be avoided. Disavowal, under such circumstances is required.

"'Camouflage' in war is an important strategic method; when opportunely and ingeniously applied, it increases the effectiveness of weapons. The application of this precept for the commercial struggle is as clear as day. Away then with the German trademark. Away with it where it brings loss instead of gain."

Grass.

Scientists long have believed that the "grass" which was eaten by Nebuchadnezzar to cure the malady that for several years threatened or obscured his reason was what modern epicures esteem under the name of asparagus. Asparagus is appetizing as well as otherwise suited to the alimentary requirements of man. There is a belief that the grains upon which man leans as the staff of life originally were developed from grasses. Interesting speculation is indulged in as to whether, if meat should become unavailable, man could extract nourishment from the sources that suffice for the herbivorous creatures which find in grass their favorite diet.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

PEDRO'S WIFE

By SADIE OLCOTT

There have been, in the United States and elsewhere, numerous instances of men acquiring wealth suddenly and squandering it in unusual ways. One of the most prominent of such cases was that of "Coal Oil Johnny" Steele, who was made very rich by the discovery of petroleum on a farm he owned. He spent his fortune in spectacular ways and then sank into comparative obscurity. While his money lasted he was known as "the prince of spenders."

But the story of "Coal Oil Johnny" is dwarfed by that of Pedro Alvarado, a Mexican, son of a peon and a Mexican woman. Pedro's father saved his money till he had $100 and bought with it a rocky hill. On his deathbed he exacted a promise from his son that he would never sell the land. Pedro prospected it for silver and one day found himself in possession of a mine that paid him $30,000 a day. This amount for a year of, say, 300 working days amounts to $9,000,000 a year. What a fortune for one who had known nothing but abject poverty!

But Pedro Alvarado, unlike "Coal Oil Johnny" [illegible] soon in dissipation. A man for something usually scares up those suddenly made rich, and Pedro's fear proved [illegible] built a fine home and filled it with pianos. There were maple and mahogany pianos and white enameled pianos. Indeed pianos of every variety. It does not appear that he could play a note on one of them; that he had any predilection for music. It was simply the form of wealth that struck him; he having unlimited means at his command.

The story of Pedro Alvarado is a number of stories. Perhaps the most curious one of all is that of his wife's foresight. Pedro had no idea of business principles and knew only how to work his mine in a primitive way which was most expensive. He paid everybody connected with his mine an enormous salary, besides which his employees helped themselves to what they could lay their hands on. Instead of building a railroad to carry his ore he sent it by mule. Perhaps the mine could have stood this drain and its owner's extravagance and the vein held out. But it did not. There was just so much silver in it, and when it was all gone Pedro's income was gone. He had spent it as fast as he made it, and when it ceased he found himself with nothing.

During this period, when bank bills were floating about like snowflakes, Pedro's wife foresaw that when the storm of wealth had passed the soft about them would become dry as before. She determined to gather what she could while it lasted and began putting away money secretly. Catching thousand dollar bills as they circled about her, she concealed them in her clothing, ripping open articles, putting the bills in and sewing them up. It is singular that while she and her husband had been peons and had drudged as such he lost sight during prosperity of the fact that he might return to his degradation, while his wife took precautions against it.

When Pedro's mine began to show signs of running out he was advised that in order to keep it paying he must work it on business principles—he must cut down the wastage, due to his methods; he must retrench in the matter of salaries; he must stop the stealing. But he had not the ability to change. As the amount of silver taken out of his mine decreased it was met by the expenditures, and there was nothing over; the one balanced the other.

According to all well told stories, Senora Alvarado, who had been sewing up thousand dollar bills, should now come forward and take the lead. But true stories have a way of running like water—in channels they make for themselves. The good woman did not live to enjoy the fruits of her precaution. She died about the time that the mine gave out.

Among the servants who had attended the deceased was a maid who had been in her mistress' service a long while and had learned the secret of her hidden wealth. When the senora's effects were distributed this maid was asked if there was anything she would like. She asked for a quilt that her beloved mistress had slept under so long that it had become identified with her. But in making the request the girl showed anxiety to possess the article which would be such a valued memento of her dear mistress.

Now, Pedro and his wife had many tiffs with regard to his extravagance, and she had often warned him that he would one day come to want. He wondered at her death if she had not been putting something away for a rainy day. The maid's anxiety to possess a bedquilt of no value, when there were other articles far more to be desired, excited his suspicions. Ripping up the quilt, out fell one thousand dollar bill after another, accumulating in a heap on the floor.

When Pedro had got out all the bills and counted them he found himself again a rich man. He profited by his experience as well as his wife's foresight. In the first place, he turned over his mine to others who were ready to work it, or what was left of it, on business principles, and, investing nearly a million which his wife had saved from the many millions that had been wasted, he now lives like a nabob on his income. Does Pedro realize the value of the wife he has lost? That is a question. Only Pedro himself knows, and he does not tell.

The death of the director of the observatory on Mount Vesuvius from the explosion of a kerosene lamp in his bedchamber is one of the curious ironies of fate.

A Chicago movement to put homeless children in childless homes does not appear to take sufficient account of the possibility of the childless homes preferring to remain that way.

There seems to be objection on the part of some men to wearing whiskers of variegated hues to match the new fashions in ladies' hair. Men are always a little obstinate about these things at first.

Now some eminent scientist leaps to his feet and announces in his frightened way that the ant is laden with the most deadly germs, but we are a reckless people, and doubtless the picnics will be held just as usual.

under any condition, nor for any consideration. We prefer not to make it at all, rather than do that.

There is no substitute for CEETEE Underclothing—it is in a class by itself. No other underwear like it is being made in America.

But, owing to the Government regulations regarding wool, which allow a very small percentage for civilian purposes, also the scarcity of available ships, we are only able to supply about half the demand for Ceetee, which is made from finest Australian Merino Wool.

However, if our many friends are unable to secure their usual CEETEE Underclothing, we suggest that they try some other Turnbull brand. We guarantee it will give excellent satisfaction.

Turnbull's underwear in all sizes is sold by most good dealers, for men, women and children.

Which of these World-Famous Proverbs fits this Picture?

The hypocrite's hopes shall perish.
Hasty climbers have sudden falls.
He that sows iniquity shall reap sorrow.
Peace begins where ambition ends.
Where villainy goes before, vengeance follows after.
Feuds come at last to the furrier.
Big heads have big aches.
Who takes up the sword shall perish by the sword.
Punishment follows close on the heels of crime.
To the wicked, misfortune comes triple.
Force can never destroy right.
The wicked shall not inherit the earth.
The punishment shall fit the crime.
Evil conduct is the root of misery.
Ill deeds heap on thy soul.

Guns In France.

The guns in France have been audible in London during the still nights of May and June. A good many people seem a little incredulous of the fact, yet 250 years ago, when guns were much lighter than at the present day, Mr. Pepys wrote in his diary, "All this day (June 3, 1665) by all people upon the river and almost everywhere else hereabout were heard the guns,"—the guns of the British and Dutch fleets fighting in the North Sea. To an attentive ear, in the first week in June, the booming of the guns could be heard, in the night time and the early morning hours, from one of the ridges of the Chiltern Hills, thirty miles northwest of London.

is the dedication of Sir Arthur Quiller Couch's new book. Originality in such a matter as a dedication is not exactly easy to achieve, but Sir Arthur's success in that particular line is cast completely in the shade by a young airman, who relating his escape from Germany, prefaced his book with the words:

To
whose guiding light marked the pathway to freedom for a weary fugitive, this book is inscribed in humble gratitude and abiding faith.

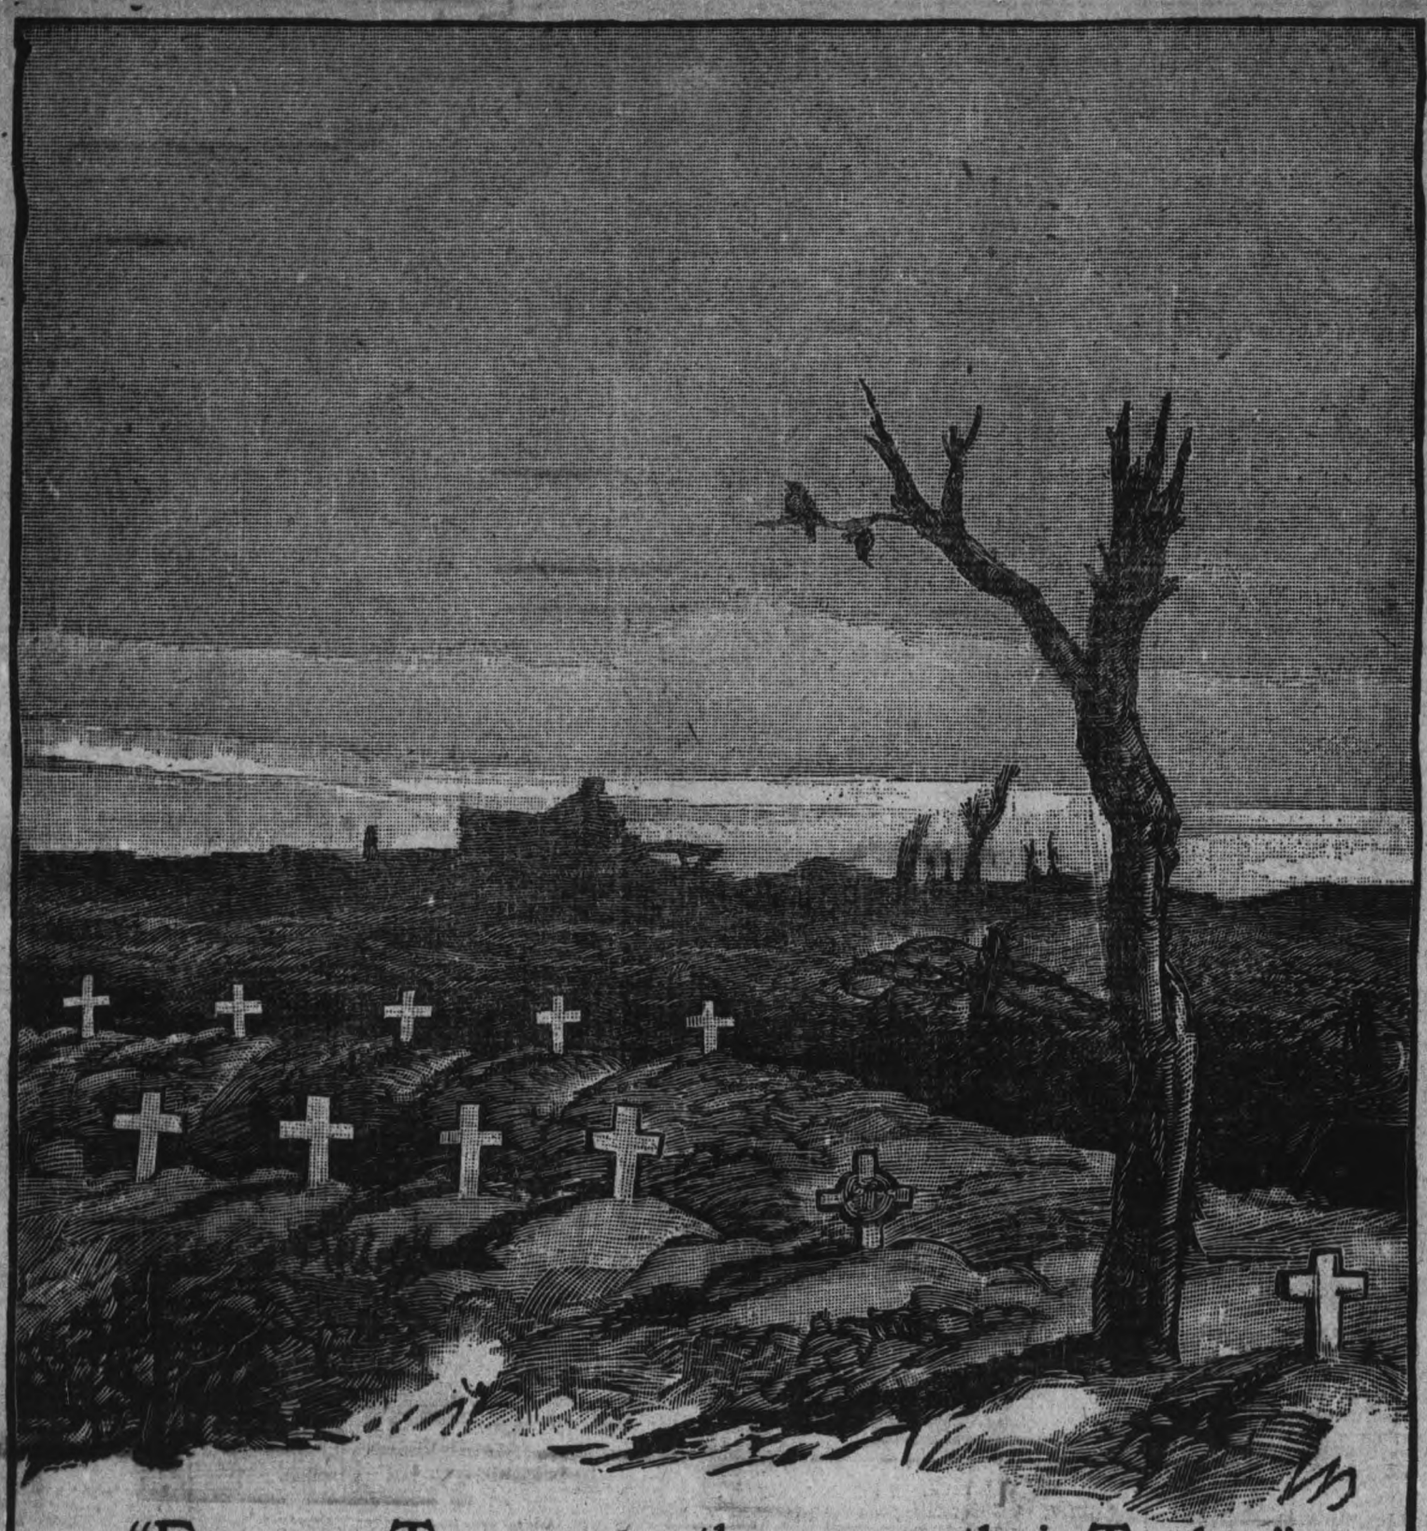
LEMON JUICE WHITENS SKIN

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for few cents

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best bleaching and skin whitening lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how tan, redness, sallowness, sunburn and windburn disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.



"For your To-morrow they gave their To-day"

(Inscribed on a cross in Flanders)

And we who live in tranquillity amid all the comforts of peace and plenty, knowing little of sacrifice, nothing at all of fear of death or violence—are we worthy of the sacrifices those crosses in Flanders mutely remind us of?

Are we doing our duty to our noble dead—those gallant, high-souled boys who interposed their bodies against the assault upon civilization by brutalized might?

Are we living, thinking and acting as people for whom great things are being done, tremendous sacrifices made? Are we accepting in a proper spirit of humility the bloody sacrifices and the agonies of the battlefields; the sorrows and heart aches of Canadian mothers, wives and sisters whose loved ones lie beneath the poppies in Flanders?

Do we realize that we, each one of us, as individuals have a personal share and interest in the issue for which our boys fight, bleed and die in France.

If we do realize this, then our duty is clear—a duty to ourselves, our country, our glorious fighters, and our heroic dead—to help by every means in our power to bring Victory for our boys in battle.

Karl King in Name Only, Submits to the Inevitable

Austro-Hungarian Emperor Still in Vienna, But Power Has Fled—Advises His Officers to Serve in the Armies Constituted by Newly-Formed Governments.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN VIENNA FOLLOW QUIET

Basil, Nov. 2.—Vienna was quiet until seven o'clock Thursday evening, after which there were demonstrations in front of the Ministry of War, according to a Vienna diepatch quoting the semi-official news agency which customarily is used for making court announcements. Yesterday's Vienna newspapers deny that Emperor Charles has left the capital. The Imperial couple are still in Vienna, it is declared.

An imperial ordinance authorizes all officers in the country to place themselves in the service of the armies constituted by the newly-formed Governments and to permit the soldiers under their command to do likewise.

WOULD SPARE VENETIA

Paris, Nov. 2.—The Austro-Hungarian commander on the Italian front, in asking Gen. Diaz for an immediate armistice, argued that under such an arrangement Venetia would be evacuated without damage to the cultivated areas, according to a Budapest despatch to L'Information.

WAS WITH FAMILY WHEN SHOT

Basel, Nov. 2.—Count Tisza was promenading with his family when he was shot, a Budapest despatch received here by way of Berlin announces. A woman member of the group was wounded, it is added.

IZZET PASHA FOOLS HIMSELF

Amsterdam, Nov. 2.—Izzet Pasha, the Turkish Grand Visier, is quoted by the Constantinople newspaper, Tasviri Efkiar, when the armistice negotiations were in progress as saying:

"The conditions of the armistice will be lighter than the demands imposed on Bulgaria as no military occupation of Constantinople or other Turkish territory has been demanded."

KAROLYI TO TRY AGAIN

Basel, Nov. 2.—Official announcement has been made in Budapest, says a telegram from the Hungarian capital, of the formation of a Ministry under Count Karolyi.

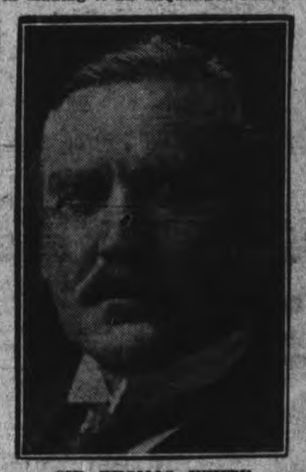
Sir Thomas White's Appeal to Canadians

Points Out Great Need of the Victory Loan to Carry On the War.

On the opening of Canada's great Victory Loan drive the Minister of Finance issued the following message:—

To the People of Canada:

The Victory Loan of 1918 is now being offered for public subscription. It is an undertaking of most vital consequence to the nation, and I cannot too earnestly emphasize the duty and responsibility resting upon all citizens of Canada to co-operate to the extent of their available resources in making it an unqualified success.



SIR THOMAS WHITE

Minister of Finance under whose direction the great Victory Loan drive for $500,000,000 is being made.

The money to be raised is urgently required to enable us to continue the prosecution of the war, now in its fifth and most crucial year, and for the maintenance of the prosperity of the Dominion in all departments of productive activity.

Apart from patriotic considerations which should alone suffice, it is the direct, immediate, personal interest of every individual Canadian citizen that the Loan should not fail of its objective. The bonds afford absolute security and yield a most attractive rate of interest. Undoubtedly, in the period succeeding the war, they will show a substantial appreciation in value.

All citizens are earnestly invited to subscribe. Remember, you are asked not to give but to lend your money to the state. Small subscriptions from those of slender means are as welcome as the large. In the last Victory Loan we received subscriptions of over four hundred million dollars from over eight hundred thousand subscribers. This year we expect five hundred million dollars from more than a million subscribers.

Let all subscribe to the extent of their means, be they great or small, and once more demonstrate to the world the strength, unity and determination of the Canadian people in this world struggle. Even if the war should end at an earlier date than has been anticipated, all the money asked for will be required for the purposes of demobilization, which will extend over many months, and for the continuation of credits for the purchase of Canadian products. The organization and publicity work in connection with the Loan has been completed after many weeks of effort. It now remains for the people of Canada to do their share. That they will do so to the fullest degree, I am entirely confident.

W. T. WHITE.

Ottawa, Oct. 28th, 1918.

Brown Study.

The term "brown study" is a corruption of brow study, brow being derived from the old German "braun," meaning the brow.

We make our fortunes. We call them fate.—Alroy.

CANADIAN ARMY AND THE VICTORY LOAN

War Costing Canada Over Million Dollars a Day — $400,000,000 Will Be This Year's Bill.

Nearly 600,000 have been enrolled in the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

About 425,000 have gone overseas.

Canada's 1918 war bill will be $400,000,000.

Canada's 1917 war bill was $320,000,000.

Canada's war expenditure is now $33,000,000 a month.

It exceeds $1,000,000 a day.

The $420,000,000 subscribed to the 1917 Victory Loan will not do much more than pay this year's war bill.

$500,000,000 are needed through the Victory Loan, even though peace should come to-morrow.

BANKS WILL LEND.

In order to help out small subscribers to the Victory Loan the banks will lend subscribers, on the probable certainty of repayment within a year, up to 90 per cent. of the amount of the investment in the Loan. The rate of interest charged by the banks is 5½ per cent. Repayment is to be made monthly and quarterly. These are much better terms than were granted last year.

There are over 425,000 Canadians overseas who will have to be kept for at least a year, even if peace were to come this month.

No one who looks at the casualty lists can do otherwise than subscribe every dollar possible to the Victory Loan.

The Canadians in France have set a high standard for those at home to reach in the Victory Loan campaign.

Canada must put every ounce of effort into the Victory Loan drive.

Oversubscribing to the Victory Loan would have a wonderful effect on the Canadian Corps in France. It would be the best thing that Canada could possibly do.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

AVOID INDIGESTION, SOUR ACID STOMACH, HEARTBURN, GAS ON STOMACH, ETC.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and health fully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

GRAIN MARKET

Cash outs situation at Fort William shows a sudden change in sentiment, and prices took a sharp downward turn. The weakness of corn, and the fact that a temporary embargo against the shipment of grain east exists, are in part the reasons for the weakness in oats. Cash C.W.'s are quoted 4 3-8c. lower on No. 2. Extra No. 1 feed is quoted 1c. higher than No. 3 C.W. Barley is dull and easier. Buckwheat is quoted for the first time this season, starting off at $1.65.

Manitoba oats—No. 3 C.W., 80 1-8c. in store, Fort William; No. 3, 77 1-8c.; extra No. 1 feed, 78 1-8c.; No. 2 feed, 77 1-8c.

Manitoba wheat—In store, Fort William (not including 2 1-2 cent tax); No. 1 northern, $2.24 1-2; No. 2 northern, $22[illegible]; No. 3 northern, $2.17 1-2; No. 4 wheat, $2.11 1-2.

Manitoba oats—No. 2 C.W., 84 1-2c. in store, Fort William; No. 3, 81c.; extra No. 1 feed, 81c.; No. 2 feed, 79c.

American corn—No. 2 yellow, $1.67; No. 3, $1.60; No. 4, $1.50; corn feed, $1.30, track, Toronto.

Ontario wheat—No. 1 winter, $2.14 to $2.22; No. 2 winter, $2.11 to $2.19; No. 3 winter, $2.07 to $2.15; No. 1 spring, $2.09 to $2.17; No. 2 spring, $2.06 to $2.14; No. 3 spring, $2.02 to $2.10, f.o.b. shipping points, according to freight.

Ontario oats—No. 2 white, new crop, 75c. to 78c.; No. 3, 74c. to 77c., according to freight outside.

Barley— Malting, new crop, $1 to $1.05.

Peas—No. 2 nominal.

Buckwheat—$1.65.

Rye—No. 2, nominal.

Ontario Flour — War quality, $10.75, Toronto-Montreal; $10.75, new bags.

Manitoba flour—War quality, $11.50, Toronto.

Millfeed—Car lots, delivered Montreal; shorts, $42.25; bran, $37.25; feed flour, not quoted; middlings not quoted.

Hay—Baled, track, Toronto, car lots—No. 2, $22 to $23; No. 2 mixed, $20 to $21.50 per ton; straw, car lots, $9.50 to $10.50.

The municipal bond sales in Canada during August, as compiled by the Monetary Times 1913, totalled $3,158,307, compared with $1,415,940 in July, and $4,637,836 in August a year ago.

Sales of the Canadian Fairbanks-Morse, Limited, for the first eight months of the current fiscal year are ahead of those of the corresponding period of 1917. Demand for machinery from the west has not been so large owing to the uncertain crop conditions. In Ontario, however, the demand has been very active.

SAILED ON LOST SHIP

Howard Darling of Smith Tp. Believed to Be Member of Crew Listed as H. Darling

IN C.P.R. SERVICE

In the list of the crew of the ill-fated C.P.R. Pacific Coast liner "Princess Sophia," appeared the name of H. Darling, who is presumed to be a brother of Mr. Russel Darling, of Smith Township. Mr. Darling received a letter about two weeks ago that Howard was leaving shortly on what was to be the last trip of the season. Since then no word has been received from him, and it is believed now that the name on the list is that of Howard Darling. It will be remembered that all on board the "Princess Sophia" were lost when it sank off Juneau, after hanging on a submarine peak for a day and a night during a severe storm that made rescue work impossible.

Howard Darling has been working on the Pacific coast C.P.R. line for a number of years, but his relatives and friends fear that the name in the list of the missing crew was his.

Victory Bonds Will Not be Taxed

Ontario Government Will Protect Purchasers:

The Ontario Government makes two announcements of great importance in connection with the question of Provincial and Municipal taxation of Victory bonds.

It will be recalled that in the case of a subscription made last year by the Massey-Harris Company the City of Toronto Assessment Department took the view that the Company was subject to taxation on the whole amount of the subscription regardless of the fact that this subscription was subsequently reduced and the Company's actual income was correspondingly reduced. Legal action being taken the City's position was sustained. In future the Provincial Government proposes to protect the subscriber in such cases.

Another Announcement.

The other announcement is of particular interest to large investors in Victory bonds outside the Province of Ontario; the point having been raised that Ottawa being located in this Province and all Dominion of Canada bonds having their technical domicile at Ottawa, all Victory bonds would, therefore, be subject to the Ontario Succession's Duty Act on the death of the owner, the Ontario Government makes it clear that it has no intention of setting up any such claim.

The announcement of the intentions of the Government is contained in two letters which have been received by Mr. E. R. Wood, Chairman, Dominion Executive, from Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer.

Archibald Gagnon Taken Off Train

Will Spend Next Twenty Days in Jail.

"He say follow me." "Alright, I follow him" was all that Archibald Gagnon could say when asked if he wished to ask the police officer any questions.

P. C. Young arrested Archibald at the C.P.R. station this morning just after he had alighted from the 6.21 train. He pleaded not guilty, and in uncertain English interrupted P. C. Young, who stated that Archibald could hardly stand up straight.

"Ten dollars fine, or in default 20 days in jail," pronounced Magistrate Dumble.

The prisoner had only $1.10 on his person and will in consequence be a county guest for the next twenty days.

Valenciennes is Practically in Hands of the Canadians as Result of New Offensive Attack Begun in the Early Morning Under Cover of Heavy Barrage —Americans and French Advance Four Miles.

ON WESTERN FRONT

(United Press.)
(By Lowell Mellett.)

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN FLANDERS, Nov. 2. — Valenciennes is practically in the hands of the Canadians. The attack began yesterday morning under cover of an extremely heavy barrage and resulted in almost the complete encirclement of the city. The Rhonelle River, flowing south eastward from the city, is filled with the German dead. A captured officer declared that "A little more pressure will end the German army's resistance."

A HARD OBSTACLE.

Ohio and Pacific coast troops participated in the French advance upon Audenarde. The Americans started on Thursday between Nellekeneshner and Jamoelshoek. Their hardest obstacle was Spitaalsbosschen Wood, which was taken by storm. The attack spread out yesterday to the whole front between the Lys and the Scheldt, and to-day the French and the Americans are fighting along the latter river on a wide front on both sides of Audenarde. The important railway town of Deynze is also in their hands. A difficult situation was presented by the Germans using houses in which there were civilians as defensive points. As they fell back during the night and early morning they would burn houses they evacuated in order to illuminate the ground over which the Americans advanced. One American brigade was compelled to discontinue the use of its artillery to avoid injuring civilians.

AMERICANS AND FRENCH MAKE A BIG SMASH ON TWENTY MILE FRONT.

(Special to Examiner.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 2. — The Americans with the French cooperating on their left, have advanced more than four miles in an attack on a twenty mile front between the Aisne and the Meuse, launched yesterday morning. A deep wedge has been driven into the German lines, increasing the menace to the enemy's vital communications. More than 3,000 prisoners have been taken.

—:—

LONDON, Nov. 2. — The Anglo-French forces in their attack yesterday in Flanders reached the Scheldt River as far north as Eecke, seven miles south, southeast of Ghent.

It is probable that Valenciennes has fallen, despite enemy counter attacks yesterday which deprived the British of part of their gains.

A Message to the St. James' Congregation

Spend the Day in Meditation and Humble Confession.

To the members and friends of St. James,—

As the ban on public worship still remains, let us spend the hours set apart for worship, in the study of God's word, in meditation, in humble confession ,in earnest endeavor after a deeper and richer spiritual life—and in grateful acknowlegment to Almighty God that the scourge in our midst is abating and earnest prayer that it may speedily disappear from our land.

FIRST WEEK OF VICTORY LOAN IS ENTIRE SUCCESS

Peterboro is Ahead of Last Year and the Work is Just Beginning to Gain Momentum.

The first week of Peterborough's Victory Loan has been altogether satisfactory to the committee who are giving every moment of their time to its promotion. Mr. Thompson, who is superintendent of the Eastern Ontario district, stated yesterday afternoon before going to Toronto that he was highly pleased with the progress of the Loan here, and was confident that the objective would be reached before the 16th.

What Other Factories Show..

A telegram this morning reported that twelve factories in Welland have won the honour flags, seven in West York and four in St. Catharines.

Peterborough has several factories that are close to the standard of 75 p.c. of their employees with bonds to the value of 10 p.c. of the annual payroll.

Lakefield Enterprise.

R. Graham & Son, of Lakefield have issued handbills announcing that to encourage the sale of Victory Bonds they will give a discount of 10 p.c. to all purchasers at their store on November 16th who are wearing the button of the Victory Loan.

Mr. W. B. Cumming, the local organizer, has been called to Toronto by the illness of his wife. One of the local staff was taken ill yesterday, and the headquarters were considerably disturbed. Mr. Brownscombe was working until midnight filing the report that must be forwarded daily.

THIRTEEN PATIENTS AT NEW HOSPITAL

Population At The Emergency Hospital Fluctuates Daily

Constantly arriving and leaving cured, the population of the Emergency Hospital fluctuates daily, and to-day at ten o'clock stood at 13 with several more expected in before the evening. The Sunday figures are expected to be about 20 from present indications.

Miss Alford, the nurses' organizer, is well pleased with the staff. While the actual breaking in of the girls to hospital methods occupied time and took patience, they all fell in, and learnt satisfactorily, and are to-day doing remarkably good work.

No Cook.

The hospital is hampered by the fact that there is no cook. The one who improvised is leaving tomorrow evening, which puts the Superintendent in an awkward position. However, she is confident that somebody will realize the pressing need and volunteer to take over the position.

KING BORIS ABDICATES

Another Throne Totters in the Balkan States—Peasant Government Formed.

REPUBLICAN ARMY

Canadian Press:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 2.—King Boris, of Bulgaria, who ascended the throne on Oct. 3 has abdicated, and a peasant government has been established at Tirnova, under the leadership of M. Stambuliwsky, who is reported to be in command of a Republican army of forty thousand men.

Stambuliwsky, the new leader of the Bulgarian Government, was but recently released from prison. When Bulgaria entered the war in October, 1915, Stambuliwsky was sentenced to imprisonment for life after conviction on a charge of anti-militarism. He remained in prison until September 30, when he was pardoned by King Ferdinand prior to that King's abdication. For many years Stambuliwsky has been a leader of the peasants and agriculturists.

Presentation to J. S. Hetherington

Employee of Auburn Woollen Mills Honoured on Eve of Departure.

Mr. John S. Hetherington, who for the past six years has been connected with the Auburn Woollen Mills, left this week to enter upon his new duties as Superintendent of the new Wood's Worsted Mill in Toronto. On the eve of his departure, the employees of his departments presented him with a handsome leather club bag and set of ebony military brushes, and the following address:

Dear Mr. Hetherington:

We, the employees of the Weaving Department, having learned with much sorrow that you are about to leave us to take up new duties elsewhere, feel that upon such an occasion, unexpected and regrettable as it is, we cannot allow you to take your departure without endeavouring to show in some small measure our appreciation of your efforts on our behalf.

During your long and faithful term of service as foreman of this department, your thoughtfulness, and above all, your fairness to each one of us, new and old alike, have ever characterized your work, and we have been by no means unappreciative of the difficulties under which you have worked at times, through shortage of help and other causes.

While your departure is felt as a distinct personal loss to each of us, as we know it is to the company, still we realize that such changes are inevitable in the world of business, and whilst regretting, we at the same time rejoice that your efforts are being rewarded, and that you are meeting with the continued success which you have so well earned in your chosen calling. In wishing you farewell, we ask you to accept this little gift as a slight tangible evidence of our esteem, and with it go the good wishes of every one of us, and the hope and surety that you will as successfully fulfill your new duties as you have ever done, those which are about to close.

Signed by the Employees of the Weaving Departments, Auburn Woollen Mills.

Mr. John Brearly read the address, and the presentation was made by Mr. William Long.

Mr. Hetherington, although taken completely by surprise, replied briefly, thanking the donors for their splendid gifts and expressing his deep appreciation of their loyalty and hearty co-operation during the past six years, and their good wishes for his future success.

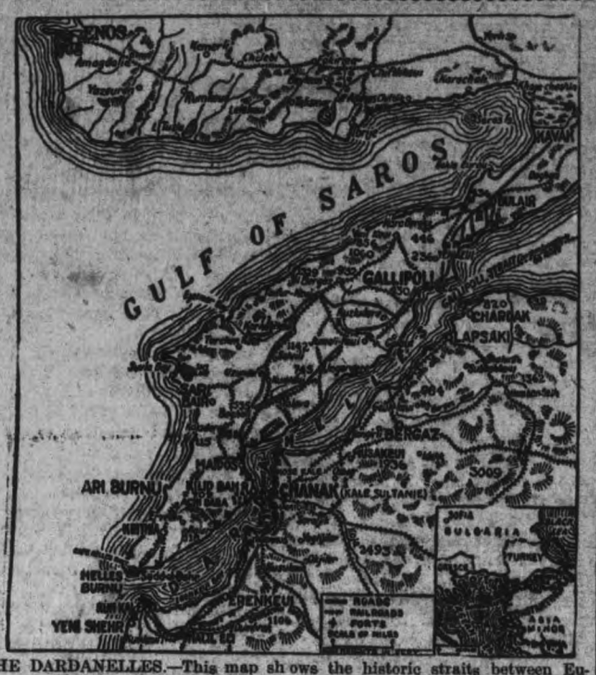
WARNING TO AUTOMOBILE OWNERS

Draining Water From Continental Motors.

Mr. C. R. Banks of the Banks Garage wishes to advise all owners of cars equipped with Continental Motors, with which all 6 cyclinder Overlands are equipped, to see that in draining the water from the cyclinders that the plug in the cyclinder on the left hand forward side, is removed Unless this plug is removed, water will remain in the cyclinders and serious trouble from freezing be possible. Do not let this feature be overlooked in laying up your car for the winter as serious expense can easily be entailed through neglect of this precaution.

We will be pleased to point out the location of this plug, to anyone calling at the Banks Garage.

You must help put Loan over.



THE DARDANELLES.—This map shows the historic straits between Europe and Asia, which have been the cause of many wars, but which are now, by reason of the capitulation of Turkey, free to the world for the first time in history. Up these straits the British fleet will pass (or have passed) on their way to the Black Sea. Probably it will take some days to get the straits clear of mines.

The Bavarian Premier Notifies Berlin That Bavarian Royal Family Claims he Throne

The Socialists Have Seized the Austrian Government—Austrian Navy Has Been Handed Over to the Czecho-Slovaks.

KARL HAS FLED

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The Bavarian Premier has notified Berlin that the Bavarian Royal family claims the Imperial Throne in event of Emperor William's abdication.

Count Julius Andrassy, who became Austro - Hungarian Foreign Minister on Oct. 25, has resigned.

Government Seized.

The Socialists have seized the Austrian government, according to reports from many sources, and the Socialist Adler has been declared Austrian Foreign Minister.

When Emperor Karl fled from Vienna he instructed his ministers to offer no resistance to the new regime, so the resignation of all members of the shattered Austrian government is to be expected.

Navy Handed Over.

The Austro-Hungarian navy has been handed over to the Czecho-Sovak National Council which is in session at Agram, it was announced in a wireless from Vienna. The message said an imperial proclamation ordered the navy to be handed over.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 2. — Prof. Lammasch, the Austrian Premier, stated that he had been empowered to hand over the government so far as it related to German localities to the German-Austrian State Council.

PRICES ON THE FARMERS' MARKET

Eggs Were 60 Cents a Dozen—Potatoes Easier.

The principal feature of this morning's market was the almost total absence of eggs. By ten-thirty the few which were brought in were gone at the prohibitive price of 60 cents a dozen. This price is hard to realize in view of the fact that the cold storage plants are practically packed with eggs. Butter came down and sold at 54c-55c a pound.

Chickens sold at 30c a pound.
Ducks sold at 35c a pound.
Geese sold at 30c a pound.
Potatoes were easier selling at $2.10 a bag, and a particularly large stock was brought in.
Apples sold at $1.50-$1.75 a bag.
Cauliflower, 10c-25c each.

WAR SUMMARY

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The Associated Press this morning issued the following summary:

Events are moving with dramatic swiftness in the battle scenes of France and Italy. In the former, the French, Americans and British struck the enemy on three sectors of a long front yesterday. In Italy, the Italian, French, British and American forces pressed on in pursuit of the Austrians retreating over the Plains of Venetia or plunged through the mountain barrier so long maintained by the enemy on the mountain front. General Diaz has submitted terms of an armistice to the Austrian High Command. There are rumours that it has been changed, but those have not been confirmed. Advices as to conditions in Austria are confusing. It seems, however, that the Imperial government is powerless in the crisis which has come at Vienna. Some reports say that Emperor Charles is a fugitive from his capital, but other advices say that he and the Empress Zita are still in Vienna. Austria seems to be splitting up into a number of independent states. There seems to be no doubt that the Austrian fleet at Polas has been surrendered to the Croation National committee. The Croatians have declared their union with Italy. Germany has recognized the new Czecho-Slovak government at Prague and has opened diplomatic intercourse with it.

Turnbull's Victory Loan Window

Striking Result Produced by the Management of the Big Store.

Turnbull's Victory Loan window has attracted a just amount of attention and admiration this week and is in itself worthy of a trip down town to see. It was Mr. Hodgins' idea to do something to help along the opening of the Victory Loan campaign, and sparing no expense or trouble, as is usual with the management of the Turnbull store, a splendid result was obtained.

The window itself is divided into two scenes. In the larger display window a miniature stage with curtains of an immense Union Jack and Stars and Stripes is represented. In it, in keeping with the times when women have come into their own, the central figure is a handsomely dressed woman canvasser soliciting purchases of bonds. On every side are arguments why we should buy bonds. Sixteen handsome flags drape the walls and background, intermingled with Victory posters. A "British Bull" guards the flag, and battle scarred souvenirs from the war are scattered about. A feature of the window is the framed collection of ribbons won in different battles. This was loaned by the J. J. Turner Company.

In the second scene the culmination of the canvasser's efforts are represented, when a woman secretary is registering the sale at a desk of the bonds amounting to something in the thousands. This scene is also strikingly set in flags and emblems of the country.

The windows have proved a great help to the canvassers, as much attention has been drawn to their campaign through it.

ITALIANS ADVANCING

The Tagliamento River Ha Been Reached—Inter-Allied Council Approves of Armistice Terms.

OFFICIAL DESPATCHES

(Special to Examiner.)

ROME, Nov. 2. — Italian troops have practically cleared the Asiago Plateau, capturing a number of important peaks and villages and taking 3,000 additional prisoners, the war office announced to-day. Cavalry has reache dthe plains north of Rordenone, 30 miles beyond the middle Piave. The Livenza River has been passed on a wide front.

The inter-allied council at Versailles has forwarded to General Diaz, commander of the Italian armies, the terms of the armistice to be granted the Austrians, the Matin declared to-day. The inter-allied council unanimously agreed upon every clause in the terms, it was stated.

Italian patrols have reached the Tagliamento River, according to the battle front despatches received here to-day.

Zurich, Nov. 2. — Twenty-three Austrian divisions, which mutinied and deserted the Italian front, are now fighting each other, the Vienna newspapers declare.

AUSTRIANS ABANDON LARGE QUANTITY OF WAR MATERIAL

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Nov. 2.—Allied troops have reached Grigno, five miles north of Monte Lisser. They have cut off the retreat of the Austrians in Trentino, except over mule paths in the mountains. The headlong flight of the Austrians continues on the Venetian Plain. Austrians are fleeing from Udine, about fifty miles east of the Piave, according to reports received here. They have abandoned a great quantity of war material in the region of Udine, which was Italian Headquarters before the 1917 retreat.

Cyril Giroux is Promoted

Peterboro Boy Who Won Military Medal Some Time Ago is Now a Lieutenant.

His many friends will be glad to hear that Cyril Giroux, son of Mr. George H. Giroux, has been successful in passing his examination and is now a lieutenant in the Canadian Machine Gun Depot at Seaford. Lt. Giroux went overseas as a private in the 39th Eastern Ontario Battalion early in 1915, and his skill as a machine gunner won him his transfer to the Borden Armoured Motor Battery, with which splendid Canadian Unit, Lieut. Giroux has done sterling work in France, winning the Military medal, and his promotion to the rank of lieutenant. He was with the Borden Battery in the dark days of last spring when the German offensive was under way, and when the motor battery fought the enemy for twelve days and nights. Soon after he was recommended for a commission and sent to the training school in England, where he has qualified.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2ND, 1918.

THE SECOND WEEK.

Peterborough enters upon the second week of the Victory Loan Campaign on Monday. The first week of the drive has been successful in spite of the prevailing epidemic which has made it impossible to canvass many citizens who can be counted upon to invest. This condition of affairs has interfered with the campaign in all parts of the city, but the local committee have never lost their confidence or relaxed any effort with the result that the total is steadily climbing to Peterborough's objective. Next week the triumphal march to Victory will be resumed and with the influenza situation improving it is confidently expected that the pace will be accelerated considerably during the next few days.

Peterborough is called upon to raise $800,000 of the county's $1,600,000. The task is a big one, but the city which has supplied so many soldiers to Canada's army can be counted on not to desert them now when victory is within their grasp. Failing to realize our objective now would be a breach of faith with the boys over there. We cannot fail—the money is all needed and Peterborough must do its share. We cannot allow some other city to make up our deficit and retain an atom of civic pride.

Good as have been the results of the first week of the drive let us make the second week a record breaker.

Stick it, Peterborough.

HOW ABOUT PETESBOROUGH?

A news despatch from Belleville announces that six German guns captured by the 2nd Eastern Ontario Battalion are being presented to Belleville as souvenirs of the great war. The attention of the local civic authorities is called to this item with the suggestion that the Militia Department be communicated with in the hope of securing similar war trophies for Peterborough. Hundreds of enemy guns are being captured on the western front and they are in great demand in English cities as well as throughout Canada as symbols of the valour of the troops from the centres which are applying for them. In many cities and towns in England these captured enemy weapons are being proudly displayed with inscriptions telling the particulars of how they were taken.

Peterborough has contributed enough men to the Canadian army to be entitled to a proper share of these war trophies. The Canadians in the past few months have captured a very large number of guns and many of these will be sent home to be distributed among the different centres of the Dominion. Peterborough's contribution of flesh and blood to the cause of liberty has been generous and surely this city has earned the right to claim some recognition from the military authorities when the distribution of trophies is being considered. Peterborough's sons at the front have helped in the capture of many a German gun—many of them have died in the attacks that resulted in these captures, and it is only fair that the valour of these gallant soldiers and the sacrifices that the loved ones at home have made, should be recognized.

There is no time to be lost. The City Council should make application at once for some of the enemy guns and press Peterborough's claims vigorously. It will be too late after the war is over to obtain much satisfaction. Now is the time for action.

THE IRONY OF FATE.

Spanish influenza, the dread epidemic which is sweeping around the world, has accomplished what German shells and machine guns failed to do in bringing to an end the earthly career of Sergt. Roy Coones, M.M., familiar to Peterborough citizens as the tallest member of the 93rd Peterborough County Battalion. Sergt. Coones, who was six feet four inches in height, as courageous as he was big, and as good natured as he was courageous, has succumbed to an attack of influenza at Sudbury where he was a member of the police force. The news will be received with general regret, especially by the officers and men of the Peterborough Battalion with whom the tall Apsley boy was a prime favourite. Sergt. Coones saw much service at the front, and is reported to have been a terror to the enemy when he got to close quarters. He went over the top at Vimy Ridge and came through all the hard fighting there without a scratch. Afterwards in the tough hand-to-hand battling that took place in the outskirts of Lens, Coones especially distinguished himself. At Avion when his company had occupied a position, well forward of the main Canadian lines, and the officers and senior non-coms became casualties, Sergt Coones took charge of the situation. A runner from headquarters arrived with a message asking if the position could be held until night-fall, and the reply went back from Sergt. Coones "We'll hold on for a month if necessary." And hold on the gallant little band did for twenty-four hours, although hotly shelled by the enemy and having to repulse heavy counter attacks. The reinforcements which finally arrived found Sergt. Coones and his men masters of the situation. For his share in this exploit the Apsley soldier was awarded the Military Medal, the ribbons of which he proudly wore when he was invalided home last spring.

It is the irony of fate that after escaping death on so many occasions on the battlefield, that Sergt. Coones should be laid low after his return to civil life. He was a splendid specimen of Canadian manhood and his death will be deeply regreted.

AN AMERICAN OPINION.

An old Peterborough boy, now residing in Butte, Montana, sends the following editorial from the Anaconda Standard to the Examiner with a request that it be reproduced. We gladly publish it as an expression of vigorous American opinion:

Germany's latest note rings not with sincerity, but ingenuity. It is smart and clever and glibly makes all kinds of virtues of necessities. The kaiser begs to assure the president that he has graciously deigned to grant the people whom he has so long alternately cajoled and oppressed, some measure of constitutional reform, that the people now control the government, and that everything is at last all right, all right on that score — the president needn't worry.

In his frantic endeavour to save his face and his dynasty, the kaiser doubtless is willing to promise his people any old thing or any new thing. Ask and they shall receive—promises by the bushel. But if the Germans are so benighted that they ar unaware that any concessions granted by the Hohenzollerns would be merey scraps of paper when opportunity presented itsef, the rest of the world is not so credulous. The kaiser's reputation for perfidy and dishonour, for every form of moral turpitude possible in statecraft, is too firmly established to be lightly set aside. It is there to stay as long as the kaiser does, and a good deal longer. Far more easily might the Germans set aside the kaiser himself. If the German people really want reform, they certainly don't want any more of the Hohenzollern outfit. They might better try extracting sunbeams from cucumbers, blood from turnips, the milk of human kindness from Krupp guns, or glory from the invasion of Belgium, than democracy from his imperial majesty.

In line with the cool audacity of the professions of constitutional reform, is official Germany's protestation that she has been guilty of no cruelties and inhumanities, no ferocities and atrocities. Official Germany simply has to deny them — to admit them even in part or in the slightest degree would shatter her own arguments all along the line. She knows all too well that once international agreements about warfare have been concluded, any discussion of them has to stop, because from that moment onward any kind of violation not only damages the adversary but stains irreparably the offender's honour. For this reason nothing is so sad in this war, even to Germany, as the violation of Belgian neutrality, the submarine warfare, the employment of poisonous gases, the willful destruction of Red Cross ships and hospitals. In shelling international covenants to which she was a party, Germany has wrecked her own honour. Was there ever a more brazen or hideous spectacle than that of hands that drip with innocent blood outstretched for an honourable peace?

Let Germany deny these outrages till her face is as black as her heart. Who gave and who executed the orders that resulted in the sinking of innocent passenger ships? Who bombed cathedrals, pillaged innumerable cities and villages, violated their women, mutilated their children and drove entire civilian populations into slavery? A commission to investigate these things! As well appoint a commission to investigate the rotundity of the earth or the infamy of the German empire.

Peace is coming. On the terms of that peace hange the fate of hundreds of millions of people, of nations, of races and civilizations, of all things in this world now and hereafter, all the future mysteries of life and progress, all the tremendous destines of mankind, all the genius, the wisdom and the energy of the world; and the tottering military autocracy of Germany, forever damned, dishonoured and disgraced, dares to demand a voice in the discussion of the terms!

In the words of President Wilson: "They (the central powers) have convinced us that they are without honour and do not intend justice. They observe no covenants, accept no principle but force and their own interest. We cannot 'came to terms' with them. They have made it impossible."

Germany is manoeuvring for a painless peace but such a thing is beyond the resources of her strategic diplomacy. What would be an "honourable" peace according to her notions would be a dishonourable and, worse than that, a dangerous peace on the part of the allies. If Germany wants peace, she must pay the price. It is unthinkable that the allies will do anything diplomatically that shall weaken the advantages of their armies.

In 1871 Germany refused to treat with the accredited representatives of the French empire and insisted upon the people choosing their own representatives to conduct the negotiations. In this Germany established a precedent which it is well to commend to her observance.

Enough of German jabber. If the kaiser wants peace let him ask Foch for it, follow Foch's directions and he'll get it. For a precedent for this he has only to recall Lee, Grant and the apple tree.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.

And sometimes a man gets married in order to have someone to believe his talk.

SURVEY OF I.W.W. ACTIVITIES SINCE THE OUTBREAK OF THE PRESENT WAR

Defensive Propaganda for Accused Leaders Answered by T. Everet Harre and Ralph M. Easley

T. Everett Harre, who has made a careful survey of the activities of the International Workers of the World since the outbreak of the war, has just written a brochure presenting the facts he gathered. It is to be presented with a view to counteracting a wide movement to create sympathy for the 110 I. W. W. leaders now on trial in Chicago for seditious conspiracy. The "National Civil Libraries Bureau" is at the head of the defensive propaganda and a movement to raise a $50,000 fund. An Advertisement recently published called for contributions to this fund, and was signed by members of the bureau and by Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension; Prof. John Dewey and James Harvey Robinson of Columbia University, and others. The following article, written by the political economist who founded the National Civic Federation and who has devoted close study to labor problems, is based on Mr. Harre's Brochure:

By RALPH M. EASLEY

It is pertinent to ask why this body, the I.W.W., has been able to rally to its support people who of their profession and public position would naturally be regarded as opponents of such an organization. This is one of the social phenomena of the day. A few years ago it threatened to become a fad with certain superficial members of college Faculties and women of an emotional type of mind. But the most surprising thing was the manner in which certain radical preachers espoused the doctrines of the I.W.W. At a convention of one of the largest Protestant churches in this country, held in New York in 1915, the rector of a church in Brooklyn made an address in which he paid the following tribute to Haywood and the other sabotage and violence preaching leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World:

"Syndicalism as every investigation has shown, finds a field only in our industrial centres where immigrants are herded. Without a vote, strange, bewildered, 'put upon,' deserted by the Church, the labor union, and the socialists, it was syndicalism which went to them in their distress and gave them courage and hope. All honor to the I. W. W. leaders that they were found at the hottest point of the industrial conflict!"

William D. Haywood, in a speech at Cooper Union, delivered at a date previous to this rector's address, had boldly declared:

"Can you wonder that I dispise the law? I understand the class struggle. I am not a law-abiding citizen. More than that, I do not believe that you here ought to be law-abiding citizens.

"We want to overthrow the capitalist system and establish in its place an industrial democracy. Why, then, say we are law-abiding?"

The I.W.W as an organization has been a failure, as testified to by their own official organs hereinafter quoted, but as a distructive force it has become a menace, as shown by the Department of Justice in its trial in Chicago and by Mr. Harre in his brochure. In the second place, the rallying around Mr. Haywood and his friends of certain radicals of the country of both sexes gave to the I.W.W. for a time a specious standing in the community.

Just how big is this giant? Well, we have direct evidence on that point. At the hearings before the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations in New City, Vincent St. John, Secretary-Treasurer of the I.W.W., testified that the membership of that organization was 14,000, while at the same time their dilettante defenders were claiming in the public press that they had a membership of 250,000. During the last year they have claimed 200,000 members—a sweeping inclusion of every migratory worker from whom at any time they have been able to collect a dollar, and thousands of whom have no understanding of the I.W.W. philosophy and would probable repudiate it if they had.

It was also testified at the same hearings before the Industrial Relations Commission that the American Federation of Labor and the Railway Brotherhoods had over 3,000,000 dues-paying members and that the American Federation of Labor had within its membership thirty-five times as many unskilled men as the entire membership of the I.W.W.. What is even more to the point is the fact that the 3,000,000 men in the Federation of Labor and the Railway Brotherhoods have no sympathy with the doctrines of the Industrial Workers of the World.

The I.W.W. defenders declare that we shall not have relief from I.W.W. outbreaks of crime and terrorism until the causes of the I.W.W. disorder are removed. Carlton H. Parker, quoted in the I.W.W. defense propaganda says:

"There will be neither permanent peace nor prosperity in our country till the revolt basis of the I.W.W. is removed. And until that is done the I.W.W remains an unfortunately valuable symptom of a diseased industrialism."

Robert Bruere, one of the signers of the appeal for the $50,000 I.W.W. defense fund, is quoted in the pamphlet issued in the National Civic Liberties Bureau as saying: "I feel very strongly about this matter, because I believe that the policy of uncompromising hostility toward the I.W.W. workers which is being pushed by the United States Department of Justice is jeopardizing the success of our airplane program, whose immediate execution is probably essential for the successful prosecution of our war on the French Front."

Let us examine Mr. Bruere's warning. To win the war—which the I.W.W. have sought to prevent— the Department of Justice should reverse its attitude toward the indicated I.W.W. leaders from one of alleged "hostility to what? Does Mr. Breure mean that the Department of Justice, instead of conducting a prosecution as it would against any other person of group of persons accused of crime should adopt the viewpoint that the I.W.W., as a special class, must not be held for expressions and acts because existing social conditions are not ideal?

Mr. Harre, in his brochure, alleges that the identical sabotage program of the I.W.W.—the organization which the "intellectuals" referred to are now defending—was adopted and has been assiduously carried out by agents of the Kaiser in the United States. According to Mr. Harre, the methods and acts of the German spies and agents parallel the methods and acts of I.W.W.'s both of which have been designed directly and indirectly to hinder America's military preparations and render the nation impotent in its war against Germany.

Excerpts from Mr. Harre's arraignment of the I.W.W. follow:

"As long ago as November, 1914, the German Government not only seized upon the methods, but sought to enlist the active help of anarchistic labor in a worldwide plot for sabotage, revolution and strife. It was not even necessary for the German agents to organize any new machinery for the precipitation of strikes, for explosions and fires in munition plants and ships, and the destruction of food and military supplies. Ready at hand were the Sinn Feiners, anarchists, Bolsheviki, I.W.W, and all foes of government.

"Before the United States entered the war, what was of utmost military importance to Germany, was the destruction of arms, munitions, food, and military supplies destined for the Allies. In a circualr letter, dated Nov. 18, 1914, the Imperial German Naval Headquarters ordered mobilized 'all controlling agents and all destructive agents who are overseas in ports where vessels carrying war materials are loaded in England, France, Canada, the United States and Russia.' Declaring it to be indispensible' that all operation be conducted through the aid of third persons having no relation with the official agent of the government, the German agents were ordered 'continually' to recruit agents 'to organize explosions in ships sailing to enemy countries' and to produce delays and confusion in the sailand unloading of these ships. 'With the end in view we particularly recommend to your attention the deck hands among whom are to be found a great number of anarchists and escaped criminals,' the order continued.

"In a letter of instruction to military agents of the United States dated Jan. 15, 1915, and signed by Dr. E. Fischer, Councillor General of the Imperial German Army, instructions were given concerning the destruction of property in United States territory. 'Agents to carry on destructive work,' the order read, 'can be recruited among the workingmen's unions which have anarchistic tendencies.'

"A circular letter dated Feb. 23, 1915, from the Director of the Press at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Berlin to all the German Ambassadors, Ministers and Consuls, stated:

"'There have been established within the territory of the country where you are special bureaus for organization of propaganda in the countries that are in the war coalition against Germany. The propaganda will have for its object the inception of social movements, accompanied by strikes, revolutionary explosions, separation movements and civil war, as well as an agitation in favor of disarmament and the cessation of the present bloody war.'

"To imperil the conduct of the war, they have fomented strikes in industries vitally essential in the making and supplying of war materials. They have started forest fires, especially in forests of spruce, the wood of which is especially used in the making of airplanes. They drive axes, pieces of steel, and iron into logs with the purpose of breaking band saws and jeopardizing the lives of mill employes.

"They have destroyed harvesting machinery by dropping sticks of wood, tools, nails and pieces of metal into the running parts, and have jeopardized the lives of workers by placing dynamite in sheaves of wheat.

"The I.W.W., preaching an irreconcilable class war and seeking the overthrow of government, is the antithesis of the American Federation of Labor and the Railway Brotherhoods, who stand for order, the equitable adjustment of capital and labor, and whose united and wholehearted support of the Government in the war against Germany won from the British press the tribute that it represents 'spirit of America.' The I.W.W. movement was, in fact, conceived out of abortive attempts by the revolutionary Socialists through many years to destroy the American Federation of Labor and foster in America German-made Marxianism.

"For thirteen years the I.W.W. has fomented uncalled-for indiscriminate strikes, while the American Federation of Labor has settled strikes and procured concessions to the just complaints of labor. The I.W.W. has plunged its deluded followers into unemployment, impoverishment, hunger and many into prison, while the American Federation of Labor has brought about, for the great mass, higher wages, shorter hours, improved working conditions, and a happier state of living. The I.W.W. has terrorized communities and destroyed millions of property, while trade unionism has averted riots and disorder and has made employers and workers secure in their just rights.

"In their opposition to the war the I.W.W. have been outspoken. 'Anyone with good sense,' said the I.W.W. paper, Solidarity, in its issue of Aug. 25, 1917. 'now objects to being told that Czar Wilson is working for the interests of the working classes in trying to force them against their wills into the bloody European slaughter fest. American troops are being sent to France, according to Haywood's paper, 'to collect Wall Street's war debts and to save the seas for the tyrannical British Empire.'

"In an article opposing conscription printed in Solidarity of May 12, 1917, the I.W.W. declared:

We consider the bombast and farfetched talk about Freedom and Democracy simply so much bunk. .... Had we the power, we would stop every ship, train, mine and mill, every food and supply plant—every wheel of industry, and thus paralyze the machinery of murder and make it impossible for the ignorant man-killers of the bosses to gather their toll of life blood of foreign slaves. We would extend the hand of brotherhood to the so-called enemy and strangle the gurgle of war in the fat, white throats of the blood bloated money-lenders of Wall Street, before it became articulate.

"Writing to William D. Haywood from Seattle, Washington, Aug. 2, 1917, James Rowan, for the Strike Committee, declared: 'We have the good will of the German people here and we feel sure that they are in sympathy with our cause. We do not call them Germans, however, but refer to them the same as others, as Fellow Workers. We are going to carry our points if we have to stop every industry on the Pacific Coast. We did not declare war and we have not consented to the workingman giving up his liberties and being drafted.'

In the trial of the I.W.W.'s at Chicago, charged with seditious conspiracy, evidence was introduced on May 7, 1918, showing that the monetary receipts of the I.W.W. swelled amazingly after the declaration of war and at a ratio strikingly in proportion to its increasing activities to obstruct the war and oppose the selective draft. A statement showed that from early in April, 1917, until Sept. 1, the period covered by the indictment, the total receipts at the I.W.W. headquarters amounted to $271,220.50. The increase in receipts rose from $25,048.81 in April, to $86,809.26 in August. Initiation fee receipts in April amounted to $5,439.25; by July they had amounted to $20,670.25. The income from mysterious 'other sources' was set down at $11,139.74 in April, and $44,103.62 in August. From what more than friendly interest came this generous increase of nearly $33,000 in funds in five months?

"It was proved at the I.W.W. trial at Chicago in May that, following the entry of the United States into the war the volume of its publishing business increased more than 100 per cent. Whose were the funds that paid for this suddenly increased demands for its publications? Whose factors were most interested in spreading propaganda that provoked resistance to the draft and which advocated and executed sabotage, the fomenting of strikes and disorganization of industry?

"During the six months following the entrance of the United States into the war, there were, according to Representative Currie of Michigan, 1,156 strikes. This was less than the average before the war, because loyal American labor, as represented by the American Federation of Labor and the Railway Brotherhoods, agreed to settle all labor disputes by conference and to keep from striking so as not to hinder the Government in its vigorous conduct of the war toward military victory over Germany. Various strikes were threatened, especially among shipbuilders, but through the appeal of President Wilson and the efforts of Samuel Gompers, walkouts on a large scale were prevented. The strikes that did occur, however, were in the majority of cases started by the I.W.W., who rejected all allegiance to country or the country's ideals While the American Federation of Labor and the Railway Brotherhood were faithfully devoted to keeping men at their jobs, the I.W.W. were correspondingly active in trying to hinder the conduct of the war by stirring up trouble and discontent and urging men to desert their tasks. Of the 1,156 strikes, the majority were in industries essential to war production. The number of days of production lost through these strikes was 6,285,519. The criminal disloyalty of those fomenting these strikes in war industries, and the magnitude of the damage inflicted upon our cause, with proportionate advantage to the Hun armies, may be gauged when one realizes that to make good this loss it would require a plant employing 1,000 workers to labor 300 days each year for a period of twenty-one years.

"To consider the I.W.W. seriously as a political power is preposterous. As an agency of destruction in time of war, however, the I.W.W. constitute a menace no less grave, no less effective than the countless thousand secret agents of Imperial Germany."

AS AGE CREEPS ON

As age creeps on, vital force gradually decreases, until, when a man or woman is around 50, the kidneys and bladder need assistance to keep them in perfect working order.

Rheumatism, neuralgia and backache are common complaints of those getting on in years. It seems to be the custom to expect these afflictions—conclude they are simply the inevitable results of old age, and that there is no remedy for them.

There is a remedy—Gin Pills—and there are hundreds of people who can prove that the remedy is good.

Mr. Frank Lalonde, a well-known farmer of St. Raphael, Ont., was enabled to return to work at the age of 61 by the help of Gin Pills. Mr. Lalonde writes that he had suffered for years with pains in his back and sides, until finally he was forced to quit work. Gin Pills relieved him to such an extent that he now states he feels as strong at 61 as he did at 30 years.

Mrs. Hugh McLeod, of Lewis Cove Road, had a similar experience with Gin Pills. In her letter to us she says:

"I am 51 years and the mother of 8 children. Five years ago I was troubled with backache and dull pains across the abdomen. I used a box of Gin Pills, and feel so much better that I will continue to use Gin Pills."

Testimonials such as these cannot be disregarded, for the aged speak the truth.

It is foolish to suffer when you don't have to. Use Gin Pills and enjoy your latter years. 50c a box. Sold by all dealers. Sample free upon request to FARMER WAS BURIED IN SILO.

Mr. David Stevens of Mariposa township, experienced a few thrills last week in connection with the work of filling a silo out in that neck of the woods. He was the man inside and everything went well till the work was nearly finished, and he attempted to crawl out through the manhole at the top, which was a boy's size, but other men came to his relief. Ropes were brought and securely fastened around his body, when he was lowered the forty feet safely to the ground.

A NECESSITY IN THE HOUSE.

Most of the common ills of life arise from a torpid, sluggish condition of the liver, Kidneys or Bowels, and because they act on each of these organs in a direct and specific way Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills overcome serious and painful diseases over which ordinary medicines have no control.

What Is The True Meaning Of The Victory Loan?

We are within sight of Victory, and now, less than ever, can we afford to rest in a false atmosphere of security.

Now is the moment for a grand rally, an irresistible push forward with men and money.

The men are there—and always fresh ones go. They must continually be fed, clothed, and supplied with ammunition. The work of supporting them, the EASY PART, is ours. Shall any one of us fail them at this end?

NO, A HUNDRED TIMES, NO!

And what are we asked to do? What is it that Canada asks of us?

Simply to LEND to our own country, more money, that the great fight may be finished for us, and that the sacrifices made for us in four years of war shall not be in vain. No thinking man or women who realizes this can fail to respond to the limit of his or her ability.

And Canada makes it very easy for us to do this through

A TRIP AROUND THE LINES WITH THE PETERBORO V.A.D.'S

The Examiner Gets a Close-up View of the Methods Employed by Volunteer Workers of Peterboro to Alleviate the Suffering Which the Influenza Epidemic Has Brought Upon the City.

Medical men in Peterboro are inclined to the opinion that the influenza epidemic has about run its course. A contributing factor to this happy situation was the establishment of the Emergency hospital also the soup kitchen opened in the Reid street Sunday School hall by the members of the Red Cross Society of Trinity Methodist church. In the short space of four days the Emergency Hospital was created out of a building that for two years had been idle and accommodation is now available for at least fifty patients. The soup kitchen during the same period has supplied the wants of over two hundred families.

A situation like the present has never confronted the city before and a soup kitchen known so well to big cities was little known and had never been attempted in Peterboro. It was Reverend Mr. Malott, Pastor of Trinity church who on his various visits to his parishioners realized the gravity of the situation. Family after family, well to do were, through the shortage of nurses, absolutely stranded. Mother, father and several children were ill in families and one member of each family, ill enough to be in bed, strove to tend the sick and provide nourishment to feed the invalids. Happily Mr. Malott thought of a way out of the situation—a soup kitchen. Backed by the Red Cross Society of Trinity and aided by sympathizers of every denomination on Sunday the Trinity soup kitchen sprang into existence and has since been one of the most important centres in the city.

THE KITCHEN

Trinity Sunday School on Reid street was a happy choice as a central depot. Situated as it was in reach of everyone. Good stoves were ready for the ladies to heat the nourishment and send it out ready to serve. Each day two ladies drop their household duties and spend the day in devotion to the cause of helping out families less fortunate than themselves. The work done by the ladies takes considerable discretion besides the actual work of receiving and dispensing the donations as the cases reported are all different and a different number in each house requiring nourishment.

DISTRIBUTING THE SOUP

But the work does not end in the kitchen. Girls who are busy studying for examinations and who before the call came to help out thought their time well taken up turned in and lent their services and cars to carrying the baskets to the houses needing them. Carrying the baskets which were packed with dainty tempting and nourishing gruels, soups, jellies, hot lemonade and broths entailed a vast amount of work and fortitude. One car started at 11 o'clock with soups, etc., for North, Wset, East and South, for avenues never heard of before and streets of which the existence is hardly known. By the time the car returned muddy and limping, (if a car can limp), dinner was long since over and the clock said 3 o'clock.

THE CALLS

The first visit made was in the city. Here in a home where the family is surrounded by every comfort, every member lay in bed ill tended only by a small girl of ten who waits on the families wants with the assistance of an occoasional visit from one of the splendid V.A.D.'s who have done such good work in the present crisis. This family with no one to cook is dependent on the bounty of the soup kitchen. Continuing the car left for Western avenue. Evidently few cars ever visit Western avenue for the roads were almost impassable. Puddles inches deep, ruts, boulders, everything retarded the progress of the car but with persistent efforts the home was reached. A small voice asked the visitor to come in but regardful of the swiftly passing time and pressing duties to be accomplished the visitor hurriedly asked how the family was and who were ill. "Everybody was the usual answer. A neighbour coming to the door confirmed the child's answer and said that three mmbers lay in bed with temperatures of 103. The whole south-west end of the city is ill the visitor gathered. In the next house visited, this time more in the centre of the town, the mother lies dangrously ill and the father who had to leave his position, first on account of his own illness next to nurse his wife and children, was struggling helplessly through household duties. He knew nothing of cooking, tempting dishes for sick people and looked himself ill and ready to give in at any moment. Fortunately the soup kitchen supplies saved the day and much relieved the father who carried it to his patients. He is not in a positioon to lose the time at the factory, yet must to tend his family.

The next call took the car to the south and by the exhibition grounds. This however, was sadly enough futile as the patient had gone beyond the need of nourishment and the father of the family said it was useless to leave it. He himself would not accept anything.

Intermixed with the calls which came from the farthest points in and out of the city are some humorous incidents. In one family of seven sick little Italians the basket was hurriedly ransacked and the tiny tots were disgusted to find neither cake nor candy.

STILL WORK

Tirelessly still the ladies work daily with daily increasing calls and are accomplishing the great result of knowing that no one goes hungry on acount of the shortage of help. Calls come in from earliest morning to late in the evening and no call goes unheeded. The girls are never too tired for one more visit whether it be to the other side of Armour's Hill or to the city limits in Brownton.

Capt. F. J. Sawers Tells of His Work as a Chaplain

Former Peterboro Minister Has Many Happy Experiences Among the Men in the Military Camps

The members of St. Peter's church recently sent their rector, Capt. (Rev.) F. J. Sawyers a purse, and, in replying to their handsome dnoation, Capt. Sawyers speaks of his former work at Aldershot, N.S., and his present work at St. Johns, Que., as follows:

St. Johns, Que.
Oct. 9. 1918.

To the Church Wardens of St. Peter's Church, Cobourg:

My Very Dear Friends:—It was a very pleasant surprise that I received yesterday, when I opened your letter. Your very generous gift from the members of my congregation is appreciated by me more than I can say for I know how much love and good will prompted it. I shall try to use it as a "wise steward" in the ways that you have indicated, and I feel that much happiness will be brought into the lives of my soldier comrades as a direct result of your very thoughtful gift.

The fact that I have not yet been sent overseas has been rather a disappointment to me, but I rejoice in the opportunities for ministering to the soldiers, both sick and well, which have come to me every day. God grant that these dear soldiers may have received a lasting benefit.

At Aldershot Camp I had a most happy and valuable experience in dealing both with the officers and men. If I may choose for special mention one thing there, I would speak of a series of Bible studies taken informally three nights in the week around the fireplace in the Y.M.C.A. It attracted the men in a wonderful way. There were never less than fifty there, and sometimes as many as seventy-five, drawn there to get a fuller knowledge of God's word which is "able to make us wise unto salvation." Such gatherings as this cannot fail to be of lasting benefit to those who enter into them.

While I was at Aldershot Camp, I visited Kentville Sanitarium every day and held a service on Sunday there. About two hundred soldiers were seeking to regain their health in this large institution and there were civilians as well. To give to all these a word of cheer and to minister to their spiritual necessities was surely a work well worth while.

It was with real regret that I left behind me so many friends at Aldershot. I had hoped that I would be left to carry on the good work among the troops when they moved to Halifax, but a wire came one morning with orders to report at St. Johns, Quebec, for special relief duty. There has been a great deal of sickness among the soldiers here, but I am thankful to say that nearly all of them are convalescent now.

On Sunday, Capt. Mutch, the Presbyterian Chaplain here, and myself, with the assistance of a Y.M.C.A. worker from New London, Conn., conducted a little service in every ward of all the hospitals. I took fourteen of these as my share. We began with a reading from the Bible, then an address, then prayer, closing with the Lord's prayer, in which all joined. It would be impossible to say how much these services were appreciated by the men. I wish I could tellI you in detail a little more about some of these services. Who can tell how far-reaching the results may be. The soldiers here come from all parts of the world, from Australia to the Yukon—many of them are college graduates some of the men, old in years and experience, so many of them very young, just starting out in life. What an opportunity for the chaplain to help these, by warning them of dangers and pointing out to them the only way in which they will find any real satisfaction in their lives. I realize now, my friends, that I am having the largest opportunities for real helpfulness that I have ever had. I know that you will all remember me in your prayers.

With my loving good wishes and prayers for you all, and with heartfelt thanks for your generous gift, affectionately your friend and rector,

F. J. Sawyers.

Are the Men Afraid to Die?

(By Signaller J. R. H., of Peterboro.)

France, June 18th, 1918.

My Dear Father,—I wrote you yesterday, but did not answer the questions you asked in your last letter. To-night I shall discuss one and take the others as opportunity offers.

You ask if the men fighting here are not afraid to die. Of course we are. Nothing created likes to die, and we humans with our finer sensibilities, and that spark of the divine within, resent it acutely. But it is our duty to subdue this fear. We do this by raising the plane of death. We do not regard Death as a friend—to do so would be to disarm ourselves, for is one ever on one's guard against one's friends? To be brought face to face unarmed with death would be to be afraid, and, worst crime of all, to show it.

So we recognize in death something which can inspire the greatest terror, and we determine that, come what may, we shall not be dismayed whether the experience come quickly in the darkness or slowly at noon with many watching.

Men in No Man's Land, suffering terrible agony in their death throes, have striven to withhold their groans—they would not torture their friends by forcing them to witness their agony, nor would they allow their enemies, chief amongst them being death, to detect a sign of flinching.

Heroes you say? Yes, men indeed, than whom I hope to meet no braver in this life or in Valhalla. This is how we meet death; our thoughts of it take another line.

Most men regard the prospect of death comparatively unmoved. Death is inevitable, against it we are as impotent as we were to prevent our birth. Why then should we grieve over it.

Men may not speak much of religion, but their simple acceptance of the saying "if a shell has your number on it you'll get it," unwittingly shows their belief in the existence of an Omnipotent Being.

It is a mistake to surmise that men accept Death as that supreme power. They do not bow to the shell or to the condition that it brings, but to the One who guided.

There are those who profess to believe that it is of no account to God who is killed and who lives. This is not the belief of most. As I lay down on the grass here to write, I probably crushed some of the minute denizens of the ground. I have known men who would have as soon thought of cutting off a hand. Why? Because, with an inborn love of all nature they had studied the lives and habits of these insects and animals until, marvelling at their wonderful beauty and the minute perfection of their construction they had come to love every living creature with the love that preserves. How much more than these students must the Omniscient Creator love the handiwork of His hands? Would he permit men, made by Him in His own image, to be crushed without some good purpose?

We believe He would not.

So though instinct calls to us to avoid death we will meet it if necessary and unflinchingly.

Next letter will give you an outline of life here. The slightest mistake in writing of conditions here will bring the censor down on me like the Assyrian of old.

Your loving son,
Signaller J. R. H.

LIFE.

The brilliance of the summer sky,
The lilt of song birds in the trees,
The peace of nature and the sigh
Of the perfume laden breeze.

The stretching fields of billowing grain
The scene of stacks of new-mown hay
The gently falling cooling rain
And sunshine brightening all the day.

These tell me life is in the living
Midst the things I hold so dear
That the pleasure's in the sipping
Of the honey while 'tis here.

But something's calling, calling ever
To a place just o'er the ken
Where the man-made clouds are thunderers
O'er the handiwork of men.

Blasted earth with shell torn trees
Homeless birds and flame scarred fields,
Poisoned air o'er mud in seas
These are what that vision yields.

Yet I think that I shall fall
Where the battle rages sore
For I loved not life at all
Loved I not my honour more.

PLENTY OF POTASH.

(By United Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—Germans who said the United States entered the war to grab Germany's big potash deposits didn't know much about the natural resources of this country.

A new $1,000,000 unit of a potash plant on Sarles Lake, in Southern California, was due to start operation to-day. It will bring the daily production of one company operating on this one lake up to 140 tons a day. The United States before the war used only 250,000 tons of potash a year, most of which was imported. Because of cheaper foreign labour it had never been worth while to develop American potash or nitrate deposits on a large scale.

"Grabbing Germany's potash deposits" with an army and navy is costing Uncle Sam more than $50,000,000 a day. With half a day's expenditures he could develop enough potash deposits to supply the country for a century.

Engineers estimate that Searles Lake alone will supply normal American nitrate needs for nearly a century.

Cure Announced For Pneumonia

Successful Experiments at Base Hospital in California.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 31.—Headquarters at the Base Hospital, Camp Fremont, yesterday announced the discovery of a positive cure for the pneumonia which follows Spanish influenza and which always has been the fatal stage of the disease. The treatment consists of intervenous injections of coaguline and has been found, it was announced, to prevent hemorrhages of the lungs, which characterizes this new type of pneumonia The report given out at Fremont says:

"As a result of numerous autopsies performed on the bodies of soldiers who have died of the disease, surgeons have found that the pneumonia developing from influenza is in no way like the ordinary pneumonia. The patient undergoes no crisis and instead of the lungs filling with mucuous they become so weakened and the blood becomes so thin that upon the least irritation they bleed, resulting in the suffocation of the patient.

"Heretofore the surgeons have been unable to stop the flow of blood, but it was found that with the use of coaguline the blood can be thickened within 20 minutes of the first injection and the great danger of hemorrhage is prevented. Already more than 300 cases have been cured at the Base hospital.

"Diphtheria vaccine has been used to good advantage. It not only counteracts the germ, but also helps to thicken the blood."

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backachy or Bladder Troubles You—Salts is Fine for Kidneys

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve the bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. The famous salts is made from the juice of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

Five Congregations Worship in One Church in Brockville

How One Hundred Tons of Coal Was Saved During the Winter —Similar Plan Will be Adopted This Winter.

Four ministers of Brockville tell in the following letter their plan for fuel conservation which was used last year. Five congregations worshipped in one church, and the three Anglican churches worshipped in one body. A similar scheme might be feasible in Peterboro. Mr. E. S. Cousins, referred to in the letter, is assistant to Mr. Home Smith, Fuel Administrator for Ontario:

Oct. 3rd, 1918.

Mr. E. L. Cousins, Toronto.

My Dear Mr. Cousins:

I have your letter of the 3rd and in reply beg to confirm what Mr. Welch has told you with regard to the union services in Brockville for fuel conservation. The union carried out last winter by the eight Protestant churches of Brockville was on a larger scale than might be required in most places. Three Anglican Churches worshipped in one building, and five other congregations, including two Methodist, two Presbyterian and one Baptist, worshipped in one building. We were fortunate in having a very large church edifice in the Wall Street Methodist Church here, and with a seating capacity of about two thousand, we had very inspiring services for three months together. These five congregations met for service twice each Sunday and for the prayer service on Wednesday evening. Four Sunday schools met in this church and school room on Sunday afternoon at 2.45; the other Sunday School meeting in their school room which could be heated easily by wood. Once each month a Union Intercessory Prayer Service of the whole eight churches is held.

The effect of this has been on the whole good. As far as the public services on Sunday are concerned, the attendance was good, and the people were enthusiastic and happy. It is harder to keep the Sunday School work up to pitch on account of not having adequate accommodation. There is a brotherly feeling existing amongst the ministers that is very fine and we all feel that being brought together is having far-reaching effects for good in promoting that unity so much needed in Protestant Christendom. Because of this splendid spirit of unity we were able to carry out a simultaneous campaign for better support of the local churches and larger gifts to Missions. The same speakers, the same literature, and the same form of subscription pledge was used by these churches and increased revenue for all purposes of about $10,000.00 was secured by this campaign. The experiment was so successful all round that many of our most conservative people were quite anxious to effect a similar arrangement for this coming winter. We have made our plans on the advice of our local Fuel Controller, and on the 24th of November we enter into a union very similar to that of last year; and this union we expect to carry on until spring comes or the fuel situation improves.

One very practical result of these services was that we saved about 100 tons of coal, and we hope to save at least 150 tons this winter, or 60 per cent. of our total normal consumption.

Wishing you success in your efforts to conserve coal and to secure comfort to many poor families who must suffer if sympathetic consideration for others is not practised by us all, I am,

Yours very truly,

Signed on behalf of the Ministers of the Cooperating Churches,

R. M. HAMILTON,
Minister First Presbyterian Church.

Rector St. Peter's Anglican Church.

MANY PRAIRIE TOWNS ISOLATED BY "FLU" AND LID ON TIGHT

NOBODY PERMITTED TO LEAVE OR ENTER QUARANTINED PLACES.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 2. Many small towns throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are being isolated daily through their efforts to guard against the Spanish influenza epidemic, it was learned here today.

Local health officers are placing towns under quarantine, and notifying railway passenger agents that they are closed up tightly. Quarantine means the temporary closing up of many places of business, and loss of business in many cases.

Passengers are not allowed to stop off at many of the isolated points, and no one is allowed to leave the towns. Railway tickets are not for sale to any quarantined point. Some of the towns have decided to remain under quarantine until the danger is past, while others will lift the ban shortly. The C. P. R. reports that between 40 and 50 of the towns on its line through the three prairie provinces have been quarantined.

SOME SAY IT'S A SUCCESS.

But Dr. McCullough says Time Too Short to Talk of Flu Vaccine.

TORONTO, Nov. 1. — "I cannot say yet whether the flu vaccine has been a success in preventing the people who have been inoculated from catching the disease. The time has been too short, but I have had several of the doctors telephone me that it has been a success, but you can't go by that," said Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, the Provincial Officer of Health, to-day.

"Is the epidemic subsiding in the province?"

"Yes, I think it is going down some but there may be a silght recurrence later on, but nothing as serious as this."

CANON DAVIDSON'S MESSAGE TO THE CONGREGATION OF ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

The present suspension of Sunday services is being increasingly felt by both clergy and people throughout our city to be a most serious matter, and strong desires are being expressed on all sides for a speedy relaxation of the stringent measures considered necessary heretofore.

Looking back over the past strange churchless Sundays, most of us will feel from experience the danger of relapsing into laxity, softness and spiritual feebleness when the outward helps and duties of religion are withdrawn. It is easy to talk about serving God in private as well as in public, but we know now the extent to which this is ordinarily and actually done.

Let us prepare to pull ourselves together to take our united stand under the Banner of Corporate Religion when it is again unfurled.

In the meanwhile if we are denied the privilege of entering our Father's House let us see to it that our Christian duty is clearly and definitely done in our own homes.

One advantage of our Prayer-book Service is that it can be used anywhere and by anybody. Gather the household together, then, and say together as much as possible of the well-known prayers and praises, uniting ourselves thereby to the world-wide worshipping Church to which our thoughts go out.

This is the beautiful season of All Saints' when our thoughts go out to all who have departed this life and rest in the Paradise of God. With what emphasis and appropriateness does it come this year!

The Collect, Epistle and Gospel for All Saints' Day should be used by all together with the "Prayer for the Church Militant," making special reference to the departed in both France and in our own country. Revelation 19 is also an appropriate lesson to be read. Those who cannot use a longer Form might at least, after a meal, read one of the above passages and say the Apostles' Creed and Lord's Prayer together. In some way put the Lord's mark upon the Lord's Day. Let it be kept quiet and distinctive, with an entire change of occupation and atmosphere.

It is most gratifying to know that many of our people are helping in different ways to minister to the needs of the sick or are doing other useful work. Everybody should keep their eyes open for such privileged opportunities. Report any serious illness to the Clergy concerned. Finally, let us, though separated, stand together in one spirit, serving the Lord and our brethren and rising above present troubles and depression in a spirit of triumphant Faith and Hope!

ONE THOUSAND MILLIONS CANADA'S WAR EXPENSE

What it Costs to Destroy German Militarism—Mounting Expenditures to Maintain Canada's Effort at Home and Abroad.

Canada is spending over $1,000,000 directly on the war every day. From the beginning to the present day Canada has spent one thousand millions of dollars. The sum exceeds the total national revenue from 1868 to 1904.

And the cost of the war is growing as the army expands. This is the reason why Canada wants $500,000,000 to carry on the war and to make victory sure. The actual war expenditure will take nearly 75 per cent. of the whole amount. Then there is the interest on war loans, the expenditure on the naval service and the assistance given to the live stock, grain and dairy interests to enable them to sell their products to great Britain and her Allies. Ship building is a war necessity and assistance is being given to that to that industry.

EXPENSE GROWING DAILY

Our war expenditure grows as the offensives grow. We spent $175,752,000 during the first six months of this year, and the Canadians did not take the offensive till six weeks after. The war bill this year will be $360,000,000 The following figures will illustrate how our army has expanded and what this ever-increasing force has cost:

In 1914 we sent to Great Britain and France 30,999 men, and the expenditures amounted to $25,879,749. In 1915 84,334 men went overseas and the expenditures rose to $127,616,300; in 1916 we sent over the ocean 1165,553 men and the cost to us was $248,665,769. In 1917 we had sent about 350,000 men in Great Britain and France and the cost of maintaining that huge army was $315,094,000. This year with the total sent overseas reaching probably 425,000 the expenditures will hardly be less than $360,000,000.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES.

We ask how the one billion dollars of Canada's war bill has been spent. The following figures, up till the middle of 1918, will show:

Pay and Allowances	$501,704,000
Maintenance in France	$114,366,000
Separation Allowance	$ 71,436,000
Clothing	$ 35,449,000
Boots and repairs	$ 10,600,000
Ocean transport and expenditure	$ 16,000,000
Land transport	$ 17,500,000
Stores	$ 14,000,000
Motor trucks, ambulances, etc.,	$ 9,600,000
Remounts	$ 8,591,000
Machine guns	$ 4,700,000
Kit bags and necessaries	$ 5,500,000
Outfit allowances	$ 5,500,000

These items alone total $814,000,000. The average pay amounts to about $1.25 per day per man for all ranks. Average cost of rations 50 cents per day in Canada in Britain 88 1-2 cents.

Changes in the Grocery Market

Prunes and Raisins Will be Higher in Price—The Sugar Market,

Interest centres chiefly in the announcement from Washington that an embargo on the export of virtually all dried fruits has been put into effect, says the Canadian Grocer for this week. This is a serious matter for the trade here, and whereas some importers feel that modification of this embargo may develop in a short time, others again feel that this step was only taken after a complete survey of the probable crop was stacked up against the requirements of the new army and navy being recruited.

Prunes and Raisins.

Prunes and raisins are the two big lines affected, though the trade was pretty well resigned to the faot that very small allotments, if any, prunes would come through owing to severe crop damage coming on top of heavy Government requirements. The same conditions are now affecting raisins, rains doing considerable damage to the later crops, and army needs proving very heavy.

Coffee Market.

Coffee is also occupying the thoughts of importers considerably. The Brazilian market has developed remarkable strength only recently. This is not due to scarcity of this commodity, but rather to the possibility of an early peace with probable opportunities for trade with belligerent countries whose supplies must be practically exhausted. Supplies in Canada are none too heavy, though no actual shortage before the first of the year seems likely to develop. At that time, scarcity of bottoms to bring shipments through promptly may result in an acute scarcity arising. The outlook seems to be too that prices will show a sharp advance, unless Brazilian interests show a change of heart from their present attitude—an unlikely development.

Canadian Mustard.

Advances have been made for Canadian mustard, filberts, linseed meal, celery seed, lemons, oranges, grapefruit, coffee, etc.

Declines are made in the price of Canadian chicory and clams.

Japan teas are scarce and firm. Canned goods are steady, and the sugar situation is without change, but very firm.

The sickness that has been raging is now abating, it is thought, and this will be a big relief, for not only have staffs been depleted, but the general effect on business has been severe.

The dried fruit outlook is anything but encouraging, and the markets are likely to advance.

Nuts High.

Grenoble walnuts and Brazil nuts have reached extremely high levels on the New York market, which will more than likely be reflected here. On the present basis these lines are selling locally from four to seven cents lower than the present cost to import. All lines of nuts are very firm, and sales have been maintained at a very satisfactory total for the month.

Orders for mustard have kept manufacturers extremely busy taking care of the trade on this line. The epidemic of sickness is mainly responsible for this. White pepper is very strong, though blacks show little change. Other lines of spices are very firm, cloves and nutmegs being extremely scarce and hard to get, with demand generally very satisfactory.

Sugar Market.

The sugar situation is without material change. Improved shipments are reported by a couple of refiners, while others are out of the market altogether, or materially restricted through shortage of raws to operate on or scarcity of labour to obtain satisfactory production.

Apple Market.

Candy manufacturers are very hard pressed to secure sufficient materials to take care of business offering. The demand for all lines is good, and prices, though firm, are generally steady. No change in allotments of sugar is looked for before the end of the year.

Apples seem to be the centre of interest in the fruit trade. A wide range of both Ontario and B.C. stock is being shown, of good quality, and at what are considered reasonable prices.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

Hurry Mother! Remove Poisons From Little Stomach, Liver, and Bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if Cross, Bilious or Feverish.

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out of sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if the tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

PETERBORO SIXTY YEARS AGO

Following is a further description of some of the surrounding villages as given in the Directory of 1858:

THE VILLAGE OF OMEMEE.

The principal village in the Township of Emily, is situated on Pigeon River, which besides supplying it with hydraulic power, promises to be an important inlet for the produce and lumber of the northern townships. It has one excellent flouring and grist mill, with three run of stones; a very good saw mill, and a carding and fulling mill, all worked by water power. It contains two churches—an Episcopalian and a Wesleyan; a grammar school fifteen stores—some of them very good ones; two bakeries and groceries; two taverns and a temperance hotel; three saloons; and blacksmiths, coopers, waggon makers, shoe makers, tailors, carpenters, harness makers, and dress makers in fair numbers. Omemee boasts a very excellent newspaper, the "Warder," published by Mr. Joseph Cooper. It is on the line and it is one of the most important stations of the Port Hope, Lindsay and Beaverton Railway; and should the inhabitants be successful in procuring government assistance to dredge and improve the navigation of Pigeon River—now capable, when the water is high of floating a steamer to the village—there is little doubt that it will become a town of very great importance. It has a daily mail from Port Hope, Peterborough and Lindsay. The population is between 500 and 600.

VILLAGE OF DOWNEYVILLE.

A small village in the Township of Emily, situated on lots 6 and 7, on the 9th and 10th concessions. It has three stores, one hotel, one saloon, two shoe shops, two blacksmiths' shops, one milliner's shop, and one church—Roman Catholic. It is about 8 miles from Lindsay. Population is about 100.

VILLAGE OF BOBCAYGEON.

This rising village stands on an island on the east side of the township of Verulam. The island is formed by the waters of Sturgeon Lake on the west side and Pigeon Lake on the east, and is composed of a very superior chrystaline limestone. There is an excellent grist and saw mill at Bobcaygeon, which although stopped for some time during the progress of the construction of the Bobcaygeon locks, are now at work again. There are two other saw mills on the south side of Sturgeon Lake, worked by a stream called Sheriff's Creek; and on the north side of the lake Mr. J. W. Dunsford has a shingle factory, capable of cutting 12,000 shingles in 12 hours. There are two stores in the village, and the industrial callings are fairly represented. The government have recently opened up a road for free settlement, from Bobcaygeon into the interior country. Upwards of a score of new townships are being opened up and settlement is taking place very rapidly. The population of the village is about 150.

FENELON FALLS.

The village of Fenelon Falls is one of the most flourishing in the county of Victoria. It is situated in the township of Fenelon, between Cameron and Sturgeon Lakes, and derives its name from a beautiful water fall in its vicinity—a complete Niagara in miniature, about 20 feet high, and 300 feet wide. The site of the village is owned by James Wallis, Esq., who had extensive mills—lumber and flouring—which were kept well employed in preparing the produce of the field and forest for the market. The saw mill was unfortunately destroyed by fire a short time ago—a loss very severely felt by the surrounding country, but which it is hoped will soon be repaired. It has a couple of good stores and an excellent hotel. Boats between Peterboro and Lindsay touch daily at Fenelon Falls, thus giving its inhabitants great facilities for reaching the seaboard. There is also a direct water communication with Port Perry. It is distant from Lindsay 16 miles, and from Peterboro 38 miles. The population is about 100.

Lower Prices in Hardware Market

Number of Price Changes During the Week.

Lower prices are again in evidence on linseed oil this week after a week of rather uncertain conditions in the seed market, says Hardware and Metal. Declines range from four cents to seven cents per gallon. Uncertainty as to how flaxseed may go seems to be the only certain feature in this market. The feeling is strong that unless an almost cessation of hostilities develops the market is about as low as it will go, and higher levels are looked for later on.

Turpentine Up.

Turpentine has advanced 2c per gallon in some quarters. This is in line with firm tendencies outlined last week, and follows closely on the strong feeling in evidence at primary points. Continued strength seems probable, it being reported that English interests have bought up large stocks to be stored in tanks awaiting shipping space, and this will provide a firm undertone to the market. Local conditions are affected, too, by increased charges for warpage, marking and barrels which have now become effective.

Blacksmith Supplies.

Horse shoes are again prominent this week in an advance of 50c per keg. This follows on the heels of a similar increase about three months ago, and is some criterion of conditions generally applying in iron and steel industries. Further evidence as to the trend of these markets is given in an advance of about 20 per cent. in steel game traps, one of the sharpest increases yet recorded in this line.

Roofing Cement.

New prices issued on roofing cement and paint for spring provide for an advance in these two lines. Creosote has also gone to higher levels, and the market in all roofing products rules with a very firm undertone.

A decline in drop shot is recorded in some quarters, more it is felt, in an effort to clean up on stocks than a market condition. Some lines of Canadian-made builders' hardware have been changed, new prices providing for advances which, it is indicated, amount to as much as 15 per cent.

Other Lines.

Other lines to join the list of those on the upward trend are axle pulleys, tin roofing caps, hand saws, foot valves, planes, tower bolts, thumb latches, and chain pipe wrenches. A 15c increase in the price of cement is also effective, as applied to certain territory.

Business as a whole has been very good in spite of adverse conditions brought about by epidemic of sickness. Manufacturing interests seem to have suffered the most in a curtailment of their operations.

AMERICANS ALL.

TOKIO, Sept. 15.—(By Mail.)—Fifty stars are on the service flag at the American embassy here. The stars represent Americans who have left Japan for France, via American training camps. Ambassador Roland S. Morris believes that even more than that number have gone to fight, and has issued a public appeal for information about all such departures.

MRS. (REV.) HORTON HAS DISAPPEARED

Mrs. (Rev.) G. Horton of Belleville disappeared from her home on Sunday, October 6th and has not been heard of since. She was sixty-one years of age. Her husband the Rev. Mr. Horton is well known in Peterboro having visited here on many occasions.

No Pity Now For Germans

FOE'S BRUTALITY DID IT.

NEW YORK.—First Lieutenant Coningsby Dawson, of the Canadian Field Artillery, author of "Out to Win," "Glory of the Trenches," and "Carry On," has arrived at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Dawson, 1028 Broad Street, Newark, just missing his brother, Lieut. Reginald Dawson, of the British Navy, by a few hours.

Lieut. Dawson has come to recover from a wound he suffered on September 2 at Drocourt, where the Hindenburg line was first broken by the British.

"People say, 'Stop the war and save the poor boys from being many days longer in the trenches,'" he said. "The soldiers do not want it. They would sooner go on fighting if they knew that they were to die within a month than have an inconclusive peace and one that did not first of all inflict on the Germans some of the suffering they have inflicted upon the civilized world. The army will not feel that it has begun to win until we get on German soil. War is just beginning for us.

To Keep Hun Hustling.

"The men at the front want to keep the Hun hustling until he gets back into Germany and we are in a position to give him an example on a miniature scale in his own country of what he has done to France and Belgium, which is the only thing the Hun can understand. If we make peace, with Germany intact, he will think that frightfulness pays, as he does not believe that he has been inhuman, from a moral standpoint.

"If the Governments of the Allies do not interfere, if they leave it to the armies to settle the war, we will be in Berlin by August. The Americans who have not been through France or Belgium, and have not seen the devastation of the Huns, cannot realize what the war is. They can conjecture and sympathize only. The people in England have a better idea, because they are so much nearer to the war zone. The people in France and England are not talking about peace. They are determined to go on, no matter how long it lasts, until the enemy is thoroughly beaten. What they are looking for is judgment day, and after that they will talk of a new heaven and a new earth.

Knows Only Brute Force.

"That spirit grew up last summer so far as the British are concerned. Until May we talked of the Hun in a pitying and humorous fashion. The whole reason of our success since is that for the first time in the history of the war we began to hate the Hun.

"It commenced with their bombing the Base Hospital at Etaples and killing the Sisters who were there nursing the wounded men. I saw big men cry like children when they saw what the Huns had done, and they swore great oaths to give them no quarters. The Hun, when he comes down after being captured, is weak and whines for mercy like a coward, but later on, after passing the casualty station and seeing that he is treated like our own wounded, he becomes haughty and finally a bully. Magnanimity shown to the Hun means weakness. The only thing that he undersands is brute force.

"If we start to be sorry for him just as we have begun to win, the Huns will only despise us. I can give you an illustration from my own personal knowledge to show what the Hun really is. During a drive of one of the Canadian divisions to which I was attached, a young officer in command of a tank was very keen to go ahead. When the enemy counter-attacked he was left high and dry. Afterward when our divisions again drove the Huns back we found that he and the crew of the tank had been taken out, stripped, lashed to the tank, and then bombed to death."

IN THE LAND O' COMMON SENSE

Says it is suicide to cut corns, and tells how they lift right out

You simply say to the drug store man, "Give me a quarter of an ounce of freezone." This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn from one's feet.

A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn should relieve the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn, root and all, can be lifted out with the fingers without pain.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that while freezone is sticky it dries in a moment, and seems to simply shrivel up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin.

Don't let father die from infection or lockjaw from whittling at his corns, but cut this out and make him try it.

The After Effects of Dreaded LaGrippe

Worse Than the Disease Itself — Victims Left Weak, Nervous and Worn Out.

La Grippe, or Spanish influenza as the epidemic now sweeping over all America is called, is one of the most dangerous diseases known to mankind. Anyone who has felt its pangs is not likely to forget the trouble. La Grippe, or influenza, starts with a slight cold and ends with a complication of troubles. It lays the victim on his back, it tortures him with fevers and chills, headaches and backaches. It leaves him a prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, consumption and other deadly diseases. Its after effects are often more serious than the disease itself. It is quite possible to avoid la grippe by keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—a tonic medicine which enriches the blood and strengthens the nerves. If, however, the disease attacks you, the patient should at once go to bed, and call a doctor before complications set in. That is the only safe thing to do. But to recover your strength after the severity of the attack has passed, you will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills an unsurpassed tonic. Through the use of this medicine all the evil after effects of this trouble will be banished. This has been proved in thousands of cases throughout Canada, where in previous seasons la grippe has attacked them. Among the many thus restored to full health is Miss Irene Bootes, Portsmouth, Ont., who says: "I take much pleasure in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because I have proved their worth in my own case. Last winter I had a severe attack of la grippe and it left me weak and all run down. I had severe pains in the chest and under the arms, palpitation of the heart and attacks of neuralgia which left me with the feeling that life was scarcely worth living. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began their use only on the principle that I would try anything that might better my condition. I had only been using the pills a couple of weeks when the pains began to leave me. Gradually my strength returned, my appetite improved, and in a little more than a month I felt all my old time vigor had returned. I am sincerey glad I was persuaded to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I shall always have a good word to say for them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills not only cure the disastrous after effects of la grippe, but are also a specific for all troubles due to poor blood, such as anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, women's ailments, and the generally worn out feeling that affects so many people. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Peterboro Casualties

Word has been received of the death on October 26th, in Sussex, England, from Spanish influenza, of Pte. Harry Barcroft, of the 6th Canadian Reserve Battalion. Pte. Barcroft went overseas last July and has been in training in England since that time. His brother, Wilbert, died in Toronto on October 17th, from the same disease that ended the life of Pte. Barcroft. The latter was in his 29th year, and leaves to mourn his loss a widowed mother, seven sisters, and two brothers, Mrs. James McDonald, Peterborough; Mrs. J. Guthrie, Rockcroft; Mrs. Fred Bayliss, Mrs. J. Eastwood, Mrs. J. Wilson, Mrs. E. Sutton, and Miss Stella, of Toronto; Ernest, of Toronto, and Stanley, of Toronto.

SERGT. H. W. YOUNG.

Peterboro Boy Tells of the Evacuation of Belgium

Lieut. Joseph Killoran Met With Bad Accident on October 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Killoran, 409 Albert St., have receaved a letter from their son. Lieut. Joseph Killoran, of the Royal Air Force, telling of the evacuation of Ostend and Bruges by the Germans:

Dear Mother and Father,—Just a few lines this evening to let you know that I am still O.K. Weather has been rather wet lately and so I am not doing so much flying. I am still sleeping in a tent and it is rather wet and cold at times, but I am getting used to that now and never have colds or coughs as I used to.

LIEUT. J. C. KILLORAN.

It was too bad about Bill Jackson being taken prisoner so soon. However, he would perhaps have been killed otherwise. It looks as though he would not be a prisoner very long by the way things are going at present.

I had a rather serious accident again, on October 8.

The war is certainly going good now. The Huns are evacuating opposite us at Zeebrugge and Ostend, so I may have another move soon. However, it will probably be months before this happens.

I had another letter from red. Killoran. He seems quite satisfied with his job at present and says they use him well. He is in Sussex, in the horse transport.

I hope you will be able to get sugar, etc., because I suppose its scarce in Canada, too.

Love to all,

JOE,

Paris Revives as Huns Retreat

(By Webb Miller.)

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Oct. 6.—(By Mail.)—The hundreds of thousands of persons who "took their vacations" or found pressing business in the south of France a few months ago when the Germans were only 40 miles away and Big Bertha was speaking regularly, are flocking back. The city is regaining its old-time vivacity. The boulevards and sidewalk cafes are overflowing every afternoon with gay crowds strolling in the bright autumn sunshine, and shops that were closed suddenly in the summer are reopening.

Within a fortnight after the allied push shoved the Germans back toward Hunland, the vanguard of the army of "shell-dodgers" began to flow back to Paris. Now the invasion is in full swing. The hotels are doing a rushing business and nearly every hotel of importance is packed full every day. Incoming officers and soldiers with a few days leave in Paris, are finding difficulty in getting any sort of a room. Many of them are forced to visit a half dozen hotels before finding a vacant room. In hotels where only a score of faithfuls remained through July and August, there is now not a vacant room. And the well known law of supply and demand is getting in its work — the prices are being shoved up notch by notch.

Although to the casual observer the number of people that stayed in Paris through the period of danger of invasion was remarkable, it was noticeable that most of the people of the streets were soldiers whose business kept them in the city. Undeniably a vast number left the city. Now they're all coming back and more, too.

The allied successes have tended to stimulate business to a surprising extent and a fair percentage of the invaders are provincial business people in Paris on buying trips. And every one of them brings his whole family and spends a week or two and many francs enjoying the metropolis.

One of the most immediate effects of the allies' victories was to raise the rate of exchange upon French money. In the last few weeks the rate has been going up a few centimes at a time.

The influx of people has served to brighten the city in many ways. At least five theatres that have been closed for some time are reopening. All the movie theatres on the boulevards are crowded every afternoon and night. In deference to the thousands of British and American soldiers in town, the moving picture houses are using many American films and running films with captions in both French and English. To the American soldier accustomed to his nickel "movie" or at most ten cents or a quarter, the prices of from thirty cents to a dollar are staggering. But they pay the prices gladly to get a glimpse of "back home" even if it is usually New Jersey or California. The news stands are taking advantage of the demand for American publications and are offering the Saturday Evening Post and Colliers at 20 cents Their supply is snapped up within a few hours after arrival. The 25-cent American magazines sell for 65 cents.

A number of the recent newcomers are buyers from the big fashionable women's stores from every large city in the allied and neutral world. For the usual autumn fashion shows are in full blast in a score of the establishments that set the fashions from Vladivostok to Melbourne. Some of the buyers are from such far-away places as Buenos Aires, Rio and Tokio, with a goodly proportion from Chicago, New York and London and the Scandinavian capitals.

With the city full of visitors the 9:30 closing decree becomes a real hardship—upon the restaurant men—when thousands are "all dressed up and no place to go" after the curfew darkens the lights.

Although many pass the time by strolling aimlessly along the darkened boulevards, the wise ones say that places can be found where the curfew can't be heard.

MUCH OF BELGIUM INTACT

REGION EAST OF NIEUPORT-YPRES LINE NOT SCARRED BY WAR.

BELGIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN FLANDERS, That part of Belgium just liberated by the armies under command of King Albert has suffered little in comparison with other parts of the little kingdom and Northern France. Western Flanders virtually is intact north of the Lys and east of the old battle line.

From the region of Nieuport to south of Ypres the stretch of ground and the territory for six or more miles on either side, which was the battle ground for four years, judged by the numerous little black crosses that are scattered all about, might be called "Dead Man's Land." East of this region, however, there are villages untouched by the war, luxuriant farms and happy liberated towns.

West of the line which the British and Belgians held for four long years many villages and towns have been destroyed by German shells. Furnes is but an empt, shell of tottering walls and Pervyse is merely a geographical name. A post bearing the name of the village is the only thing remaining to show where Ramscapelle stood. In this region poison gas has killed all vegitation and the trees stand gaunt and bare of foliage.

Mount Dora, Fla., has a female town clerk.

England has nearly 3,000,000 female clerks.

Victory Comes High, But WE MUST HAVE IT

THIS is no time to count the cost of Victory--when hundreds of thousands of our own Canadian boys are charging, full speed ahead, with the Huns on the run.

This is no time for loyal Canadians to stop and consider the terrible price, in blood and tears, this war has already cost the world.

When the word goes forth over there to CHARGE, every man is on his toes —straining every muscle—eyes front —head up—bayonet fixed—to sweep the German hordes back out of Belgium—out of France—back, ever back — until they throw up their hands with "Kamerad! Kamerad!" on their cowardly lips.

Here, in Canada, when the word goes forth to "LEND," let us all be worthy of the gallant boys who have given up home, and comfort, and even life itself, for the cause of Victory.

We at home must furnish the funds that will keep the victorious Canadian troops supplied with food and clothing —with guns and ammunition — with tanks and shells and airplanes.

Victory is within our grasp. Continue the great offensive and the War will be won.

Every dollar you have, or can borrow, is needed to bring back the boys VICTORIOUS.

Canada needs your money, but Canada is willing to pay for the use of it.

Every dollar invested in Victory Bonds will be returned to you with interest.

Movies Show How Tail Spin Looks

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—To facilitate teaching of the science of aviation to cadets at our various flying fields, the U. S. air service has just completed a series of motion picture films that are nothing short of remarkable.

Some of these were made under direction of the late Maj. East, who was killed at Garden City, L. I., recently in an automobile accident, while others have been made under the direction of the air medical research laboratory. These films, photographed from airplanes and also from the ground, depict all sorts of aerial acrobatics and convey an idea of what the cadet may expect when he first tries aerial manoeuvres. The cadets learn theoretically all about the tail spins from the time they enter the ground school, but their imagination is piqued with wondering what the sensation is like and how they will recognize the tail spin once they are in it.

By photographing the whirl of the horizon and sky from an airplane during a tail spin, it is possible to give the student a very fair idea of what he may expect. The sensation produced is that the plane is standing still and the earth and sky going around in a mad whirl. Inasmuch as the chances are about 1,000 to 1 that an airplane out of control immediately goes into a tail spin, ("or virile" as it is called abroad(the necessity of preparing the flyer for this is of prime importance and the motion picture film becomes indispensable. Of course the more advanced acrobatic tricks from the pilot's point of view, such as the "barrel roll," in which the ship rolls over and over sideways like a barrel; the renversement, and the loop starting in both upward and downward directions, are illustrated with these movies.

It is the new system of assigning flight surgeons and physical directors, recently inaugurated by the air medical service, that is reducing the percentage of crashes at the fields. The flight surgeons have been specializing for months on the health of the airman and flying cadet, and have done a great deal of careful research work which is proving of immense value. The physical directors, who prior to the war were trainers of football teams, or athletic instructors, also are making a careful study of the airman and are looking after his physical welfare and seeing that he obtains proper exercise. This exercise necessarily has to be strenuous and specialized so as to counteract the effects of air sickness, (which is similar to sea sickness); headache and earache, due to high altitude work.

Extremely Long, Extremely Narrow and with Just a Touch of Fur, Are the New Dresses

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. — Long and slender were they all. Just like a new pencil. Not a broken line could be seen in the models which I saw at one of the foremost shops in the city. Of an exaggerated length, where some of the ankles barely peeped from under. And it was an effort for the dainty manequins to take a step other than tiny. Although charming in the showroom these models would not be practical. However, their general line and silhouette expressed the trend of fashion for the winter.

When I say that these stunning creations would not be practical, I mean of course for the woman who has to consider the expense of her wardrobe equally as much as its attractiveness. For the woman that may pay a princely sum for her clothes I am sure that she would find in this selection the perfect satisfaction of her desires. A beauteous, marvellous whirl, continuous, and ever different, the next being more wonderful than its predecessor, this showing of feminine finery.

The Prominent Colors.

One of the most striking costumes that I saw was an afternoon dress of henna-colored broadcloth. The waist was absolutely bare of trimming, and fitted snugly, giving the appearance of a "glove fit." The collar was a high "choker," tight and a little painful looking. But this added to its attractiveness, for does not martyrdom for fashion at the altar of clothes render these objects more sacred when they cause discomfort? The skirt! My, what an odd, yet adorable thing it was! Just as tight as tight could be, and ruffles running around about three inches wide, from the waistline to the hem. A tall slender brunette wore this, and in her straight smooth coiffure she deftly perched a dull blue-stoned ornament. A perfect delight to look at, this creature of beauty.

This henna color has proved a favorite with the most discerning costumiers, and its future seems sure, for so far its sales are such as to suggest its popularity. It is a pretty shade, a bit trying for one whose complexion is not clear, but altogether it casts a nice shade over the face and softens the lines of the features. Over this frock the manequin wore a broadtail coat trimmed with Belgian hare. A sumptuous supply of this fur was in evidence, and the coat was trimmed in a most interesting fashion. The collar was a trickly little affair and swirled around twice before it decided to stop and fasten itself high up, covering all of my lady's chin, and just permitting one ruby lip to be seen.

ORDERED TO POISON WELLS

WASHINGTON HAS COPY OF GERMAN COMMANDER'S INSTRUCTIONS TO MEN.

WASHINGTON,— Documents quoting orders issued by German commanders for the methodical destruction of property and for the poisoning of wells during the recent evacuation of Belgian and French territory have reached Washington. Among them is an order taken from a prisoner, issued by the commander of the 108th infantry, Brigade of the German army, on Sept. 5, directing specifically that certain villages be destroyed by the rear guard.

Designated units are assigned to the destruction of the villages named and, in addition, the order states, "it is the duty of everyone to participate in these destructions," which are to be carried out "with more method and less haste." The order, which is signed "Wick", presumably either the Brigade Commander for his chief of Staff, says, "It is recalled that wells are to be contaminated."

There is a mysterious game called "live in the dark." The mystery is due to the fact that young people who play it are inclined to be close-mouthed.

REV. F. E. MALOTT LIKES PETERBORO

Fifty Thousand Dollar Addition to Trinity Church.

In a letter to a friend in Orillia, Rev. F. E. Malott, of Peterboro, writes that he is liking his work in that city very much. His church is built on the plan of the Timothy Eaton Memorial Church, Toronto. It is of grey stone and cost $60,000. A $50,000 addition is to be added when the war is over.

Kingan Hardware Has Good Display

Every Requisite for the Duck and Deer Hunter.

The hunting season has accounted for some attractive window displays in the city and one which has stood out particularly is that of the Kingan Hardware Company.

In the spacious front window a display covering every requisite of the duck or deer hunter is cleverly arranged. These are mostly drawn from the Dominion and Winchester supplies. The guns, ammunition, gun cleaners, flasks, etc., are arranged with a patriotic backing of Victory Bond posters and splendid views advertising the well known supplies.

No hunter after taking a survey of the window can reach his destination and suddenly remember something he forgot, as the window is an index to an ideal outfit ready to meet any requirement of the camp or woods.

Pte. Norman Routly is Getting Better

Peterboro Soldier Was Hit by a Machine Gun Bullet.

In a letter received by Mr. Nelson Routley, corner of Brock and Park Streets, from Pte. Norman Routley, who was wounded in action on September 29th, he says::

"I am at present convalescing at the Princess Christina Military Hospital, Englefield Green, Surrey, England. You will no doubt have heard that I was wounded above my knee and below. This happened at 8.30 in the morning. Some German machine guns were concealed near by, and the efforts of our boys failed to locate them. However to look up meant the rattle of the guns, and generally a wound. Well, I got mine, as I said about 8.30, and crawled back to a ditch behind the trenches, where I lay helpless until 2 o'clock, when some stretcher bearers came along and bound up my wounds. They left and I was still in the ditch until 4.30, when just as I was beginning to grow pretty desperate some German prisoners acting as stretcher bearers picked me up and took me back to the base. From ten that night until the next morning I travelled by truck and train, was operated on twice, and finally made Blighty. I expect to be able to get about on crutches fairly soon, as my leg is healing well in splints."

CRAZED BY TROUBLES.

Widow Kills Seven Sons and Attempts Suicide.

HAVANA, Nov. 1.—Grieving over the death of her husband, who had died of influenza, Mrs. Carmen Lavera, aged 34, of Near Camaguey, yesterday killed her seven young sons. She then placed the live stock of the farm in a hut, and after setting it afire leaped into the flames. She was rescued in a serious condition by soldiers.

DIED

WARNER—John William Warner, only son of James A. Warner, Hastings, October 30th., 1918, at Gilbert Plains, Manitoba, with pneumonia, aged 23 years, 9 months. His brother James Edger Warner was killed in action, Nov. 11th., 1917. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his sorrowing parents, seven sisters, Mrs. J. J. Dickson, Keene; Mrs. L. Beavis, Hastings, Miss Gertrude, Peterboro; Ella of Toronto; Bertha, May and Ada at home.

A TRIBUTE.

After a brief illness, on October 30th, as the shades of night were gathering, the silver cord was loosed, and the bright young spirit of Mina Evelyn Troope went home to be forever with the Saviour she loved and so faithfully served.

Good night beloved, sleep and take thy rest,
Lay down thine head upon thy Saviour's breast,
We loved thee well, but Jesus loved thee best;
Good night!

ONE WHO LOVED HER.

Great Massacre Planned for Nov. 10th in Petrograd

Copenhagen, Oct. 31. — A special to the Koebehaven, from Petrograd, reports that the Bolsheviki openly declare that the night of November 10th will be a general St. Bartholomew, with the murder of the entire bourgeoisie and intellectual class.

Indescribable panic is said to reign in Petrograd.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—With reference to the Copenhagen report that the Bolsheviki intend to make November 10 a general St. Bartholomew for the Bourgeoisie, Harold Williams writes:

"It is futile to cherish the illusion that the Bolshevikis do not mean what they say. During September, their official organ announced daily 500 names of persons shot in cold blood without trial and without reason, and a cool estimate of the daily quota of victims of the terror throughout Russia is 500.

"If not for the sake of Russia, then for the sake of humanity, of liberty, of civilization, and for the security of the peace that at last draws near, it is high time to put a stop to atrocities as fiendish as any committed by the Germans in this war."

MUST REPORT TO THE POLICE EVERY MONTH.

William Miller ,a 19 year old boy of this city, was charged with being a loafer contrary to the anti-loafers' act. Chief Thompson, in giving his past history said that he had been in the police court twice before, and was a lazy, indolent youth, who refused to work or to pay his board.

Miller in his own defence said he had obtained a job at the Campbell Flour Mills, and was to start this morning.

The case was enlarged for a week. Miller was required to get work at once, and report to the Chief of Police every week for a month.

SOUP KITCHEN NEEDS ARE GREAT

Many calls are made on the Red Cross Soup Kitchen of Trinity Methodist Church, and any ladies that wish to contribute nourishing foods, such as cocoa, custards and jellie, which are in great demand, may do so. Anyone wishing to contribute should send the articles to Trinity School Hall, on Reid street.

You must help put Loan over. From the landlord's point of view, the man with a large family of small children is a flat failure.

Rates for Telephone Service

As already announced, we find it necessary to ask the Board of Railway Commissioners for authority to readjust our schedule of rates for service.

Why should we ask that telephone rates be raised?

We believe our subscribers and the public are entitled to a frank statement from us.

All fair-minded and thoughtful people will agree with the recent statement of President Wilson before the American Electric Railway Association:

"A just price must, of course, be paid for everything we buy. But a just price which will sustain the industries concerned in a high state of efficiency, provide a living for those who conduct them, enable them to pay good wages and make possible the expansion of their enterprises which will from time to time become necessary as the stupendous undertakings of this great war develop. We could not reasonably pay less than such prices. They are necessary for the maintenance and development of industry, and the maintenance and development of industry are necessary for the great task we have on hand."

Public utilities, no less than private enterprises, must receive such treatment if they are to give an adequate service and meet the growing needs of the community.

Canada's Army.

Recruiting figures compiled in Ottawa show that since the beginning of the war there have been 581,559 volunteers for overseas service in the Dominion, and that the Toronto Military District leads with 126,772, which is slightly better than giving one-fifth of the whole Dominion. The two other Ontario districts have also made very creditable showings, No. 1, Kingston, giving 48,236, and the London district giving 63,277. This shows that the Province of Ontario has given close to half the volunteers to date. Second honors fall to District No. 10, which in the early part of the war represented the Province of Manitoba, but which has since been enlarged to take in part of Saskatchewan. This district gave 73,035. Since May 31, however, the local district has fallen away in the leadership, the Montreal district doing better, with 11,732 volunteers compared with 6,351 for the Toronto district.

DUFFERIN TERRACE.

A Beauty Spot That Belongs to Old Quebec.

The unique outlook post of Dufferin Terrace, above the St. Lawrence at Quebec, strikes a note that is new, amid much that is venerable. Champlain's medieval chateau, or castle used to occupy much of the site, and if one had sought "the view," which Quebecers call the most wonderful in the world, say in the fifties, he would have found the guide books of those days, and indeed long before, impressing upon him with monotonous iteration the need of climbing to the bastion in the citadel. One goes there still, of course, and there are some choice apropos lines by Canadian poets which have a stirring quality, especially when recalled upon the famous spot; but compared with the Terrace, 150 feet below, it is an eyrie, a remote solitude which might crown a Gibraltar, and which, while greatly extending the view, robs it of something of the "intimate." There is a world of difference in seeing an object, or objects, from the truck of a ship's mast and, say, from the quarterdeck. And that is exactly the difference between the bastion and the Terrace. One has the impression, as one promenades the Terrace, 200 feet above the river, of being upon the deck of a huge ocean liner, anchored permanently by Cape Diamond, where an unrivalled scene has been painted upon the broad canvas. History seems to come floating past on the current beneath, whilst Quebec appears to have next to no association with the present.

Standing on the "deck," one thinks instinctively of the ancient walls, the Plains of Abraham, and Wolfe's Cove; of Jacques Cartier sailing up the St. Lawrence and anchoring his ships before the great city in sight of the Indians of Stadacona; of La Salle striking westward and southward, in vain, to find a way to China; of Champlain making his clearings here for the future city, or showing a way to the Great Lakes; and then of the mighty struggle for empire in that supreme moment when Wolfe, taking solace from his poet, did "the impossible."

With each spring, the work of clearing the deck of the Terrace begins. The staging of the toboggan slide which has provided sport during the winter is removed, and the snow is swept away, until the last of it lingers only in sunless nooks. Stragglers begin to appear, some to catch the scanty warmth of the sun, others to watch the huge ice floes moving swiftly from the lakes to the ocean. Then the inevitable tourist from over the border puts in an appearance, a sure herald of the coming season, and the waiters at the chateau put out the tables of the al fresco cafe. The crocuses and snowdrops make a tardy appearance in the Castle Gardens, and one day the loungers on the Terrace pass the word along that at last the river is clear of the floes, and that the first ocean liner from Europe has swung into her place at the quay. Then the kiosks of the Terrace are thrown open, and, before one has time to realise it, the military band has begun the first concert of the season in the bandstand, and the first church parade of the year has taken place. Then, and not till then, the tourists begin to come in droves, the quaint two-wheeled cabs to deposit their "fares" at the edge of the Terrace, and local society to make of the famous "outlook" its rallying point for the all too brief, but exhilarating, Quebec summer.

Badly Put.

"How do do, Lady Smythe? I've just driven the motor over to fetch my wife away."

"How nice of you, admiral! But I do wish you'd come sooner."—London Punch.

ADRIFT ON AN ICE FLOE OVER TOP OF THE WORLD

Stefanson, Here After Long Stay in Arctic, Says His Party is Pressing On—Explorer Forced by Illness to Return Has Confident Belief Storkersen Will Succeed.

FROM ALASKA TO SIBERIA

Vilhjalmur Stefansson arrived in New York this week after a long trip of polar exploration. He spent more than five years in the area, roughly between North Alaska and the Pole, during which he discovered several islands, including one about the size of Ireland, and disproved the existence of another large island which had been placed on the maps.

Stefansson was given up for lost for one period of more than a year, when the failure to send a support ship to him, according to appointment, cast him and advance party on their own resources. He proved the feasibility of living indefinitely in the Arctic with no food supply beyond that obtained by the rifle. The scientific results of the expedition will fill a considerable library when the work of the staff of scientists accompanying the expedition, which was sent out by the Canadian Government, is completed. The publication, now under way, of the work of one section of the scientific staff will cost over $50,000.

The most dramatic part of his work is now in progress, although Stefansson himself was unable to be with it because of the attack of typhoid and pneumonia which he suffered last Winter. This new venture is the attempted voyage of five of his followers on a floating ice cake "over the top" of the earth from a point north of Alaska to the north Siberian coast, from which they expect to make their way next Spring to the Siberian Railroad.

OVER THE TOP OF THE WORLD

Stefansson's followers, who hope to ride an ice-cake over the summit of the planet, expect to feed themselves on the seals they kill on the edges of their big natural barge of ice.

Mr. Stefannsson told of the project as follows:

"Five men are still behind, engaged in the most dramatic and one of the most important adventures which has even taken place in the Arctic. Nansen was the first man that ever thought about drifiting across the oPl thought about drifting across the Polar Basin. He went into the ice north of Siberia, near the New Siberia Islands, and drifted in a general northwesterly direction, then westerly, and finally southwest, his ship coming out after three years in the vicinity of Spitzbergen.

"Another vessel had done a similar thing involuntarily more than a decade earlier. The Jeannette, bearing an American expedition, commanded by Lieut. E. Long of the American Navy, froze into the ice north of the Bering Straits and drifted northwesterly until crushed after two years in the vicinity where Nansen deliberately put his vessel into the ice a few years later.

In August, 1913, the Karluk of the Canadwian-arctic expedition also commenced an involuntary drift. Frozen in mouth of the MacKenzie River and 20 miles north of Alaska, she drifted west and northwest until in January, 1914, she was crushed in the vicinity of where the Jeannette long before had entered the ice.

THE FRAM, JEANNETTE AND KARLUK

"If the course of these three vessels were plotted on the same chart, they would make a continuous line," Mr. Stefaneson continued. "In other words, the Karluk, had she not been crushed, would have, duplicated, first, the drift of the Jeannette, and later the drift of the Fram, eventually emerging after four or five years in the vicinity of Spitzenbergen.

"It has been Amundsen's announced intention to undertake a polar drift, and he intended to put his vessel into the ice about where the Karluk was involuntarily beset. He abandoned this plan as soon as he saw which way the Karluk had drifted, because it then became evident that his own idea that a ship froze into the ice north of Alaska would drift approximately across the pole was erroneous, and that if he were to freeze his vessel in anywhere in that vicinity her drift would thereafter duplicate, first, the Karluk, then the Jeannette, and lastly the Fram, thus covering no new ground. He accordingly altered his plan and is going to push as far as he can into the ice somewhere north of Siberia.

"It was my idea that if you could once get an exploring party encamped 100 or 200 miles north of the line of drift of these three vessels it would drift in a course about parallel to the drift of these three vessels, but as far north of their course as the starting point was north of the Karluk track.

STEFANNSON'S PLAN FOR NEW DRIFT.

"I formed then the plan of striking out from the Alaska coast, across the Karluk track, with sledges, trying to reach a point 200 miles north of the Karluk. At about latitude 73 north, longtitude 148 west we would camp on a cake of ice probably late in April and drift where the ice listed, taking continual soundings and frequent astronomical observations to plot our course carefully. It is impossible to carry on sledges food for that sort of trip, but our work the last five years has shown that carrying food to the arctic is like carrying coals to Newcastle.

"In pursuance of this scheme I spent the fall of 1917 in buying the best available dogs and in having eight good sledges made, with which I intended to start in February from Cross Island, on the north coast of Alaska, with an immediate objective 200 miles to the north. This plan was well under way, when on Jan. 9, 1918, I was taken with typhoid fever. As this as in severe form and followed by pneumonia. It soon became evident that I could not do the work myself.

NOTICE TO SOLDIERS ON HARVEST LEAVE.

Attention is directed to a recent announcement published in the Press by the Military Service Branch, Department of Justice, regarding extensions to be granted to men EXEMPTED AS FARMERS.

It is pointed out that this DOES NOT IN ANY WAY AFFECT MEN WHO HAVE BEEN ORDERED BY THE REGISTRAR TO REPORT to Depot Battalions and who have thereafter received leave of absence from the Military Authorities.

This applies to men of the 20 to 22 Class who have been ordered to report by the Registrar in virtue of the cancellation of exemptions by Order-in-Council of the 20th April last, as well as to those ordered to report in the usual way on refusal of claim for exemption, or on expiration of exemption granted.

All men, accordingly, who have been ordered to report, and are therefore SOLDIERS, and who have subsequently been granted harvest leave by the military authorities, MUST, NOTWITHSTANDING THE NOTICE ABOVE REFERRED TO, REPORT ON THE EXPIRATION OF THAT LEAVE, unless they are notified to the contrary by their Commanding Officer or by general notice published by the Department of Militia and Defence.

EMPLOYMENT OF MEN IN DEFAULT UNDER THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT.

The following Regulations, recently approved by the Governor General in Council, impose strict obligations upon every employer TO ASSURE HIMSELF THAT EACH OF HIS EMPLOYEES OF MILITARY AGE AND DESCRIPTION IS IN POSSESSION OF DOCUMENTS PROVING THAT HE IS NOT IN ANY WAY IN DEFAULT UNDER THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT.

An employer who is charged with having a defaulter in his employ must be able to prove THAT THE MILITARY SERVICE PAPERS ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OR MILITARY AUTHORITIES TO THE EMPLOYEE IN QUESTION WERE PRODUCED FOR HIS INSPECTION at the time when the employee was taken into his employment, and that it was reasonably established to his satisfaction that the man was not in default under the Military Service Act. It should be clearly understood that the Canadian Registration Certificates given on June 22, 1918, at the time of general registration, in no way define the status of a man under the Military Service Act.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS.

Ruth Sees Newport's Famous Ocean Drive for the First Time

CHAPTER XXIX.

The next morning Ruth and Mr. Mandel started out immediately after breakfast to inspect the "Cary house" which was situated some distance away on the ocean drive.

Ruth thought she never had seen anything so beautiful as the drive was that morning. The early sunshine falling upon the water through the haze that was over all, wonderfully dissolved itself into all the colours of the rainbow. The beautiful homes, so well kept, the shrubbery and the flowers, all caused exclamations of delight to fall from her lips constantly.

Mr. Mandel told her the names of all the owners of the drive property, adding little bits of personal history that he thought might interest her. Already the beach was filled with a crowd of early morning bathers, adding colour to the scene.

"I should love to spend a summer here!" Ruth exclaimed.

"It IS a charming place—if you are in the swim," Mr. Mandel told her with a smile. "But rather stupid, I am told, for those who are not."

"That would be so, naturally," Ruth mused, thinking of the caste laws so strictly observed in the little southern town in which her aunt lived.

The Cary house was a large place, beautifully situated. They had the keys, and as Mr. Mandel opened the door and Ruth passed in, something very like a groan broke from her.

"Awful, isn't it?" he asked with a smile.

"Awful doesn't express it! it is wicked."

"You see," he explained "the original owner of the house was one of our nouveau riche. One of those to whom price, the cost in dollars, represented value. The furnishings and decorations of the house show how false that idea is. The house itself is not so bad. It was built by a good architect who threatened to leave his job half finished if not allowed to go ahead with the approved plans without change."

"I should think he would have threatened something if the house would have been anything like this," she motioned with a sweep of her arm. "Why, it's a crime to spend money for such stuff," a hideous red plush davenport was the particular object of her scorn.

"Well, you have almost carte blanche to do what you please with the interior. There comes the landscape gardener whom I was to meet. I'll leave you alone and attend to him. Here are the plans of the rooms and halls. Mark them up as you please. We have another set at the office."

"Thank you—" then, hesitatingly, "Shall we get back to-night?"

"Why no! that is impossible. If we get through we will take the sleeper and get home in the morning. If not, we will go to-morrow night. Don't hurry through the work; take all the time you need," he said, totally misunderstanding Ruth's question. He thought she feared she wasn't to be allowed time enough.

"I'll wait until this afternoon, then telegraph Brian. I'll know by that time if I can get through to-day," she said aloud to herself as she started to make an inspection of the house, before settling down to the planning.

Thoughts of Brian intruded until she resolutely forced them from her mind.

"You go back where you belong, Brian Hackett, and stop bothering me!" she said, laughing aloud at her own nonsense. "I'll have trouble enough with you when I get back home."

Thereafter she allowed no straying thoughts to impede her work. But long before the noon hour, she saw it would be an utter impossibility to do her work, and do it well, in one day. And so she told Mr. Mandel, when he told her to get ready for luncheon. They would return to the hotel, freshen up a bit, then lunch at the Casino.

Delighted at the treat in store for her, Ruth regretted she had not brought a more dressy gown. But when she joined him down stairs, it would be a very captious man who could have found fault with her. Surely Mr. Mandel had no such intention.

Dainty, her hair shining under the small hat, Ruth was really appropriately gowned even for the fashionable casino. They had a thoroughly enjoyable luncheon, then, excusing herself for a moment, Ruth sent her wire to Brian before they returned to the ocean drive mansion.

"Home on Thursday, Ruth," was all she said. It was Tuesday. Brian had been alone one night, he would be alone two more.

"Won't I catch it!" Ruth said to herself as she joined Mr. Mandel. "But I might as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb. He'd have made just as much fuss if I had gone back to-day."

"Did you get your wire off?" he asked.

"Yes, thank you. I thought Mr. Hackett might worry if I were not at home to-morrow, so wired him not to expect me until Thursday. You see, he had no idea my work would take me away from New York."

"Indeed!" was Mandel's reply. Then they started again for the "Cary house," and Ruth soon was again absorbed in her task.

FOR BABY'S TENDER SKIN.

A child's skin is tender as well as beautiful and eczema may be caused by chafing of clothing, the use of poor soap, exposure to cold or sudden change of temperature. Probably no treatment for eczema has ever proven so successful as Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the applies particularly to baby eczema. This ointment is delightfully soothing, stops the itching and consequently prevents scratching. Gradually the sores are healed up and the skin is left soft and velvety.

Richard Mansfield's humor was often misapprehended for conceit.

Royalists Die Bravely

An anniversary that passed almost unnoticed was the 48th birthday of the Third Republic of France, which fell on September 6th. The day the French people celebrate as their national holiday is July 14, the anniversary of the Fall of the Bastille, which in our history would correspond rather to Guy Fawkes Day than Dominion Day or the Twenty-fourth of May. The reason that until the present war the French have been reluctant to commemorate their national birthday is that it coincides with the surrender at Sedan, for it was when the news of this disaster reached Paris that Napoleon III. was deposed and the Third Republic came into being. But since the first Battle of the Marne was decided on September 6, 1914, the memory of Sedan has been wiped out, and even the Germans can find no particular pleasure in recalling the first week of September. On this account the semi-centennial of the Third Republic which will occur two years hence will be celebrated as never before.

The Third Republic has now lasted longer than any French regime in the past hundred years. The first republic survived for only twelve years, and was followed by the First Empire which came to an end in another ten years. Then came the regime of the elder branch of the House of Bourbon, which was overthrown in the July revolution of 1830, to be succeeded by the elevation of King Louis Philippe of the younger and Orleans branch of the Bourbon dynasty to the throne. His reign lasted eighteen years, to be followed by the Second Republic and then by the sanguinary Bonapartist coup d'etat. Napoleon III. was on the French throne for eighteen years, and was deposed after the disgraceful surrender at Sedan, which deprived France of whatever hope she may have had of winning the war against Prussia. There is no reason to doubt that the present form of Government is as thoroughly established in France as is the Government in the United States, and there is no more prospect of the one returning to a monarchy than the other.

Although the war may be said to have finally dispelled the lingering hopes of the Royalist party in France that a king should again rule over the country, what is called the old aristocracy never stood higher in popular esteem than at present. In the Chicago Tribune "Ex-Attache" points out that the patriotism of this class has been second to none. Some of the dukes and vicomtes and even princes have rushed to the colors as eagerly as have the young nobles of England, and many who were exempt from military service because of their age have sought service as volunteers and have given their lives on the field of honor. For instance, Josselin, twelfth Due de Rohan and fourteenth Prince de Leon, was a member of the House of Deputies when the war broke out, and on this account was exempt. He decided, however, that he could represent his constituents in Brittany better in the trenches than elsewhere, and rejoined his old regiment, the Second Chasseurs-a-cheval, and fought at the Battle of the Marne, where he was severely wounded and won the Croix de Guerre.

When he was again fit for duty he attached himself to the famous Blue Devils, because they being a foot regiment had better prospect for strenuous service than mounted troops. He was again wounded and was presented with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. He went again to the front, this time at Verdun, and there received a fatal wound. Another great French nobleman to give his life for his country was the young due de Chevreuse, an officer of the aviation corps. He was the eldest son and heir of the tenth Duc de Luynes, the recognized leader of the Royalist party. The Duc de Luynes, although considerably past 50 years, volunteered when the war began and won the Cross of the Legion of Honor for his services in France and in Roumania. This truly was a warrior family, for the father of the duc lost his life in the Battle of Patay in the Franco-German war of 1870. The prospective heir is a twelve-year-old boy, and should anything untoward happen to him, the title and the estates will pass to another Duc de Chaulines, a lad now living in New York with his mother, who is the daughter of Theodore Shonts, the traction magnate.

Among other French dukes who have given their lives in this war is the Duke and Prince Ernest of Arenberg and Duke Guy de Lorges, the latter of whom was succeeded in his honors and estates by his younger brother, Robert, who enlisted as a private soldier, and who is now prouder of his stripes as a non-commissioned officer, and his military cross than of the great honors that are his due as head of the House of Lorges. The Duke of Lesparre and the Duke of Polignac have lost their sons in the war, and several noble families will become absolutely extinct in France as in England. This also will tend to discourage any who may continue to hope against hope for the re-establishment of a monarchy in France, but the clinching argument against it is provided by the Hohenzollerns. The probability is that in another twenty years there will be no kings in Europe save those of England, Spain and Belgium, and there are not wanting those who predict that there may be none at all.

THE ERA OF GLASS.

It May Come After Our Iron Ore Deposits Are Exhausted.

The iron ore deposits of the world are being rapidly exhausted, and the time is not far distant when we will have to get along without iron and steel. Before that day arrives some substitute for these valuable things will have to be found, and it has been suggested by a scientist familiar with the subject that the logical successor will be glass.

Glass can be made to meet nearly all the requirements of iron and steel and with improved methods of manufacture will be a great deal cheaper. There is an abundant supply of the materials from which glass is made, and long before iron reaches the obsolete stage it is more than likely that glass will be one of its strongest competitors.

The chief fault with glass is its brittleness, but it is possible even now to produce a grade of glass which can stand a great deal of hard usage and serve many of the purposes for which iron is employed. The progress of invention is bound to evolve a quality of glass which will be as strong and durable as iron and transparent as well.

The use of glass will effect a great improvement in sanitary conditions. The building of the future, according to this scientist, will have its walls, ceilings, floors, sanitary fixtures and almost everything else made of glass.—Exchange.

Recognized.

A Pennsylvania lawyer, known throughout the state for his sharpness once met his match in a very unexpected quarter.

An old woman was being cross examined by him as to how the testator had looked when he made a remark to her about some relatives.

"I don't remember. He's been dead three years," she answered testily.

"Do you mean to tell me that your memory is so bad that you cannot go back three years?" demanded the attorney.

The witness was silent.

"Did he look anything like me?" the lawyer finally ventured.

"Seems to me he did have the same sort of vacant look," responded the old lady.

An Unconventional Duke.

Kew Parish church had among former worshipers the first Duke of Cambridge, a strong but unconventional churchman, who made audible comments while the service was in progress. To the exhortation, "Let us pray," he would reply, "By all means," and during a dry summer he added to the "Amen" after the prayer for rain, "But we shan't get it till the wind changes." On hearing the words, "For we brought nothing into the world, neither may we carry anything out," he would ejaculate, "True, true; too many calls upon us for that."—London Globe.

"Amy Nair Says"

By JOAN MARSH

(Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Julius Bates couldn't quite decide to his own satisfaction whether it was because Ruth Claridge was such an unusually pretty girl or because she was such an amazingly clever illustrator that he was so completely fascinated by her, and that before she had been on the list of regular contributors to the small magazine of which he was editor for two weeks he had found pretext to take her to luncheon two or three times and once to the theater. Perhaps it was neither her cleverness nor her prettiness entirely; but mingled with them her delightful naivety and lack of sophistication. For though Ruth had quite obviously "arrived" in her work she had in the year that she had lived in the big, grimy city, lost very little of the refreshing candor and childlike enthusiasm that characterized her as a country-bred girl. Surely she must have known that she was very pretty—a girl like Ruth could not have lived alone in the city so long without having been rather wearied with reminders of the fact—yet when Julius had, rather inanely as he thought later, told her she was the prettiest girl he had ever known, she opened her perfectly frank blue eyes wide and said: "I am glad you told me so. I like to be thought pretty and I am glad that you think so." Besides Ruth never flirted. And Julius was just at the old-young age when he had convinced himself that flirting was a great waste of time.

She was in large measure still a mystery to him and so he was doubly pleased when she asked him to "come to supper" in her small apartment where Julius had been informed she shared quarters with that eminently successful novelist, Amy Nair. Julius was relieved to know that Amy was not to be present. The supper was set for eight o'clock so that both he and Ruth might dispose of their day's occupation before the little spread.

The apartment proved to be just a well furnished "studio," the details and fine points of which—the careful elimination of every accessory or ornament which was not intrinsically beautiful and the exquisite subordination of tones to the decorative scheme of the whole interior—was rather lost on Julius. But there was an air of repose and seclusion about the large room — apparently the living room, eating room and work room combined—that put Julius in an agreeable frame of mind. Ruth responded to his ring and explained that the "old mammy" who kept house for her and Amy Nair had prepared the spread and then departed.

"I thought we could be cozier if we were all alone in the place. Amy won't be back till all hours."

Then as she led him into the studio he got his first glimpse of her dress. It was like nothing he had ever seen before—surely not like the dress in which he had first seen her. He could not object to it on the score of immodesty for the soft folds of fabric clung high at the throat and well down on her wrists. But—could it really be possible?—the ample folds of the skirt somehow fell down to her feet in two divisions and were caught at both ankles in a neat metallic anklet. Even that was not immodest but rather more modest, Julius had to admit, than the street costume of most young women.

Ruth saw his scrutiny. "Oh, my dress," she said. "Isn't the color lovely. It's read batik—from Ceylon. Amy Nair got it for me. I am glad you like it—Amy Nair says—"

"But I'm not quite sure I do," stammered Julius, and then as Ruth stood off and pivoted on her oriental slipper for his full inspection he honestly admitted that it was extremely becoming—"only hardly conventional."

There was supper, and after supper Ruth carried off the supper tray and brought back the coffee in a Turkish brass outfit that even Julius was connoisseur enough to admire. From the folds of her remarkable house gown Ruth drew out a little metal cigarette box and opening it deftly with one hand she held it out to her guest.

"There are several other sorts in the large jar on the table," she said, "Personally, I don't care for Turkish."

Julius tried to conceal his surprise. He had never even wondered whether or not Ruth smoked. Other girls with whom he was associated in his editing did, but even they had never received him alone in their own apartments and then proferred a complete assortment of cigarettes. He felt the suspicion of a frown involuntarily come over his forehead but he fought it back.

They talked about everything that chanced into their heads—more as Julius had talked with some keenly alert, clean-minded young boy of his acquaintance; and as they talked Ruth smoked nonchalantly—not in the least languidly. At ten Julius rose to go. Somewhere in the back of his mind he recalled that he had read that although women who live alone may receive callers unchaperoned those callers must never remain after ten. Ruth urged him to stay—still as a young boy would have done when he had not had enough conversation rather than as a young woman wishing still further to try her charms on a man whom she knows to be her admirer.

Julius was reluctant. "Don't you think I'd better," he said. "I mean wouldn't it be the conventional thing to do? If you had let the mammy stay in then we might have prolonged the party—but, you are all alone—"

Ruth shot back a glance of indignation but more of disappointment. She told him she did not think the speech was worthy of him and Julius admitted that he had been rather clumsy.

"Amy Nair says that no really emancipated people give those foolish conventions a thought and she says that it is people who invent them and who see evil in smoking and unusual but beautiful costumes who are really the immoral people. And she says that it is our duty—really our duty—to show people that morality and decency don't depend on a few stupid and antiquated conventions. Amy Nair is as virtuous as my own mother and yet she does things every day that would make people like you condemn her."

Julius tried to make some stand for himself and mumbled something about the impossibility for a girl so pretty as Ruth was, to live with the freedom of a young bachelor and then Ruth went off again on a spirited defense of Amy Nair and her own position. "That's just it. Women have to take their place in the world and work as hard as men. It's just a worn-out prejudice that makes you think that there are certain things a woman may do and certain things a man may do. Why, Amy Nair says that if she had a son and he had a taste for dressmaking she'd make him a great dressmaker, just to show people that the old ideas about special vocations for men and women are all poppycock and nousense. I don't see why a man shouldn't do anything that a woman does and surely I don't see why I shouldn't have as many privileges as you."

The conversation drifted back to less heated topics and an hour later when Julius finally left he was in a state of mental confusion. One thing he was sure of, however, and that was that he was completely in love with Ruth and that in spite of the fact that she hadn't yet begun to flirt with him.

Then Julius asked Ruth to supper in his rooms. In the interval they hadn't mentioned the subject of their heated discussion. And at half past seven Ruth found herself seated before Julius' cheerful open fireplace in his bachelor apartment—Julius himself in a daintily flowered dressing gown at the other side of the fender. From the book pocket at the side of his chair he pulled out a ball of yarn and a half finished soldier's muffler and without comment began to knit—not at all easily but still in a measure effectively. Ruth's eyes opened wide. "Well of all things!" she exclaimed; then as she met Julius' eyes she paused and changed the subject. Presently Julius excused himself to get supper. He had left his man off, he said, so he could give Ruth a sample of his cooking and after supper he donned an apron and cleared away the dishes and remained long enough in the kitchen to tell Ruth that he had been washing the dishes. He doted on that sort of thing, he told her.

At ten Ruth rose to go. "I've been awfully glad to have you here," he told her, making no move to go and don his coat and hat to see her home. "It's so seldom one finds a girl that will come and spend an evening with a man like this. I hope you'll come often." Ruth paused — said goodby and started out. A second later she returned. She asked Julius to call a taxi. She said she didn't like to go through the streets alone at that time.

"Amy Nair says it is rather dangerous for a girl alone." But there were two tears in her eyes as she returned and Julius, with coat and hat on ready to follow her, was quick to see them. He put a protecting arm around her shoulder as they started out together.

"I know you're just been teasing me—I know you don't usually knit or wear a flowered dressing gown," she said. "And I didn't in the least want to come alone to see you, but I didn't want to refuse after all I'd said. Why have you been so unfair to me?"

"Because I was a little jealous—" said Julius. "Jealous of Amy Nair. She has taught you a good deal of good sense and some foolishness."

And before they had reached Amy Nair's studio that night Ruth, like the frank little girl that she was, had told Julius that she loved him and had consented to be his wife.

HARDNESS OF WATER.

Solid Streams at High Velocity Are as Rigid as Iron.

In the American Magazine a contributor gives a most interesting description of the resisting power of water. He says that a solid stream of water shot out of a hose at tremendous velocity is just as powerful and destructive as a rod of iron. An extract from the article giving an idea of the hardness and resisting power of water follows:

"Here is a fact which is probably novel to the average man who has not spent much of his life thinking about motor speed boats. This is what we may call the hardness of the water when a boat is running at speed. Water at fifty miles an hour is not the limpid liquid we are accustomed to bathe in. If you put your arm overboard from a hydroplane running at fifty miles an hour and strike a wave crest the probability is that you will break your arm or wrist, because at that speed the water has not time to give, not time even to change shape, and striking it is like striking so much metal.

"In the great hydraulic mining nozzles, where a stream of water under enormous head is used to wash down hillsides, a swordsman, in attempting to cut into one of these streams, will shatter the sword without being able to penetrate the water. The stream is like a bar of iron. The fact that water at relative speed is so hard—or that its inertia is so great, to be a little more accurate—is the reason why a skipping stone travels over the surface and is the reason why a hydroplane boat slides over the surface instead of plowing its way through.

"The picture we must have in our minds, then, of a speed boat is that she is traveling not in water, as we ordinarily understand it, but over the surface of a semisolid, very much as a sled travels over snow."

Marine Peculiarities.

There are two natural phenomena of quite regular recurrence which have given unique fame to the Japanese bay of Toyama. The lightning cuttlefish is a rather tiny species that emits a wonderful phosphorescence when aroused, and while the fish is not confined to the locality, it swarms along the coast in April and May. As the fishermen seek them with special nets the alarmed creatures glow with exceptional brilliance. The second phenomenon is the Shinkero or mirage. The mirage, seen along the shore, begins as a faint mist and then develops into a panorama forest, castles, bridges and marching men and horsemen.

"Relieving Our Minds."

What passes for reasoning on most occasions is a series of vocal sounds which serve—to use a phrase at once popular and scientific—to "relieve our minds." Arguments employed in political addresses, sermons, and newspaper editorials are commonly little more than ejaculations, called forth by feelings of approval or disapproval, comfort or alarm.—James Harvey Robinson in the Atlantic.

Modern Efficiency Says:

Wear Rubbers and Keep Fit

Get them NOW—so you'll be ready for bad weather.

A sick man, or a sick woman, slows up the whole machinery of business. If a man, his work is neglected. If a woman, her household is disarranged and the bread-winner of the family made less efficient by worry. If a child, the progress in school is retarded—sometimes the whole school year lost—because of some serious illness which might have been prevented had Rubbers been worn.

Let's all stay well this winter, by wearing rubbers. Let's avoid the epidemics of colds, sore throats, grippe, pneumonia that upset business and homes in previous years.

The cost of rubbers is so reasonable compared with other needs, that you can well afford to buy more than one pair.

These six brands of reliable rubbers—

"Maple Leaf" "Daisy"

WHOLE BOTTOM TORN OFF.

VICTORIA, Nov. 4. — The wreck of the steamer Princess Sophia, lying on Vanderbilt reef, has broken in two, and the after part has slid off into deep water. The divers who have investigated the wreck report that the grinding action which preceded the foundering of the vessel, her whole bottom was torn away. The remains of the wreck are resting on a submarine mountain of rock 700 feet high.

Four men in the smoking carriage were playing whist, and the game was fast and furious. One of the party, however, was constantly finding fault with his partner's play, and when the victim threw away a diamond on a spade lead the irascible one blurted out:

"Yes," said the partner with a deadly gleam in his eyes; "and I'll soon be wearing it at your funeral if you don't dry up!"

GOT RID OF BRONCHITIS

"I am pleased to say that Dr. Chase's Mr. W. H. Walker, Calmar, Alta., writes: Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has done much good to myself, wife and children. My eldest girl, seven years old, had bronchitis and the doctor who attended her did not seem to do much good. We got Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for her and she soon got well. We always keep this medicine in the house now ready for use and find that it soon cures coughs and colds."

THAT SON-IN-LAW OF PA'S——Pa and Ma's Ideas of What's Music Is Slightly Different — By Wellington

Who is it in France you are most interested in—a husband, a brother, a son, a friend you long to see again?

Picture this boy, trudging, tired and sleepy, back from the trenches.

He sees posted up at an army hut a notice of the overwhelming success of the Victory Loan 1918.

He sees the notice posted that more Canadians bought Victory Bonds than in any previous loan, that money to carry on the fight is assured.

He sees that his self-sacrifice, his courage and self-denial are appreciated, that mighty battalions of Canadian money are marching to reinforce him.

Can't you see his tired face brighten?

Can't you see him hitch his pack and shift his gun with renewed resolve?

What a mental bracer this bulletin will be to the Army of Brave Souls who fight that we may be free?

If Canada-at-home will keep constantly before it the picture of Canada-in-France, then every previous record of investment in Canada will be shattered by the message we will send to our army when the Victory Loan 1918 is closed.

CHILDREN'S TEETH.

When They Should Appear and the Order In Which They Come.

The milk teeth (first teeth) are twenty in number. The time at which they appear is subject to considerable variations, even under normal conditions. The following table gives the order and average time of appearance of the different teeth:

Two lower central incisors, six to nine months.

Four upper incisors, eight to twelve months.

Two lower lateral incisors and four anterior molars, twelve to fifteen months.

Four canines, eighteen to twenty-four months.

Four posterior molars, twenty-four to thirty months.

At one year of age a child should have six teeth.

At one and one-half years it should have twelve teeth.

At two years it should have sixteen teeth.

At two and one-half years it should have twenty teeth.

It is not easy to explain where there are so often variations from the average. The order in which the teeth appear is more regular than the time of their appearance. Marked irregularities in order of the appearance of the teeth are the rule in idiotic children or those suffering from slighter mental effects.

Delayed dentition is generally caused by rickets. Many healthy children, however, frequently have no teeth appear until the tenth month of age.—Philadelphia Record.

BATHING IN JAPAN.

Natives Wash Themselves Clean Before Getting Into the Tub.

Partial accounts of the luxury of a Japanese bath lead us to believe that we have something yet to learn about what is regarded by many in this country as a necessity and by more as a supererogation—in Japan the bath is not only a necessity, but a delightful recreation.

The Japanese have a way of their own of taking a bath. They have a system that in some respects resembles that enforced at swimming pools in this country. You must first wash the body thoroughly, and then you enter the tub, the water of which is heated by an individual system. There, if you are in a public bathhouse, you may smoke and doze and chat with your friends in a dissipation that is said to be exceedingly refreshing. The water is kept hot, perhaps increases in heat, and when you leave the tub it is still regarded as fit for the next customer. In a private house the master and mistress may have their baths first, and the same water serves for the invigoration and diversion of the servants. The ignorant foreigner, who goes into the Japanese tub for the purpose of cleansing his body and with soap spoils the water for further use, is not only guilty of a social error, but entails a hardship on the household, including the servants.—Rochester Democrat.

STAMP IS REMINDER OF LUSITANIA CRIME

(By United Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—"Remember! Use Nothing German."

These words appear on a new stamp, resembling a postage stamp, being circulated by the American Defense society.

The stamps are sold, and profits go to the Fatherless Children of France, a society of which Marshal Joffre is president.

On the stamp appears a design painted by E. H. Blashfield, New York. It represents Humanity, shielding her eyes from the sight of the sinking Lusitania, and Justice, with sword drawn in vengeance.

The society reports receiving thousands of signatures to its pledge to use no German-made goods after the war.

BELATED RECOGNITION.

Plaint of a Woman Who Was Shadowed by a Detective.

"Acquaintance with a detective is not the good thing some people may imagine," said a young woman who has never yet been accused of being an adventuress or anything else that is supposed to get one's name on the front pages of the newspapers.

"A few months ago I was robbed of a belt that I prized very highly because it was unique and cannot be duplicated. I spent considerable money and had the assistance of a headquarters detective, but without recovering the belt.

"That was all well enough, but the other day as I was walking down Broadway I saw Mr. Detective. He saw me, too, and remembered that he had seen me somewhere, but had evidently forgotten the circumstances. He 'shadowed' me for a block, then when I turned into a store he slipped into a doorway and waited for me to come out. Again he shadowed me till I turned into my doorway.

"At that point he seemed to suddenly remember that he had known me as a client, not as a victim, for as I looked back he seemed to have a sheepish look in his face as he turned and walked rapidly away."

'Tis very plain she cannot see.

With hair combed over the ears 'tis clear

With gown so tight it causes talk

And yet she dodges autos, teams,
And gets along quite well, it seems.

Austria-Hungary Goes Out of the War at Three O'clock This Afternoon, Leaving Eastern German Frontier Open for Invasion

The Hungarians Have Declared a Food Blockade Against Germany Which Will Prevent the Return of Two German Divisions From the Balkans—Terms of Austrian Armistice Are Made Public Delete—Violent Demonstrations Continue in Vienna—Kaiser Will Likely be Forced Out of Power.

REICHSTAG GROUPS CONFER TO-MORROW

(By William Philip Simms—United Press Service.)

PARIS, Nov. 4.—From three o'clock this afternoon, when Austria-Hungary goes out of the war, the entire eastern German frontier is wide open to an Allied invasion.

Munich, Dresden, Bavaria, Saxony and Prussia will thus be directly menaced.

Terms of the Austrian armistice, according to official announcement, will be made public to-morrow.

The Inter-Allied Diplomatic Council is watching the swift turn of events with grim satisfaction. Paris is unflustered and waiting the next step in the Central European debacle—publication of the terms to Germany.

HUNGARIANS HAVE DECLARED A FOOD BLOCKADE AGAINST HUNS

(Special to The Examiner.)

GENEVA, Nov. 4.—The Hungarians have declared a food blockade against Germany, in an effort to hasten peace, it was reported in a despatch received here to-day.

All railway and boat traffic to Germany has been stopped.

The Berlin National Tidende says the blockade holds up 20,000 tons of food stuffs, large quantities of petrol and prevents the return of two German divisions.

A despatch from Vienna says that German soldiers and sailors, passing through Laibach have been disarmed.

AUSTRIA HAS TAKEN THE COUNT AND WILL BE OUT OF THE WAR TO-DAY

(By Robert J. Bender—United Press Service.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Austria has "taken the count" and definitely quit the war, at three p.m. to-day, her armistice plea becomes effective.

Germany will be the next, the National Capital agreed unanimously as it waited with strained intensity for the announcement of the German armistice terms. They were expected to-day or to-morrow, probably to-day.

The conditions imposed upon Austria were to be made public to-morrow, according to foreign advices. This led to the view that the delegates at Versailles were planning to deliver previously the more important German terms.

Diplomatic courtesy would demand that they be sent to President Wilson for transmission to the enemy. Germany asked him to pass along the armistice request. He did, with a note to the associates.

CAPITAL IS CONFIDENT THAT PEACE WILL FOLLOW TERMS

So confident is the National Capital that the armistice terms will result in a cessation of hostilities that consideraion is already given to the location of a peace conference.

Washington is strongly talked and favoured not only by American officials, but by many diplomats. Brussels also is mentioned, but no decision has been reached, even tentatively.

The element favouring Washington says that President Wilson is entitled to have a large say in the selection of the site because his have been the basic peace ideas accepted by all belligerents. Also his wish to attend the peace conference would be far more easily realized if the conclave were held in America.

VIOLENT DEMONSTRATIONS CONTINUE AT VIENNA

(Special to The Examiner.)

ZURICH, Nov. 4.—The garrison at Vienna has pledged support of the new Austro-German state, according to advices received here to-day.

In the neighbourhood of Budapest, several country seats have been looted and burned.

Violent demonstrations and the looting of shops continue in Vienna.

REICHSTAG WILL CONFER REGARDING QUESTION OF THE HOHENZOLLERN DYNASTY

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Nov. 4.—The Reichstag groups will confer to-day and to-morrow for the purpose of arriving at a decision on the question of the Hohenzollern dynasty, says a Zurich despatch to the "l'Information," quoting the Bagdsche press.

The German press believe that the Kaiser and military headquarters propose to refuse the terms of the armistice, while the civil government is inclined to accept them. The tension between the two factions is said to be critical.

BERLIN PROTESTS.

(Special to The Examiner.)

ZURICH, Nov. 4.—Berlin has protested against the Hungarian stoppage of provisions and locomotives from the Ukraine, and has threatened reprisals to assure the transportation of two German corps from the Balkans, which now probably will be disarmed, according to advices received here to-day.

MILITARISM IN GERMANY IS NEARING END SAYS HARDEN.

The rule and predomination of militarism in Germany has now finished. But Germany is not ripe for a League of Nations. The result of the war should be world-statutes among free peoples, giving all the same rights. All the great states have passed through a great crisis, from which the world will appear with an entirely changed face.—Maximilian Harden.

Allies Now in Constantinople

Troops Have Been Landed on Princes' Island.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, November 4. — The allied forces are reported to have arrived in Constantinople and to have landed on the Princes Islands, according to an Athens despatch to the Petit Journal, dated Sunday. The newspaper says that while there is no confirmation of the report, its realization apparently is only a question of hours in any event.

[The Princes Islands are situated in the Sea of Marmora, near the Coast of Asia Minor, ten to fifteen miles south east of Constantinople. They are nine in number.]

Seventeen Patients at New Hospital

A Few More Are Expected In To-day—Rotunda Cleaned Up.

Arriving and departing constantly, the actual figures of the patients at the Emergency Hospital are hard to set at any time. To-day, however, at 10 o'clock there were seventeen in the hospital, four children, five women and eight men, with the probability of several more to come in during the day.

"The girls are wonderful," Miss Reid said to-day, "the way they have fallen in and done their voluntary tasks." As the Hospital is embarassed by having no cook, several of the girls have volunteered to do the cooking if a woman can be secured to do the washing up.

Rotunda Cleaned.

The finishing touch to the hospital was put on on Saturday, when the rotunda was cleaned up, which has added considerably to the general appearance of the hospital.

MUST SUFFER THE RESULTS

Enemy Should be Made Pay for Every Day the War is Prolonged After Armistice Terms Have Been Submitted.

ALLIES ARE MASTERS

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(British Admiralty Wireless.)—A specific penalty for every day the war is prolonged after the Allies submit the armistice terms to Germany, with consequences definitely worse for the enemy if he fails to recognize the armistice as an ultimatum, is the recommendation of the Sunday Observer, as a means of letting Germany know there never will be an abatement of the severity of the present Allied terms.

"A continuance of the war on Germany's sole initiative, already responsible for four years of inconceivable horrors, cannot be tolerated," says the Observer. "The time has come for an end of it by diplomatic as well as military means.

Time Has Come.

"Now the main enemy is isolated and hopeless, but he may be tempted to throw the helve after the hatchet and play blindly for some supposed chance of better terms. The time has come to speak plainly to Germany. The Allies and America must speak at last as masters.

"To Permit this war to continue for one avoidable day or hour would be a crime of weakness on the part of the associates well nigh as culpable as the crimes of wickedness on the part of the enemy.

Must Stop.

"Now either the thing must stop or the consequences must be made definitely worse for the enemy. There day by which the struggle is prolonged by day by which the struggle is prolonged."

"The Allies must make Germany understand that for a rejection of these terms the new system in Germany, whatever it may be worth, will be held responsible and that Germany when overthrown and invaded as a result of the persistance of this struggle, will be compelled, without mitigation, to pay its whole cost from the date named in the ultimatum.

WAR SUMMARY

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The Associated Press this morning issued the following summary:

Germany, deserted by her Allies, is apparently facing a great disaster on the western front. There have been many times in the past three months that it seemed that the Teuton armies were in a critical position, but they always have managed to avoid a debacle. Now, however, there is a greater possibility than ever that the hour of Germany's miliary doom may not be far distant. This crisis has arisen during the past three days. American and French attacks west of the Meuse river, which seemed to be gaining but little, apparently sapped the strength of the enemy. When the break came on Saturday it took on the aspects of a rout rather than a retirement. On Sunday evening at 5 o'clock American contingents were in Belval Wood, only fourteen miles south of Sedan, which is the centre of the whole German railroad system in Eastern France. In Belgium the fall of Ghent is announced, and French, British and Americans are rapidly moving ahead. This advance, if continued, threatens the whole German army in France, since its retreat eastward through Sedan and Mont Medy seems about to be cut off. Austria joins Bulgaria and Turkey as conquered to-day. It may be assumed that the terms are as drastic as those forced upon Bulgaria and Turkey. In the meantime, Italian and Allied forces have occupied Trent, and have landed at Trieste. Emperor William has written to Prince Maximilian of Baden, Imperial Chancellor, promising co-operation in the development of constitutional reforms. It is pointed out, however, that no word has been said by him relative to abdication.

FRANK JENNE says:

With November comes the insistent need of replenishing your winter wardrobe. These being economical times you want to buy less clothing—but it must be of the best quality. When you buy a semi-ready suit or overcoat you buy three things; long wear, comfort and good style. The new Semi-ready suits and overcoats for this season are at my shop—and will give you, as always, satisfaction with fabric, style, wear and tailoring. "Come to me."

AUSTRIAN ARMISTICE

Terms Include the Demobilization of the Army and Free Passage Through Austria-Hungary.

THE TERMS

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4. — The Austrian surrender terms include the cessation of hostilities, demobilization of her army, the delivery to the allies of half of the enemy artillery and equipment, evacuation of all the invaded territories, use by the Allies of road, rail and waterways in Austria-Hungary, the immediate return of all allied prisoners, surrender of stipuated numbers of submarines and other war vessels, the allied supervision of the balance of her fleet, the opening of the Adriatic and the Danube to the Allies, allied occupation of the Danube forts, and Bola naval base, and the concentration of air craft at designated points.

Canadian Press:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(Official.)—Complete surrender is indicated in the terms of the armistice, signed yesterday, which have been received here.

Austria-Hungary agrees to demobilize her forces and permit the Allies to attack Germany over her territory. One-half of all artillery and military equipment must be given over to the Allies. It is thought here that only on similar terms will the Supreme War Council now sitting at Versailles, permit Germany to have a cessation of hostilities.

RELINQUISH SUPPLIES.

The terms under which the debacle on the Italian front ended to-day at 3 p.m. (9 a.m. Eastern American time) include the complete demobilization of Austrian forces, the surrender of one-half of all artillery and military equipment, the occupation by American and Allied forces of such strategic places as may later be selected, the use of Austrian railroads for operations against Germany, the evacuation of all invaded territory, leaving behind all equipment and supplies, including coal, the surrender of a portion of Austrian surface and submarine fleets, and the disarmament of others, under American and Allied control, the surrender of all German submarines in Austrian waters and the return of Allied and American prisoners without reciprocity. Evacuation of Austrian territory roughly corresponds to the boundary lines claimed by Italy under the "Italia Irredentia" or the treaty of London programme. The right of occupation by Allied forces is reserved, local authorities to maintain order under Allied supervision. Terms of the armistice are to be carried out under the direction of Marshal Foch, who will designate material to be turned over and supervise the movement of Austro-Hungarian forces to the rear. All German troops in Austria-Hungary, Italy or the Balkans must be out or interned within fifteen days.

Destruction of any property by retreating forces is specifically forbidden.

SHIPS TURNED OVER.

Ships to be surrendered include fifteen modern Austrian submarines, three battleships, three light cruisers, nine destroyers, twelve torpedo boats, one mine-layer and six Danube monitors, to be designated by the Allies. All other war craft are to be concentrated and disarmed under Allied direction.

Free navigation of all Austrian waters by both war and commercial fleets of the Allies is provided for.

All Austrian naval air craft are to be put out of commission and concentrated under Allied control.

All Austrian harbour and other equipment in occupied Italian ports is to be left untouched. The Danube route is to be kept open by occupation or dismantling of fortresses to be selected by the Allied commander. The existing blockade of the Allies against Austria remains unchanged, Austrian ships being liable to capture where found, except where commission, to be named later, provides otherwise. All fortresses protecting Austrian naval bases or stations are to be occupied, and the arsenal at Pola is specifically surrendered. All Allied craft held by Austria are to be returned immediately. Only organized military force Austria is permitted to retain is limited to that necessary to maintain order in her own borders.

WILL BE NO EARLY STATEMENT, SAYS BONAR LAW

Ghent Was Captured Early Yesterday Morning

The British, French and American Troops Have Made New Gains —Enemy is Withdrawing Heavy Guns.

WAR OFFICE REPORTS

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 4. — Ghent was captured on Sunday morning, the Daily News announced to-day. The news was received in a despatch from Rotterdam.

The British opened a new attack on a wide front south of the Scheldt this morning, it was announced by Field Marshal Haig.

French and American troops have established bridgeheads across the Scheldt at Welden and Neder Ename, northeast of Audenarde. This was announced by Field Marshal Haig in his special Belgian communication to-day.

The British crossed the river at Pottes, eight miles north of Tournai.

ENEMY WITHDRAWING.

(United Press.)

(By Fred Ferguson.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 4. — The Germans in addition to their retreat before the French and the Americans west of the Meuse, are reported to be withdrawing their heavy artillery and material through Metz. There is unusual activity behind the enemy lines in the whole Woevre region ,east of Verdun.

RESUMED PURSUIT.

(United Press.)

(By Frank J. Taylor.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 4. — American infantry and light artillery resumed their pursuit of the retreating Germans this morning.

Heavy artillery and air planes are bombarding the roads in the rear of the enemy, which are jammed with men, guns and material. Yankee naval gunners are bringing up monster cannon over newly built railways to hammer the Boches' vital centres behind the Meuse.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 4. — The Stenay gap, through which the German armies are expected to pass in their retirement south of the Ardennes, has been rendered untenable by the newest American advance, it was indicated in the American official communication to-day.

American troops have passed Stenay on the west cutting the line of communication between Stenay and Beaumont. The German armies have thus been virtually split, so far as freedom of manoeuvring is concerned.

Advancing Rapidly.

(United Press Service.)

(By Lowell Mellett.)

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Nov. 4.—The front is quivering with the shock of attacks and counter attacks, from the border of Holland southward to the junction of the British and French armies beyond St. Quentin.

The Germans are blowing up bridges and railroad over the Scheldt where the Belgians, French and Americans are advancing rapidly.

While attention was centred on Valenciennes yesterday, the armies of General Byng and General Rawlinson edged forward south of that city, the former covering the flank of General Horne's attack south of Valenciennes. Rawlinson's men beat off a counter attack.

As the result of these operations, all armies are now in positions to accelerate the German retirement once more.

During the occupation of Valenciennes by the Canadians Saturday, civilians stood in the streets and watched the German snipers being ousted with the bayonet while shells screamed over their heads.

The Germans are inspired by a printed order explaining that favourable armistice terms are impossible unless they put up a good fight. They are resisting as hard as at any time during the war. Not only has their artillery become unusually active, but their infantry is displaying qualities resembling those of the opening months of the war.

Enemy aviators are again attempting to take the initiative, though they mostly have brought disaster to themselves. Bruges and Zeebrugge were bombarded last night.

Extended Attack.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 4. — The British headquarters drive between Valenciennes and the Guise front, thirty-five miles, have reached the Aunelle river, ten miles from Mensny, according to battle front despatches.

The Americans extended their attack east of the Meuse this morning, it was announced in the official American communique. The attack is progressing favourably.

Establish Grand Court

Such an Institution Would Try Those Guilty of Crimes During the War.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The establishment of a Grand Court of Allied representatives, civil and military, for the purpose of trying those guilty of crimes during the war, is advocated by Sir Frederick Edward Smith, British Attorney General.

Sir Frederick, who is an authority on international law, urges that the jurisdiction of such a court apply especially, although not exclusively, to those caught red-handed or observed committing crimes. He contends that guilty parties must not be allowed to shift the blame upon their superiors as otherwise every war criminal among the Germans might shuffle the entire responsibility upon the Emperor. Moreover, the Attorney General argues, guilty persons must not be permitted to put themselves outside the jurisdiction of the court and the surrender of those not in Allied custody should be demanded under peace terms. The court would be empowered to inflict such punishments as death and penal servitude, and also to exact compensation for injury to persons or destruction of property.

GERMANS STEALING CLOTHING FROM THE PRISONERS OF WAR

(Special to The Examiner.)

GENEVA, Nov. 4.—The Germans are stealing the clothing of American prisoners sent to Limberg, Giessen and Barmstadt, it was learned here to-day.

The clothing is being replaced with rags and wooden shoes.

American Red Cross representatives at Berne protested to General Friederich in charge of one prison camp and he replied "the equipment sent to prisoners is regarded by us as booty to be disposed of as we see fit."

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 4TH, 1918.

AN IMPORTANT MEASURE.

The revised building by-law is due to come before the City Council tonight, and it is to be sincerely hoped that in the general interests of Peterborough the measure will be finally adopted. It has been dilly dallied with since early in the year, and it is high time that it was disposed of and placed in operation. The fire waste in Canada has grown to such enormous proportions that drastic reforms are necessary. Preventing fires is a good deal easier than fighting them, and the measure that is to come before the council to-night should have a decidedly important effect as a preventive. The aldermen who will be called upon to register their votes to-night are advised that the eyes of a good many rate-payers will be turned in their direction.

A LANDMARK GONE.

In the death of Mr. James Kendrey, president of the Auburn Woollen Company, Peterborough has lost one of her best-known and most useful citizens. A resident of this city for over forty years, the late Mr. Kendry had left his mark on the community in many ways, not only as the head of one of Peterborough's oldest industries, but in the various public capacities in which he had served his fellow citizens. For many years he was a useful and energetic member of the town council and afterwards worthily filled the office of mayor on three different occasions. He was honoured by the people of Peterborough by being chosen to represent them for two terms as a member of the Dominion House of Commons in which capacity he became widely known not only throughout this district, but at Ottawa where he made many warm friends. Up to the time of his death Mr. Kendrey was a member of the City Trust Commission, doing a most faithful and useful work as a member of that body.

In the passing of this many-sided citizen, many resident of Peterborough will feel the loss a personal one, while the community generally will regret the ending of a life that had been full of usefulness to the city in which he had lived for so many years. In the days when Peterborough was developing from town into city status, the late Mr. Kendrey was one of those who supplied guidance and leadership when these qualities were needed. He had long served this community and his departure leaves a gap in the business and public life of the city that will be hard to fill.

TROPHIES FOR PETERBOROUGH.

On Saturday an article in these columns called attention to the presentation to Belleville of a number of captured German guns, the gift of the 2nd Battalion, and suggested that the local civil rulers make application to the military authorities for a similar gift for this city. It is a pleasure to be able to announce that such a procedure will not be necessary inasmuch as word has been received from the commanding officer of the 2nd Battalion that a number of war trophies are being presented to Peterborough by the Iron Seconds in the name of the late Major G. W. Bennett, Capt. J. H. Eastwood, M.C., and the other officers and men from Peterborough who have fought or are still fighting with the Iron Seconds.

These guns captured from the enemy by the 2nd Battalion should be prized my every citizen of Peterborough. They will be symbols of the valour of the men who went forth from this city to fight for the cause of liberty and as such will be invaluable souvenirs of the world's greatest war. It is not too soon for the authorities to take up the question of where these trophies are to be kept. Undoubtedly one of the parks will be chosen as the best location for displaying the enemy guns to the best advantage.

To the officer commanding the 2nd Battalion Peterborough is greatly indebted for this recognition of what this city has done fort the cause of the war.

SETTING THE PACE FOR US.

The boys over there are setting a rapid pace for the people at home. The capture of Valenciennes by General Currie's Canadians is a direct challenge to the Canadion people. The Canadians in France are not slackening; they are making redoubled efforts to smash the enemy's defenses and zring him to his knees, and it is in the spirit of the gallant army that the people of Canada must view the Victory Loan. The people who say there is no need of investing because peace is near have a wrong view of the situation. Peace may be made soon, the indications are all favourable, but we cannot prophesy what attitude the enemy will take in regard to the Allies' terms. Germany may throw up the sponge and surrender unconditionally, but if she does not and choses to fight on, she is still capable of stubborn resistance. She will not be able to stap the Allies and will be beaten in the end, but in the meantime Canada's war effort must be even more vigourous than in the past. The Victory Loan is essential to the success of that effort and the Canadian people will be deserting their wonderful army in France if they fail to lend the $500,000,000 that their county is caling for.

We cannot fail the boys who smashed the Lrocourt-Queant switch line, who captured Cambrai, liberated Denain, helped to wrest Douia from the enemy's clutches, and who now have added Valenciennes to their list of captures.

FIGHTERS AND INVESTORS.

The figures for the first week of Peterborough's Victory Loan drive afford considerable satisfaction inasmuch as the total sum realized is well on the way to the objective. But the number of people who have invested inthe Loan is far from being as large as it should be.

Thousands of Peterborough County boys have gone overseas.

You would think that for every man who volunteered to go out and fight for Canada there would be at least ten ready to lend their money for the same cause.

But there haven't been ten investors for every fighter.

On the other hand the men who offered their lives have out-numbered the men who only offer their money.

Think it over.

The man who went forth to fight gave everything he had to his country. He ran the risk of death or being maimed for life.

The man who invests in the Victory Loan runs no risk. The credit of the Dominion ensures him a return of his money and he is paid 5½ per cent. for its use.

And yet Peterborough has supplied more fighters than she has subscribers for the new loan.

There is something wrong, somewhere.

We have two weeks to find the ten investors for each soldier we have enlisted.

With everybody helping it can be easily done.

Get busy.

SCHUTTINGER GOT $1,000 FOR RIDING ETERNAL MONDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.— One thousand dollars for one minute and twelve seconds of work was the reward of Jockey Andy Schuttinger for his great ride on Eternal in the latter's victory over Billy Kelly at the Laurel track last week. This is the biggest riding fee paid a jockey in many years. When the other jockeys heard of it their tongues began to way. "Snapper" Garrison, he of the whirlwind finish that landed many a forlorn hope in front when their backers' hearts were like lead, said: "Gee, that's all I got for riding Boundless, the winner of the $50,000 American derby. It was no minute and twelve seconds work either. I was an hour and fifty minutes at the post, and then in the broiling hot son had to drive Boundless every foot of the mile and a half route. Compared with that ride Schuttinger had a nice easy glide down a toboggan slide. Owners are more liberal with their money these days."

WAR CHECKS HAY FEVER.

One of the Good Effects of War Gardens.

Not content with seriously affecting practically all the industries of this country, the war is now showing its effects on hay fever. Reports from all sections of the country indicate that there is less of that disease this season than ever before, and in every headquarters of the sneezing industry the same reason is given —the war.

War's assistance was an accident naturally. It all came along through arousing patriotic noncombatants to the cultivation of food gardens. No sooner did they begin to weed those gardens than they conceived a hearty dislike for all kinds of weeds. This, in turn, led to a widespread war on them, and, being in the front-line trenches, the humble, pervading and deadly ragweed and the more poetic but equally pernicious goldenrod were reported at the head of the first casualty list.

Consequently, it is the hay fever-ites' turn to laugh. Heretofore everybody enjoyed hay fever except those who had it. While every other disease known to physicians produced sympathy, hay fever for some as yet unexplained reason remained the only medical joke. All this bore heavily on the spirits of the sufferers, for goodness knows it is bad enough to have hay fever without being misunderstood.

Hay fever is one disease that nobody claims. There have been proud discoverers of everything else, but whoever started hay fever had sense enough to seek obscurity. As a discoverer he was versatile, to say the least. He started with summer colds, then passed on to rose colds and hay fever, which he spread all over the season from the time hay is ripe until frost comes along with relief until the next year. In all his varieties the underlying principle was the same, the only difference being the degree of suffering. There is no good hay fever, but most of it is a whole lot worse than the other man's.

The inventor of hay fever forgot to say what made him think of it or how he made it. This thoughtlessness has led to much medical confusion. Also to really serious annual discussions of the Hay Fever Association. It is no unnatural thing to have at least 200 varieties reported, provided there are no more delegates present. Frequently there are more than this number of remedies produced, because it is a weak and retiring member who hasn't at least two that can't fail.

Perhaps it is just as good a solution as any to say that hay fever was started by a Hun. Nobody else could have done it. This theory has its bright side, too. The Hun discoverer, true to the German idea of thoroughness, tried it on his own people first, and now hay fever is even more widespread in Germany than anywhere else.

Each of the doctors in this country who have made a study of hay fever has developed his own theory as to its cause, and is undoubtedly right.

Hay fever comes only in hot weather, and the pollen from roses, hay, ragweed, goldenrod or peaches goes with fatal directness to where the victim's nerves are waiting with outstretched hands.

It is one of the remarkable features of hay fever that so many remedies have been discovered for individual cases of it. There is a total lack of co-operation in the hay-fever-remedy industry, but there is always hope that some day one somehow will find something. Meanwhile the list of remedies shows ingenuity of a high order.

Germany contributed the theory of fighting poison with poison, so some scientist extracted the ragweed poison, injected it into a horse, extracted a serum and made it up in both liquid and powdered form, which gave you a double chance at about a dollar a whiff. This was one of the earliest attacks made by the Hun upon the resources of this country. While our own doctors and chemists have met with about an equal success, it is strongly in their favor that on the whole they have been cheaper.

Coin Collectors.

There is hardly a country in the world the coins of which are not, at some time or another, handed over the counters of the Y.M.C.A. in France. The recognized legal tender is current English or French money, but, quite regardless of that, coins come rattling into the tills from Belgium, Italy, Portugal, Switzerland, Greece, Australia, Canada and the United States, and even from Spain, Luxembourg, Roumania, India, Argentina, Tunis, Indo-China, and Mexico. Papal coins of Pius IX. have been noted, and on one occasion a halfpenny of William and Mary, dated 1694. Probably the rarest numismatic treasure, besides the English seventeenth century coin, was the franc piece of Napoleon I., which bore the compound legend "Republique —Napoleon Empereur."

The Half-Crown Prince.

A London journalist speaks of the heir-apparent to the German throne as the Half-Crown Prince. A Canadian journalist objects to this title, on the ground that a half-crown is worth more than thirty cents. Just by way of enlightenment for the possibly uninitiated, thirty cents is what one feels like when one has been tossed about like the Crown Prince.

Marriage and Birth Rates Fall in Italy

(By Henry Wood.)

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Oct. 5.—(By Mail)—Italy's birth rate, which before the war was one of the healthiest in Europe, has suffered the inevitable decline that takes place always under war conditions, with much of the male population under arms.

The number of marriages has decreased as it has in all other belligerent countries, and while Italy is by no means suffering from any threat of race suicide, this decrease in marriages and birthrate, together with heavy loss of life in the war, creates for Italy the same problem of repopulation after the war that is facing the other warring nations.

During the years preceding the war the average number of marriages in Italy was 260,000 annually. In 1915, following Italy's entrance into the war in May of that year, this average decreased at once to 185,000. The year following saw a still further decline to 105,000 marriages, considerably less than half of the average before the war. The full figures for 1917 are not yet available, but enough have been obtained to render it certain that the decrease continued also throughout that year, some authorities declaring it will not exceed 50,000 marriages for the year, while more optimistic ones figure at least 80,000.

A similar decline also has taken place in the Italian birthrate. For four years preceding the war Italy's average birthrate was 1,123,000. In 1915 this suffered a decline to 1,100,000 which in 1916 suffered a still further decline to 881,000 births.

During 1916, the Italian government arranged for its soldiers at the front to have occasional leaves of absence in which to visit their families, something they had not enjoyed previously. While it is expected that this will have a beneficial influence on the birthrate for 1917, nevertheless this probably will be offset by the calling to the colours of additional classes. Statistics to date indicate that Italy's birthrate for 1917 will not have exceeded 700,000, while it may even have sunk as low as 500,000.

THE ARMY AMBULANCES.

A Young Officer's "Let-down."

When Salvation Army ambulance cars first went to France, shortly after the outbreak of war, the sight of the drivers with their cars labelled "Salvation Army" attracted considerable interest. Though the men, for working purposes, came under the control of the Red Cross Society, wore its uniform, and obeyed the military law, they were allowed to wear on their cap bands the words "Salvation Army." They were therefore easily distinguished.

The story is told of a young officer in sportive mood who stepped out from his colleagues in the streets of a French town and stopped one of the cars laden with wounded. "Hallo! Salvation Army!" he said to the driver. "Are you taking those men to heaven?" The other officers laughed at this pleasantry. "No, sir," replied the Salvationist, "I cannot say that I am taking them to heaven; but I am certainly taking them from the other place!" The shouts of laughter that followed this rejoinder indicated at least that all the honours do not lie with the young officer.

The record of the Salvation Army unit includes the transport of over a hundred thousand wounded men.

The Iron Ring Around the Enemy Has Been Completed

Germany Finds Herself in a Terrifying Situation—A Hunt After the Criminals.

BREAKING UP

(By J. T. Mason.)
(United Press.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 4.—When the Crown Prince of Germany was interviewed by the United Press four years ago he said Germany was surrounded by an iron ring of enemies. Austria-Hungary's acceptance of the Allies' armistice, makes the Crown Prince's description of his country's plight technically true.

The iron ring has been completed. There is no escape on the battle field. The effect of this encirclement is already being felt by the action of the Hungarian Government in refusing to permit food from the Ukraine to pass into Germany by way of Hungary soon. If Germany continues to hold out, they will be attacked afresh not only by the rest of the Allies, but by the Czech-Slovaks, the Jugo-Slavs and the Poles. The elimination of the Hapsburg Empire from active participation in the war does not mean that the enemy formed states in that disjointed confederation will turn at once to peace before Germany confesses she has received the knock-out blow. The array of enemies marshalled against the Germans in the closing period of the war is no longer a formal combat; it is a hunt by the vast sheriff posse after the criminals of the Hohenzollern regime. For this reason the end of the pursuit is taking a form entirely different from the conclusion of any previous war.

The Germans are being rounded up into an utterly helpless position, deserted by all their former allies and unable to obtain mercy because of their crimes against civilization.

Terrifying Situation.

It is this situation, far more than the actual military outlook, that is so terrifying to the Germans. Nations have been compelled to make unconditional surrender before and yet have emerged with their internal strength untouched. Not so for Germany. The internal power of the Hohenzollern Empire is beginning to disintegrate. There are indications that future association with Prussia may soon become abhorrent to the rest of the German states. The abdication of the Kaiser may well be followed by the subordination of Prussia to inferior rank as part of the penace Germany will pay to civilization.

VICTORY LOAN TOTAL GROWS TO $615,350

The results up to Saturday night in the Victory Loan Campaign, have been very satisfactory, the total amount being $615,350, which represents 38% of the objective which has been set for the county. This is divided as follows:—

Name.	Amount to date.	Objective.	Percentage of Objective.
Peterborough	$217,400	$ 800,000	27%
Norwood and Asphodel	39,850	110,000	36 r
Lakefield and Douro	38,400	125,000	30
North Monaghan	6,100	100,000	6
Otonabee	32,000	135,000	24
Smith	32,100	140,000	21
Belmont and Methuen		40,000	0
Havelock	8,300	40,000	21
Dummer	6,350	50,000	13
Ennismore	4,000	35,000	8
Harvey	1,700	10,000	17
Burleigh and Anstruther		10,000	0
Specials	195,500	250,000	78
	$615,350	$1,600,000

The Canadian General Electric are still setting the pace for the other industries to follow. Up to Saturday night they had nearly seventy per cent. of their objective and still going strong. This record is noteworthy owing to the fact that at one time over thirty per cent. of the employees were absent through the epidemic. Much credit is due to Mr. R. E. Layfield as chief organizer. The citizens of Peterboro may expect to hear the General Electric whistle telling the community that the honour Flag has been won.

Some of the other industries are likely to spring a surprise some of these days, as their organizers have been busy for some days. It would not be surprising if a number of Honour Flags were won this week.

Won Honour Flag.

The Vermont Marble Company has the honour of winning the first Honour Flag in the County of Peterborough. They have obtained subscriptions for the Victory Bonds from 100 p.c. of their employees and the total amount is equal to nearly 20 p.c. on their annual pay roll. The management and employers of Vermont Marble Company are to be congratulated. Other industries are working hard to get a flag also, and it will not be surprising if 2 or 3 other firms obtain the same and get their flags also.

BOYS AND GIRLS HELP AT C. G. E.

The boys and girls employed at the Canadian General Electric Company, have set the pace in the matter of buying Victory Bonds. Every boy in the mailing and messenger department has bought a Victory Bond, although they do not enjoy the larger salaries. The excitement is at fever heat in all parts of the fatcory and it is confidently expected that they will win the 100 per cent. efficiency flag.

World Happenings

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Every person imprisoned in Austria-Hungary during the war for seditious utterances against the State and conduct of war and for high treason and rebellion, will be released, it is officially announced in Vienna.

STATESMEN CONFER.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Nov. 4. — Conferences of the statesmen of the Inter-Allied nations together with their military and naval advisers, were continued to-day.

LONDON (Official), Nov. 4. — More than twenty thousand prisoners and several hundred guns have been taken by the 48th British division operating on the Asiago Plateau towards Trentino in Italy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. — The American army has captured dominating heights from the Germans northwest of Verdun, and, brought under the fire of its heavy guns the important railroads at Montmidy, Longuyon and Conflans. Prisoners captured numbered more than 5,000, and guns more than a hundred.

BRITAIN BITTER OVER FAILURE TO STEM INFLUENZA

LONDON, Nov. 4. — Public resentment at the failure of the Government to create a Ministry of Health, is gathering force in face of the plague of influenaz. Great newspapers charge the responsible officials with culpable negligence.

"Little though we know of the influenza,' says the Times, "we might have palliated its ravages. We had ample warning from Spain, and a still more urgent warning within our own shores during the past summer. It should have been seen that the worst probably was to come. No warnings were issued, no watch was kept, and no adequate steps were taken.

"It is too late now, and the best counsel we can give is to get as much fresh air and moderate exercise as possible, keep away from the crowds, especially under cover, feed as well as the restrictions permit, avoid overstrain, keep the houses scrupulously clean and stay indoors if seized.

"The surest way to catch any prevalent epidemic is to be worried about it, or be afraid of it."

Physicians declare that the present epidemic of influenza and of the associated diseases that follow in its train has scarcely been equalled since the Middle Ages. Most exxperts reject the etheory that teh epidemic is traceable in any way to the war, but not a few persons of intelligence feel that the hypothesis of the responsibility of the conflict cannot be wholly ruled out.

It is suggested that the war strain may acount for the widespread reduction of resistant power which may open the way for the ravages of the influenza germ and the diptheric pneumonia bacilli that appear to wrk with it.

OPEN SEASON FOR SQUIRRELS

Black and grey squirrels are reported to be very plentiful in this district this year, and on account of the high cost of living the squirrels will not be hunted for sport alone, but also to help stock the family larder.

The season is open from November 1st until the 15th.

Pete Kilduff is Unable to Draw Promised Bonus

Because He Left Cubs Half Way Through Season—Likes the Navy.

Jake Daubert, in his efforts to collect pay from the Brooklyn National League Club, has nothing on Pete Kilduff—Pte even goes him a bit better. Kilduff had a contract with the Chicago cubs for 1918, that provided he should receive a bonus provided the club finished first or second. He quit the club on June 1st, and joined a branch of the navy. Presumably that cancelled his contract, but Pete does'nt think so. Having a furlough of a few days the former ball player last week found time to visit Chicago, where he called on President Weeghman of the Cubs, and asked a "settlement." His idea was that he should at least receive half of the bonus agreed upon in his contract, since he was with the Cubs who finished in first place, for nearly one half the season.

Kilduff was informel that he had nothing coming. He is quoted as saying he was "forced" into service and therefore is not to blame for the failure to carry out his contract with the Cubs. Just how he was "forced" to join the navy, however, is not made quite celar.

Kilduff says further that he is not "overpaid" in the navy and that he can use the money he thinks is coming to him from the Cubs. Also Pete's experiences as a sea going navy man are of interest.

"How do you like the navy?" he was asked.

"Fine," was the reply. "I have made a few short trips on boats, but have not been across. The first journey I made I was as sick as a hound. I did not care whether the world came to an end or not. I am getting a little tired of staying at Norfolk. I want to get across and into action. My plans now are to get out of the navy and into the marines. I am not sure that I can get my transfer, but I am going to try, for the marines are the boys who are doing the work and get the sort of action that a fellow likes."

Here's hoping that Pete goes into the marines as he wishes—before the war ends, and right up front where he wants to be.

Every dollar makes them Holler.

Awards for Three Peterboro Soldiers

Military Cross and Two Distinguished Conduct Medals.

News of war honours won by four Peterboro soldiers has just been received in the city and will be heard with satisfaction by the people of Peterboro.

Lieut. Hubert Eastwood, son of Major J. H. Eastwood, medical officer of the 57th Regiment, has been awarded the Military Cross. No particulars have been received and in fact the first intimation Dr. Eastwood had received of his son's decoration was given in a letter from the commanding officer of the 2nd Battalion informing him of the presentation of captured German guns. Lieut. Eastwood's name was followed by the letters M. C. showing that he had won the coveted cross. Lieut. Eastwood went overseas with the 93rd Battalion and was transferred to the 2nd.

SERGT. MAJOR E. NICHOLLS

The same letter gave the first news of honour won by two other local soldiers. Regimental Sergt. Major Ernie Nicholls who left Peterboro as sergeant with the first quota from the 57th Regiment in August 1914 has been awarded the Distinguished Conduct medal. Srgt. J. Robertson of the 2nd Battalion who also left here in August 1914 with the first infantry quota from Peterboro has won a D.C. medal.

AWARDED D. U. M.

Sergt. Major Sam Thomas of the 21st Battalion has also been decorated with the Distinguished Conduct medal for his work in the Canadian success in front of Amiens in August last. This is the second honour that Sergt. Major Thomas has won, he having been awarded the Belgian Croix de Guerre some time ago.

New War Effort of Salvation Army

BIG CAMPAIGN WILL BE PROMOTED TO RAISE A MILLION DOLLARS.

The next effort which is going to be made for war funds, will be that of the Red Shield drive for one million dollars by the Salvation Army. This drive will be Dominion wide and will be put on in the opening weeks of December.

While other organizations, like the Y.M.C.A., Red Cross, and others have had their canvass for funds some time during the four years of the war, the Salvation Army has had no drive, and now that the government has requested an extension of their work (war) it will be necessary to meet the needs of this extension to get this million dollars.

Already in four years of the war the Salvation Army has spent two million dollars, and the organization feels that the good folks of Canada will be glad to help them meet the new demands which have been placed upon them for the mercy and kindness work among the soldiers and sailors of Canada at home and abroad.

MAY TAKE PARDEE INTO THE CABINET

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—It is once more rumoured to-day that F. F. Pardee, M.P. for West Lambton, and former Chief Whip of the Liberal party, is to be taken into the Cabinet at an early date. Mr. Pardee has had overtures made to him along those lines on several occasions.

French Baseball Code Incomplete

(By Webb Miller.)
(United Press Correspondent.)

PARIS, Oct. 6.—(By Mail.)— With the French army adopting baseball and the poilus picking it up rapidly, the day of the real world series may not be far off.

Although the French learn the principles of the game easily and like it for its speed and excitement, they have found American baseball terms very difficult. A poilu simply can't wrap his tongue around such words as "catcher," "base hit," and "umpire."

So the Soldiers and Sailors' Club of Paris has prepared and issued a "Code Simplifie du Baseball" which renders the tongue-twisting American phrases into French. The "Code Simplifie" was first put into use recently at a game in the Bois de Boulogne between the American Signal Disbursing team and the Triple A's. The "Code" was distributed to the French-speaking spectators.

According to the "Code Simplifie" the game went like this: The arbitre, Lieutenant McCosh, walked out and dusted off the plaque de but with his chapeau, just as Silk O'Loughlin used to do, and announced les batteries. Sherbony was lanceur for the Triple A's while Byrne received. Jones hurled for the Signal boys and Durkin was the attrapeur. The lanceur wound up and grooved three over the plaque de but, Smith failed to connect. Then Gedman of the Signal outfit promenaded up and leaned on one and smashed it clear into the extra-champ. He passed premiere base and seconde and almost spiked the bloqueur who was playing up close to seconde. At troisieme Gedman slowed up, and saw that the champ du gauche had thrown the ball to seconde. So he galloped in.

In the next inning Feinman of the Triple A's got as far as troisieme and then tried to steal plaque de but. But the attrapeur caught him four metres from the plate.

One of the features of the game was the sensational action by Dick of the Triple A's. He was playing troisieme when a high one that promised to go clear into champ de gauche came along. Dick jumped high into the air and speared it. Sherbodny, pitching for the Triple A's, had the enemy fanning like windmills. They came up a la battle and went away without connecting.

The Triple A's won, treize to deux, or 13 to 2.

But even the compilers of the "Code Simplifie" admit that it is far from complete. It contains no equivalents for such indispensable words as "Kill th' biz stiff," "Bust 'im in the jaw," or "Atta boy, atta boy."

W. F. O'CONNOR, K.C., IS IN THE RUNNING FOR NEW POSITIONS

Only a Flood of Dollars Will Put Out the Fire in Europe

WHEN the Kaiser started the great conflagration, which threatened to engulf the world, he failed to reckon with Canadian prosperity.

Here in the Western Hemisphere, safeguarded by the British Fleet, production has increased to such an extent that Canada is one of the richest countries in the world.

Step by step, the Allied armies have got the fire under control. Ever and anon it breaks out anew. Only one thing will put it out—Money, MONEY, and still more MONEY.

Money is urgently needed to keep the Canadian troops at the front.
Money is absolutely necessary to supply the munitions of war.
Without more money we can never hope to win a lasting PEACE.
Where is this money coming from?
From You—and YOU—and YOU!

Mr. John McMurray Has Three Sons in Canadian Forces

The Father Works 400 Acres of Land and Boosts Greater Production.

Mr. John McMurray, who resides in Douro, near Warsaw, and who a few days ago was wrongly accused in police court of harbouring a defaulter in the person of his son, resents the high-handed methods of the military police. Mr. McMurray has three sons in the service and two sons at home. One is a boy fourteen years of age and the other son, Thomas McMurray, was found to be in "E" category, but not before he had been sought by the military police as a defaulter.

Magistrate Dumble refused to deal with the charge against John McMurray of harbouring his son as a defaulter until it was proven by the Military Police. When the papers were returned from Kingston it was found that Thomas McMurray was in "E" catgeory and therefore not liable under the Military Service Act. John McMurray, with three sons in khaki, naturally objects to having his son characterized as a defaulter. The father is sixty-five years of age, and together with is two remaining sons at home, works four hundred acres of land and this year will have three days and a half threshing. With the best of his manpower away helping to drive the Hun out of France, Mr. McMurray believes he is making a pretty fair effort at home to help greater production, aided by his fourteen year old son and Thomas McMurray, who, as stated before, is in "E" category.

THE WAR IN THE AIR

(A WEEKLY RESUME)

In the bringing down of enemy machines were the primary aim of the British Air Service (which of course it is not) the figures for the past seven days would be evidence of a most successful week.

In the course of air-fighting over northern France and Belgium, British airmen destroyed 124 enemy machines, drove down an additional 46 out of control ,and shot down 34 German kite balloons in flames, thus accounting for a total of 194 enemy aircraft during the week. In the same period 90 British machines were reported as missing.

Readers of the British air communiques, however, should never lose sight of the fact that the most vital work of the Royal Air Force, the work which leaves an unmistakable impress upon the events of the battlefields, is of a kind which does not lend itself to statistical statement, and which frequently does not appear in the commiques at all.

As an illustration of this, the quite remarkable achievement of British airmen engaged upon photographic reconnaissance over the enemy's lines, may be instanced. The magnitude of this work may be judged from the fact that between eight and nine thousand aerial photographs were taken during the week—many of them of positions far behind the imediate fighting zone—of which more than 5,000 were secured during the relatively short period of 56 hours.

It is noteworthy that so large a number of photographs should have been taken in so short a time, but it is even more noteworthy that, at the zenith of a battle of unprecedented magnitude and fury, when the enemy is exhausing every resource to hold back the British advance, and during which immense exertions are demanded of the Air Service, the British airmen should be quietly and systematically preparing the way for further advances by photographing the enemy's vital positions in Belgium, on the line of the Meuse, and at other points far behind the battle lines.

Unique Distinction.

Therein lies one of the unique distinctions of the Air Force, that its duties combine active participation in the battles proceeding on hand, with a vast amount of simultaneous preparation for operations yet to be undertaken. For in a war of movement, such as we are now witnessing, the back areas of to-day may well be the battle-zone of to-morrow.

The very formidable activities of the British bombing squadrons should by no means be overlooked. Thus, during the past week, nearly 300 tons of bombs were dropped upon German railways, and other military organizations between the coast and the Somme. Of these well over 100 tons were discharged between sunset and dawn, causing much damage, and seriously interfering with the enemy's night transport, both of troops and supplies.

In this connection, the carefully timed air-offensive against the important railway and road centres behind the German front from the sea sea to Armentieres is of special interest. Acting in close consort with the plans of the Belgian High Command, British Coastal Squadrons, on September 28th, attacked with great vigour the railway communications at Thourout, Cortemarck, and Lichtevelde, on the direct routes from Bruges and Ostend to the retreating German line.

Trains Destroyed.

Throughout the day, enemy reinforcements, hurrying to the threatened sectors, were attacked with bombs and machine gun fire. The permanent way was destroyed in many places. Three trains were partially destroyed by fire and direct hits secured on four others. Three large enemy ammunition dumps were exploded and columns of horse transport were stampeded, while heavy casualties were caused by bombs bursting in the midst of bodies of massed troops.

Here, as upon other sectors of the Western Front, British airmen did much useful work throughout the week, observing for the advancing artillery, cooperating with the infantry and tanks, reporting the enemy's movements, and in may other ways assisting to maintain a remarkable coordination between all arms, which has been such a striking feature of the present operations.

On the opposite flank of the immense salient stretching from Roulers to the Lorraine frontier, the R. A. F. Independent Force lent its powerful aid to the 1st American army, by attacking the vital enemy railway communications south of Luxembourg. The sustained character of these attacks can be guaged from the fact that in the 24 hours ending at dawn on September the 27th, no fewer than 15 separate raids were carried out, as follows:

7 raids upon the railway triangle at Metz-Sablon.

2 raids upon the junction at Thionville.

2 raids upon the railway at Mezieres.

1 raid upon the railway at Audun-le-Roman.

1 raid upon the railway at Ars.

2 raids upon the aerodrome at Frescaty and Plappeville.

Heavy attacks were also made during the week upon the blast furnaces at Burbach and the important railway junction at Treves.

In Bulgaria and Palestine, British airmen took an important share in the rapid advance of our troops, dropping a very considerable weight of bombs, and continuously harassing the retreating enemy with machine gun fire. In Italy British airmen accomplished much useful reconnaissance work during the week, incidentally destroying two enemy machines. All the British machines in this theatre of war returned safely.

PETERBORO SOLDIER DIED OF INFLUENZA

Preston Grange, Son of Fire Chief Grange, is Dead.

Fire Chief Grange received the sad news that his son, Bandsman Preston Grange, has succumbed to influenza at Witley Camp, England. Pres, as he was known by his hundreds of friends in the city, was a clarionet player in the 57th Band for many years with his father. He enlisted early in the war with the 59th Battalion Band, but was later transferred to the 93rd Battalion Band. His father was armourer sergeant in the 93rd Battalion at the time. He went overseas with the 93rd Battalion and when that unit returned to Canada he was appointed to the 247th Battalion Band, later being transferred to the 236th Ottawa Battalion, with which unit he went overseas. In England he was appointed to the Third Reserve Battalion Band at Witley Camp. A letter was received from the deceased on Thursday, October 24, saying that he had a sore throat. Only last Tuesday Chief Grange received a cable from the British War Office saying that he was dangerously ill. The sad news came last Thursday that he had died. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his parents, one sister, Lorraine.

JAZZ AND RAGTIME IN SCOTLAND NOW.

(By United Press.)

A PORT IN SCOTLAND, Oct. 19.—(By mail.)—According to K. J. Hollinshead, of Evanston, Ill., secretary in an American Y.M.C.A. naval hut somewhere in Scotland, the canny Highlander is succumbing to the lure of our navy's jazz bands, and in many a "wee hoose on the heather" the bagpipe stands in the corner unused.

Along with the craze for jazz there has naturally developed a love of the trot and the one-step. When Jack comes ashore he wants to dance. But in Scotland he didn't find much satisfaction in watching the lassies doing a hornpipe nor did the bagpipe seem like music to his "jazzened" ears.

At one port where our navy men come ashore in great numbers, the boys couldn't find a dance hall of any sort. They went to Mr. Hollinshead of the Y.M.C.A. and asked his help. After scouring the town, he found the only available room was the upstairs of a second hand shop. With the aid of a working party from the ship, he was able to have the junk removed after four hours labour and the place was converted into a very useable ballroom. Mr. Hollinshead then introduced the boys to a number of the Scotch girls of the town, the ship's jazz band played American rags, and soon the lassies were swinging into steps and the first of a series of many dances was inaugurated.

Wolf at Door, Says Civil Service Head

Issues Statement Resenting Government's Dole to Employees —Luxury on All Sides.

Fathers of Confederation Blamed — Cabinet Cursed by Inheritance.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—Mr. Farnk Grierson, president of the Civil Service Federation, in a statement issued today states that the announcement in the press that the Government does not consider the application of the Civil Service Federation for a war bonus as just and reasonable comes as a shock to him. The statement continues:

"In order to bring the salaries of its employes up to the level of the cost of living, the Government should not only pay each civil servant about $2.25 per day, but should also pay interest on a portion of that amount due since the year 1914. Instead of asking for that amount the federation, out of loyalty to the Union Government, asked for $1.00 per day (less than one-half.) The Government, it appears, is willing to give only 50 cents or only one-half of this less than one-half. It has, on the other hand, insisted that other employers of labour shall give the full $2.25. Knowing the temper of the service as the officers of the federation know it, the Government is being advised to enter upon a course that will be hazardous, to say the least. For men are but men. The wolf is at the door of thousands of homes of civil servants while luxury abounds on all sides. The Government orders that there shall be no strikes. Louis XV. gave similar orders to the starving peasants of France.

"Philosophically speaking, the Government is cursed as the inheritor of its predecessors. The Fathers of Confederation permitted political patronage to load the public service with thousands of unnecessary appointments and the present innocent Government in its generation has to pay millions of dollars as the cost of the folly of previous governments. Will the Government repudiate its legacy and its responsibilities, or will it pay the price?"

Public is Warned against using dangerous Hair Preparations

Recent research on the part of hair specialists reveals the fact that many disagreeable and obstinate scalp diseases are caused and rendered incurable by the indiscriminate use of shampoo preparations.

Chemical analysis proves that most liquid preparations for shampooing contain an excess of alkali (a harmful irritant), which eats its way into the pores of the scalp, rots the roots of the hair, thus causing it to fall out.

The surest, safest and easiest way is to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Velnor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of pure non-injurious liquid that, aside from cleaning the hair thoroughly, will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff, also improve the natural color of the hair. Velnor being in concentrated form, never spoils and will keep forever.

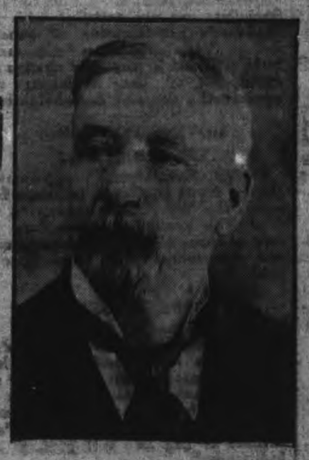
DEATH OF HEAD OF AUBURN WOOLLEN MILLS

Mr. James Kendry, Three Times Mayor of Peterboro, Twice the Representative of This Riding in Parliament, Passes Away This Morning—Death Ends a Career Crowded With Activities.

This morning at 7 o'clock, just as the whistle of the mill with which he had for so many years been connected, was sounding, Mr. James Kendrey, President of the Auburn Woollen Mills Company, died at his home, 754 Water street. The intelligence of his death will come as a shock to the community, for although it was known that Mr. Kendrey had been seriously ill with angina pictoris for some time, he had been able to be out last week, and it was the impression that he might be strong enough to rally. However, his condition became worse on Saturday, and death's call came this morning.

Few men have been so much involved in the business, civic and political life of Peterboro for so long a period of time, as the late James Kendrey, and his death ends a useful and active career. Mr. Kendrey was one of the foremost woollen manufacturers of the Dominion, and had been identified with that industry practically all his life. He was born in Oshawa, Ontario, on March 29th, 1845, and educated in the public schools. He received his business training in Toronto Woollen Mills at Streetsville. He first came to Peterboro in 1871 and for three years was in charge of the weaving department of the Auburn Mills. In



MR. JAMES KENDREY,
President of the Auburn Woollen Company, Who Passed Away This Morning.

1874 he left to take charge of the Clyde Woollen Mills, at Lanark, and afterwards became manager of the Glen Tay Woollen Mills.

Leaving Glen Tay in July, 1879, he returned to Peterboro as manager of the Auburn Mills, and since that time has continuously resided in this city. In the following year he purchased a share in the business, and as time went by his interests were increased, until he became President of the Company, a position he held to his death. He was recognized throughout the Dominion as an authority on the woollen business and his knowledge of the industry was shown by his selection as chairman of the cloth committee chosen by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to assist the War Purchasing Board. He was an active and energetic business man, retaining his deep interest in the Auburn Woollen Company until the end.

The deceased was for many years one of the outstanding political figures of the community. In 1896 he was elected in the Conservative interest as the member for West Peterboro in the House of Commons, defeating Mr. Richard Hall, and in 1900 he was again selected as the representative for West Peterboro, his opponent on this occasion being J. H. McClellan. Mr. Kendrey was for a third time a candidate for parliamentary honours in 1904, and on this occasion was unsuccessful, Mr. R. R. Hall being the successful candidate. For a long period Mr. Kendrey was President of the West Peterboro Conservative Association.

In the municipal life of Peterboro, the late Mr. Kendrey was equally prominent. For many years he was a member of the Town Council, and on three different occasions was Mayor of Peterboro, being first elected to that office in 1892, and afterwards in 1895, and in 1900. He was also a member of the Board of Education for some time, and was at the time of his death a member of the City Trust Commissioners, having attended a meeting only a short time ago. He gave many years of service to his fellow citizens, and left the mark of his energy and ability upon the life of the city.

In religion the deceased was a Methodist. He was a member of Otonabee Lodge, Independent Order of Oddfellows, and of Court Chmong, No. 530, Independent Order of Foresters.

The late Mr. Kendrey was married to Miss Elizabeth Rutherford, daughter of the late Robinson Rutherford. Out of that union were born three children, of which one, Clara Louise, died in childhood. Mr. T. Herbert Kendrey, of Peterboro, and Mrs. George Burnham, of Toronto, are the surviving children. There are also left to mourn his loss, four brothers, Thomas Emmett and Edwin of Peterboro, George Washington, of Boston, and William, of Pennsylvania; and three sisters, Mrs. Wilson and Miss Agnes Kendrey, of North Adams, Mass., and Mrs. James Burnett of Port Elgin, Ontario.

The death of Mr. Kendrey removes a landmark from Peterboro's life. He was widely known through the whole district, and the news of his passing will cause general grief and regret. The deceased was amongst those who helped to develop Peterboro, not only by the operations of the Auburn Woollen Company, but by his own personal exertions in the various public capacities in which he was called upon to serve. His life was crowded with activities of many kinds, and throughout it all the deceased retained the respect and the friendship of those with whom he came into contact.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery. A more definite announcement as to the time will be made to-morrow.

FEELS TWENTY YEARS YOUNGER

Can Walk a Mile Now Where Before Taking Tanlac Couldn't Go Two Blocks.

"Since Tanlac has relieved me and built me up so much I feel twenty years younger," said Mrs. W. B. Lapsley, who resides at West 2115 Eleventh Ave., Spokane, Wash., recently.

"I had suffered from stomach troubles," she continued, "until I had become almost a nervous wreck and unable to do my housework and look after my children. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could hardly retain a thing I would eat. I lived for days at a time on nothing but boiled milk and poached eggs, and half the time they failed to agree with me. I was kept on a diet all the time and my stomach was pumped out nearly every day, but this nor anything else did me any good. I was advised that a higher altitude might help me, so I took a trip to the mountains in Canada, but I came back home just as bad off as when I left. What I ate would sour on my stomach and the gas formed by it would bloat me up terribly. Sometimes my heart would palpitate like some one beating with a hammer, and then stop suddenly and keep still so long that I thought I would never draw another breath. My back, over my kidneys, hurt me dreadfully and at times my left side pained me until I could hardly stand it. I was constantly taking some thing to relieve constipation and was almost frantic at times with headache, and was so nervous that sleep was almost impossible for me.

"Now this is just the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac and I commenced to pick up with my first bottle. It was only a short time until I was eating most anything I wanted; I can now eat all kinds of vegetables, or anything else I want, without the least bit of trouble from it. My headaches and pain is all gone and I have already gained ten pounds in weight. I sleep like a child every night and have so much more strength and energy that I can walk a mile, where before I took Tanlac I couldn't walk two blocks without being all tired out. Tanlac has not only helped me, but my husband, who has been troubled with his stomach for a good many years, is now taking it with just as good results. Some of my neighbours are also taking it on my recommendation, so you can see what I think of it. I am thankful enough for what it has done for me to tell everybody about it."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd. In Havelock by A. C. Denike. In Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co Ltd., In Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter. In Gelert by A. J. Scott. In Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Coal Shortage is Not a Probability

Quantity of Anthracite Distributed is Greater Than in Normal Years—Economy Still Urged.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The Coal Age in its weekly review of the coal situation says:

Both anthracite and bituminous coal suffered a setback during the week ended October 19, owing to the epidemic of influenza in the mining regions. The 11,523,000 net tons of soft coal produced in the week under review, though 800,000 net tons behind the output of the week ended October 12, exceeded by 1,300,000 net tons the production during the same period of 1917. Reports show that influenza caused a decrease in the shipments of soft coal from all fields except western Pennsylvania. The epidemic has not helped the anthracite situation. Production of hard coal during the week ended October 10 totalled 1,715,000 net tons compared with 1,955,000 net tons the preceding week. The total output of anthracite from April 1 to date is estimated at 57,573,000 net tons as against 56,736,000 net tons for the same period of 1917.

Strict Economy Necessary.

Though the country as a whole is rather well supplied with bituminous coal, the necessity still exists for the exercise of the strictest economy. The quantity of anthracite distributed so far this year to those sections which are permitted to burn hard coal is greater than in normal years. The demand for domestic sizes, however, shows no signs of a let-up.

Prepared sizes of anthracite, such as egg, stove and chestnut, are scarce. Many consumers have been advised to purchase the smaller sizes, and mix it with the larger grades. The small sizes of anthracite are plentiful and in order to move some of their surplus stocks of these coals several shippers have been cutting the prices somewhat.

Coal Situation Satisfatcory.

Summed up concretely, the coal situation can be said to be generally satisfatcory. There is no prospect of a serious shortage in bituminous, and the belief is expressed that domestic consumers will receive their share of anthracite before November closes.

Killed While Taking Care of a Wounded Officer

Peterborough Soldier Was Taking Officer to Dressing Station When He Received Fatal Wound.

Killed while escorting an officer to the dressing station through a barrage fire, was the word received by Mrs. Ellen Callaghan, 497 Elm street, city, of her son, Pte. Herbert Callaghan, who made the supreme sacrifice on September 29th.

The following letter was received containing the news this morning.

Somewhere in France, 8/10/18.

My Dear Mrs. Callaghan,—You have by this time received the official message of your son's death on the battle field, but it is our custom in the scout section to give a more accurate account of just the way it occurred. This is my first attempt at this task and I think you'll agree with me that it is a difficult one to perform.

Your son went out with me on the morning of the 30th of September to reconnoitre the position of the enemy. While on this duty we met a wounded officer and I sent him back to the dressing station in Herbert's charge. While going back they passed through a heavy enemy artillery barrage and your son was hit and died almost instantly. His last words were of his mother. Although Herbert was on our section only a very short time he had many warm friends and I personally always selected him for any task of a difficulty or dangerous nature as he could always be trusted to hold up his end in a most satisfactory manner.

I can truthfully say he has done his duty before God and man, and hope you will meet this news, knowing he has done his bit.

Sincerely yours,
F. E. WOODWARD, Sergt.
Scout Section.

He fought and fought well,
No thought of pain and of fear,

To take him to rest,
After toiling for those he loved dear.

Round the spot where thou are laid.

And free from every care,
By angel hands to heaven conveyed,
To rest forever there.

"The task then fell to Storker Storkersen, who woud otherwise have been chief assistant on the trip. With ten sledges and about eighty dogs, he left Cross Island in early March. After traveling about 100 miles, he sent back his first support party. On April 10, he was 200 miles north of Alaska and was ready to send back his last support party. Before sending them back he took observations for latitude and longitude and then remained in camp for four days to see what the drift would be. Similar observations taken four days later show that he had drifted forty miles northwest by west. Our theory, therefore, seemed to be working out for those forty miles, if plotted on a chart, would be about parallel to the drift of the Karluk 200 miles farther south.

STORKERSEN PUSHING NORTH NOW.

"The report that Storkersen sent back indicates that he was going to travel another fifty or seventy-five miles farther north before finally selecting an ice cake to camp on.

"Most of the ice in that region is many years old, thickened by being crushed and heaped up in ridges and cemented together again by the low temperatures. Some are thirty to fifty feet thick. I would choose a cake over thirty feet in thickness and not more than half a mile or a mile square in area. The main task of the Summer is to put up meat for the Winter, and the closer the open water is to the camp, the less trouble in getting seals.

"Storkersen is doubtless camped on some such cake. On a good sunshiny day one is likely to get from three to five seals. These he would skin in such a way that the skins form bags, which he would fill with blubber of four seals going to make one full bag. The meat he would slice thin and stretch out in the sun to dry, this being his sledge provisions for the journey landward the coming year.

"After this, polar bears would become the most freely obtainable food. In our past experience one cartridge has averaged us 125 pounds of meat. As polar bears frequently weigh 1,000 pounds, Storkersen would be able to better considerably the meat-gathering average of our ammunition. Each animal he kills will furnish as much blubber as it does meat on the average. The seals furnish a little more meat than blubber. By October, when Winter really set in Stookersen probably had a great many tons of meat and fuel enough to last all Winter.

HIS PROBABLE COURSE AND ITS DANGERS

"If his course held true I imagine he would drift about 200 miles a month at the start and a little slower later on. As soon as the cold justifies it, snow houses would be built and the party would live in comfort. I don't see that the party is in any great danger, unless the ice in their immediate vicinity should break up during the dark period of Winter. Should they be compelled to remove their camp from an ice cake that is breaking up to a more fortunate location near by, they might in the process of moving lose a considerable part of their supplies. This I do not think likely to occur. We fully realize the danger, but consider it only a legitimate risk.

"If our calculations are correct, late in February, 1919 Storkersen's party should be northwest of New Siberia, 100 or 200 miles farther north than the point where the Jeannette sank. From here they would start as soon as daylight allowed it for the mouth of one of the great Siberian rivers, perhaps the Lena. To reach the Siberian Railroad, then, would become a matter of weeks.

"Storkersen's party consists of four men besides himself. Gustav Masik, a Russian, formerly second mate of our vessel, the Polar Bear Lorn Knight 25 years old, an American, whose parents live at McMenville, near Portland, Ore.; G. Gumar of Buffalo, N. Y., and Martin Killian, a Seattle boy of about 20 years, the ideal age for men in subordinate positions in polar work."

Mr. Stefansson said that, if all went well with the expedition, they should reach the Siberian mainland in from sixty to eighty days after the Arctic "daylight", begins in February, so that they might be on land in May, and at the Siberian Railroad in Summer.

Mr. Stefansson will spend some time lecturing for the Red Cross, and Dxpects t rur h Arccetonttoieeemf expects to return to the Arctic in about a year. He will speak tonight at Carnegie Hall.

GERMANS MUST DISGORGE, VACATE ALSACE-LORRAINE

That Is, If Parallel Between Austrian Terms and Those for Germany is Carried Out—Then, Too, Safeguards Against Temptation are Important.

A PARTIAL DISARMAMENT PROMISES WELL.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Germany will have to evacuate Alsace-Lorraine if the parallel between the Austrian terms, published yesterday, and those for Germany is carried out. The territory Austria must evacuate includes Italian Irredente — the lost provinces claimed by Italy. The Austrian frontier line follows the so-called natural boundary for which Italy has contended. Hence the similar situation with Germany would require evacuation of Alsace-Lorraine. Austria also has to evacuate Dalmatia, a Serbian province on the eastern Adriatic.

The surrender of half the artillery and equipment at designated points will be one of the most effective means of assuring that Austria may not even attempt to re-enter the war.

Her Naval Surrender.

Austria's naval surrender represents about one-fourth of her submarine fleet and about one-fifth of her grand fleet.

The last available figures on the Austrian fleet strength showed fifteen battleships, 21 destroyers, 10 torpedo gunboats, 45 submarines, 67 torpedo boats, 11 monitors, 15 cruisers, 43 mine layers, two trawlers, six scouts, one river torpedo boat, three armed steamers, and seven patrol boats.

These figures are up to October and do not take account of known losses of two battleships recently or of a number of boats taken over by the Czecho-Slovaks.

Similar terms applied to Germany will insure the freedom of the seas and will so reduce Germany's grand fleet that there will be no possible question of the supremacy of the allies on the seas.

Allied war and merchant craft can at once pass up the Danube. With the Dardanelles opened by the Turkish armistice, this means naval action may be accomplished or that trade and relief work can be started at once.

Those who have been demanding unconditional surrender seemed satisfied by the sweeping severity of the documents.

Lansing is All Smiles.

The State War and Navy Departments took on an air of cheer and relief such as they had not shown for many months. Secretary of State Lansing was all smiles when he told the correspondents he would give them the terms.

It became known definitely that the nation could assume that the German demands would be comparable to the Austrian. Military men said that in this case, surrender, flat and abject, would be the German portion. They anticipated that Germany would swallow her medicine. One Cabinet officer, who heretofore has been particularly cautious, refusing to make any predictions, declared that in his opinion, the war is now about done.

By the Austrian armistice, the allies are given military and naval privileges, within Austria, making it easier for them to strike Germany's "back door" if that nation decides not to yield to the United States-allied demands.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts yesterday, 254 cars, with 4,406 cattle, 211 calves, 1,533 hogs, and 3,829 sheep and lambs.

There was a sudden revival of activity in the cattle markets yesterday, when packers came into the market apparently prepared to take everything offering in the way of choice quality butcher steers and heifers and heavy steers. There was at the same time an active demand for feeders and good stockers. The result was an immediate advance of about 50 cents from last week's prices for anything of weight and quality.

Cows and canners held about steady with last week.

There was a better demand for milch cows, the market averaging about five dollars over last week.

Calves steady to firm.

Sheep and lambs were good and steady.

Hogs steady with last week's closing prices at $18 fed and watered.

GRAIN MARKET

Grain markets were stronger on the options. Corn at Chicago closing 5-8c. higher than Saturday's close. Oats acted in sympathy, closing 1 1-8c. higher. The market was little affected by the sensational peace rumours flying around, the feeling apparently being that the effects on the market of a sudden peace have already to a considerable extent been discounted. The cash situation as regards oats is easier.

TRANSPORT'S LUCKY TRIP.

Only Fifty Flu Cases Among Six Thousand Men.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—A transport carrying 6,000 American soldiers, has arrived at a British port. During the trip there were only fifty cases of influenza recorded. One death was caused by the disease. The success achieved in combatting the malady was due, in the opinion of physicians, to the fact that every man wore a cloth mask during the voyage.

There were several fatalities on the same ship during her previous voyage and the army and navy officials here were face to face with what threatened to be a serious situation.

Girl Had St. Vitus' Dance

MOST remarkable results are being obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in the treatment of children who suffer from ailments arising from thin, watery blood and exhausted nerves, such as ricketts, St. Vitus' dance and convulsions.

This food cure is so natural and gentle in action and yet so potent in restoring nervous energy that weak, puny children soon show the benefits of its use.

Mrs. Jos. Parks, 72 Picton street east, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"Five years ago my little girl was taken ill with St. Vitus' dance, and for four years we doctored her, trying several doctors and different remedies without curing her. She could not walk or get around at all, and we had to feed her, as she was unable to hold a spoon in her hand. Her tongue was affected so that we could scarcely understand her when she talked. One day a friend of mine who knew of the benefits of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food advised me to give my little girl some. I acted upon her advice, and soon could notice a difference. She was quieting down and commenced to eat better. I continued the treatment for some time, and she gradually got stronger and healthier. She recovered from her nervous trouble and was able to get around nicely. We are very grateful to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for the cure it effected for our daughter."

School life seems to take too much out of many children who are naturally nervous and easily worried and excited. For such there is nothing like this great nerve restorative to revitalize the depleted nerve cells and to bring back the color and robust health of childhood.

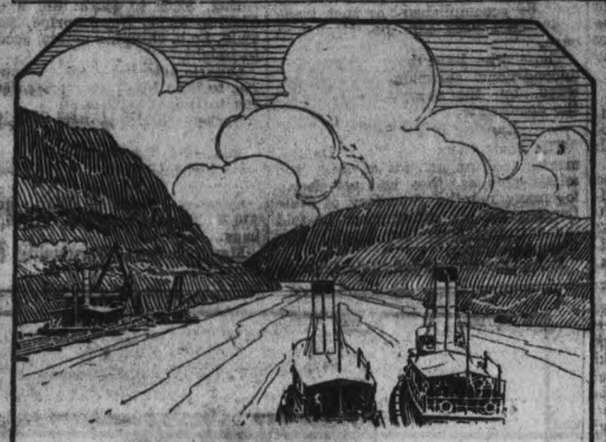
New York's First Mayor.

The first mayor of New York, Thomas Willett, was inducted into office in June, 1665. Governor Richard Nicolls, the first English executive of the future Empire State, was responsible for the appointment of Willett, who was a wealthy merchant and trader and had a town house in New York and a country estate in Rhode Island, where his body was buried in 1674. Willett, who was a shrewd business man, governed New York honestly and well and after his first term of one year was made mayor again in 1667. The municipal government of which he was the head was composed of five aldermen, three Dutch and two English, and a sheriff although police duties devolved largely upon the mayor, and he was police magistrate as well.

A Wonderful Drummer.

Probably the most remarkable drummer who ever lived was Jean Henri, the famous tambour major of the Emperor Napoleon. One of his feats was to play on fifteen different toned drums at the same time in so soft and harmonious a manner that instead of the deafening uproar that might have been expected the effect was that of a novel and complete instrument. In playing he passed from one drum to the other with such wonderful quickness that the eyes of the spectators could hardly follow the movement of his hands and body.



How Is Your "Culebra Cut"?

The Panama Canal is a clear passageway as far as the Culebra Cut. But Gold Hill has a way of slipping into the cut. And until dredges can clear the channel, the industrial schedule of the world is out of gear.

How about your own canal? The intestinal canal is a clear passageway as far as the large intestine. There, if you become constipated, waste matter is allowed to stagnate. It becomes unnaturally dry and undergoes abnormal fermentation and putrefaction. Germ activity is increased. Your whole system is out of gear. Result, the production of irritating and poisonous substances, which are absorbed into your blood and carried all over your body, liable to produce disease anywhere. The longer such stagnation is allowed to exist, the harder it is to clean out the canal. 90% of human disease originates in the "Culebra Cut."

If engineers tried to blast out the slide from Culebra Cut they would have more slides to cope with. If you try to blast out accumulated waste from your Culebra Cut with pills, salts or purges, you will increase your constipation—and next time you will have to take stronger medicine in a larger dose.

You can't dredge your canal.
You can clean it out with Nujol.

Nujol softens the mass, and supplies the intestinal canal with sufficient moisture to replace deficient mucus. It causes the obstructive waste matter to pass gently out of your system at a regular hour, absorbing and removing the poisons as it goes. Nujol regularly keeps the traffic of your mind and body operating on schedule.

You admire the Panama Canal system. Why not safeguard your own? Your druggist has Nujol.

Warning: NUJOL is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Brian Objects to Business Trips for Ruth

CHAPTER XXX.

The journey home was entirely without incident. Ruth had been tired from her two day's work in the old mansion, and had retired to her stateroom immediately. In the morning she went directly to the shop, although Mr. Mandel told her she was at liberty to go home.

"I want to do some more work while it is all so fresh in my mind," she told him and he objected no further. In fact, could Ruth have heard him mutter "A find without a doubt," she might have begun to realize that he believed in her—was pleased with her, and with her work.

All day she worked steadily over her plans. When closing time came she regretfully laid them aside and went home.

Mrs. Crawford was there and dinner was nearly ready. Ruth asked no questions, but stationed herself at the window to watch for Brian. He would be along in a minute. In some way she missed seeing him, and the turning of his key in the lock was the first intimation she had that he had arrived.

"Oh, Brian!" and she ran to him and threw her arms around his neck. "Were you lonely, Brian dear? Did you miss me?"

"Was there any reason why I shouldn't be lonely?" he asked gruffly. The soft feel of her clinging arms had helped to evaporate his anger.

"Well, I am back now and we'll make it all up. I have so much to tell you, dear! such a wonderful old place, and I am to do anything I want to with it—almost anything," she corrected with a little laugh. "And Newport is lovely! I never knew a place could be so heavenly! and"—

"Did you go alone?" Brian interrupted.

"Why—no—" amazement in her tones, "Mr. Mandel went with me."

"You mean to tell me that you went galivanting off with a man for three days?" the veins of his face swelled to almost bursting.

"Why—Brian—of course—he had to go. He had to see to things. I couldn't do it alone. And"—

"I'd like to know what you would think of me if I took some girl and went away for three days?"

"Oh, Brian—how could you talk so? It's so different! It was on business, and you"—

"Don't talk about it! thats the reason he was willing to pay you forty dollars a week—not because you earn it; I knew you couldn't earn any such salary—but because he is in love with you. I am not such a fool as you think me."

Ruth's eyes filled. But she was determined not to cry. The injustice of Brian's anger filled her heart with wrath also. She had been ready to talk of her trip, to tell him how kind Mr. Mandel had been; now she would tell him nothing. He didn't deserve her confidence. And—he didn't trust her or else he would not say such things.

Just then the situation was relieved by the call to dinner.

Ruth dashed the tears from her eyes, and with head up and a defiant feeling in her heart led the way to the table.

She did not again speak of her trip, neither did Brian refer to it while at the table. They ate in silence save when speaking of their food. After dinner Ruth unpacked her bag, taking no pains to hide what she was doing.

"Might as well leave it out, then you'll be ready the next time he wants you to go somewhere with him," Brian sneered.

Again Ruth's eyes filled, but she made no reply, although an angry one rose to her lips. Quietly she put the bag away, then took a magazine and sat down to read.

"I'm not going to sit in this stuffy hole all the evening!" Brian blurted. "If you are! I'm going to a show."

Ruth rose with alacrity. She knew that Brian dreaded the long evening with her because he was too proud to own that he was wrong in talking to her as he had, and that he was also too proud to own the fault.

"Thats a good idea," she said brightly, "I'll be ready in a minute."

While she changed her dress for one more appropriate, Ruth repressed a smile. What a child Brian was, she thought again, a regular baby. Well she would treat him as such, humor him. What difference did it make, and it made things pleasanter. Nothing would make her give up her work, or anything that her work made necessary. Beyond that, she would not do anything save what Brian approved and she would keep her temper when he was angry, even if he were angry without cause.

So it was a bright face she presented to her husband when she joined him ready to go out.

"Where shall we go?" she asked, taking his arm, and snuggling close to him. Even if he was cross and grouchy, she loved him and it was good to be with him again.

He mentioned a play that she knew was very popular and the seats in great demand and very expensive, as they had to be bought from the speculators. But she said nothing. He wanted to show her that he could take care of her. Well, let him. She would save the cost of tickets in some way.

"Nothing left in the house," the man in the box office told Brian.

"It's an outrage, making people buy tickets of these robbers," indicating the speculators.

"Why buy them, then? We can come some other night."

"I'll attend to this!" and Brian handed the man a ten dollar bill, receiving only three dollars in change.

THE MAN OF FORTY.

As a Rule, He Still Thinks He Can Put Off Doing Things.

At the age of forty a man has reached a time of life when it is hardly one thing or the other. The past years have not been so many as to permit one to lay down his arms and retreat in quiet to the shade. It is still not too late to strive and perhaps to achieve. On the other hand, so much dusty road has been traveled that if one finds it has not led him far on the way he meant to go he can hardly delude himself with the fancy that he can yet go back and begin the journey anew. The pleasant sense of superfluous time is gone; one must hurry, and perhaps it is too late.

Then comes the grief of perceiving the waste, the loss, the utter futility of postponements. The world is full of good and wonderful things. What a wealth of potential experience and emotions, and time and opportunity for so little! And yet year after year one goes on blindly and blandly putting off to some more convenient or appropriate time, to that impossible period when all will be exactly right, things he wants to do and can do—a kind action, making a new friend, or altering a whole career!

Once acquired, the habit of postponing persists. Hope springs eternal, and a man of forty finds himself counting complacently on some day taking up hunting or entering politics or circling the globe.—Robert L. Raymond, in the Atlantic.

Pipes Frozen by Warm Spells.

It is a curious fact that water pipes under ground will often freeze during the warm spell that follows a cold snap. The explanation made for this interesting phenomenon is that after a cold wave a large quantity of heat is taken from the ground in the work of changing the frozen moisture into water, and thus, on the principle of the ice cream freezer, the pipe is chilled, enough heat being taken from it to freeze it.

Generous Offer.

My little nephew is fond of remembering his aunts on their birthdays. He did not have enough money saved to buy one of them a gift, so he apologetically said: "Aunt Rose, I am sorry I have not enough money to buy you a present, but I'll come and stay two weeks with you."

Few Drops on a Corn or Callus

Instantly stops pain and they lift right off with fingers.

This tiny bottle holds the wonder of wonders. It contains an almost magical drug called freezone. It is a compound made from ether.

Apply a few drops of this freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a hardened callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so shrivelled and loose that you just lift it off with the fingers. It doesn't hurt one particle.

You feel no pain or soreness when applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the skin.

Just ask in any drug store for a small bottle of freezone. This will cost but a few cents, but will positively rid your poor, suffering feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, or the tough calluses on the bottom of feet.

Women! Keep a tiny bottle on the dresser and never let a corn ache twice.

His Pilgrimage

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

How he loved her! The realization of his affection held him as in a spell, and hopelessly. Oh! never to tell her how dear she was to him, never to gain this peerless jewel of womankind who could make of his barren life sweetness and peace!

He was Elwyn Pearce, the most valued of the employees of Wadhams & Co. She, Naomi Dale, was his stenographer, the sole support of an invalid mother, struggling along to make ends meet, but she was one of those courageous souls battling the world and its hardships with a patient, hopeful smile.

Love had come to him at thirty. There had been a reason for five long years why he had locked up his true nature jealously. He had cultivated a reserve that shut out intimacy. Naomi had crossed his path and love seemed like a flood beating at the barriers of his resolution.

"I must not, I cannot, I dare not hope or speak the love that she must suspect!" he told himself, and felt in some way that he must evade the daily companionship dear to him, but certain to become a positive torture.

"You are going away for two weeks, Mr. Pearce?" said Naomi. "I hope you will enjoy a good rest."

He winced. There was a quiver of his lips and then they set cruelly firm. Had she heard of the strange vacation he took annually, always in the middle of winter, always coming back with a deepened shadow upon his face, like a man who had been upon some arduous pilgrimage?

For such it was, a pilgrimage—to no Mecca where his spirit was lifted, but on each succeeding occasion more and more depressed. His was a mission of penitence, of suffering, yet bringing no surcease to a haunting memory.

His employers often wondered why and where he went. He returned thinner and more careworn of face. They did not attempt to fathom the mystery, however, for never in all his useful connection with the house had he infringed upon business restrictions.

Elwyn Pearce invariably spent his "vacation" always upon the anniversary of the most momentous and tragic event in his experience. It was at a river city where his pilgrimage ended. He would go to the leading hotel, leave his rooms in the morning, return at night and spend its hours in seclusion.

Had anyone followed him they would have seen him penetrate the poorest district of the city. It was among the humble and destitute that he passed his daylight hours. He would make diligent inquiry as to some individual or family in distress and would hasten to relieve it. This was his daily method. He would leave behind him grateful hearts, downtrodden souls the better for his practical visitation.

Like a penitent, fasting and praying and doing deeds in contrition for some dark sin, Elwyn Pearce would mentally array a night in the long past when all the joy and hope of his being was crushed out. It was in this city, then a traveling salesman, that he had met a fair-haired young man at the hotel, bound for a commercial center, planning to make a business connection similar to his own. They liked one another and Pearce suggested that they see the town. There was no idea of a riotous time with either. They spent a few quiet sightseeing hours at a theater and a cabaret. Then young Morton Willis suggested a call at a gambling place. Pearce piloted him thither. In the midst of watching a game they were startled by the excited announcement that the police were below, to raid the place.

"Follow me," directed Pearce, hoping to escape the disgrace of arrest. Somebody upset a stove, there was a flare, and Pearce reached an alley by means of a fire escape.

The whole place was in flames. When it was consumed it was known that several persons had been trapped. The next day among some incinerated remains a watch was found bearing the name "Morton Willis."

The young man had left no baggage at the hotel. All that Pearce knew about him was his name. Overwhelmed with the thought that he had been the cause of his death by accompanying him to the gambling place, Pearce left the fateful city a haunted man.

He returned to work more grave and morbid than ever. Naomi met him with an expression in her eyes so gentle, so sympathetic that he believed her womanly nature recognized that he had been on a pilgrimage of sorrow.

"I will end it all!" he resolved. "I dare not be near this pitying angel, and my sin shuts me out from her consideration."

He acted on an impulse. He would leave at once. As he neared the main office he noticed a man with an open sample case. He was saying to the principal in the firm:

"Those goods are the best I have ever offered for sale, or my name isn't Morton Willis."

Into the room Pearce fairly hurled himself. He grasped the visitor by both arms, gazed steadfastly into his face and burst into tears. It was later that he learned that the watch found in the ruins of the fire had been stolen from Willis in the gambling rooms. The latter had escaped and promptly proceeded to shake the dust of the city of temptation from his willing feet.

Then the soul of Elwyn Pearce lifted, and then—Naomi!

WHY IS A FORTRESS?

(By United Press.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 6.—(By Mail.)—Everybody wonders what they will do with the two chains of fortresses across northern France and southern Germany, now that modern warfare has made them good for practically nothing except sights for sightseers.

With the American advance beyond St. Mihiel, it is seen the Germans have given up use of fortresses, except as observation posts. Mont Sec, supposedly a stronghold, had practically nothing in it. The reason is plain.

Fortresses mean nothing in the way of defence except as machine gun nests. The infantry can go around them, however, and with gas and artillery and other means of influencing holders of forts sieges would be short.

They don't even put guns in fortresses any more, and probably the former formidable structures on flat hills surrounded by moats soon will be used as relics of olden days.

FREAKS IN BASEBALL.

Apparently Clever Plays May Sometimes Be Pure Luck.

Freak plays make baseball humorous, if not interesting. Some of these plays are said to be the result of quick thinking; but, as a matter of fact, most of them are simply luck.

Curious things happen. A ball fell into a tin can, and, it being impossible to get it out in time, can and all were thrown to the baseman. Another ball hit the end of a nail driven through the opposite side of a fence and could not be got down until all the runners scored.

A swift hit glances off the pitcher's hand, is snapped up by an infielder and thrown to first, putting the man out.

Red hot liners or grounders sometimes hit the first or third base bag and glance away for singles or even two baggers.

The shortest two bagger known was when the ball grazed the bat, shot up a few feet and fell in front of the plate. As the catcher reached for the twirling ball it glanced from his glove and bounded back to the stand, and the batter made second easily.

A center fielder saw a mit in the way of the shortstop and walked about sixty feet in to move it out of the way when he heard the crack of the bat and saw hot ball coming straight at him. He could do nothing but try to catch it and did to his surprise. But he was given credit by the crowd for being a great student of batters.—Arthur Macdonald in American Physical Education Review.

MAMMA! DON'T YOU SEE YOUR CHILD IS SICK, CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Move poisons from liver and bowels at once.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given to-day saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

WHEAT FIELD DRAINAGE

Surface Drainage of Value in Growing Winter Wheat.

Black Knot Responsible for Great Losses Among Plum and Cherry Growers — How It Can be Controlled With Least Expense.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

SURFACE drains are used to remove excess water of soils due to violent showers or the rapid melting of snow and are consequently often almost as important on tile-drained land as on that which has no artificial drainage. These drains often prevent the gullying out or the washing away of soil and soil fertility.

Good surface drains will lessen considerably the amount of winter wheat "drowned out" or "winter killed." These injurious effects are largely caused through water standing on frozen wheat ground in the spring. Were this water removed by surface drains, the reason for heaving so often seen in wheat fields in the early spring would be largely removed. These drains are a benefit, too, in that the removal of surface water enables the land to warm up more quickly, and the plants to start growth earlier in the spring.

Surface drains should follow the natural low levels in the wheat field and be made before the season closes in the fall. They are easily run out with the ordinary long or the swivel plough, and generally do not require to be more than one furrow wide and one furrow deep. Where there is considerable slope in the field and consequently greater danger of land being gullied out, care should be taken that drains are not made too narrow. The rounding of the edges at the top and of the bottom of surface drains will facilitate the flow of water by removing danger of blocking from loose pieces of earth. Intersections should be well made to avoid stoppages in drainage system. Heavy clay soils are usually more benefitted by the use of surface drains than are lighter soils.—Prof. W. J. Squirrel, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

To Cure Black Knot Disease.

No other cause, not even winter-killing, has destroyed and is destroying so many cherry and plum trees in this province as the Black Knot disease. This statement, while true of the province as a whole, is not true of the Niagara District nor of any other district where plum and cherry trees are carefully pruned and sprayed each year.

The disease is not caused by grubs, although these are often found in the knots, but it is caused by a fungus which attacks the branches and even the trunks of the trees and causes black, knot-like swellings, usually about three inches long and about half an inch in thickness, though often the swellings are much shorter and often again very much longer, the longest ones usually being found on the larger branches. New knots at first are brownish instead of black, the blackness coming with age.

The disease will in some orchards confine itself to cherry trees and not attack the plums. In other cases it will attack plums and not the cherries, but more commonly both are attacked.

Control Measures.—In order to control Black Knot thoroughly it is helpful to know that it is spread by means of tiny spores which act as seeds, and are blown by the wind from tree to tree. These spores are formed on the knots themselves. There are two main crops of them each year, the first during early spring, usually in March and April, and the second in late spring, usually the latter part of May and all of June. Therefore, to control the disease the first step to take is to cut down all dead and dying trees and remove all knots on other trees, cutting in each case about four inches below the knot so as to be sure the infected area is removed. If knots occur on the very large branches or on the trunk, they may be removed by means of a chisel or a very stout knife and chisel. An inch at least of the bark on each side should, if possible, be taken with the knots. All prunings, whether of dead or living wood, should be burned at once, otherwise the spores will form on them and spread from them. It is very important to do this cutting out and pruning before Christmas time. Warm days after the leaves are off are excellent for the purpose. Under no conditions must the knots be left on the trees until as late as February. In cutting do not overlook any wild cherries that may be infested around or near the orchard.

The next step is to spray the trees with either lime-sulphur wash or Bordeaux mixture, so that the spores that come from a distance in early or late spring may not get a chance to germinate. Three sprayings should be given, the first a few days before the buds burst, the second about a week after blossoms fall and the third about two weeks later or just before the earliest cherries begin to ripen. Arsenate of lead should be added to each of the last two applications to kill the Plum Curculio and to keep the cherries free from maggots. The lime-sulphur for the first spray should be in strength about one gallon to fifteen or twenty gallons of water, and for the second and third, one gallon to about forty gallons of water. Bordeaux for any application should be composed of four pounds of bluestone and four pounds of fresh stone lime or six pounds of hydrated lime to forty gallons of water. The arsenate of lead should be at the strength of two and a half pounds of the paste form to forty gallons of liquid or half this amount if the powder form is used.

A Tragic Search.

Joseph Warren, of Weyburn, and his son-in-law, Wallace Warren, of Crandall, were killed by a train striking their automobile, which they had stopped on the level crossing while they searched for a missing purse. The wallet was later located in one of their suitcases.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by most druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessless and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

REDUCING SWISS TROOPS.

Keeping Only Enough to Catch Smugglers on Border.

BERNE, Oct. 31.— It is officially announced by the Swiss Government that the number of troops with the colours is being reduced to a strict minimum. The majority of these retained, about eight battalions, are posted along the frontiers to prevent smuggling and espionage in conformity with economic agreements binding Switzerland not to export raw materials which have been imported into this country.

This cordon of troops must be maintained, even in the event of an armistice, and perhaps for sometime after the conclusion of peace, to prevent Swiss stocks of food stuffs from being sent abroad.

UPSET STOMACH

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN AT ONCE ENDS SOURNESS, GAS, ACIDITY, INDIGESTION.

Don't stay upset! When meals don't fit and you belch gas, acids and undigested food. When you feel lumps of indigestion pain, flatuence, heartburn or headache you can get instant relief.

No waiting! Pape's Diapepsin will put you on your feet. As soon as you eat one of these pleasant, harmless tablets all the indigestion, gases, acidity and stomach distress ends. Your druggist sells them.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or achinz; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

Representatives of the Enemy Powers Will Take Part in the Diplomatic Struggle Which Will Probably Follow.

PEACE TERMS

(By J. W. T. Mason.)
(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Austria-Hungary armistice terms makes the Hapsburg Empire impotent to resume the war, but this does not necessarily mean that the terms of peace to be imposed upon the Dual Monarchy will be decided by America and the Allies without consultation with representatives of the enemy powers.

Whether the peace treaty shall be discussed at a conference of both sides, or whether the victorious nations shall simply declare their purpose to the vanquished has not been announced. There is reason to believe, however, that former precedents will be followed and the defeated nations will gather together with the victors for a diplomatic struggle at the conference table.

History Repeats Itself.

This was what happened when Europe united against France during the Napoleonic affair. After France was forced to make an unconditional surrender, French delegates attended the peace conference at Vienna and were astonishingly successful in what they saved from the wreck of Napoleon's fortunes.

One of President Wilson's terms of peace is that a League of Nations shall be organized at the peace conference to reduce the possibility of future wars.

The Central Powers must be permitted to join the League in accordance with the President's purposes, or the League would become no more than an alliance of certain powers joined against others, and might be a cause instead of a deterrent, of future conflicts.

At Peace Table.

If, therefore, all the world's principal powers are to be brought together into a League of Nations to be created at a peace conference, the defeated belligerents must be represented in company, not only with America and the Allies, but with neutral powers as well.

It is inevitable that diplomatic skill and finesse will play an important part in such a congress. What the final terms of peace will be, therefore, may not depend on the military conditions of the armistice.

The war is now moving from the field to the Conference Hall. Strategy and tactics will find their place at the new meeting as at the old.

Election Activity in United States

In Many States Women are Voting To-day for the First Time.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.— Congressional elections are taking place to-day in all States of the Union and at noon both Republican and Democratic leaders are confident of success.

In many States women are voting for the first time for representatives and senators and it is admitted that this fact makes the result more difficult to gauge. Recent manifesto of President Wilson and answering arguments of Ex-Presidents Taft and Roosevelt are playing some considerable part in moulding opinions and directing the balloting of electors.

THE WEATHER

There was ice this morning, together with a heavy white frost. Light snow was general yesterday in the east, but in this section it took the form of rain, some more of which is coming shortly. Lowest last night 27 degrees; highest yesterday 43 deg.—W. P.

A Decisive Battle Being Waged in Two Sections On the Western Front

Allies Aim to Drive Dangerous Wedges in the German Lines—Fortified Town Captured by the British OFFICIAL REPORT.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 5.— (Official. — British troops in the offensive south-east of Valenciennes, have captured the fortified town of Le-Quesnoy, after having completely surrounded it. The entire garrison of more than one thousand men, was taken with the citadel.

Rapid progress has been made by the British divisions east of Le-Quesney, where an advance of between there and four miles has been scored. The villages of Jolimetz, Le-rondquesne, Fresnoy and Lepetit Marais have been captured. Further ground has been gained in Mormal Forest. The village of Eth, five miles south-east of Valenciennes, has been taken.

A DECISIVE BATTLE.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 5.—A battle which is believed here to be decisive is now going on. It is being waged in two sections. In the north the blow delivered by the British armies of Generals Horne, Byng and Rawlinson and by the French, under General Debeney, is a threat levelled at one of the flanks of the vast pocket formed by the German lines from Holland to Metz. The object of this offensive is to drive dangerous wedges either north of Sambre in the direction of Mons or south of the river in the direction of Avesnes and Maubeuge. The result may be to compromise the retreat of the German armies in Belgium or those still between the Oise and the Aisne. Excellent results have been realized so far. The second section of attack is being conduced by Generals Gouraud and Liggett on the Meuse. This is a great strategic offensive which the Germans have always feared and which they sought to make impossible by storming Verdun in 1916. The aim of the Franco-American offensive is to pinch out the whole pocket. American troops are at Beaumont.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 5.—(Official.)—French successes have compelled the Germans to make new withdrawals at several points along the front. Between the Oise and the Aisne the French have advanced about one mile on a five mile front. The French First Army resumed the attack his morning and is making progress. French troops continue successfully to pursue the Germans in the region of Guise, and have taken Berques-Sur-Sambre.

Between Sissonne and Chateau Porcien, a front of more than fifteen miles, the French have penetrated the Hunding line of the Germans, and are making a general advance from the east of St. Quentin Le Petit to the outskirts of Herpy.

GERMANS BEING TRAPPED.

Specail to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 5.—German armies along the south-western edge of the Ardennes are rapidly being trapped by the simultaneous Allied drives, eastward from Valenciennes and northward from Verdun.

The Allies already have closed the main avenue of retreat in the latter region by the closing of Stenay Gap. Two or three days more fighting, at their present rate of progress, will carry them to Sedan or Mont Medy and complete the shutting of the gate.

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 5. — American troops of the first army, resuming their attack this morning, forced a crossing of the Meuse at Brieulles and Clery Le Petit, despite desperate opposition, it was announced in the American official communique to-day.

Bitter fighting is taking place to-day along the Meuse River. American patrols again have succeeded in crossing the river at Brieulles on pontoon bridges, constructed under fire.

HOLD AT ALL COSTS.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 5.— The British in Flanders have captured a German order which says the group of armies there must battle to a decision and that the Lys and Hermann lines must be held at all costs.

GERMANY ON THE VERGE OF A STRIKE TO ENFORCE PEACE

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 5. — Germany is on the verge of a huge strike, intended to enforce peace, according to a proclamation published in the Berlin Vorwaerts, semi-official Government organ.

This proclamation urges the workers of Germany to refuse to respond to the summons to walk out and tie up the nation's industries.

Big Victory For Italians

Every Detail of the Huge Battle Was Planned in Advance.

(By Henry Wood—United Press).

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMIES IN THE FIELD, Nov. 5.—At the moment that the Austrian armistice became effective, the Italian Allied armies, in a ten days' battle, had attained the greatest military victory in the world's history.

When the battle opened, more than a million bayonets, with an auxiliary million in the rear, opposed them. The victory was obtained by the Italians practically single-handed, only five Anglo-French divisions and one American regiment aiding them.

During the ten days, the Italians and Allies captured more than 300,000 prisoners and 5,000 guns. They liberated over 3,000 square kilometres of territory and over 1,000 villages, which exceeds the losses of every item in the Caporette disaster, although they operated with forces far inferior to the enemy in number.

Planned in Advance.

Every detail of the battle was planned in advance, not permitting the loss of a moment. The progress of the Italians from their starting points averaged fifty kilometres (31 miles), although the distance travelled over the winding roads exceeded one hundred kilometres.

The first effort to negotiate with Italy for an armistice was made on October 29, when an Austrian captain, with a white flag, presented himself before the Italian lines in the Adiga Valley, south of Rovereto. The Italians refused to negotiate, as his credentials were insufficient.

The following day nine military and naval officials, headed by General Vone, accompanied by their orderlies, presented themselves at the same place after a signal by bugles. They were taken in automobiles to the headquarters of General Diaz, near Padova, where the request was immediately transmitted to Versailles.

Schools Opened to Give the Teachers Chance to Organize

The Attendance Will Likely be Light For the First Three Days.

Surprise has been expressed at the action of Dr. C. H. Amys, M.H.O., in allowing the opening of the schools on Wednesday, when the influenza epidemic is apparently still raging, but the doctor said this morning that Wednesday is only nominal. In every school after any break, several days are occupied with reorganization, and in view of this his action was to give the teachers and pupils time to get a start for Monday. It is not expected that there will be a rush of pupils back on the day set.

Worst Over.

In regard to the Spanish influenza epidemic, he said with conviction that the worst is absolutely over, both with it and with its complications. However, he expected individual cases to crop up all winter, while pneumonia of course is always with us.

TERMINATION OF CONFLICT

This Will be a Matter of Practical Importance to Canada—Will End a Host of Legislative Activities.

LEGAL STATUS

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 5.—What is the end of the war, is an important factor in considering when the end of the war will be, and the technical termination of the war is a matter of practical importance in Canada, affecting as it may, not only prohibition, but the whole basis of Government action by Order-in-Council during the past four years. It includes food and fuel control, censorship, the War Trade Board, and a host of other activities.

To a large extent Canada, since the autumn of 1914, has been governed not so much by Parliament as by Order-in-Council under the War Measures Act, passed in the special session of 1914. The powers there conferred upon the Government are only in force during the war, and the Act in itself defines for Canada, the legal termination of the war.

A Proclamation.

"The issue of a proclamation by His Majesty," it says, "or under the authority of the Governor in Council, shall be conclusive evidence that war exists, and of its continuance, until by the issue of a further proclamation, it is declared that the war no longer exists."

The war, as far as Canada is concerned, will therefore be at an end when it is so proclaimed by "His Majesty, or under the authority of the Governor in charge." When that time does come, it is the opinion here that all orders made under the War Measures Act will cease to be valid, even though such orders themselves, as in the case of prohibition, declare that they are to be in force for a further period.

Must Summon Parliament.

If the Government, therefore, wants even the temporary continuance after the war of prohibition, of the Food Board, and of many others of its chief creations, it must summon Parliament to get the necessary Legislative sanction. For what can be done by Order-in-Council under the War Measures Act can be done by legislation, which is supreme.

As to when our proclamation declaring the end of the war is likely to come, it is illuminating to examine legal opinion in England. There the Attorney-General appointed several months ago, a committee under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice Atkin, to consider the legal interpretation of the terms, "period of the war." The conclusions of this committee are that the war cannot be said to end until peace is finally and irrevocally obtained, and that point of time cannot be earlier than the date when the treaty of peace is finally binding on the respective belligerent parties, and that is the date when ratifications are exchanged.

Various Steps.

The various steps in the process are outlined as follows: Agreement for armistice, cessation of hostilities thereunder, articles of peace, agreement of terms, signature of terms, certification, exchange or deposit of ratification.

The committee think even if the treaty provides for the date at which peace is deemed to begin, it is not the legal date if it is previous to the final exchange or deposit of ratification.

Far-Reaching.

The English committee declares that the date does not depend on Royal proclamation, although in Canada this does seem to be the decisive factor, by reason of legislation on the point.

The Attorney-General's committee says that the separation of emergency statutes and orders is so far-reaching, the powers given are so vast, and the responsibility of those exercising them is so serious that it would be a calamity if there were any real doubt as to the termination of the war. It is of the opinion, therefore, that in spite of its own legal interpretation, it is desirable to obtain statutory power in order that the Government, by Order-in-Council or otherwise, may declare authoritatively the date which war ends and peace begins.

By legislation, it looks as if Canada had already settled upon such an authoritative date. It must be remembered, however, that such a date, although authoritative, must not be entirely arbitrary. It is theoretically conceivable that a Government, for its own purposes, should delay such a proclamation. That is why the legal review of the steps leading to peace and the point at which war ends is valuable as a check on the executive.

Armistice Offered Germany Means Absolute Surrender

Nothing is Left to the Good Faith of Germany—Final Peace Terms Left With Allies.

SIGNED LAST NIGHT

Canadian Press:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Armistice terms signed last night by the Allies and now in Germany's hands for action, mean the complete surrender and immediate end of the war, leaving the final peace terms to the dictation of the Allies. The statement is authorized that the drastic terms under which Austria dropped out of the war is an accurate indication of the nature of the terms offered to Germany. It will be the absolute surrender and nothing left to the good faith of Germany.

Little Doubt.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The Times Paris correspondent, reporting the fact that the Allies have agreed on armistice conditions, says that the Allied successes on the French front leave little doubt of the German acceptance.

Girls Arrested for Shoplifting

Pleaded Guilty and Were Remanded for a Week.

Two young girls, aged 21 and 18 years, pleaded guilty before Magistrate Dumble this morning to the charge of stealing a black silk dress from M. Fine's store, George street, and a brown velvet skirt from the Cressman Company store. Both girls were remanded for a week until more information could be gathered about their past history.

Last Saturday evening Mr. M. Fine informed the police that a black silk dress valued at $25 had been stolen from his store that evening. He said that two girls had entered the store and after looking around left the store without making a purchase. Immediately after their departure one of the girl clerks missed a black silk dress from the counter. She supplied a description of the two girls to the police.

The girls were arrested and their room searched by the police. The black silk dress was found, together with a new brown velvet skirt which they said they had "lifted" in one of the local stores, but they did not know the name. Take to Cressman's store they identified the store and the counter from which the $15 skirt had been taken.

Both girls have lately recovered from the influenza and one girl drew $11.90 in her last pay for four days' work.

They informed Chief Thompson that they had lived in the city only two months and came from Winchester, Ontario (near Montreal.) Both of their parents had been dead for a number of years.

Relations Have Been Broken Off

Remaining Members of German Legation Have Left Russia.

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Diplomatic relations between Germany and the Bolsheviki have been broken, Basle advices to-day announced. It was stated that the remaining members of the German Legation in Russia who had fled to Pleadkau from Moscow, had just returned to Germany. Berlin made no official announcement of the withdrawal of the diplomatic forces, the report declared.

Robbers Were Apprehended

Men Held Up Express Messengers and Got Away With Several Thousand Dollars.

Canadian Press:

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—Wearing the uniform of a captain of the Canadian infantry, Jack Lett, aged 32, was arrested to-day by detectives on a charge of robbing two Canadian express messengers on the Grand Trunk Buffalo express on October 23rd last. His brother Walter, who owns the uniform, was arrested as an accessory. Four thousand dollars more of the stolen money has been recovered, some of it in a church boiler-room here. Nine thousand is still missing. Both brothers came from Barrie, but Walter recently conducted a fruit farm near Jordan, Ont.

(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, November 5. — It was learned to-day that the police had arrested the men who robbed the Canadian Express on the Toronto and Buffalo express on October 21, and got away with $20,000, of which $7,000 was recovered the same day in a house of Hewitt avenue. The robber it will be remembered held up two express messengers at the point of a gun, and made good his escape by jumping from the train at Sunnyside.

Another man has also been arrested in connection with the robbery, and it is stated that the men are brothers, one of whom was an officer in the Canadian army overseas. It is reported that the police have recovered most of the money.

They were arrested in Toronto by the city police, assisted by Inspector Jack Miller of the Provincial force.

According to the police the men offered no resistance. Half a dozen officers participated in the arrest. The men, who were well dressed, are lodged in the police cells at the city hall.

WAR SUMMARY

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Associated Press to-day issued the following summary:

From the Dutch frontier to east of the Meuse, the 200 mile battle line is aflame to-day as the British, French Americans and Belgians crush the resistance of the enemy and push on for further gains. Everywhere on the long line the Allies are progressing, and on the French sectors between the Oise and the Aisne the Germans are withdrawing on Maria and Mont Cornet. Field Marshal Haig has taken the strong point at Le Quesnoy and is pressing on Maubeuge, while the Americans are fighting their way across the Meuse south-west of the railroad centre of Mont Medy. In the region north and south of Valenciennes the British continue the successful push begun Monday. American troops on a front of fifteen miles along the Meuse, from Brieulles northward to Pouilly, are successfully forcing their way across the river.

FREE ACCESS TO THE SEA

Switzerland Wants the Rhine Waterway Internationalized—A German Project.

APPEAL TO STATES

(By Raymond Clapper.)
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 5. — Switzerland wants Germany forced at the peace conference to open the Rhine waterway for international commerce.

She is prepared to ask the good offices of the United States to this end.

Switzerland desires free access to the sea and an end to Germany's efforts to cut off traffic and strangle the mountain republic, it is learned authoritatively.

League of Nations.

If a League of Nations is formed an appeal will be made to internationalize the Rhine, and place it under the control of the associated powers. Return of Alsace to France will create a strong interest in the Rhine in France as the river will be the German frontier for a considerable distance.

Germany has been working on a project to build nearly a score of locks above Strassburg to develop water powers. River boats to Switzerland would have to be carried through these locks, making the trip much longer and more expensive, as Germany intends to force Swiss commerce to bear the expense of the undertaking.

Feeling for a League of Nations is growing in Switzerland, where the desire for protection against the menace of Prussianism is strong.

Bolshevik Want Peace

Have Opened Negotiations With the Allies.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 5.— The Bolshevik Government of Russia, it is reported from Petrograd, has handed the neutral ministers a note for transmission to the Entente nations asking for the opening of peace negotiations in order that hostilities between the Allies and Soviet government may be ended.

Civil Service Bonus Not Yet Settled

But Likely Will Be To-day—Chance to Overhaul Departments.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4. — Civil Service employees and their demand for a $350 bonus have occupied a great part of the attention of the Cabinet in recent meetings. It is probable that the question will be finally settled to-morrow. The insistent representations of the Civil Service Federation that nothing less than the $350 bonus would be acceptable have had to be considered with an eye to the need of reorganization and reclassification in many of the departments. The demand of the employees was based on the increased cost of living. While the only hesitation on the part of the Government is that some of the employees did not merit a raise, the Civil Service men urge in reply to this that it is not fair to penalize the majority for the failings of a few. It is felt by some that the granting of a bonus would be a good occasion on which to commence a thorough overhauling of Government departments, dismissing the superfluous and incompetent employees, wherever they are, and putting the whole service on a merit basis. Patronage of the past produced many evils, and the country still suffers from it to some degree.

A CHANCE TO HELP.

The attention of motor car owners is called to the appeal of the Trinity Church Red Cross Society for the use of a number of cars each day from about 10.30 a.m. to 12.30 noon for the purpose of distributing soups and other nourishment to influenza sufferers. The members of the Trinity organization have been doing a magnificent work in their Reid Street soup kitchen, and many families will remember with gratitude the help they received long after the epidemic has passed away. Nourishing foods have been supplied to many households where, through the illness of practically every member of the family, it would have been impossible to secure such articles had it not been for the timely assistance of the members of the Trinity Red Cross. While happily the number of new cases is decreasing, yet there are many convalescents who must be looked after, and the Society is in need of the services of a number of motor cars. Local motorists who are willing to help in this grand work should communicate with Rev. F. E. Malott — 'phone 705.

THE GERMANS STAND ALONE.

The arch criminal alone is left. Germany, instigator of the world war, guilty of countless crimes against humanity, the butcher nation that for over four years has destroyed churches, violated women, killed merchant sailors and women and children on the high seas, bombed Red Cross hospitals, sunk hospital ships, acted like a people who had gone mad at the taste of blood, stands alone. Her associates in crime, who after all only did her bidding, have one after another left her to her fate, and she is left to face the world-in-arms, abandoned by all her allies.

The end of the great drama draws near—the world waits to hear the sentence passed on the nation which caused the suffering of the past fifty-one months. The New York Times expresses a sentiment that will be popular in Canada, when it says:

There is no trace of heroism in the attitude Germany assumes in the hour of defeat. The magnanimity so often manifested toward a conquered foe is denied to her because she is unworthy of it. Pity for her distress, which is beyond the power of calm endurance, is withheld for a like reason. She has shown no pity herself, she deserves none. She is a criminal nation whose offences transcend all human experience, and the only concern the world feels as to the degree of her punishment is that it shall completely and forever put it out of her power to bring about another embroilment of the nations.

THE DOCTOR.

(Toronto Star.)

Since the outbreak of influenza in the city, the doctors have known rest neither night nor day, until now that the demands upon them have become somewhat less insistent.

Stories have been told of the extreme suddenness with which simple cases had developed into serious ones, and people "sent for the doctor" on the slightest pretext, and where real illness existed sought his attendance again and again, as they would not have done at ordinary times.

The family physician with his confident air and his reassuring words, has carried comfort and courage across thousands of thresholds in the last two or three weeks. There may not be the magic in his medicines nor the wisdom in his words that he himself could always wish, but the family physician is a tower of strength in his community when an epidemic invades the town, and he, as the defending force, fights it from house to house, up one street and down another, until after varying successes and some reverses, victory is won.

Dr. John R. Hall, an old and well-known physician, who has cared for two or three generations of children, and did it so well that he made life friendships by it, was himself, we believe, taken ill in the midst of his arduous labours in defending the city against the influenza invasion. The news of his illness spread widely, and many were able to see what a part is played in the life of a city by a man like Dr. Hall, who receives little public mention, but a vast deal of commendation in the homes to which he has brought safety, comfort and confidence in times of anxiety.

In the Base Hospital, which has been so much and so necessarily criticized because of the unfitness of the premises, the overcrowding, the lack of skilled attendants for the service that required doing, there are physicians who have lived up to the finest traditions of their profession—ministering sleeplessly to the needs of the sick, at it early and late, and in some cases drafting members of their own families and bringing them along to fetch and carry and help in a work too great for the doctors to cope with. There is no shortage of the fine qualities that make the physician's calling what it is, but the trouble is that the Base Hospital is not a fit theatre for the big and serious perfomance, running into tragedy, put on there.

THE SWING OF VICTORY.

Germany is doomed—one by one the tottering props that helped to keep the Huns in the war have fallen. First Bulgaria surrendered, then Turkey, and now Austria is gone, leaving Germany surrounded by foes, open to attack from the east and south, and with her armies on the western front staggering homeward, dazed by the violence of the blows the Allies have showered upon his lines. Now is the time for Canada to strike with renewed violence. Her valiant army is in the fore front of the allied attack. "I have the honour to report that Valenciennes is completely in our hands," was the historic report that General Currie was able to make on Saturday. The Canadians, thanks to the leadership of their high command and the matchless vim and courage of the individual soldiers, are still driving forward. These are wonderful days in the world's history and every hour brings its fresh story of allied success and allied valour.

Under the inspiration of such tidings there should be a spontaneous outpouring of the nation's wealth to hasten the coming of peace. Surely no one will hesitate to invest his money in the country's Victory Loan, with such wonderful news coming to us from overseas. It is a time for unloosening a financial attack with every resource of Canada behind it, that the Dominion may continue to play a worthy part in the struggle to the end.

In the name of every Peterborough soldier in France, the city should lend as never before. Victory is coming—let us hasten it by oversubscribing the Victory Loan.

THE CIVIL SERVANTS.

It is not to be wondered at that the civil servants throughout Canada are indignant over the decision of the Dominion Government not to give these ill-rewarded public servants the whole of the $360 war bonus asked for by them in their memorial to the Government last month. The civil service employees have tolerated the conditions under which they had to work with remarkable patience and their request for a war bonus had impressed most people who read the memorial as both moderate and reasonable. Indeed the opinion has been frequently expressed that the petitioners would have been justified in asking for a larger bonus.

The average salary received by civil servants, top to bottom, east and west, outside and inside, in 1900, was $925 a year. Since that time the cost of living has increased over 100 per cent. The civil servants would be only asking for justice if they petitioned the government to make their incomes buy as much as their pay did in 1900. But they have not gone as far as that—they have merely asked for a war bonus. In private industries wages have considerably increased, some as much as 65 and 70 per cent. The same rate of increase for the civil servants would not only mean a $400 bonus for this year, but it would be necessary to add an extra $250 for last year.

The average civil service salary, $3.60 per day, is not only forty cents less per day than the amount paid to common labourers, but by far the greatest number of them, 64 per cent., to be exact, receive less than $3.60 because all ranks from the lowest messenger to the highest paid deputy minister, are included in the figures which make up the average.

The government, by order-in-council, has defined living wages to be the amount of money that will enable employees "with thrift, to maintain themselves in decency and comfort and to make reasonable provision for old age." The Government should apply their own definition to the case of the civil servants. Do they think the majority of these have much chance of making provision for old age at their present salaries and with living conditons as they are?

THE COUNTY'S SHARE.

A glance over the Victory Loan report for the first week of the campaign shows that the response to the appeal in the county has not been as spontaneous or as generous as might reasonably have been expected and that unless there is an improvement shown this week a greater share of the desired objective than was anticipated will have to be borne by the people of the city. Surely the residents of the townships will not be satisfied with a showing of that kind. They will want to have their full part in the glory of winning an honour flag for the county and in redeeming the pledge to the gallant lads from city and township who have gone forth to fight for Canada.

The figures for the first week indicate that the majority of the townships are far behind their objectives. For instance, North Monaghan had only invested 6 per cent. of its total up to Saturday night, having raised but $6,100 out of an objective of $100,000. Ennismore, asked to take care of $35,000 of the loan, had only subscribed $4,000, or eight per cent. Smith township is expected to contribute $145,000, but up to Saturday had only reached 21 per cent. of the total. And so the figures run for the county. The returns of course are not complete for the townships, and the figures are quoted merely to emphasize amongst the residents of the rural part of the county the necessity of an increased effort on the part of everyone for the succes of the Loan. The prosperity of the farming interests depends just as certainly as does the prosperity of the cities upon the result of this campaign. If Canada fails to make good the farmer will be among the first to feel the effect of that failure, and in self interest as well as for the higher motive of helping to win the war, every farmer who can possibly invest in the loan should go the limit in buying Louds. Why farmers or anybody else can be content to receive only 3 per cent. interest on their money when they can lend it to Canada for purposes of winning the war and receive 5 1-2 per cent., is beyond comprehension.

It is to be sincerely hoped that the figures on Saturday night will show that the people of the townships have awakened to a realization of their individual responsibility in this nationally important campaign.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Stick it, Canada.

Every Victory Bond spells defeat for the Kaiser.

The calibre of the City Council is to be judged by the fate of the revised building by-law.

The members of the Council evidently do not believe that prevention is better than cure when applied to fires or anything else.

Well, the ratepayers have the remedy in their own hands, and they will soon get a chance to show what they think.

The Canadian General has gone over the top. The celebration to-day was amply justified by the splendid response made to the national appeal.

2,000,000 RUSS PRISONERS

Are in Germany, and Appear to Have Been Forgotten.

COPENHAGEN.—The Copenhagen office of the Moscow Prisoners of War Relief Committee asks the Associated Press to convey to America an appeal in behalf of the more than two million Russian prisoners in Germany and Austria, who appear to have been generally forgotten. At least 200,000 of the prisoners are ill, and death announcements reach the Copenhagen committee daily, literally in bundles.

Similar committees, formerly working in London, Paris, The Hague, and Berne, have been forced to abandon their work owing to difficulties of obtaining food for the prisoners, thus placing everything upon the local committee. The funds of the Copenhagen committee are nearing exhaustion, and the committee cannot send more than 20,000 parcels monthly. The committee declares that unless funds are received even this trifling relief must end.

SCOTLAND WITHOUT WHISKY!

According to a correspondent of the Central News an unprecedented position has arisen in Scotland. All stocks of Scotch whisky have been cleared and no further supply will be released before a certain set date. It is impossible, the correspondent states, to obtain a bottle of Scotch whisky in Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee or Grenock.

Canadian General Electric Went Over the Top This Morning

Was Awarded the Victory Loan Flag for One Hundred Per Cent. Efficiency.

BAND PARADED

Headed by the British Jack and the new Victory Loan flag, the mixed band accompanied by the County Victory Loan officials paraded to the Canadian General Electric works today at noon nd presented the big red-bordered emblem to Mr. E. G. Patterson on behalf of the employees.

While the band played patriotic airs the employees issued from the factory just as the noon whistle blew.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn from the back of an automobile which stood immediately in front of the main office said amidst the cheers of the employees, "Boys, you have gone over the top". After which the flag was presented to the General Superintendent.

"I am proud we have gone over the top," said Mr. Patterson, mounting into the automobile. We'll fly this flag at the top of the flag mast until the end of the Victory Loan Campaign after which I will keep it in my own office. Four hundred and fifty-two men have gone to the front from this factory to fight for their King and Country and many have died for their King and Country. Over fifty per cent of our present staff are serving overseas," he concluded.

THE LADIES

Mr. W. B. Cumming, the District Organizer in his address to men said that not only the city and vicinity would know what the C. G. E. employees had done but the whole of Ontario, the whole of Canada would know.

"And I want to say something in regard to the ladies who have contributed so much. They have done magnificiently."

As the big 100 per cent. efficiency banner was hauled to the top of the flag pole on the main office the band played the National Anthem after which the men dispersed to their homes.

THOSE PRESENT

Included in the party present at the ceremony besides the employees and officials of the C.G.E. Company were, Mr. Cumming, District Organizer, Mr. Vincent Eastwood, County Chairman, Mr. Harry Rush, J.P., Mr. Frank Whitehouse, Mr. Ronald Denne and Mr. Sidney Whateley, Secretary of the Great War Veterans Association.

TOTAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

Up to last night the General Electric required twenty-five additional applications in order to win the coveted Honour Flag, and the workers started out this morning with a vim and determination that was sure to win, and not only got the twenty-five but up to noon to-day had brought in one hundred and two more which now makes the total number of applications 804, or ninety per cent of the employees of the plant. Total subscriptions amount to nearly $76,000. This is a remarkable record and great honour is due the workers and employees, because absentees on account of the epidemic have been from 300 down to 150 per day.

As a token of the work of the ladies in the campaign Mr. Patterson was presented with a bouquet of flowers for Mrs. Patterson on behalf of the organization.

Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

Ah! how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.

Seventeen butchers charged with profiteering in the sale of lamb, appeared before the Federal Food Board. Fifteen of the butchers were found guilty.

ESCAPES DEATH BY KEEPING HIS HEAD

(By United Press.)

London, Oct. 20. (By Mail.)—One of the most remarkable experiences of the war is that of a British stoker petty officer who escaped in a miraculous manner from a submarine which sank in home waters from accidental cause.

Although the petty officer was fighting for his life, he showed a wonderful example of indomitable courage and perseverance, and of refusal to acknowledge defeat. Alone, in almost complete darkness, with the gradually rising water, receiving electric shocks and towards the end suffering from the effects of chlorine gas and a badly crushed hand, yet in spite of continual disappointments he worked on for nearly two hours keeping his head to the last, and at the seventh attempt at opening the hatch, succeeded in escaping.

It was about 10.30 a.m. when the mishap to the submarine occurred, and at once became apparent that she was taking in a great deal of water. The stoker petty officer's first impulse was to close the lower conning tower hatch, but this he could not do, as some men had been ordered up the conning tower, so he went aft to see if all the men were out of the engine room. He meet a man coming forward and ordered him to put on a life belt and to "keep his head" till he had a chance of getting up the conning tower hatch .Having satisfied himself there was no one left aft he made his way to the conning tower hatch with the intention of closing it, but before he reached it the water was pouring in in a mighty volume, and that meant that his chances of closing the hatch were hopeless.

With the weight of water the boat began to dip forward, and his only hope of escaping drowing was to shut himself in the engine room. But before he closed the doors, he shouted again to see if there was anyone who was still alive. Getting no answer he reluctantly closed the doors against the rising water.

At this time the engine room was in complete darkness save for the glimmer of one pilot lamp. The effect of the salt water on the electric batterice was to generate chlorine gas, and the air was becoming overpowering. The water had short circuited the electric current so that practically everything he touched gave him a shock. Moreover the room was oppressively hot.

He tried to think of a means of escape and conceived the idea of opening the hatch and floating to the surface, but on trying to open the hatch he found that the tremendous pressure of the water outside prevented his moving it. He had always accepted the theory that the pressure inside a sunken air-locked vessel could be greater than the pressure outside. So to increase the pressure inside he opened a valve, and admitted more water. When he considered the pressure was sufficient to blow him out, he opened the hatch, but instantly closed to again as he had insufficient pressure. With his shoulder and exerting all his strength, he lifted the hatch, but again, with the weight of the water it slammed to, crushing his fingers. With difficulty he released them, and once more opened the valve and admitted water until the engine room was flooded right up to the coaming of the hatch. The air in this confined space was under tremendous pressure, greater than that of the water outside, so he was able to force the hatch and rise rapidly to the surface where he was picked up by a destroyer.

MERCY REPLACES KULTUR

(By United Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Deutsches Verein, or German Club of New York, is now the Lafayette House, where wounded American soldiers are being nursed and entertained while recuperating. The sombre walls of the sleeping rooms as they were under "German occupation" have given way to cheerful shades of yellow, cream and blue.

A canteen has been installed, and all through the large 6-story building women in white uniforms are engaged in attending to the wants of wounded men.

There are many places in New York where the wounded officer may go to recuperate, but until the conversion of the Deutsches Verein, none has been opened for the wounded man from the ranks. Practically all the work of running the convalescent home is done by volunteers ,although several professional nurses are in attendance.

One Hour Meeting of the Council Record of Year

All Dressed Up and Had No Place to Go After Concluding the November Business at Nine O'Clock—Three of the City Fathers Ill.

The Council made a record of its meetings for November last night with the shortest session of the year. Just one hour was required to clean the slate, and by nine o'clock the members turned themselves out into the cold two hours earlier than usual, somewhat disappointed with the barrenness of the second last regular meeting of the year.

More Trees To Go.

Permission to remove trees from streets was granted as follows:

A. W. Turner, 572 Weller street, two maple trees in front of his property.

C. Eaton, 108 Aylmer street, one Manitoba maple.

A. E. Dixon, Aberdeen avenue, three trees at the rear of the Normal school. Mr. Dixon wrote that their removal had already been sanctioned by the Council on condition that the Normal school authorities gave their approval. The trees are almost in the centre of the streets. Mr. Duncan Walker wrote to the Council assenting to the cutting down two trees, but Ald. Langford said that there were three in the group. The request was referred to the City Engineer with power to act.

CANTEEN FEEDS 10,000 IN ONE DAY

(By United Press.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 18. (By Mail.)—More than 78,000 American soldiers were fed at one American Red Cross canteen along the lines of communication in France last month. On one day of the month 10,000 passing troops were given hot coffee and food to cheer them on their way. This is a record service for American troops.

It was performed by a squad of eight American women and girls. And to make their task more difficult, they served this food at three different points, each almost three miles away from the other.

When the American people showed their loyalty and appreciation of the Red Cross last May by subscribing nearly double the amount of money asked for, it had a wonderful effect upon the members of the organization in France. They interpreted it as meaning that nothing was too good or no efforts too great for the fighting men of America in Europe.

So, from the seaports to the battle-front, the American soldiers are met at intervening stations by Red Cross workers distributing hot drinks, food and tobacco. The troop trains are stopped outside of these Red Cross canteens, and most of them remain until every soldier has been served.

If a train does not pull into the terminus where the canteen is located the Red Cross workers pile their food and hot drinks upon a truck or camionette and hustle it to the place where the train does stop. Where the wait of the train is an hour, the soldiers are served a full meal. Last month 6,000 full meals were served at this particular canteen.

NEVADA WOMAN HAS CHANCE FOR SENATE SEAT

(By United Press.)

RENO, Nev., Nov. 5.—Nevada voters may send a woman to the United States Senate to-day.

Even her opponents conceded Anne Martin a slim chance to win the senatorship.

Miss Martin, who says right out that she is 43 years old, can ride a broncho, throw a lasso, teach history or art, and if necessary, write poetry. She is opposed in the election to-day by Sen. C. B. Henderson, democrat, and Rep. E. E. Roberts, republican. She is running as an independent candidate.

In 1914 Miss Martin led the forces that won woman suffrage for Nevada. She started the campaign in 1910 shortly after returning from England, where she met the Pankhursts and spent a short time in jail for participating in the "Black Friday" demonstrations.

Besides the interesting senatorship fight, Gov. D. Boyle, democrat, is running for re-election against Tasker L. Oddie, republican, former governor.

Immediate Steps to Form a League Among the Allies

Temporary Measure Favoured by Organizations in Great Britain.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.— British organizations formed to promote a league of nations favour immediate steps toward such a league by the nations fighting Germany. This recommendation is set forth in an "agreed statement as to a common policy," adopted at a meeting of the League of Nations Society and the League of Free Nations Association in London on October 10, for the purpose of harmonizing the platforms of the two organizations. The statement received and made public here to-day by the league to enforce peace in this country declares, however that any treaty or treaties formed by the allies during the war should be regarded only as the "provisional framework of a true league of nations."

It was the opinion of all those present that a league of nations, in the full acceptance of the term, cannot be formed until after the war, inasmuch as no league formed now would include nations at present fighting against one another, says the statement.

The most practical method of putting the idea of a league into effect, it continues, "would be for the allies to form at once among themselves some organization for the prevention of future wars between its members, thus submitting themselves to those covenants which they wish ultimately to be accepted by the whole world. Of course such an organization must not only be so framed as to be consistent with the formation of a complete league of nations after the war, but should be definitely so directed as to lead naturally toward that end. Any other course would be inexpedient and even dangerous.

"It is inadvisable to use the term league of nations as describing such an interim organization among the allies, as suggested above, and it is expedient that in urging the allied governments to take action in this sense during the war it should be made clear that any treaty or series of treaties which may be formed under present conditions can only be regarded as setting up the provisional framework of a true 'league of nations'."

MAY EXTEND THE GARBAGE AREA

The extension of the garbage collection area is suggested in the advertisement for tenders for the 1919 work, which the Property Committee was instructed by the Council last night to publish. Tenders will be invited first for the present area, second, the present area plus the district bounded by Barnardo, Wolseley, Benson Streets, and the G. T. R., and third, including Hunter Street from Rogers to Concession Streets.

Children Were Left Behind in Godollo Castle

Emperor Karl Was In a Big Hurry to Get Away.

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 5.—Court circles in Vienna are uneasy over the whereabouts of Emperor Karl's five young children, according to advices here to-day.

They were left behind in Godollo Castle, following the Emperor's flight last week, and there has been no news of them since.

The castle was set afire after Karl fled.

It was reported that the children had been taken toward Vienna in an automobile, and it is feared that revolutionaries, operating on the high roads, kidnapped them.

Road From Ostend to Zeebrugge Was Continuous Fortress

Belgian Army Headquarters in Flanders.—The road from Ostend to Zeebrugge, which the Germans recently held, is one continuous fortress, with many guns silhouetted against the sky. The number of guns increases as the fortified line nears Zeebrugge.

The Germans evidently meant that this line should be a permanent one. One concrete blockhouse, 90 by 30 feet, remains unfinished, and there are other evidences that the Germans started work on new fortifications as late as one month ago.

The town of Blankenberghe, between Zeebrugge and Ostend, is virtually undamaged, but deserted. All the buildings have been stripped of copper and iron.

Ostend is Celebrating.

Ostend, from a distance, looks exactly as on fete days in times of peace. Flags are hanging from every window, and the city is decorated gaily. Signs of ruin and damage, however, become apparent as soon as the city is entered. Ostend has suffered much. The casino is desolate and empty, and the walls have been riddled with shell fire. The maritime station is a complete wreck. Many houses have crumbled to the ground, and most of the bridges in the town have been destroyed.

The fact that not all the bridges were blown up by the Germans is commented upon by military visitors to Ostend. An alderman of the city explained that the German general staff had given orders to destroy all the bridges. However, the German non-commissioned officers detailed for the work of destruction, he added, fell easy victims to a persuasive 100 or 200-mark bill.

LAKEFIELD SOLDIER HAS RETURNED HOME

Gordon Crawford Was One of "Original Firsts"—Lakefield News of Interest.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 5.—L.ce.-Corpl. Gordon Crawford returned to the village on Thursday evening to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crawford. He is one of the "Original Firsts," as he enlisted in August, 1914, with the Strathcona Horse at Lethbridge, Alta., and went overseas with the 1st Canadian Division. He was wounded in the hand during the summer of 1915 and again severely wounded nearly a year ago. His right leg was blown off below the knee by a shell, and his left leg badly injured and his right shoulder broken. On recovering from his injuries Lance-Corpl. Crawford has been invalided home. He was married in England a couple of years ago.

Lockmaster Resigns.

Mr. J. H. McWilliams, the lockmaster at Lock No. 1, has resigned his position, which he has held since the canal at Lakefield was opened. Mr. J. J. McFadden, one of Lakefield's returned soldiers, has been appointed in his place. The new lockmaster assumed his duties on November 1st.

Christmas Shower.

The A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church will hold their Christmas shower in their Sunday School-room on Wednesday, November 6th, from 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon, and 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening. The shower is for their soldier members and also the men from St. John's Church now overseas. As this will probably be the last year of the war, a hearty response is asked for. Donations of money or useful articles will be most acceptable. Let us remember those who fight for us.

Death.

The death took place on Sunday in Smith Township of Mrs. Andrew Miller. Mrs. Miller has been ill with pneumonia for some days, but it was hoped that the crisis was over. Mrs. Miller, formerly Miss Aldred, of Lakefield, has only been married about fourteen months. Her husband, father and sister, Miss Hazel Aldred, survive. Mrs. Miller was of a bright disposition, and had many warm friends.

Marriage.

The many friends of Capt. (Dr.) M. R. Graham, late of Lakefield, now of the C.A.M.C., will be pleased to hear of his marriage in London, on October 4th, to Nursing Sister Florence M. Bloy. Capt. Graham went overseas in the spring of 1916, and was wounded last April.

Church Services.

On Sunday morning the usual church services were held in all the churches.

In the evening there was evensong in St. John's Church.

KING GEORGE IS MARSHAL OF JAPANESE ARMY.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The presentation to King George of the sword and badge of a Field Marshal of the Japanese Army by Prince Yorihito, on behalf of the Emperor of Japan, took place at Buckingham Palace the other day. In acknowledging the honour, King George paid high tribute to the Japanese forces on land and sea. Most of the London papers take occasion, in connection with this ceremony, to comment on the great service rendered by Japan to the cause of the Entente Powers.

Their family settled in the West are Joseph, Mrs. Lancaster, Mrs. Peter Gillespie, and Miss Bella. Allan is in the U. S. A. and Walter resides on the homestead in Asphodel.

G.T.R. to Rebuild Bethune St. Bridge

Expect City to Pay Part of the Cost for General Traffic Roadway.

Plans of a new railway bridge on Bethune street near Brock street, were submitted to the Council by the G.T.R. last night and referred to the Board of Works.

"I understand that the company intends to build a new bridge and to raise it above Brock street," Mayor Duncan remarked. "The Board of Works should look into this question very carefully."

The letter was a copy of an application to the Dominion Railway Board from W. C. Chisholm, K.C., general solicitor for the G.T.R., accompanying the plans which were presented to the Board for their approval. It stated that the company proposed to reconstruct the bridge over the creek, and intimated that, if provision is to be made for general traffic, the city should pay a portion of the cost of the work. Mr. Chisholm wrote that no agreement with the city could be found that obligated the company to maintain more than the road required for its line.

KIDNEY DISEASE OVERCOME.

Mr. James Pronse, cattle dealer, Sheho, Sask., writes: "For about ten years I suffered from kidney disease; at times was bad with backache, and derangements of the digestive organs. During that time I was treated by four different doctors. One day I read in Dr. Chase's Almanac about the Kidney-Liver Pills and began to use them. Altogether I used six boxes. All I need say is that I feel well now and attribute this condition to the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

WHERE ARE THE CARS FOR BOYS' CHRISTMAS

(By United Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 6.—(By Mail).—The post-office department of the expeditionary force has started to worry already about the Christmas parcel question. It has figured that if every man in the American army is allowed a 5 lb package for Christmas, it will require 700 cars per day working 10 days to transport the packages from the ports to the consumers. And they don't know whether the cars are going to be available. But the postmaster in chief has promised if the transportation is available every soldier will be allowed a Christmas parcel.

The Only Way!

IF we fail to keep our switchboards, our pole lines, our complete system at the highest point of efficiency—

If we are unable through lack of funds, to build new lines and install new equipment to meet the legitimate needs of the community, then not only the country's war efforts while the conflict lasts, but its work of reconstruction when the fight is over, must suffer.

Unless we can charge such rates for service as will earn a fair return on the money our shareholders have entrusted to us, then further capital for needed extensions will be difficult, if not impossible, to secure.

These are simple, basic facts that apply to all utilities, but with special force to telephone service.

For the past four years our earnings have averaged only 5.6 per cent. on our investment.

Is there any other means of meeting increased costs than to ask for authority to charge fair rates for our service? We believe there is no other.

Public is Warned against using Dangerous Hair Preparations

Recent research on the part of hair specialists reveals the fact that many disagreeable and obstinate scalp diseases are caused and rendered incurable by the indiscriminate use of shampoo preparations.

Chemical analysis proves that most liquid preparations for shampooing contain an excess of alkali (a harmful irritant) which eats its way into the pores of the scalp, rots the roots of the hair, thus causing it to fall out.

The surest, safest and easiest way is to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Velnor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of pure non-injurious liquid that will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff, also improve the natural color of the hair. Velnor being in concentrated form never spoils and will keep forever.

Mr. John McMurray's Letter Regarding His "E" Category Son

Three Constables Found Coats With Cartridges in the Pockets.

In connection with the item in yesterday's Examiner referring to Mr. John McMurray and the Military Police the following is a copy of the communication to the Examiner from Mr. McMurray.

Lakefield, P.O., R. 4,
October 29, 1918.

Dear Sir,—I wish to contradict a statement in Saturday's Examiner. It read that I told the Military Police I had one son in the war, and it should have been that I told them I had three sons in the war, all enlisted and so I have told them I had two at home one 14 and the other, the one they tried to say was a defaulter. When my other boys were going I raised no objection but now I do and will object to have my son, Thomas McMurray called a defaulter or treated as one whether his papers are incorrect or not, as I am 65 years of age I own 400 acres of land, I have already threshed two days and have one and one half (1 1-2) days threshing yet to do, so I think my son can do more good on the farm producing than any place else. Had I considered my son a defaulter I would hardly send him down in a 20-foot well that was only a few feet from two roads, one the main road and the other a private road going through my farm and used by myself and as many of the public as wished, for a short cut to the village of Warsaw. The whole neighbourhood for a mile square can tell that he attended all the threshings, went to church also to the city and nearby village to transact business for me when necessary. As a tip to the Military Police more than the defaulters evade them as some boys who forget their registration cards and their birth certificates make themselves scarce to avoid a fine. Trusting that my name may get the same publicity it did in Saturday's paper, I am

Sincerely yours,
JOHN McMURRAY.

In connection with the above Inspector Ward states that the facts of the case are as follows:

He detailed three constables to interview Mr. John McMurray to obtain information regarding Daniel McMurray and B. G. McMurray. Mr. J. McMurray made misleading statements to the police. One was that there was only one lad on the farm, 15 years old. Then Mr. John McMurray later admitted that this statement was incorrect and that Thomas McMurray had been living with him and working for him for six months. At this time two men took to the fields from John McMurray's house after being beckoned to by a young girl about 12 years of age.

Two overall coats were found at the well where the men had been working containing live cartridges. As the duties of Inspector Ward and his men are to arrest any suspect under the Military Service Act, his action in holding Mr. John McMurray for investigation was well warranted as Mr. John McMurray admits in his evidence of making misleading statements.

Inspector Ward and his men strongly resent any imputation rgarding high-handed methods hinted at by Mr. McMurray as every consideration has been given and will be given to any man who can show any just cause why he should not be in the army.

Says Mr. Snowden's Fence Encroaches

Ald. Edgar informed the Council last night that he understood that Mr. Wm. Snowden's fence encroaching on Dalhousie Street, at the corner of Reid Street, had not yet been removed to the line of his property.

"Mr. Snowden had a war garden, and the fence was not moved in the summer for that reason. But his crop is all in now."

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Jones, that the City Solicitor take action to remove the fence off the street.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp, and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all that you need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Requests Council to Make Grant to S. A. Huts Fund

An appeal to the Council for a contribution to the Salvation Army Huts' Fund was received last night from Mr. J. A. Aylmer, chairman of the local committee. The campaign will be held during the next six weeks. Mr. Aylmer requested that in next year's estimates an amount be included for this fund, since the Council has no money available from this year's treasury. The work of the Salvation Army was set forth in the communication, which stated that the Army's record was the best guarantee that the money secured for this fund would be put to the very best use.

NO CHANCE FOR THE GERMS.

Disease germs cannot live in rich, red blood. It is people in low vitality that fall victims to germ diseases. By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you enrich the blood, increase vitality and prevent disease germs from finding lodgment in your body. There's wisdom in prevention. It's easier to keep well than to get well.

PETERBORO SOLDIER OVERSSEA WRITES INTERESTING LETTER

Writer Speaks of the Church Services Held for the Boys at the Front.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Griffin, 140 Lake street, received the following letter from their son, Wilbert, who is in the 21st Canadian Battalion. He speaks of the attentiveness and earnestness which marks the soldiers when listening to a sermon by the chaplain.

Somewhere in France, Oct. 6.

Dear Mother and Father,—Just a few lines to let you know that I am well and safe and I hope this finds you both enjoying good health, as it means a lot towards the brightening of my life over here to know that you are all well at home.

We had a short church service here to-day. It wasn't very long, but it meant a lot to the boys over here. I used to think the people in the churches at home were very attentive and quiet during the sermon, but believe me it has nothing on us fellows; you could have heard a pin drop as the old saying is and that is saying a lot amongst a bunch of soldiers. It certainly makes a fellow feel good to get mail. I hope I get one of those boxes soon because I've got a longing for something more than bully beef and horse meat and dog biscuits. I am well and looking on the bright side of things and leaving everything in God's hands and hope and pray that He will spare me to return to you safely and soon. I will close. From your loving son,

WILBERT.

Ottawa Cancels Call to Draftees

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 4.—On instructions from military headquarters, Ottawa, which specifically ascribed the action to medical reasons, the deputy registrar to-day mailed to hundreds of draftees cancellations of their calls to report.

The list includes nearly 2,500 men who have been absent on farm leave. Recently they were granted an extension of leave from November 1 to November 15 on the ground that this would assist in combatting Spanish influenza. A report spread in military circles that the cancellations of calls were associated with an impending conclusion of the war.

The War Deparment will establish permanent air service school for mechanics at Midway, Ind. to cost $800,000.

THE RED CROSS WANTS $3,000 TO MAKE OBJECTIVE

If Everyone Who Contributed Last Year Will Send in Their Cards This is Possible.

The Red Cross Campaign must be closed on Saturday next and $3000.00 is wanted to reach the objecive set by this committee. In order that the books may be entered up and the collection cards made out it is hoped that all outstanding cards will be collected or sent in not later than Saturday next.

If the war stopped to-morrow every dollar would be required to give the necessary care and attention to Canadian wounded, disabled and sick soldiers who will continue to be sick and injured, whether peace is declared or not, for just the length of time to get the proper attention.

Please send in your card if it has not been called for and make your subscription help the Committee to reach their objective by Saturday sure.

Windsor Firemen Are Given Increased Pay

WINDSOR, Nov. 4.—Meeting all demands of the city firemen, Windsor City Council at a special session today granted a salary increase of $10 a month to every member of the department, in addition to free uniforms, including rubber coats and boots. The increase will date from October 1, and will remain in effect until next year's estimates are prepared. The Firemen had threatened to resign in a body at midnight tonight if their demands were not met.

Governor Edge of New Jersey, who was inoculated with the anti-influenza serum, said he felt no ill effects from the treatment.

CREW LEFT TO THEIR FATE

Vessel Was Destroyed by a Submarine.

Canadian Press:

TURKS ISLAND, B.W.I., via Halifax, Nov. 5.—Reporting the capture of their ship by a German submarine on October 13, the captain and seven men of the Norwegian barque Stifinder New York to Fremantle, arrived here last night in a pitiable condition following their twenty-one days' exposure in an open boat with little or no food. The second boat, containing the remaining eleven members of the crew, became separated from the captain's boat a few days away from the ship, and nothing is known of their fate. They were abandoned to their fate by the submarine.

Others Arrived Safely.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The arrival of the captain and seven men of the Norwegian bark Stifinder at Turks Island accounts for the entire crew of the vessel. The others reached New York last week.

Threshing Outfit Idle While "Gang" Recovers From Flu

A threshing outfit that has been idle for nearly two weeks on a farm in Smith township, losing thirty-five dollars for every day of its inaction, is an illustration of how the epidemic of influenza has spread in the country surrounding Peterborough. The threshers were working on that particular farm, and the next day the roll call of the "gang" had proportionately as many absentees as any of the city's manufacturing plants when the disease was at the height of its rampage. It is stated that nearly every one of the threshers became ill with influenza. It spread to the members of their families and one man has since lost a daughter. Every member of one household was sick and the neighbours had to come to their assistance, doing all the chores in addition to their own work for which, in many cases, they were short handed.

The story from Smith applies to most of the townships throughout the county. In Monaghan, Reeve McIntosh's two sons have both been very sick and seven of eight members of the Whittington family on the old Hunter farm were reported ill at one time.

If there were any doubt that infection spreads where persons gather together under what would seem to be the most favourable conditions, the open air of the country, these reports should rout the sceptics. The spread of influenza in Monaghan is attributed to threshing "bees."

WEDDING BELLS

MARY DALTON.

Mary Dalton, the eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. James Dalton, Monroe Avenue, died this morning after a short illness.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

McINTYRE—WALKER.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Walker, Wingham, on Saturday, October 12th, at high noon, when their daughter, Reta, became the bride of Mr. C. C. McIntyre, of The Bank of Nova Scotia, Toronto, and only son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McIntyre, of Gilmour Street, Peterborough.

The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father, and looked very pretty in a navy blue suit with hat to match, and a taupe lynx cape, the gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. Rev. E. F. Armstrong performed the ceremony, and Mrs. A. J. Walker, sister-in-law of the bride, played the wedding march, "The Bride's Promenade." During the signing of the register, Miss Madelene Walker, sister of the bride, sang "Love's Coronation."

After a dainty luncheon Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre left on the afternoon train for Montreal and points east, and on their return will reside in their home in Ridley Gardens, Toronto.

P. Black's Four Days Sale

Bargain lovers are in luck this week. Among the saving opportunities offered by merchants, is the four days' sale at P. Black's store, corner of King and George street. The slacking of business for the past two weeks has caused Mr. Black to put on a reduction sale to make up for lost time. Money is wanted to make up for the shortage of the dull weeks, and to start some extra business, for four days he has arranged to offer buyers some tempting values. Read his advertisement in another column.

MAKE GLORIOUS THE HOME COMING

The glorious home coming! It will all depend on what Canadians do to make it such. The Victory Loan is to be placed before the people on October 28th and the way in which it is subscribed to at the critical time will foreshadow the character of the home coming. The gallant Canadian army will cheer loudly and proudly when the news reaches it that the Loan is over-subscribed. It will mean that Canada is devotedly pledged to see the war to a triumphant finish—a finish that will result in a permanent peace, a peace that the blood of our sons has cemented for all time. Will we do it? We can and must. Canada has the money and it can subscribe the $500,000,000 without that sacrifice that France has shown in her loans. If Canada wills to do it—and we believe in her willingness—she can make the Loan a triumphant success, just as great as our Canadin boys have demonstrated at a hundred different points on the battlefields. Canadians, buy all the Bonds you can!

BRIDGE APPROACHES WILL BE SHORTENED TO AVOID DAMAGES

The east end of the Hunter street bridge will rest at the centre of Burnham street, and the west end will begin between Queen and Sheridan streets, nearer Sheridan street at the line of the Heffernan lot. This detail was practically decided this morning by the special Bridge Committee of the Council in consultation with the engineer, Mr. Frank Barber, of Toronto.

Mr. Barber's first draft plans proposed a longer reach at both ends in order that a 2½ per cent. grade in each direction could be overcome. Thus the tips of the bridge would fit into Hunter street at the highest points on each side of the river, thereby avoiding graded approaches.

The Committee realized the advantage, but expressed the opinion that it was not sufficient to invite the extra cost of both construction and damages. On the east side for instance the approach would extend beyond Mr. D. Conroy's house, generally spoil the scenery and increase the expected bill of damages. On the west side, the Engineer's plan would carry the bridge to Queen street. The committee concluded that the wiser course was to forego the elimination of grades at each approach and thereby cut down the claims of propertyholders. It was stated that the 2½ per cent. grade is illustrated by the rise in George street between Hunter and Brock streets. This afternoon, Mayor Duncan stated that at the present progress everything would be ready for the advertising for tenders in about two weeks.

REVENTLOW ADVISES SUBMISSION TO ALLIES.

COPENHAGEN, November 5. — Complete submission to the allies was advised by Count Reventlow, the naval writer in The Berlin Deutsche Tages Zeitung. The article was very mild for the usual bellicose Reventlow. The German newspapers for many weeks have not been so bare of comment on the military and political situation as they are at present. Apparently the German press is awaiting the result of the Versailles conference.

SURRENDER!

By Charles B. Driscoll
(Writer for the United Press.)

Down on your marrowbones, Terrible Hun!
Stick up your hands or your story is done!
Bloody they are, but you'll stick them up high,
Or you'll die the death other foul murderers die!

Terms? You have written them bloodily well;
(Same terms that the damned are accepting in hell).
You and the world can behold at a glance
The terms you have written in Belgium and France.

Honour? You hypocrite! Justice? You swine!
When did such words penetrate to the Rhine?
Betouler of honour, be silent and wait;
The judges are sitting. You'll soon know your fate.

SOLDIERS OF ITALY TO LEARN TO SPELL

By Henry Wood.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Oct. 5.—(By Mail.)—Italy is taking advantage of the fact that she has all of her young sons mobilized and under her immediate control to lessen the percentage of illiteracy in Italy.

Previous to the war the large percentage of Italians who could not read and write was not so much due to the fact that Italy did not have sufficient educational facilities as to constitutional objections on a certain part of her population to being educated. This was especially the case with districts in the extreme southern portion of Italy.

With all of these people under arms and under military discipline now, Italy hopes before demobilization can take place to have them all at least capable of reading and writing.

One of the last steps to this end has been an order by the Italian government for 1,000,000 copy books and 100,000 spelling books. These will be placed in all of the recreation rooms that have been set aside for the use of the soldiers both at the front and in repose locations. Other assistance and inducements will also be offered to the soldiers to see that the copy books and spellers are utilized to the fullest extent.

HELP! HELP!

Physicians agree that influenza itself is not so dangerous as the aftermath. For inastnce, here is one of the horrors that has followed the present epidemic. "Did you hear about Mrs. Z? She opened the door, the other day, and in-flu-Enza." Anyone who has this chestnut perpetrated on him, should remember that there is such a thing as justifiable homicide.

HUN PRISONERS EXPECT DISASTER

(By Frank J. Taylor—United Press Staff Correspondent).

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 19 (By Mail).—German and Hungarian soldiers captured when the Americans swept out the St. Mihiel salient refuse to mix in the prison pens behind the lines. The apathy seems to be mutual, and evidently the peoples of the Central Powers are too closely allied in spirit.

Officers in charge of prisoners were interested in the way Germans and Hungarians avoided each other, particularly the officers. The question could not be one of languages, since most of the Hungarians spoke German to the American interpreters quite freely, though they avoided using it among themselves or with Germans.

The Hungarians were a friendly and rather likeable group of men, particularly the officers. Mentally, they were equal to German officers and some were more intelligent. The average mentality of men in the Hungarian divisions were much higher than that of the Germans.

Hungarian morale is exceedingly low, judging from these men. Their first remark when you asked them how things went was, "Oh, the war's finished for us. We have nothing to worry about." They backed up their words with real grins of satisfaction at being out of the fight, and their spirits are as high now as their morale was low when they were taken.

The Hungarians are bright-looking chaps, for the most part, with good faces, but with bodies that are shrunk from hunger and privation. They act like boys, now that responsibility has been taken from them, and joke and sing as they are brought back. They are glad to talk about anything, except war, about which they joke.

The principal interest of the Hungarians in the "pens" now is whether or not they will be sent to America until the war is over. All want to go to America, most of them to stay. They are never vindictive, and take the war as a gambling proposition, which they are about to lose. Harbouring no hate themselves, these Hungarians assume they will be welcome, and can find friends anywhere but in Germany.

German officers still maintain their arrogant bearing, though when they are frank enough to speak honestly their remarks show they are weakening in their confidence. However, they still seem militaristic. You fail to find a note of sympathy in talking to them. Their overbearing attitude prevents any understanding.

The German soldier is a different proposition entirely now. He has given up that belief instilled in him by officers that Germany is supreme. His hatred of the military class in Germany is marked, and he frankly expresses his opinion now. The German soldier is exceptionally serious in his conversation.

You are surprised at the understanding he has of the war and of history. He has studied history and can back up his views with it. "We have looked to the people at home to bring about a revolution and they have looked to us at the front," he tells you. "Neither of us can do anything now."

The biggest delusion the soldier carries with him, apparently, is as to the purpose of the Allies in the war. Either he has not been allowed to read Allied statements or else he does not accept them, for the German soldier thinks he is fighting a defensive war to prevent the dividing up of Germany among other nations.

Most Germans think they are going to lose the war, but that they must resist as long as possible. They say they must accept their present leaders, because there are none among the people. Their attitude, coupled with that of their officers, shows that only defeat can influence them. Comparison of the German captured today with those taken a year ago show that war is softening morale.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION
Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat.
Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.
Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acids and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Brussels May be Scene of Peace Conference

Belgian Capital Favoured in London —Lord Hardinge to Head British Staff.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—While confidence in immediate peace would still be premature, certain preparations in view of the possible imminence of the conference are necessarily being made just as, on the other hand, having regard to the eventuality of Germany rejecting the armistice terms of the Versailles conference, war activities are maintained at the highest pitch.

The selection of British plenipotentiaries to the peace conference is not yet among the orders of the day, but the organization of the official staff is proceeding apace. Time in this respect must be taken by the forelock, for the choice of expert advisers to the plenipotentiaries who will have to deal with such a vast variety of thorny problems as will come up for solution at the conference table is a matter of no little difficulty.

No decision has yet been taken as to the personnel, but it is considered most likely that at the head of the official staff which will accompany the British plenipotentiaries will be Lord Hardinge of Penshurst, formerly Viceroy of India and now Permanent Secretary of the Foreign Office. The selection of the place of the conference is a matter still to be negotiated. Reports which have been set about in some quarters that Washington or any other American city will be selected hardly deserve mention, nor is it very likely that any of the neutral countries which are thirsting for the distinction will have it thrust upon them.

Versailles has been suggested, and there would be poetic justice in choosing the Hall of Mirrors, which saw the proclamation of the German Empire of blood and iron, for the signature of the peace treaty ridding the world of that military menace. Other considerations, however, will probably prevail, and it is believed that Brussels will be the seat of the conference. The claims which are advanced in support of the Belgian capital are too obvious to need recapitulation, and not the least among them is the fact that little Belgium would enlist many suffrages which might be divided were the greater powers in question.

Brian Spends $7 For Theatre Tickets Ruth is Distressed.

CHAPTER XXXI

Seven dollars for two seats to a show! It seemed dreadful, when they had so little to spend for luxuries, Ruth could understand economy when applied to other things than food and clothes. Those two items were the ones which, at her aunt's, never had been restricted. But amusements were few and far between. An occasional play at the old theater, and later a movie which cost twenty-five cents, were about the limit of amusement possibilities in the town. The young people danced at each other's homes in good old southern style, the boys playing the banjos or other instruments, save when the niggars took that part in the entertainment so that the boys might dance. Of course everyone rode horseback and played tennis, but as for spending seven dollars for tickets when he needed other things—why, Ruth's thoughts halted. It was Brian's own money, what right had she to criticize him for spending it as he chose? She would expect to spend her's as she wished.

So it was with a bright face that she asked:

"Are they good seats, dear?"

"They ought to be. They cost enough," Brian growled, yet he smiled triumphantly at Ruth when they were ushered to two of the choicest seats in the house.

"You can get anything you want, if you pay for it," he whispered as they sat down.

"Yes it is nice to have plenty of money," Ruth replied, hiding her smile. "We shall be able to go to the play often, this winter and perhaps to the opera.

The raising of the curtain stopped the remark Brian started to make, but did not prevent the scowl from appearing on his face at Ruth's implication.

Ruth gave herself up to the enjoyment of the evening. Brian, too, seemed to be having a good time, if one could judge from frequency and spontaniety of his laughter. Afterward they went directly home. Nothing more was said of Ruth's trip with her employer, and Brian was soon fast asleep. But Ruth could not so easily lay aside her anxiety. Some way she felt afraid. Had you asked her of what, she would have had no answer ready. Brian's unreasonableness, as she called it had affected her greatly; then, his causeless jealousy had shown her a side of his nature she had only dimly suspected. If he were going to develop into a jealous husband, she would have anything but a happy time.

She recalled when La Monte had told her of the times when Miss Candee was sent away without notice to be gone several days; of long trips taken in the interests of the business; of proctracted remaining in the places where large orders had been taken, so making it imperative some one be on the spot while they were being carried out.

What would Brian say when he learned all these things? When he understood that part of her job was to go wherever she was sent, either alone or with one of the firm? She smiled to herself as she thought of the entirely detached way Mr. Mandel had treated her; just as if she were a man on a business errand with him. Then her lips curled ever so slightly as she thought that Brian held her so lightly as to think she would have consented to go with anyone safe on a strictly business errand. But her scorn did not last. She loved her husband too dearly.

"He's a great, big goose," she muttered lovingly, then went to sleep.

Ruth had come back from her business jaunt with Arthur Mandel in a most pleasant glow of feeling for her employer. Now she had an unpleasant remembrance of Brian's remarks, of his jealously and insensibility, it tinged her manner with Mandel.

Then, too, Ruth could not help but see the worn, sometimes disheartened look in Brian's face, and her own good fortune made her heart ache for him. In spite of his extravagance with the theatre tickets he had brought home less than usual, the last month. And although she had said nothing about it, she was sure he felt hurt and almost embarrassed when with her, because of it.

"I want to make a name for myself in the profession," she had confided, one evening when her work had gone particularly well, and she had been praised by Mr. Mandel.

"So that I can be known as Mrs. Hackett's husband.' I suppose," Brian had replied with bitterness, causing Ruth to bite her lip with annoyance that she had spoken, and to resolve more earnestly than ever to keep everything connected with her work to herself.

"Yet it doesn't seem right not to be able to talk things over with one's own husband," she said as she lingered in the kitchen a moment after Mrs. Crawford had gone for the night. "I do wish he felt differently."

But Ruth and Brian were not unhappy, nor were they at cross purposes all the time, they had many happy days into which there crept no mention of business, and in which they happily went out together or had some of their friends in to play bridge with them.

"Your husband does not approve of your working. Why?" Mr. Mandel had asked, anent something she had said.

"I think he has conscientious scruples or something," she replied, embarrassed, "He like most men, thinks women should stay at home," she wanted to add, "and wash dishes."

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth); then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for five times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

DRAFTEES IN ENGLAND.

Have Taken Stand of Equality With the Volunteers.

Drafts from Canada are agreeably surprised at the reception accorded them in the various camps in England in which they are fitted for service in France. Their fears of discrimination and harsh treatment are quickly removed and they are received and placed on the same footing as those who volunteered for service. Those whose duty it is to train the drafts are enthusiastic about the new soldiers. Their physique is excellent, fewer having to be eliminated than under the volunteer system, while the discipline and enthusiasm of the new soldiers is equal to that of their predecessors. The new drafts are more than making good; they are being fitted for actual service in record time, and will uphold the reputation of those who have made Canada famous in the conflict in Flanders. The term "conscript" is tabooed in England, and its use would bring a severe reprimand to the guilty party.

When the new drafts land in England they are at once rushed to the segregation camp. Generally arriving after midnight, the recruits find a warm meal awaiting them and every arrangement for their comfort. They spend 28 days in the segregation camp, this time having been increased recently from 10 days, but here the preliminary training is done while awaiting the development of any infectious disease. The first day is muster parade and instruction, the following day medical and dental inspection, on the third day ordnance inspection, the fourth is partially devoted to instruction in web equipment, and then comes the real training in physical exercise, bayonet fighting, bombing and musketry, the essentials of a good infantry soldier in modern warfare. Short leave is now given on completion of training instead of on arrival there.

The segregation camp is a model of neatness and discipline. There the men are handled kindly but firmly and by officers whose service in the war demand respect. To make a soldier in ten weeks allows for little delay, but even in this brief time the men are permitted and encouraged to pursue athletics and other entertainment is provided, for entertainment and sport are absolutely necessary during the training period, and food is plentiful and nourishing. Take the menu for one day, and this is typical of the meals in quantity, but there is also a variety in the food equal to that found at home in any hotel. For breakfast was given rolled oats, sausage and mashed potatoes, bread, butter and coffee; dinner, roast mutton and onion sauce, beetroot, potatoes, marmalade pudding and bread; supper, fresh herring, currant cake, bread, butter and tea; late supper at 8.30, rice biscuits and cocoa; four meals of nutritious food, plentiful and well cooked. The meat rations include hamburg steak, boiled beef, pork and beans, sausage, roast mutton, Irish stew, shepherds' pie, steak and kidney pie, bacon, rissoles, roast beef, stewed rabbit and brawn, and fish rations, fresh herrings, fried cod and salmon.

After four weeks in the segregation camp, they are moved to Bramshott or Whitley and enter the reserve battalions, where the essential instruction continues. Here they are taught discipline, enough battalion drill for the warfare in which we are engaged, but particular stress is laid upon bayonet and bombing instruction and the use of the gas mask. While in camp at either Bramshott or Whitley they are detailed for a week's musketry instruction at the famous Canadian Musketry School at Witeham, the most interesting feature of the present system of training. At Witeham the instruction is based on requirements in the field gleaned by experienced officers. Here the men take the greatest interest in the work. I saw one hundred men jump into the trenches, fix their gas masks, fire ten rounds at two hundred yards at individual targets less in size than an ordinary man, all within sixty seconds, and over 70 per cent. clean hits were scored. And this was done by men whose first military education was on the boat coming from Canada. After ten weeks 90 per cent. are ready for France, are absorbed in the reserve battalions and soon in the front line.

Officers in the training camps prefer the drafts without any preliminary drill in Canada. They find that better results are obtained by having the instruction of men from the beginning. Training soldiers is now a science; the men in charge of the Canadian drafts have made an exhaustive study of it, and are achieving astounding results. Study of their men and previous experiences have fitted them for the work to a marked degree. Only essentials are taught; thing does not permit of ceremonial or other drills. Discipline is acquired during instruction in bombing, bayonet work and musketry. Let there be no question of the success of the draftees as soldiers. They have won the respect and confidence of the veterans of the Canadian army.

The Man That Diogenes Wanted.

Albert Edward Kay, of Montreal, recently lost his pocketbook containing his two registration cards, $672.02 in money, war bonds and other papers. They were picked up by Fred Woods, of Campbellford, who promptly located the owner and returned them. Meanwhile, however, Kay had been charged with failure to show his registration card and fined $14.85 on its non-production.

A Martyr to Mother Love.

During the late fire at the St. Thomas' Pure Milk Co.'s plant the office pet, a small black cat with kittens, eluded all attempts to prevent her and fought her way into the flames, which were raging where she had left her little family. She never came back.

Corpuscles In Normal Blood.

Normally there are approximately 5,000,000 red blood corpuscles in the cubic millimeter. The number is temporarily diminished during fatigue and after the ingestion of much fluid. Fasting and profuse sweating increase the number of red blood cells by concentrating the blood. In high altitudes the number is also increased. There are 5,000 to 10,000 white cells in the cubic millimeter, the ratio of white to red cells being about 1 to 500. In health the blood amounts to about one-thirteenth of the body weight.

Two Speeds In Same Wheel.

The top of a carriage wheel in passing along the road moves more quickly through the atmosphere than the bottom. This sounds absolutely foolish, but it is absolutely sound. It is due to the movable axis, or axle. The top of the wheel has forward motion plus forward revolution. The bottom of the wheel has the same forward motion minus backward revolution. — London Saturday Review.

RECEIVING WAR CROSS

The patriotic spirit and devotion with which Canadian women have so far performed war-service work and made sacrifices has never been equalled in the history of any country. Mothers, wives and sisters support this burden with strength and fortitude. But those who are already miserable from the complaints and weaknesses which are so common to women, should take the right temperance tonic for the womanly system.

If a woman is borne down by pain and sufferings, by nervousness or dizzy spells, by headache or backache, "Favorite Prescription" should be taken. It can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid at most drug stores. Send to Dr. Pierce's Branch at Bridgeburg, Ont., for a 10c trial pkg. of tablets.

For fifty years Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have been most satisfactory in liver and bowel troubles.

Windsor, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription made a new woman of me. For about six years I suffered with woman's trouble during which time I became all run-down, weak and nervous. I would have severe backaches and pains in my side. I doctored with the doctor but did not get cured of my ailment and was so bad that I could scarcely walk across the floor when I began taking the 'Prescription.' When I had taken two bottles I was much improved and four bottles completely cured me, and I have enjoyed better health than I ever did before taking this medicine. It is truly a wonderful medicine for women."—Mrs. Martha Mulvaney, 4 Albert St.

Preferred to Metal Pulleys

We guarantee immediate shipment of all orders for Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys from four inches up to six feet in diameter.

There is no telling how long you may have to wait for metal pulleys. The United States Government won't allow steel to be released for their manufacture except for war orders.

Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys cost less to buy than metal pulleys, yet provide fifty per cent. greater returns in horsepower value, because their surface provides greater adhesion, consequently there is less belt slip; and because, being lighter and better balanced, there is less weight friction.

WOMEN AS WAR WORKERS.

In England They Engage in the Various Phases of Tank Building.

British women are now making tanks for the army, according to reports reaching the Department of Labour. In one factory every operation in the process of construction is carried on by women, and in many others they are employed on various parts.

In England, the same reports assert, women are employed in many varieties of shipyard work and in blast furnaces, brick yards, and spelter works. A foreman in charge of a blast furnace is quoted as saying that he would be willing to undertake any form of ferro-concrete work with only women as his assistants.

In this country women are not far behind their British sisters, for the Department of Labour reports that seventy-three women, twenty of whom are engaged, in the important work of inspection, are employed with the I.-486 men comprising the force at the new Symington-Anderson gun shop at Rochester, N. Y. This factory is turning out completed American and French 75-millimeter guns and six-inch trench mortars, and has been in operation since early spring. It is one of the sixteen plants constructed by the Ordnance Department for the manufacture of mobile artillery cannon.

Every dollar makes them Holler.

Gun and shell lathes costing $10,000,000 were ordered by the government for the Neville Island ordnance plant, near Pittsburgh.

Queen of Hearts

By MIRABEL DEVEREAUX

"How lovely!" murmured Madge Burrell, in real rapture.

"It is more than a beautiful scene," uttered Merton Bland, at her side, and he would have liked to have told her how more than lovely was she herself.

He had determined to tell her more than that before the evening was over and was awaiting the opportunity. Now they were in the midst of a chatting group. He and his companion were promenading in the beautiful garden of a palatial summer home.

Bland had never met Miss Burrell until a week previous. She and her mother were guests at the pretty resort hotel on the lake, like himself. He learned that they lived in the city where he did. Her family was in comfortable circumstances and socially well connected. She had attracted him from the first and on the present occasion circumstances had favored him. It was "a heart party" given by a widow and her daughters who occupied a sumptuous home, and who had invited nearly all the hotel guests to the function.

The rooms in the house were strung with paper hearts, each guest wore one as an occasion badge. A cluster of electric lights formed a heart-shaped symbol over the porch. The ball room entered into the same scheme of decoration, and confections and viands harmonized to carry out the general heart effect.

There were heart features as to attire and some pretty conceits in heart coiffures, blazing with diamonds, scarfs in heart shapes, roses in heart patterns.

Madge and Merton had been distinguished and the latter made fair augury from the circumstance. At the start of the festivities a king and queen of hearts were selected by lot. Madge drew the lucky number and became "Queen of Hearts." A great wave of glowing delight swept the spirit of Merton as he was awarded the prize of the kingly crown. The emotion was vividly enhanced as he caught a shy, pleased expression in Madge's lovely eyes. The light crowns they were required to wear were of tawdry tinsel, but the honor and pride of the preference won became an element of harmony and pleasure.

They led the first dance by imperial privilege. They alone occupied thrones at the supper table. Madge was summoned by a group of chatting girl friends, and Merton sank to a shrubbery shaded rustic bench to dream blissfully of his love until she returned.

Suddenly he roused up. Just beyond him out of view but not of hearing, was a group of people. Twice Merton caught the name "Miss Burrell," and then fragments of chatter: "Good family," "She has artistic and literary tastes." Then the music of the orchestra drowned out the conversation. Then again "Miss Burrell," and then later, "Engaged to marry the rich banker's son, Charles Truman."

Merton Bland came to his feet with a shock. He grew sick at heart. Earth and all its joys seemed fading away from him. He had mistaken natural kind heartedness in Miss Burrell for an interest in him, and now he saw his folly, he realized the hopelessness of his case. He staggered away from the spot. Then he tried to rally his normal senses and a dainty hand rested on his arm—Madge's.

"Oh, Mr. Bland! I have heard a wonderfully pleasing piece of news and I feel so honored, so glad. I know an author, a real one, too."

"Indeed?" he spoke and was glad as she guided their progress to a seat.

"Yes, oh, you have been so modest! Here I learn that you are the writer of one of my favorite books, 'Nature's Paradise.' Please, please, tell me how you think up all those beautiful descriptions of flowers, and butterflies, and the birds."

He replied to her with vague commonplace words, seeking to evade the subject. She noticed how changed was his manner, how pale he was.

"You are ill," she questioned, quickly and solicitously.

"No, Miss Burrell," he replied, "I am feeling regretful that my kindly assumption must so soon end, an occasion where you have striven to be kind and friendly. I hope amid it all I have not presumed upon that consideration. I am going back to the city tomorrow. Before I go I wish to congratulate you." Oh—how hard it was to speak the words! "Upon your approaching marriage with Mr. Charles Truman. I know him slightly. He is a most estimable gentleman."

"Oh, dear! have you too heard that foolish story? It is my cousin, Miss Rhea Burrell, who is engaged to Mr. Truman. I am more fortunate than she."

"Fortunate?"

"I call it so. Confidentially, Rhea has married for money and position."

Could anything be plainer—her admiration of his literary gifts, her preference for sterling worth rather than fortune. Merton had removed his crown. He was fingering it nervously as he said, "I must speak further, Miss Burrell. I love you. Have I offended you? Then I may never wear my crown beside the Queen of Hearts again."

He read in her eyes his answer, and she spoke it in words.

"Resume your crown, oh, my king!" whispered Madge, and hid her blushing face upon his shoulder.

You Just Try NR For That Indigestion

Get your organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination working in harmony and watch your trouble disappear. NR does it or money back.

One Day's Test Proves NR Best

The stomach only partly digests the food we eat. The process is finished in the intestines where the food is mixed with bile from the liver.

It must be plain to any sensible person who realizes this, that the stomach, liver and bowels must work in harmony if digestive troubles are to be avoided or overcome.

This fact also explains why sufferers from indigestion, also suffer more or less from headaches, biliousness and constipation.

If you are one of the many unfortunate persons who cannot eat without suffering afterward, if you are constipated, have bilious spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, variable appetite, are nervous, losing energy and feel your health slipping away, take this advice and get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) right today and start taking it.

Give it a trial for a week or two and just see how much better you feel. See how quickly your sluggish bowels will become as regular as clock work, how your coated tongue clears up and your good, old-time appetite returns. See how splendidly your food will digest and how your energy, "pep" and "ginger" revive. Just try it.

NR

You take no risk whatever for Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is only 25c a box, enough to last twenty-five days, and it must help and benefit you to your entire satisfaction, or money returned.

Five million boxes are used every year,—one million NR Tablets are taken by ailing people every day—that's the best proof of its merits. Nature's Remedy is the best and safest thing you can take for biliousness, constipation, indigestion and similar complaints. It is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Smashing Ship Records.

Canada has again smashed all records for speed in wooden shipbuilding. The latest feat has lowered this country's own mark by about 60 per cent. The "War Cachin," a wooden ship of 3,100 tons, built for the Imperial Munitions Board, was launched by the Foundation Co. Shipyards at Victoria on Aug. 31. Installation of machinery commenced at the Imperial Munitions Board's installation plant at Victoria on Sept. 3. The installation work was completed in 12½ working days. On Sept. 17 a successful sea-going trip was held. This vessel will commence loading cargo within seven days of the trial trip. The previous record in Canada was held in Quebec.

WHOOPING COUGH.

Mr. Arthur Haince, Ashton Farm, Perley, Sask., writes: "Two years ago whooping cough was very bad in this part of the country; our eight months old boy caught it and had a very severe attack. A neighbor advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and we gave it and nothing else with splendid results. When the older brother took the whooping cough we used this medicine promptly and prevented serious trouble, as the cough passed off in two or three days".

HIT HIM AGAIN

The Bad Man of Europe is groggy. The hell-hounds he loosed in Belgium are backing away, cringing, snarling, scared.

We've got him going.

But he lives—4,000,000 strong on the Western front alone—and in his perverted brain lives the ambition to destroy and to enslave.

Now, while his legions totter; while his only hope is to dodge, to retreat, to evade the knockout blow that he knows must fall, now is the time to strike and to put everything we have behind the blow.

If you were planning to buy a $100 Victory Bond you can surely hit harder. Make it $200 or $500.

If you were thinking of a $500 Bond, can't you strike a $1,000 blow?

The full weight of Canada's fighting strength must go into that crushing stroke—our great resources, our industries, our agriculture, our fisheries, our surplus wealth, every dollar we can spare, every dollar we can rake and scrape.

For this is the knockout—the blow that must strike the demon down and send his broken war hordes hurtling back across the Rhine.

Hit him again!

Round Heads Menace Mankind

ROUND heads and Alpine blood seem to be the trouble with the German people, according to a recent observation in the Medical Times. The comment, which is in the form of an editorial, call attention to the generalizations made upon European peoples by writers such as Henry Fairfield Osborn, the well-known palaeontologist, and Madison Grant, New York zoologist and explorer. The brachycephalic German, round-headed, it is declared, owes his origin to the Alpine invasion. The editorial continues:

"Skulls with an index of 75 or less—that is, when the width is only a little more than three-fourths of the length, or less, are considered dolichocephalic, or long skulls. Skulls of an index of 80 or over are round skulls, or brachycephalic (broad). The cephalic index is computed by multiplying the width by 100 and dividing by the length. The European populations are divided into three distinct sub-species, one northern and one southern, both dolichocephalic or characterized by a long skull, and a central sub-species which is brachycephalic, or characterized by a round skull.

"Grant remarks that 'While the inhabitants of Europe betray as a whole their mixed origin, nevertheless the three main sub-species are each found in large numbers and in great purity.'

"The Nordic or Baltic sub-species is a long-skulled race, tall, fair-skinned, light-haired and blue-eyed. This group includes the Scandinavian and Teutonic peoples.

"The Mediterranean or Iberian peoples are long-skulled and have dark eyes, hair and skin. This subspecies is short in stature in comparison with the tall Nordics.

"The Alpines occupy all central and eastern Europe, extending through to Asia Minor. They are round-skulled, sturdy and of medium height. Their hair and eyes were originally very dark.

"The people of the British Isles are made up of a fusion of the long-headed, Nordic and Mediterranean races. There are no round-headed Alpines. This fact, according to Grant, makes the desire of the Irish to separate themselves from their English brothers rather absurd on ethnic grounds, for the Irish belong to the Nordic group and are only a Celtic-speaking people. The true Celts were of Alpine stock.

"The rank and file of the German army is largely composed of a pure or admixed Alpine type of soldier. The officers are everywhere recruited from the Nordic upper class. At least six-sevenths of the German people are not of Nordic or Teutonic stock.

"In comparison with the other white races, the intellectual qualities of the Alpine race have always been mediocre. While the Nordic race has furnished a brilliant succession of military leaders, statesmen, explorers, organizers, aristocrats and inventors throughout its entire history, the Alpine race has consisted always of peasants, and has never been a seafaring people, which means that they have not developed one kind of bold initiative nor acquired that which intercourse with the peoples who dwell on the shores of the Seven Seas has made part of the Nordics' intelligence and equipment.

"And so the argument runs that the overwhelming of the Nordic stock in Germany by the Alpine 'invasion' has resulted in intellectual and moral deterioration, while there has been a military development along lines of unparalleled brutality. Thus the otherwise inexplicable barbarity of the German armies finds a plausible explanation.

"A few hundred years ago the so-called Germanic peoples were preponderantly Teutonic, but the Alpine stock has steadily crowded northward, supplanting the Nordic stock as it underwent decimation in the course of interracial strife in pre-empire days and during the terrible slaughter of the Thirty Years' War. To-day the majority of the Wurttembergers, Bavarians, Austrians and Tyrolese are merely Teutonized Alpines who have exerted but little influence upon European culture. The rank and file of the Prussians are nothing more nor less than Teutonized Wends and Poles of Alpine extraction. Their round, broad heads betray their origin.

"The revolution of 1848, viewed ethnically, was really a revolt against the intellectual insolvency and moral bankruptcy of a government brutalized by the decadent influence of the race substitution that we have outlined. The revolutionists were liberty-loving Teutons of the old Nordic strain, representing the vigor, valor and manhood of chivalrous progenitors.

"We are at war with hordes of round-headed Alpines led by Nordic stock which has rejected all the ideals and sentiments which have characterized intellectually the Teutonic peoples of centuries. Viewed in this light, the distinction between the German people and the German Government seems worse than academic.

"Hindenburg himself personifies dominant and brutal force, devoid of idealism and with little or no imagination, for he is of round-headed Alpine extraction.

"The truth of the matter is that the so-called Germanic race has been ethnically bankrupt for over one hundred years. The present military outbreak is but the evidence of this intellectual insolvency and moral bankruptcy, and the time has arrived for the whole world to sit as a solemn court of judgment and appoint a civilized receiver to either wind up or reorganize the national Germanic military establishment."

"Everything I tried seemed to make me worse, and I had the trouble for nearly two years. I read about Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and I got them. They did me good right away, and now I am entirely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Peter McIntosh, French River, Ont., April 10, 1917.

RESULT STILL IN DOUBT

United States Election Results Vary Every Few Minutes of the Day.

LAST MINUTE RETURNS

(Canadian Press.)
(Three O'Clock Despatch.)

NEW YORK, November 6.—The next House of Representatives will be Republican on the face of the latest returns. The political complexion of the Senate is still in doubt. In the House, 219 Republicans apparently had been elected, and 183 Democrats, together with one Socialist and one Independent.

(Canadian Press.)

Ten O'clock Despatch:

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Early to-day more than twenty-four hours after yesterday's balloting began, it was not apparent whether Democrats or Republicans would control next Congress. Party managers on both sides predicted they would have substantial working majorities, but the returns showed between 50 to 75 Congressional districts still unreported and line up so close that the scales might easily be turned in favour of either party. The governorship of New York, too, was surrounded with the same uncertainty. Contest between Governor Whitman and his Democratic opponent, Alfred E. Smith, was so close that it appeared the soldier vote would settle it. Some well known figures in public life will be retired or at least have close shaves by yesterday's voting. Prominent among them are Speaker Champ Clark, of the House of Representatives, a Democrat.

Democratic Committee Claim Small Margin

Canadian Press:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Democratic National committee at Headquarters early to-day claimed the Senate would be Democratic by at least one, and that the final returns also would show a small margin for the Democrats in the House.

Eleven-thirty Despatch:

The Soldiers' Vote May Decide the Issue

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The vote of New York soldiers in cantonments in the United States may decide the race for Governorship in the State. Returns early this morning showed Whitman, Republican, and Smith, Democrat, almost ties. The count continued by the Republicans shows Whitman fifteen thousand ahead, while unofficial Democratic tabulations gave Smith a lead of one thousand.

These figures were based on complete count in New York city and the count in the State outside New York, with 550 districts missing. Smith carried New York city by 258,544. Republicans claim an upstate plurality for Whitman of 229,005.

The Peace Apostle is Going Strong.

Special to The Examiner:

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 6.— Heavy gains made by Henry Ford in late counts in and around Detroit, are rapidly eating up Newberry's up-state majority. Ford's managers claim he is elected by five thousand to ten thousand. Newberry men maintain he will win by 25,000. Ford workers say their candidate is leading by nearly 2,000 on their private count.

Republicans Claim Majority of Five.

(Canadian Press.)

Two-thirty Despatch:

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.— Republican National Headquarters issued a statement early this afternoon claiming a majority of at least five and possibly six in the United States' Senate.

Returns received by the committee were said to show definitely the election of 49 Democratic senators, while in the House 215 seats were assigned to Democrats, 204 to the Republicans and the remainder in doubt.

If the result of the election of New York State offices depends upon the soldier vote, as now seems probable, it will not be known until after December 10, it was stated to-day at the office of Secretary of State Hugo.

One of the Closest Elections in State

(Canadian Press.)

Two-thirty Despatch:

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—In one of the closest elections in the history of New York State, Alfred E. Smith, Democratic candidate for Governor, held the lead over Governor Whitman of 32,113 votes at noon to-day. There were still to be heard from 436 upstate districts, on which Republican leaders based their hopes of overcoming the Democratic plurality when the final returns are compiled.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Two-thirty Despatch:

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 6.—With one-third of the district vote tabulated, Speaker of the House of Representatives Champ Clark, Democrat, is leading B. H. Dyer, by approximately one thousand votes, according to unofficial returns.

TOTALS FOR PETERBORO

This District is Another Notch Nearer the Objective—Poor Results From the Country.

THE FIGURES

Canadian Press:

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—The Victory Loan summary up until noon to-day for Ontario was $108,819,150. The total for Canada, $212,265,450.

The grand total for the County of Peterborough is $1,047,600. The largest subscription received to-day was from Mr. T. F. Matthews, who subscribed $25,000. This is a worthy example to other citizens to follow.

The returns from the country have been most satisfactory in most cases, but there are a few exceptions as can be seen from the schedule, and it is to be hoped that the farmers will not put off their responsibility too long. There is only a limited time left, nearly one-half the campaign is over and the objective for the county is still a long way off. No one can have any excuse for not taking a bond, and if the canvasser has not called, do not wait too long for him but come to the County Headquarters, 174 Hunter St., or secure your application through any of the banks. Your duty is clear and you have the best security in the world.

ADDRESSED EMPLOYEES

Mr. W. B. Cumming addressed the employees of the Matthews-Blackwell Company, Limited, at noon to-day, and the result was a very enthusiastic gathering. The employees of this firm have made a name for themselves heretofore in coming to the aid of the Red Cross. Practically one hundred per cent. of the employees answered his worthy call, and it will not be surprising to see an Honour Flag flying from the flag pole of this plant within the next few days. Mr. T. F. Matthews addressed the men and stated that the Company would be glad to finance them to any extent, he wished to assure them that if at any time they wanted their money, that the Company would buy their bonds from them. Other industries in the city have intimated their intention of doing the same, so that no employee has any excuse for not buying a bond Those that have not the ready money can insure their continued prosperity and the prosperity of the county at large by giving their promise on the installment plan. Our boys at the front gave their all and had no thought for the cost.

Other industries are rallying their workers so that a factory who not won an Honour Flag will be conspicuous towards the end of the campaign.

SETTING THE PACE

The foreign element in the city are setting the pace. One young man, a the Victory Loan. He reports that the native of Greece, subscribed $700 to foreig elemen ar oeeoieldrEeoo8dews: the Victory Loan. He reports that there is not one of his countrymen in the city who have not subscribed.

Mr. W. B. Cumming reports that the foreign element are subscribing much more liberally than the last loan. They are an example to some Canadians living in the outlying sections.

FRANK JENNE Says:

WAR MAP. — This sectional map of the portion of Germany, which the Allies will occupy in the event of a German surrender (it includes portions of Alsace and Lorraine, which will be restored to France) shows the natural resources of the territory in question. The round circles show petroleum, the small crosses cross-bred wools; the light diagonal lines timber; the P, platinum; the S, Sulphur; the black diamonds, iron; the black circles, coal; the C, copper; the heavy diagonal lines, gold or silver; the wavy lines, marble; the A, aluminum; the Z, zinc; the L, lead; and the T, tin. It is a very store house of natural wealth and has been the backbone of Germany's industrial and military strength. The map is adapted from Leslie's Weekly.

The Conditions May Become More Severe if Hun Delays Asking Marshal Foch for Terms

Germans Must Answer "Yes" or "No"—Enemy Government Appoints a Commission to Deal With Armistice Negotiations.

GERMAN PROCLAMATION

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, November 6. — Germany is expected to indicate soon, perhaps to-morrow, whether she will ask Marshal Foch for the terms of the armistice formulated at the Versailles conference, was the belief expressed here to-day. The Germans, it was said, must answer "Yes" or "No" immediately if the present conditions are not to be made even more severe.

APPOINTED COMMISSION.

The German government has appointed a commission to deal with the armistice negotiations, according to the reports received here to-day. It includes admiral Von Hintze, former Foreign Minister, Admiral Meures, General Gruedell and General Winterfell.

The government has issued a proclamation urging the people to maintain order if they do not wish to delay peace. The proclamation refers to the reforms undertaken since the new government was created, and appeals to the people to unite for an honorable peace.

Canadian Press:

Self Discipline Urged.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 6.—In appealing to the German people for support, the Berlin government declares that it must have the confidence of the people and Reichstag in carrying out reforms. The Government manifesto, which was issued yesterday says that Germany is being changed to a Democratic State, but if the transformation is to be a success there must be self discipline among the people.

Facing Disintegration.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Germany is facing disintegration such as is befalling Austria-Hungary, according to Swiss reports received to-day.

A Zurich despatch said that the session movement is growing in Southern Germany, and that Bavarian deputies have adopted a plan for the formation of a new State, comprising Bavaria, Wurtemburg, Baden and German Austria.

Owing to Government obstinacy on the question of the Kaiser's abdication and the alleged opposition of the military clique to an armistice, Socialist members of the Ministry are expected to resign.

ARMISTICE DELEGATION

Official Despatch From Berlin Announces Departure of Envoys for Western Front.

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 6. —The German armistice delegation has gone to the west front, according to an official despatch from Berlin to-day.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. — As the armistice is to be presented in the field it must be accepted or rejected within twenty-four hours of its delivery, according to the understanding in official circles here. In diplomatic quarters it was thought the Germans might be given as much time as five days.

Both Sides Still in the Running

Election Issue In the United States Was In Doubt at Late Hour To-day.

(By L. C. Martin.)
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Tuesday's Congressional election on the face of early returns, bids fair to inject a new and interesting element into the American Allied peace programme.

Republicans have been outspokenly against several of President Wilson's fourteen peace terms. These peace terms with reservations, have now been adopted by the Allies as the basis of peace. Any peace must be ratified by two-thirds of the Senate, so if Republicans control they could force the amendment of any peace programme.

The Republican victory, in the face of President Wilson's direct appeal to the people for a vote of confidence, is construed by Republican leaders as an endorsement of their views on the President's formula.

Republicans claim fifty senators, 49 being a majority.

"We expect to have at least fifty senators and a majority of not less than 20 in the House," said James M. Reynolds, secretary of the Republican National committee.

"These are the most conservative estimates I can make, and I believe the figures will be increased as later returns come in."

At Democratic Headquarters early to-day the Senate control was still claimed with a "majority of from two to four."

CAPTAIN WIDDIFIELD TO RETURN TO ENGLAND

Captain Widdifield, formerly of the 93rd Battalion, who was wounded at Lens, in August, 1917, has returned to Peterborough on sick leave. He will be remembered as one of the officers of the 93rd, who assisted in the recruiting in 1915, when the Battalion was orga ized.

He does not at present intend to return to his practice with Gordon, Widdifield & O'Brien, as he has to return to England by Dec. 4th.

RE-OPENING THE SCHOOLS.

The decision of the Board of Education not to re-open the schools for the present, even although the Medical Officer of Health has lifted the ban, will undoubtedly meet with the approval of the majority of parents. There has been a feeling among many citizens that it would be better to defer the opening of the schools until the danger of infection has been reduced to a minimum, and although the epidemic of influenza and its attendant complications seems to be rapidly waning in the city, the danger is not yet over, and parents generally would prefer to have the schools kept closed a few days longer, if such a course will render conditions safer. In fact many children would have been absent to-day if the classes had been resumed, and the work would have been interfered with to such an extent that there would have been little benefit in beginning until the situation is generally regarded as normal. It is hoped that by the end of the week this desirable state of affairs will have been reached and that it will be possible for the public schools to be opened, with all danger of a further development of the influenza practically removed.

MUST SEE FOCH.

The decision of the Allies' Council at Versailles that Germany must apply to Field Marshal Foch in the usual manner if she wants to know the conditions upon which an armistice will be signed will be hailed with delight by the people of Canada. Foch the generalissimo of the Allied forces, whose grasp of strategy and tactics, combined with the irresistible dash and valour of the troops under his command, has in four months inflicted defeat after defeat upon the enemy and is rapidly driving him back to Germany, is the proper man to do the talking to the Huns. He is the supreme representative of the armies in the field, of the men who through the long years have fought, undismayed and steadfast, even when the outlook was darkest. It is but justice that the men who have borne the brunt of the struggle should not be shoved to one side when peace negotiations are being undertaken.

And so the Hun leaders, if they want to end the carnival of blood-letting, will have to swallow their pride and go humbly to Field Marshal Foch to know the terms upon which hostilities can be suspended. If they do not choose to do so the war will go on to the end, until Germany is so thoroughly beaten that she can no longer carry on the struggle. That day is not far distant, for with her allies gone, her southern flank open to attack, and her armies in the west reeling back to their own frontiers before blow after blow from the Belgian, French, British and American armies, Germany's sun is nearly set. The last act in the great tragedy is not far away.

A PATRIOTIC KNITTER.

The people who are inclined to grow war-weary, who have an inclination to slacken their efforts, who have become stale to the call of patriotism, should be able to find fresh inspiration and courage in the example that has been set for them by Mrs. John Sanderson of 262 Hunter street, who has just finished knitting her three hundred and sixtieth pair of socks for Canadian soldiers. That record may not mean much to the masculine readers of the Examiner, but the women of Peterborough will readily grasp the significance of the statement. 360 pairs of socks means a pair every four working days during the four years and three months the war has lasted—one sock every two days during the whole of that time. The stick-to-it spirit of the British race stands out in every stitch of that pile of socks made with loving care by the industrious needles of this patriotic knitter. Mrs. Sanderson's heart is over there because her boy is with the Canadian army. So she determined to stand by her own lad and his comrades and right nobly has she done so. Day after day, week after week, her needles have clicked, making the comfortable, warm home-made socks that our soldiers appreciate so much. Many women have knitted for the boys over there, but few have displayed the patient, never-let-up spirit of Mrs. Sanderson, whose never-ending work for Canada's soldiers should supply new energy to us all. Her four years and three months of patriotic service are an object lesson in many ways.

THE C. G. E. SPIRIT.

The Canadian General Electric Company employees have set an example in the Victory Loan campaign that should act as an inspiration and a spur to the rest of the community. The honour flag, proudly flying over the plant, tells the passer-by at a glance that the Canadian General employees from the youngest messenger boy to the head of the big concern, have gone over the top—have met the test and emerged with a record of 100 per cent. efficiency, with ninety per cent. of the employees backing up the boys at the front with their money. If the same enthusiasm and driving power that have permeated every department of the Canadian General during the past ten days, could be set at work throughout the district, Peterboro County would be able to tell the world that it had piled up its objective and that it was in the fight to the end.

There is no use speculating as to when this war will come to a close. In this crisis dollars beat opinions, and Victory Bonds will hasten the end. Our only business is to win the war, and Canada must help to finance it down to the last dollar. The Victory Loan means another crushing blow to the Kaiser, and for that reason there must be no hesitation—no faltering.

Peterboro city and county should imbibe the spirit of the Canadian General Electric Company's employees and rally to the call of Canada. We are at the half way mark to-day in the big campaign, and many of the groups in the district have, it is a pity to have to report, not yet recorded fifty per cent. of their objective.

For the balance of the campaign every citizen of the county is urged to take part in the drive. If you have already bought your limit of bonds, wear your button, and display the honour flag in your window, so that everyone may know that you are standing by the boys over there. If you have not yet invested get into the game—you cannot afford to be a spectator in this great war-winning effort.

THE NAVY'S SHARE.

It has been said that the British people are the worst advertisers in the world, and the events of the past four years of war have practically confirmed this opinion. Of the gigantic part that Great Britain has taken in this war, the British have said but little, and it remained for people of other lands to tell the story of what has been accomplished by the Empire, of which Canada is so proud to form a part. This is particularly true of the exploits of the British navy which in the last analysis has been the greatest factor in the winning of the war. Much of what has been done has been so carefully kept out of the press that it is no wonder sometimes that even Canadians do not fully realize the part the navy has played in bringing nearer the total downfall of the enemy.

An American writer, Samuel G. Blythe, in an interesting series of articels in the Saturday Evening Post, on the naval end of the conflict, has given some illuminating figures as to the extent of the work carried on by the British navy. They are intended primarily for the consumption of American readers, and will be a revelation to many of our neighbours, but they make interesting reading for Canadians as well.

Here is an extract from Mr. Blythe's latest article.

In considering the effort of the American Navy in European waters and elsewhere it is necessary that we should keep our perspective, retain our sense of proportion. The American Navy, as I am describing it, in the articles I have written and shall write, is doing its allotted work in foreign waters, and doing that allotted work in excellent American manner and in full accord with the traditions of the service—efficiently, loyally, splendidly; but when compared with the entire naval field our share of the total is small, though being expanded constantly.

For example, in the anti-submarine campaign Great Britain supplies eighty per cent. of the destroyers, France six per cent. and the United States fourteen per cent. We have only five per cent. of the submarines operating here, and three per cent. of the miscellaneous patrol craft, while Great Britain has seventy-eight per cent. and France seventeen per cent. of the submarines and eighty-six per cent. and eleven per cent. respectively of the miscellaneous patrol craft. Our percentages are even smaller, in fact the smallest, in the Mediterranean.

Of the total number of patrol craft operating in British and Eastern Atlantic waters we supply but five per cent. The British naval aviation service is four and one-half times as large as ours at present, though we are increasing our percentage daily, and it is large as it is. The British have three times as many officers and four times as many enlisted men operating in European waters as the Americans, and this does not include the very great number the British have in their auxiliary patrol service. So far as transports are concerned Great Britain supplies destroyer escorts for seventy per cent. of them, the United States for twenty-seven per cent., and France for three per cent.

We supply thirty-five per cent. of the cruisers needed for escort of convoys and transports, Great Britain sixty-one per cent. and France four per cent. The British Navy also operates in many other ways in protection of our shipping.

These percentages are presented in order that the sense of proportion shall not be lost at home. The United States Navy is playing a great and a glorious part in this war, and in European waters, and is daily expanding its line and strengthening its position, but it is not doing it all, as some home comment has stated.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Stick it, Canada!

Lend as they fight.

Back them up—they're battling for us.

Send your dollars to the trenches. Buy Victory Bonds.

You don't hesitate to insure your life. Why not insure your freedom by buying Victory Bonds

Money is useless unless you get it to work. In Victory Bonds it works double—for Canada and for you.

You might possibly invest your money at eight per cent. and get away with it—or the other fellow may get away with it. But you can't lose your investment in the Victory Loan unless Canada floats out to sea and sinks.

The Victory Loan Campaign is half way through to-night. Some of the groups are below their average and the pressure will have to be increased in the next few days.

"Wait until we get the returns from the county," was an old favourite on election night. The returns from the country in the Victory Loan drive are being watched with interest.

This is a good deal to think about in the following from an American exchange: "This war is not a spectacle staged for your benefit. The boys over there are not going through hell merely to make a show for you. When you throw up your hat and yell at the news of their victories, ask yourself if you have done anything to back them up. If you have, then yell."

Your holiday shopping should start in November this year. Let our victories speed up our buying.

Classified.

Professor Porter, of a small New England college, sat ponderously in the chair devoted chiefly to the science of heredity. The Porters had been for generations men of abstruse scientific turn, bookish men. But the professor's small son, Tommy, hated his books cordially, much to his learned father's dismay. The professor looked ruefully at the teacher's report that Tommy had played hookey and destroyed his books.

"My dear," said the professor to his wife, "I am afraid that I must class Thomas as a true instance of aversion to type."

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"I'm going a-tangoing, sir," she said.
"May I go with you, my pretty maid?"
"You're kindly welcome, sir," she said.
"What's your father, my pretty maid?"
"My father's zero, sir," she said.
"Say, will you marry me, my pretty maid?"
"Yes, for a time, kind sir," she said.
"What is your fortune, my pretty maid?"
"My heels are my fortune, sir," she said.
"Then I won't marry you, my pretty maid."
"I have plenty of partners, kind sir," she said.

The Girl For Him.

Tom—I've seen the girl I want to marry. I stood behind her at the ticket window this morning, and she took seven minutes to buy a five cent elevated ticket.

Alice—Did that make you want to marry her?

Tom—Yes. I figured out that she could never spend my income at that rate.

GUY FAWKES' NIGHT WAS QUIET.

Guy Fawkes' Day passed completely unheralded in the city last night. Nobody has reported the loss of a woodshed or a hen house through fire, as was usual in years gone by. Port Hope celebrated last evening by burning Kaiser Bill in effigy. No property damage was reported however, by the lakeshore police.

Canada looks to YOU for help in making this great Victory Loan a success.

Canada needs your MONEY.

Ours is a country whose individual citizens are more prosperous than those of any other country in the world.

Canada has come to YOU---her citizens--with a straight business proposition.

That proposition in a nutshell is this:

"I need Three Hundrew Million Doll are to help finish up my business over in Europe. Lend me the money for a short time at 5½ per cent. interest, payable half-yearly, and I pledge the return of ev ery cent of your loan."

Plan to take all the Bonds you can possibly pay for. The payments are as follows:

10 per cent. on application
20 per cent. December 6th, 1918
31.15 per cent. March 6th, 1919
20 per cent. January 6th, 1919.

BIG PROGRAMME IS ARRANGED FOR THE "GRAND" RE-OPENING

The Grand Opera House will open again on Monday, November 11th., in high class Motion Pictures, and polite Vaudeville.

The management have arranged an extra special programme for the opening, including drama, Pathe News and comedies. The feature picture will be Bert Lytell in "The Trail to Yesterday," a five act Metro Drama which is considerably above the average.

In addition to this splendid picture programme to be offered, patrons will again be afforded an opportunity of seeing the Dancing Beatries, including the two wonderful child dancers, Baby Doll and Master Bobbie. This is the same act as played the Peterborough Exhibition last September, and who appeared at one performance in the Grand Opera House. Their act has been entirely changed, so as to be new and up to date, and patrons are assured of a real treat in these exceptionally clever artists.

The same popular prices will prevail, Matinees, 10c, the performance starting at 2.30. Evening prices 10c. Reserved seats 15c. In addition to this, there will be the usual War Tax of 1c. on all tickets.

It would be well for patrons to remember that they can make reservations for the evening performance of all picture and vaudeville shows, just the same as for the big road attractions, the Box Office being open daily for this purpose from 10 a.m.

BANKS WILL HELP SMALL INVESTORS

It was announced that, in order to encourage investors to participate in the 1918 Victory Loan the Banks will lend subscribers, on the probable certainty of repayment within a year, up to 90 per cent. of the amount of the investment in the Loan. The rate of interest charged by the banks is 5 1-2 per cent.

This should have the effect of greatly stimulating the flow of money when the big Drive opens. Many people who were anxious to do their bit towards supporting the boys at the front were unfortunately restricted as to the amount they had available for investment, having immediate or future obligations which called for their ready capital. It is such as these that the banks are ready to help. On reasonable security these intending investors may receive the cash from the Bank at the same rate of interest the Dominion Government pays for the entire 1918 Victory Loan. They may reduce their obligations to the Banks monthly or quarterly.

The Banks will also accept from small investors for safe keeping without charge, the interim securities and later the bonds themselves up to a reasonable amount, for the term of one year.

Every dollar makes them Holler.

TRIP FROM FAR EAST FILLED WITH THRILLS

Steamer Nearly Wrecked Three Times, Then Has Fire in Hold, on Voyage From Calcutta —Stabbing and Suicide, Too.

Missionaries, Miners, and Actors Come From South Africa, India and the Congo.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Nov. 4.—One hundred and twenty passengers, chiefly missionaries, miners, and vaudeville performers, arrived from India and South Africa. The ship on which they travelled had been three and a half months on the voyage from Calcutta.

After narrowly missing the Maldive Islands in the dark and the coral reefs at the entrance to the Mozambique Channel off the Madagascar coast, the steamship bumped a sand bar so hard that her hold filled with water and she had to go in dry dock for three weeks at Durban.

Seven weeks ago the steamship left Cape Town ,and the next day a fire was discovered in the cargo of jute in the after hold and the Captain put back to port. It was a week before the hatches could be taken off to get at the blaze, and altogether another three weeks was lost.

Off the Island of St. Helena a Chinese fireman stabbed one of his mates and then jumped overboard because the others would have killed him. The wounded man recovered.

Four days after leaving port the second time Edward Gibson, of Detroit, representative of an American automobile firm, died of Spanish influenza and was buried at sea.

Two South African Dutchmen, on the steamer's arrival here, were detained by the immigration authorities for further examination on the complaint of some passengers who said that they were Nationalists. This, it was explained, is the same in South Africa as the I.W.W. in America. The Dutchmen, it was charged, were concerned in the rebellion which occurred in the Transvaal this year and were said to have been free in their criticism of America and Great Britain during the voyage.

Merchants from Johannesburg and Durban said the business conditions there were good and would increase 100 per cent. when they got more shipping. The rebellion in which De Wet had been implicated was all over and things were quiet politically. The Nationalists had tried to start another rebellion in Johannesburg two months ago, but it had been nipped in the bud by the authorities, according to the merchants.

Missionaries from the Belgian Congo, who have been on the way since April, said the conditions there were very much improved. There was a good deal of Spanish influenza from the Cape right up the African coast to Sierra Leone and many of the natives were dying from it.

Man's Suit Costs $300 in Austria

By Henry Wood
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Oct. 6.—(By Mail.)—Men's clothing in Austria-Hungary now costs from $200 to $300 a suit, while women's tailor made gowns average from $300 to $400 each, according to the "Krejcovsky Listy," the official organ of the Tcheque (Czech) tailors in the dual monarchy.

Copies of the last number of this periodical have just reached Rome by way of Switzerland and give interesting details as to the present cost of clothing at Vienna and Budapest. According to this trade journal all of the cloth manufactured in the dual monarchy since the beginning of the war is absolutely worthless and the Tcheque tailors practically refuse to make it up into suits and women's gowns for the reason that the result is not worth the cost of the labour expended on it.

The only cloth that remains in Austria-Hungary that is fit for clothing consists of the few remnants of stocks that existed before the war. This was largely cloth of foreign manufacture and what is left of it commands fabulous prices.

For a man's suit, cloth averages $80 a yard; lining, $32 a yard; flannel, $22 a yard, and lining for the picket, $10 a yard.

To overcome this situation the government is planning to manufacture a single style of cloth and to issue tickets to the civil population permitting them to have suits from it. In this connection the same requirement that already is in force in Germany, will be adopted, namely, every person ordering a new suit from the government cloth first must turn over to the government clothing department his old suit. The same rule also will apply to women's dresses and dress goods.

Under new arrangements for sale of government shoes, no one is allowed to purchase a pair unless the shoe census of last May shows he had only one pair of shoes at that time.

WRITE CARBON COPY OF ANSWERS ON BACK OF LETTERS RECEIVED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—"Conserve paper worth millions of dollars by writing the carbon copy of your answer on the back of the letters you receive." This advice was given the business men of the United States in a statement issued by the American Forestry Association, after trying out the plan and finding that it works."

DUTCH ISOLATION LESSENS.

Overland Travel from France by Way of Belgium Is Resumed.

THE HAGUE—The French Minister, M. Allize, and the French naval attache, commandant Cruchon, have arrived in Holland from Paris via France and liberated Belgium, the first passengers to come by the overland route since the beginning of the war. They were obliged to journey partly by automobiles.

Only those who have lived in Holland during the war realize the tremendous saving of time and effort which this means. It has been necessary to allow from ten days to two weeks to arrive in Paris from The Hague heretofore.

The convoy between England and Holland is very irregular and passengers are often kept on board for days waiting for the signal to start, which only one man in England can give. Letters from England generally take three weeks to pass the censor and catch the convoy. People now feel that they are once more living on the Continent and not isolated from civilized humanity.

TESTIMONIAL BY JAPAN.

To Raise a Fund for the Aid of Allied Soldiers and Sailors.

TOKIO.—A committee, headed by Baron Shibusawa, President of the First Bank and the Tokio Savings Bank, and Baron Sakatani, former Minister of Finance, has been formed to raise a fund which will be devoted to raise a fund which will be devoted to such work as will be a material expression of Japan's sympathy toward the Allied soldiers and sailors.

The committee met here and decided to invite contributions from the cities of Tokio, Osaka, Kyoto, and Nagoya, as well as smaller towns. A prospectus will be issued.

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT! STOP DANDRUFF AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yet—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter for a few cents.

If Germany Accepts

BEFORE this is in type Germany may have accepted the Allies' terms of Armistice.

---But, that would not mean that the Victory Loan would not be needed.

Canada would still need the Victory Loan when fighting ceases, just as she has needed the money to carry on the war.

After fighting ceases it will cost hundreds of millions of dollars to maintain Canada's soldiers until they can be demobilized.

Canada may have to keep her quota of men in occupied enemy territory.

Canada will have to transport her army home.

For some time to come Canada must continue to finance the supply of foodstuffs for Britain and her Allies---on credit.

War or no war, Canada must continue to finance her shipbuilding program to replace the lost tonnage and to essablish and maintain her proper place in the sea-carrying commerce of the world.

All this will have to be financed through the Victory Loan, 1918.

So whether or not Germany accepts the Allies' terms, the Victory Loan 1918 must be subscribed and over-subscribed.

Nothing less than this will enable Canada to complete her war effort, and to maintain her agricultural and industrial prosperity.

And, remember, this may be your last chance to buy Canadian Government Bonds bearing 5½ per cent. interest.

So Buy Victory Bonds, and buy more and more bonds

Public Schools of the City Will Not Re-open Until Monday, November 11th

This Decision Was Reached at Last Night's Meeting of the Board of Education—One of the School Trustees Advocates the Elimination of the Word Kindergarten.

Acting on the recommendation of Dr. F. C. Neal, chairman of the Supervision Committee of the Board of Education, the Board decided last night that the Public Schools and Collegiate Institute will not reopen until Monday November, 11. Dr. Neal said that he had gone into the matter thoroughly with Inspector Mowat and found that 20 per cent. of the teachers have been ill and 10 per cent. are unable to reassume their duties. Of the large number of parents he had canvassed he found none who were going to send their children to school on Wednesday. Of 8 or 9 medical men consulted all had agreed the epidemic is still dangerous and Dr. Neele felt it would be a mistake to give the disease a chance to spread.

DISORGANIZE STUDY.

Mr. J. W. Worth thought that as the majority of the children would not turn up to-day it would disorganize study to let the few who did get ahead of those later in returning. Mr. Mowat reported an unexpectedly large percentage of Public School Staff unable to resume their duties at present. Mr. Eastwood said that the buildings have been heated and any doctors he had spoken to thought the schools might safely reopen.

Mr. Kenner reported all the Collegiate staff ready to resume their duties. Only two, Mr. Graham and Mr. Brown had been ill.

Mr. E. G. Patterson thought that the Collegiate Institute might be reopened.

Mr. Fowler—"The children will turn up to-morrow at the schools and cause confusion."

Mr. Cameron—"No they won't."

Mr. Green—"Dr. Amys didn't compel the schools to open he merely lifted the ban."

Mr. Cameron said that the Board was particularly fortunate in having Dr. Neal on the Board to benefi by his experience and advice. He was thoroughly in accord with his advice in leaving the schools closed, heated or unheated for a year if necessary.

A TRYING TIME

Dr. Neal—"The public generally doesn't realize what the medical profession has gone through lately. I never want to go through two weeks again like the past two. To save one life is worth closing down the schools." He added that the after effects are only now coming in and doctoring for them will have to be done for years. "The epidemic itself is not over," he concluded.

THE RESOLUTION

Dr. Neal's resolution not to reopen until Monday, 11th, with an amendment by Mr. G. N. Gordon leaving it to the supervision committee to act and wait until the situation develops to set the date finally, was carried.

ELIMINATE KINDERGARTEN

The question of eliminating the word Kindergarten from the Ontario vocubulary brought up by Mr. J. M. Greene resulted in considerable discussion, by the Board. In an enthusiastic address Mr. Green said that with the sacrifices the men have made at the front it is only just we should find a word with an equal meaning in English. The United States he said which was three years behind in coming into the war has already changed to an equivalent in English. Why cannot the Ontario Government be memorialized by having the name changed.

Mr. Gordon—"We might possibly go farther and memorialize the Government by having German eliminated and substitute Spanish.

Mr. Patterson questioned the advisability of eliminating German as when the war is over we must have some dealings with Germany.

Mr. Denne thought the Government had enough to do at present.

Mr. Greene—"Is not the British language broad enough to cover the word Kindergarten and eliminate it.

Mr. Eastwood—"Personally I'm quite satisfied with Marshal Foch's methods of elimination."

WILL ASK DR. CODY.

Asked his advice on the question Inspector Mowat said that in the city there is no Kindergarten now; he saw no objection in asking Dr. Cody to change the name for Ontario.

Referring to teaching German in the schools Mr. H. R. H. Kenner said that it is no longer compulsory in the modern course Spanish having taken its place. He hopes and thinks it will be eliminated from the Collegiate in a year and Spanish substituted.

RESIGNATIONS ACCEPTED

An application from Miss Kathleen Woods asking for an appointment on the Public School teaching staff was received. The resignations of Miss Jessie Graham and Miss Ruth Bristol were accepted. Inspector Mowat expressed his regret at losing two such trusted members and his appreciation of their services.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE

On motion of Mr. G. N. Gordon a resolution of condolence will be sent to Mrs. James Kendrey and family in the death of Mr. Kendrey, who had so long been of service in the community and also an ex-member of the Board of Education.

COLLEGIATE ATTENDANCE

Mr. Eastwood commented upon the splendid record of attendance at the Collegiate Institute of 380 pupils an average of 362 attended.

Senator Macdonnell is Seriously Ill

Was Taken Ill Suddenly While on a Visit to Ottawa.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—Senator Claude Macdonnell, of Toronto, is ill at the Chateau Laurier. Senator Macdonnell arrived in the Capital yesterday apparently in the best of health. He visited the office of Col. Machin in the afternoon and was shortly afterwards seized with a fainting spell. He was taken to the Chateau and a doctor was summoned. His own physician of Toronto was also communicated with and for a time his condition was considered somewhat alarming. The Senator, however, is on the mend again this morning.

LITTLE GIRL WAS BITTEN BY DOG

Animal Will Be Tied Up for Ten Days.

A dog owned by Mrs. Maynard, Elm street, took a violent dislike to Gertie Cummings, 499 Cambridge St., yesterday afternoon and seized her by the foot pulling the heel of the shoe off and making deep marks in the girl's foot.

Some months ago the same dog bit a young Italian girl who residede on Elm street, but nothing serious resulted. Mrs. Maynard asked that the dog be shot, but the police have tied the canine up for a period of ten days, while the girl will be watched for traces of rabies. It is thought that the dog is in a healthy condition.

COULDN'T ASK FOR BETTER RESULTS

Miller Gains 20 Pounds Taking Tanlac—Wife Regains Health Too.

"No one could see the wonderful change that has taken place in me during the past few weeks and doubt Tanlac being a great medicine," said W. H. Miller, while in a Bartell drug store, recently. Mr. Miller superintends the general repair work of the Puget Sound Dredge & Bridge Company, and lives at 25 Seaview Ave., Seattle, Wash.

"I have picked up twenty pounds," he continued, "and I feel that I would be doing anybody, who is suffering like I was, a good turn by putting them on Tanlac. I have had so much trouble with my stomach for the past ten years that I could hardly eat or sleep. I had no appetite at all and what I did eat would ferment, causing gas, bloating and misery. I was constantly belching up my food sour and undigested, and my condition kept getting worse in spite of all I could do.

"I finally got me some Tanlac and soon found it was helping me. So I stuck right to it until now it has completely cleared up my trouble. My appetite is splendid and my stomach is in such a good condition that I can eat just anything I want and all I want without suffering a particle afterwards and I simply sleep like a log every night. I had gone down to one hundred and fifty pounds and I now weigh one hundred and seventy, which is a gain of twenty pounds.

"My wife, whose condition was just about as bad as mine in every way, is now taking Tanlac, too, and it is doing the same good work for her it did for me. I couldn't ask for better results than we have gotten from Tanlac and I don't hesitate to recommend it to everybody.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd. In Havelock by A. C. Denike. In Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd. In Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter. In Gelert by A. J. Scott. In Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

German Soldiers Ordered Out of Metz by September 27th

Correspondence Picked Up on the Battlefield by a Peterboro Soldier Contains Some Interesting Information.

Mr. R. H. Fortye, of this city, received a letter from his son, Captain Wilfrid Fortye, of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, a few days ago, in which was enclosed a letter that was picked up in a German dugout in October. The company of Dragoons, in charge of Captain Fortye, followed so close on the heels of the retiring Huns that they came upon a table just set for dinner in an officers' dugout, and this letter and some oher memorandas were picked up from the table by Captain Fortye. The letter, which has been translated, contains the following:

Field Post Letter.

To Gunner Kurt Riedel,
Foot Artillery Regiment No. 12,
1st Battalion, 2nd Battery.
Groitsch, District Leipzig,
Sept. 24th, 1918.

Dear Kurt,—I will let you know herewith that I received your parcel to-day, and I wondered why I could not get the address from you of that furlough man, so that I could send a few little things for you through him. I beg you to give me his address in future. Furthermore, I will let you know that Paul will pay us a visit, also Bruno, perhaps the both come together, that would be a great pleasure for us. Furthermore, Paul writes us that everybody has to be out of Metz on Sept. 27th. If Paul would be transferred, he didn't know; he didn't know at all, what had happened, that they all have to leave. I will let you know later on, as I have asked Paul about it, but I didn't receive any answer yet. Dear Kurt, would you like to have the money for the tobacco, or will I lay the money away for you? I don't know what to do. Write me your view about it. It is impossible to get the matches you were inquiring about. Susanna is again gone to France, and last Sunday, in company with Clemens Watt, they both got a good jag on. Our state of health is still good. We hope that you are still healthy and happy. Are you still confined to barracks, or not? Otto has written us that he is in the hospital, but he is getting along fine, but he has written me this in a very short expression; then I believe that my letter got on his nerves, and he will hear some more. I don't know anything more for now. With greetings, and hoping to see you soon, and the end of the war.

ITALY'S WORK UNAPPRECIATED.

Praises Her War Efforts and Tells of Italian Socialists Coming Here.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—John Spargo, President of the Social Democratic League, who has returned from the special mission to England, France and Italy on which he started last June with five members of his organization, including Charles Edward Russell, said that conditions in Italy were much better now than they were before the Americans went there. Coal was being sent in by land, and now that the menace of the submarines in the Mediterranean has been removed by the armistice signed with Austria, there will be no difficulty in sending it by sea. There is more food and less sickness in the country.

"I do think that America has not given credit to Italy," Mr. Spargo continued, "for what she has accomplished in the war, and the democratic conditions that are existing throughout that country. The Italians have done well in this war and when I left there two weeks ago the army was preparing for a big offensive to pulverize the Austrians.

"Early this week an Italian mission consisting of five Socialists and five labour representatives, headed by Alceste de Amoris of Parma, one of the most brilliant orators in Italy, will arrive in the United States to discuss conditions in their own country with Socialists and labour men here. They are practically all Socialists, and their object is to drive the thin end of the wedge in America."

Mr. Spargo makes his winter quarters in New York. His home is in Bennington, Vt.

Sergt. Gray's Close Call

Peterboro Soldier Was Badly Wounded by a Shell.

Mrs. Gray, 688 George street, has received an interesting letter from her son, Sergt. George A. Gray, who was wounded on September 27th, 1918. Sergt. Gray went overseas with the 33rd Battery, and this is the second time that he has been wounded. He says in part:

"I had a close call, as a shell burst about ten feet from me and killed four of our horses, and wounded another of the boys and myself. I got a piece of shell in my left leg, and a piece in my right, and about fifty small holes, just flesh wounds. I had on my great coat and it was just riddled. I never want as close a call again. The force of the explosion threw me about 20 feet and on to my face. I thought that my back was broken. We had to crawl into a hole and wait for the next shelling, for a long time, and was glad to get out. I tried to walk but they put me in an ambulance and then took me to a clearing station. That was on Friday. I lay there until Sunday with my boots and clothes on. Oh, I was tired, but glad to be there, as there were so many lying around dead and wounded worse than I was. Then they put me on a train and sent me to the base, and once more over to England where we are well looked after. I don't know where they will send me next, but don't worry, mother, for I am getting along fine. Your loving son,
George.

Killed in the Attack on the Hindenburg Line

Officer Tells How Pte. R. H. Chamberlain Met His Death.

Mrs. R. H. Chamberlain, whose husband Pte. R. H. Chamberlain, formerly of the 247th Battalion, has made the supreme sacrifice in France has received the following letter in regard to his death:—

September 8, 1918
54th Canadians, France

Dear Mrs. Chamberlain:—

Long ere this the news of the very sad death of your husband, Pte. R. H. Chamberlain of this battalion will doubtless have been officially announced to you and as an officer of his company, please allow me to convey my own sincerest sympathy and that of all his comrades in arms who are left to mourn his loss.

Pte. Chamberlain had only been with the battalion a few months but nevertheless had succeeded in gaining both the respect and goodwill of all ranks with whom he came in contact.

In the recent severe fighting in front of Arras on September 2, when the Canadians made their famous breach in the Hindenburg line Pte. Chamberlain was killed by a machine gun bullet through the head. Death was instantaneous and your husband gave up his life while bravely assisting in an attack on a strongly held enemy machine gun position. His body was later conveyed to the divisional burial ground where it was interred with military honours.

Do accept the very deepest sympathy of the officers and men of the 54th Battalion and especially "A" company.

Believe me,
Very sincerely,
HAROLD B. PRESTON,
Lieut.

Interesting Letter From a Millbrook Soldier Overseas

Signaller W. J. Collins Says the Germans Are No Match for the Canadians.

The following interesting letter is from Signaller W. J. Collins, son of Mr. W. J. Collins of Millbrook:

France, Oct. 6, 1918.

Dear Father and Mother,— This is really the first time in a week that I've had a chance to write home. I mentioned in my last letter that I had rejoined the battalion. Lou Sutton is looking fine and we are both glad to be together again. I received three letters, each containing $1. The money comes in handy. In fact my financial resources at that time being badly straightened. By now you will have read of the battle the Canadians were in. I'm not allowed to mention the place, but you'll know. Our battalion did the very best of work. It was certainly a rough trip, especially it being my first since rejoining. It was almost dawn when we first went 'over the top.' We did not encounter very much resistance during our first advances, but on the following days Fritz fought with stubborn tenacity. But I may say that we took our objective and even penetrated beyond it. Lou Sutton and I came through without a scratch, for which we were very thankful. It is said that it was the hardest fight the Canadians were ever in.

By the way. Just before going into the line, I received a lovely box containing cake, chocolate and caramels and I appreciated them all the more as they came at a most opportune time. I treated my pals and took the remainder into the line. If you could send some oil of cedar, tooth paste in next box I would be pleased. Alvin Richards was near me last week, but I was not able to go over to see him. I hope he came through this scrap safely. At present the weather has been fairly unsettled, but still it is getting near winter. I was very much grieved to hear that Lawrence Carveth had been killed in action. Please offer my sincerest sympathies to his people.

So Harry Skitch's garden is panning out O.K.? Is coal the same price it was? I noticed that there will be some difficulty experienced in obtaining it. How are the apple crops? I hope you will be lucky and get a good class of apples, especially as Inky likes them. Pardon this scribble, as it is written on my knee. Give my warmest regards to all my friends, and with love and kisses to all at home. Your affectionate son,
W. J. COLLINS.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

IF BACKACHY OR 'D KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take a glass of Salts to flush out Kidneys. Drink plenty water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or there times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Why Not Insure The Payment of Your Premium?

Suppose you are thirty-five years old, and carrying $10,000 of Life Insurance costing you, say $300.00 per year, would you not like, (in case of serious accident or illness destroying your earning power) to have the payment of this premium paid for you as long as you live?

Then Read The Following:

The Sun Life of Canada will give you a further insurance of $5,000.00 if you are still insurable, and if you become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the Company will not only relieve you of all future premiums on THIS policy during such disability, but they will guarantee to hand you a $500.00 cheque every year, which you see will pay the premiums on your $10,000.00 and in addition will give you a handsome CASH XMAS BOX each year and, nevertheless, will pay the face of your policy at maturity or death.

Many people hesitate to take out Life Insurance, lest some catastrophy should force them to give it up. Well, that bugbear is removed by the Sun Life of Canada.

American Soldier Writes to Friends in Peterboro

Describes the Big Fight in Which the Americans Took Part.

The following letter was received by Mr. Ben Jinks, 344 Simcoe street, a cousin of the writer:

Somewhere in France,
Sept. 10th, 1918.

Dear Father and Mother,—Well our regiment has been in action since Sept. 1st, and it is sure great stuff, I have experienced the most wonderful sensation I ever had. It was on Sept. 12th at one a.m. that the drive started and the big guns certainly let out an awful roar. They kept it up for over eight hours without a stop and took the Huns by surprise and our infantry just blew hell out of them and took Mt Seck. About one year ago the French lost thirty thousand men trying to take this highly fortified position, which had been held by the enemy for over three years at that time, and they lost it in fifteen minutes, but the Americans sure took it like General Grant took Richmond; took it with a very small loss and did it in about twelve hours. Several thousand Huns were captured, together with many large and small cannon and machine guns.

Many Dead Huns.

I saw many dead Huns and they sure were filled with lead and bayonet wounds. Saw several of our men dead also. The Germans retreated so fast that our artillery could not keep up with them, but the infantry ran them crazy. We have not lost a man in our regiment, a few hurt, but not serious. This war is something a man will never forget. All along the road I saw many dead and dying Huns, some with legs off, some with arms off, others with portions of their head and faces off, and saw many German boys that were not over fourteen years of age and others who appeared younger. I saw one German boy about fifteen feet from his machine gun, with his hands over his head, one eye open, the other one closed. He was riddled with bullets, and officers and men in our command stated that he could not possibly be over thirteen years of age. I must say one thing of the Hun, he is a mighty good runner and can even beat our horses at any distance. There are many more things that I could tell you, but the military rules and time do not permit of me doing so. This I will reserve until I get home. It is a great joke, at least I think so now, even if I did not at the time. Here is what it was. The night the drive started, I was on a waggon drawn by four horses, when suddenly I heard a whiz over my head and about thirty feet away a shell burst. Well I can't tell you how it felt, but I sure put the whip to the horses and moved on, as I thought that was no place to hesitate.

A Good Barrage.

The French officers said the barrage which our brigade laid down in front of the infantry, was the best ever fired on French soil. We are now in the first division and what are known as shock troops. We go where there is going to be a big drive and go in the drive for a couple of days and then are shifted to some other front. We are on the go all the time and don't have much time to write, so if you don't hear from me regular, don't worry, I will write at my first chance. I almost forgot to tell you that I have a German helmet and bayonet which I intend mailing to you when we get to a rest billet. Give my kindest regards to all of your and my friends who have shown interest enough in my welfare to make inquiry regarding me. I have been surprised at the great number of letters which I have received from so many with whom I have had but a slight acquaintance, and they are much appreciated in view of what we are over here endeavouring to accomplish. Often times I find it difficult to reply as quickly as I should like to, but I feel that they know why and that we have to fight as well as write, and the former is what we are for. Remember me kindly to Mr. Cobb and Collins, and with much love and lots of kisses to you and mother.

(Signed.) ALFRED JINKS.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Colour and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small stand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

COMMUNITY KITCHENS A SUCCESS IN ENGLAND.

(By United Press).

LONDON, Sept. 15. (By Mail). — As a fuel economizing measure, the food ministry has requested English households to forego the luxury of individual cooking fires this winter and patronize the national kitchen wherever available.

More than 600 of these hot meal clearing houses already have been established throughout the kingdom, and a large extension of the system is planned. The community kitchens have been eminently successful. More than 1,000,000 portions are being dispensed by them daily.

Housewives take their food, have it cooked, and call for it in time for dinner. A small fee is charged for the cooking.

A restaurant usually is operated in connection with the kitchen.

"MUT AND JEFF IN THE WOOLY WEST"

Simon-pure comedy of the kind that insinuates itself into our very marrows and makes life one long, blissful song, is promised in the latest "Mutt and Jeff" series which is underlined as the next attraction at The Grand Theatre next Saturday, November 9, matinee and night. Those who have had the good fortune of already witnessing this piece of genuine tomfoolery and fun pronounce it as the final word in up-to-date stage entertainment and modern production. It is in three rollicking acts and entitled: "Mutt and Jeff in the Wooly West." The plot naturally permits these two wonderfully humourous of all cartoon personages ample opportunity to display those talents for arousing mirth which has been their quota ever since their gifted creator, "Bud" Fischer, first brought them into the light of fame and happiness. As on previous occasions, Little Jeff becomes the buffer for a number of side-splitting pranks at the hands of that champion practical joker and trouble maker, A. Mutt. Though in the end, Jeff sufficiently outwits his chum and tormentor by becoming the proud possessor of a valuable gold mine which has been willed to him by his deceased brother. Their adventures carry them through many periods of stress and high-jinks, but throughout it all there is an irresistible tumult of hearty laughter and infectious mirth. As on former occasions, Manager Gus Hill, who again pilots the destinies of the inseparable twain of gloom destroyers, has mustered a capable cast which includes twenty dashing, fascinating and captivating pretty girls who will assist in dispensing and disporting themselves in a galaxy of tuneful songs and dances. Unique features, inimitable surprises, novelties and a gorgeous display of gowns and scenic investitures are also promised.

Slavs Try to Save Babies From Famine

(By Henry Wood—United Press Staff Correspondent).

ROME, Italy, Oct. 5. (By Mail).—Forty thousand babies from Austria's famine stricken provinces of Bohemia, Dalmatia, Herzegovina and Istria are being fed and cared for by the two more fortunate sister Slav provinces of Croatia and Slavonia.

Details of this latest effort on the part of the Slav provinces of Austria to sustain each other until an Allied victory can ensure them anational independence have just been received by Dr. Ante Trumbic, who, representing the Slav provinces of Austria, signed at Corfu on July 20, 1917, the pact with Serbia providing for a single united Southern Slav nation following the war.

Croatia and Slavonia rank as two of the most fertile provinces of Austria, and despite the ever increasing scarcity of food that exists throughout the dual monarchy, these two provinces continue to produce more than they need. Through their local diet they therefore proposed to the Austrian-Hungarian Government that they be allowed to succor the other Slav provinces of Bohemia, Dalmatia, Herzegovina and Istria. The only condition they demanded was that in recognition of this they be exempted from military requisition of their food products.

The proposition was turned down by the Austrian-Hungarian Government, whereupon the two more fortunate provinces of Croatia and Slavonia began immediately gathering together all the babies and little children from the other Slav provinces. No distinction was made either on religious grounds or grounds of diverse branches of the Slav race. The children likewise were distributed among the families of Croatia and Slavonia without religious or other distinction. Catholic children often being taken into orthodox families and vice versa. All are now being fed and educated towards the common end of saving the greatest number possible of the Southern Slav race, which has had the most disproportionate losses in the present war, for the future independent Slav state.

Puts O.K. on Bill of Fare

The Downcast Dyspeptic Takes Stuart's Dyspepsia Tabelts After Eating and His Stomach Is Now a Twelve-Cylinder Racer.

The old-time grouch is now a Sunny Jim. Instead of feeling dull stupid, irritable and dizzy after eating, he takes a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and is bright, active, good natured and full of "pep." He puts his O. K. on the entire bill of fare everything is good from the soup to the pie and cheese and sets snug and comfortable.

Once you learn the remarkable action of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in digesting food, preventing the over coming gassiness, heartburn, sour risings, lump in your throat, sagging and the other distresses of indigestion you will eat what you want at any time without the slightest distress. AN ARCTIC RAILROAD

CANADIANS HELPED TO BUILD LINE IN RUSSIA.

The Murmansk Road Looks Vulnerable as It Runs Parallel to the Finnish Border, But the Germans Are Aware That It Will Not Prove an Easy Job to Flank It.

THE Allies are now marching into Russia from the north. They are already far south of Archangel, where our marines joined them. The German have again called upon Finland to move against them. Presumably, in any case the Germans themselves will try to attack. And, from the map, the new Murmansk railroad, paralleling the Finnish border as it does for almost its entire length, seems to offer the most vulnerable of open flanks.

But the Germans themselves know better than that. The Murmansk railroad is about as far as possible from being an open flank. And just now there is at least one man in America who is in a position to tell why. That is Vladimir Goriachkovsky. After nearly two years of war, Russia found the absolute need of having an ice-free port on the Arctic. Goriachkovsky was chosen for the job because he was an engineer who had already solved many problems — his last work had been a railroad along the foot of the Altai mountains—and it was known that the Murmansk would be a road of many problems. And when it was planned and located never for a moment was it forgotten that it was a railroad which sooner or later might be a would-be object of attack.

But, first, to look at it only as a railroad. It runs from Svanka, the main-line junction east of Petrograd, six hundred miles north to Kola. Its last two hundred miles is within the Arctic Circle, and Kola is the world's only Arctic railroad terminus. To build the Murmansk in a year and a half—it was finished in November, 1917—100,000 men and 15,000 horses were put to work. And in one sense it is a Canadian railroad. For it was built with materials secured from Canada.

Three years before the marines reached the White Sea, our ships and our freight-handlers were going there with rails and construction machinery. When no pick would open the frozen ground, great fires were built to thaw it for brigades of Canadian steam shovels. When it was found impossible to get supplies through from the south for the construction camps, Canada was drawn upon for the needed flour and bacon.

When a railroad is to be built in record time, work must begin simultaneously along almost the whole line. And the tools and rails, the bridge work and supplies must be delivered as near as is in anywise possible to the particular section for which they are designed. Well, when the right-of-way was located, it was found that at various points on the road there were adjacent points on the coast of Kola Bay and the White sea where it might be possible for ships to make a landing. If they could do it, and make their deliveries exactly as per a previously arranged schedule, whole months could be saved. And our ships did it. Despite German submarines waiting for them outside, and icebergs impeding traffic within, they made their deliveries as per schedule. Not a day was lost, nor a meal. The bacon and the steel arrived together. If the Murmansk now promises to be one of the most useful roads on earth, America can claim at least a part of the credit for its being there.

But why can it not be flanked and cut from Finland? The answer lies in the nature of the country. It is absolutely wild and virtually impassable. It is much like northwestern Canada. There is the same amount of game. When our boys are not fighting, they can fish and shoot. There is the same lack of all roads. The sparse reindeer trails—reindeers sledded in the first French ammunition—are the best the Germans will find in that respect. From Lake Onega north there are the same lakes and marshes. For hundreds of miles, indeed, the marsh belt between the railroad and Finland is virtually unbroken. "And a marsh," said Hannibal, two thousand years ago, "is of all things accursed in war!" Where in those Russian marshes, are a few labyrinthine causeways, only the wolves seem able to tread them. And the wolves abound. To protect their horses and cattle in summer, the natives herd them on the islands found in the bigger lakes. And when during the building of the road, certain German prisoners, used in the construction gangs, availed themselves of their working liberty to run for it, in general two days or at most three proved enough to bring them back.

All this, however, is true only of the summer. In fact, south of Lake Onega it isn't true at all. What of the winter, when solid ice should furnish roadbed? In both cases the railroad is vulnerable. But, as will soon be seen, it is a vulnerability that need give us little cause to worry.

The Murmansk is sub-arctic only in a geographical sense. The last reaches of the Gulf Stream modify the climate, and there is more snow than ice. On the large lakes the gradually accumulating weight of snow forces the ice beneath the water, which cannot make for the best of military thoroughfares. And, finally, even if a German army did get through, it could stay only for the winter. From February to November its connection with its base would be severed absolutely.

Peterboro Boy Tells How Canucks Crossed the Canal du Nord

Sergt. Jas. McGrath of Peterboro, who went overseas with the 39th Battalion gives a vivid description of the crossing of the Canal du Nord by the Canadians in a letter to a local friend. In part he says:

I suppose you heard I have been wounded again. This time I was lucky enough to get to dear old Blighty. It is like being admitted to Heaven to get into a dear place again. In the future I shall always know how to appreciate clean sheets.

I guess you want to hear something about the big battle. Our barrage opened at daylight on the morning of the 27th (September). It was certainly an awful uproar. Pretty soon there was magnificient display of fire works from old Fritz followed by his answering barrage. It was not so intense as ours although quite bad enough. He certainly fought hard all the way.

It was a case of a fight to a finish We had been told before we went up that we had all kinds of reserves waiting for us and there was no mistake about it. There were machine guns every ten yards. You will have some idea what the fire must have been like from that. In crossing the Canal du Nord several mines went up but luckily none of our troops, happened to be near then. The object was to prevent us from crossing the canal The ground was literally strewn with dead around this part where our barrage had caught them. After crossing the canal we were confronted by several rows of barb wire. It was very unpleasant crossing this with the shells dropping all around and bullets whizzing past. The unit on our right had to take Bourlon Wood. I believe they got a lot of guns and stores there. I know we could see his ammunition dump exploding when the barage reached that far.

The fighting in the air was intense Jerry's machines came over flying very low, firing at us with machine guns as we were advancing. I saw several of his machines come tumbling down.

We soon got up quite close to him until it got too hot for him and he had to move back. Here was where we got our own back, up to this time we could not see him as he was taking cover, but as he moved back he presented a good target and our lads certainly took advantage of it. I know I fired my rifle until it became hot. We could see all his transport moving out of the villages around. We had almost reached our objective when I was hit by a machine gun bullet in the left hip. This ended by exertions in the big fight. I managed to hobble back about three miles to a dressing station, then followed the usual course until I reached Blighty. Needless to say I was glad to get back.

I am getting on fine and can get around a little with the aid of a stick. I don't think it will be long before I am O.K. again .

Mind Over Matter.

I know her intellect so clear
Is full of thoughts that are sincere.
Though gently smiling is her face,
Frivolity has there no place.
Her mental energies so vast
Range through the future and the past,
And yet there's no denying that
She wears a very funny hat.

'Tis easy to think thoughts profound
If your mentality is sound.
'Tis easy to preside or speak
'Mongst those who wisdom truly seek.
But it is an achievement rare
For one to be so sweetly fair,
A vision that we must admire,
In spite of all her queer attire.

A Charming Man.

Her Husband—Is it true that Senator Bigroll bought his way into the senate?

The Lady Member—Certainly not. He's a charming man, and he gave such delightful dinners to the lady members of the legislature. The dinner favors were gold mesh bags and diamond lace pins.—Boston Globe.

The Hesitation.

I like the hesitation whirls.
My fancy well they strike.
But I have never seen two girls
Who dance the thing alike.

The steps I do with Mistress May
Do not appeal to Nell,
And those I dance with winsome Fay
Are far from right with Belle.

The pirouette that pleases Jane
To Kate is full of faults.
Does no one live who can explain
The hesitation waltz?

MONEY IS NEEDED

Canada needs money. To clinch the Victory for the Allies, to round out the unexampled heroism and sacrifice Canada needs money. She has the power to make the final effort complete and all-conquering. Canada has the money; let every loyal son of this proud land tap it for his country's needs. The Government is asking for it so that the glory and sacrifice of the past years may not be compromised, may not be shadowed by any lack on the part of our citizenship; may not leave an unworthy stain on the brilliant history Canadians have been making.

Our gallant boys overseas call for manifestations of patriotism, yes sacrifice, and how better can we do this than by lending our treasure, our gold, our silver, in sustaining the cause so dear to their and our hearts? The Government does not ask for our gifts—we would give them, if it did—but it does ask every citizen to lend it all they can on undoubted security and at splendid interest rates. Victory Bonds are the things to buy and buy until every ounce of our blood tingles with joy over helping Canada and her splendid soldiers in their perils and their triumphs.

FEAR NOT COWARDICE

The New View is That It Is Not Shameful to be Afraid.

An English observer calls attention to the fact that our world war has destroyed the fear of being afraid. Heretofore, even to most distant antiquity, the one quality insisted on in the soldier was that he should be fearless and the more callously so the better. The faintest tremour of timidity was a black mark against the most resplendent knight as well as the lowliest bowman or halbardier and the schooling for war was an utter defiance of the personal risk.

The Germans, if we are to accept reports, induce an apparent bravery, but a counterfear—the terror of a discipline disobeyed— yet doubtless even among the enemy there are many deeds of the heroism of resolution and certainly among the Allies this quality has reached its highest developments. The men of Verdun admit to ghastly fears, but they gave no backward step.

Self-deception is no longer considered necessary or right and even, as the Englishman first quoted declares, frankness in admission of fear has become almost a convention and has led perhaps to an overexaggeration as one of the strange results of this astounding war.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

STEPHENS IS STRONG.

(By United Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.— Gov. William Dougals Stephens was a heavy favourite for re-election to-day over Theodore Bell, who entered the race as an independent at the last minute in order to "save the democratic party."

Republicans believed that the primary fizzle of Aug. 27 has resulted in a walk-away for the governor. Two formidable opponents— James Rolph and Francis J. Heney —were eliminated from the race by a technicality. Rolph, a republican, lost the republican nomination but beat Heney for the democratic nomination. But the supreme court ruled Rolph couldn't accept the democratic nomination because he failed to win that of his own party. Heney was disqualified because Rolph beat him.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

While Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Drope, of Grimsby were celebrating their silver wedding with an out-of-doors party recently, their son, Captain Drope, R. A. F., circled over the homestead and dropped his written congratulations from the sky, the loving missive falling close by his mother's chair. He had flown from Leaside with the object of "dropping in" on the family.

CALLS FOR DRAFTEES SUSPENDED AT PRESENT

Military Give Reason That Medical Men Advise Against Gatherings.

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.— On the ground that medical men advise against the congregation of people in large numbers during the present epidemic, the military authorities have suspended further calls for draftees for the time being. This is the official explanation, and those in authority answer with silence to any suggestions that the improved military situation and the favourable peace prospects have had anything to do with the suspension of the calls. The calling of draftees had been slackened for weeks, in any case, on account of the epidemic.

Of Interest to the Farmers

It is not too soon to order seed corn for next spring's planting.

The world's sheep stocks have decreased by 54,000,000 since the war began.

The American potato crop is 51,000,000 bushels below that of last year.

The number of grade stallions in Wisconsin has been cut in half in eleven years.

All the October sales of sheep and swine in the West have had to be postponed on account of the "flu."

Half a million acres have been sown to wheat in Kansas with money lent by the United Sattes Government.

Last year's cane crop in Louisiana produced 243,600 short tons of sugar. This year's production is estimated at 266,956 tons.

The cow that drops her calf before her time is a proper subject for suspicion and should not be allowed to run with the other cows.

The only complaint heard in regard to fall wheat in the district about Ruthven, in southwestern Ontario, is that it is growing too fast.

Machine-milking should not be forced too fast. Allow the cows a reasonable amount of time to get adjusted to the new method of milking.

Those hens which are first off the roosts in the morning and the last to go back to them at night are the ones to keep. The active hen is the laying hen.

Carcasses of animals dying on farms should be cremated or buried. Exposed, they are not only unsightly, but may spread contagious diseases.

In 1910 the price of a horse in the United States averaged about 240 per cent. higher than the price of a cow; now a horse averages only 50 per cent. higher.

It is estimated that about 65,700 acres of commercial cabbages were planted this year in the United States, as compared with 68,959 acres harvested in 1917.

GRAIN MARKET

There was a sharp advance in the speculative corn market which closed 7 3-4c. up from the close on the eve of the holiday. Light offerings at the opening gave the market a strong start upwards. The results of the elections were also interpreted as a bull argument in the market. Oats were correspondingly strong. Cash oats at Fort William are quoted 1 3-4c. higher. There is a scarcity of extra No. 1 feed immediately available, and quotation on this grade is 2c. higher than No. 3 C.W.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts yesterday, 85 cars, with 1,105 cattle, 48 calves, 1,485 hogs, and 1,734 sheep and lambs.

The market was good and strong yesterday for anything of weight and quality, at the fifty-cent advance recorded in the beginning of the week. Choice heavy steers are very few, but selling well around $13.50 to $14. Good choice butcher stuff strong at $11 to $11.50.

Quality stockers and feeders strong in proportion to the good demand for killing cattle.

The weak point in the market is the poor demand for cows and canners, common stuff being hard to dispose of except at concessions.

Light common eastern stuff very weak.

Lambs, choice, barely steady; heavy lambs, 50c. to 75c. lower.

Calves, steady for choice veal.

Hogs, steady at $18 to $18.25, fed and watered.

ARREST COFFIN GHOULS

Allegation of Profiteering on Relations of Fallen Soldiers

In an investigation in New York of the activities of alleged "coffin ghouls," the Federal authorities caused the arrest of two undertakers, on charges of attempting to defraud the Government.

The undertakers, it is alleged, by representing to relatives of dead soldiar the Government coffins in which the bodies were shipped home were "cheap pine boxes" secured orders for expensive caskets, and then appropriated the Governments coffins in some cases selling them to the Governmente again. The "cheap pine boxes" cost the Government $35 each.

The "coffin ghouls" are said to have reaped a rich harvest since the Spanish influenza began taking its toll in the training camps, and several more undertakers are said to be under investigation in New York.

Report on Farm Conditions For the Month of October

Fall Wheat is in Good Shape for Winter—Potato Digging is Practically Through—Marketing of Grain Has Been Slow.

The following is a summary of reports made by agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat has done so well during the latter part of October that in most instances it will be ready for winter with a good top and a thrifty appearance generally. From Essex comes the only complaint of insect injury, the Hessian fly having appeared in some places in that county.

Potato digging is practically through. Rot has already done much injury in Dundas.

The week has been most favourable for sugar beet lifting. Some remarkably good tonnages are reported from Lambton.

Turnips have done better than was expected. A farmer in Peterborough reports 45 tons to the acre. Prices for turnips have fallen in Brant; only from 15c. to 18c. a bushel now being paid, as dealers fear a shortage of cars for shipping during the winter.

Oxford reports that apples are being marketed freely, the inferior fruit going to the evaporators and cider mills, with but little waste.

Pastures Good.

Pastures up to very recently have been good, but are now well eaten off. Live stock are being stabled in good general condition. About the usual number of stockers are on hand, but Lanark reports that more young stock than usual will be fed this winter. It is stated from Grey that sales of live stock have been rather unsatisfactory this fall, as (with the exception of pure-bred shorthorns) cattle, sheep and hogs have been selling at low figures compared with sales held last year. On the other hand, a herd of grade Holsteins were sold in Brant last week at an average of $135, including an old cow which went at only $60, while some spring calves brought $42 each. Dairy cows have continued in fair milking condition.

Hogs have been going to market in good numbers despite falling prices. Small pigs have not been so much in demand during the week.

Marketing of grain has been slow, which some attribute to the epidemic hitting both buyers and sellers.

Hay is in much demand, but comparatively little is now changing hands. It has been selling at auction sales in York at from $20 to $25 a ton.

Fodder supplies otherwise are fully sufficient for the winter, the clean straw making up considerably for the scarcity of hay. Coarse grains are plentiful, and there is a good supply of ensilage.

Fall ploughing is nearly completed in Western Ontario, but wetter weather has prevailed in the eastern portion of the province, and work there is more backward.

Corn husking has been very active in Essex and Kent, and the recently extended leave of drafted men is said to have helped materially in this work. The effects of the influenza are still being felt in many rural sections.

AUSTRIAN AIRMEN ARE PRETTY WELL WHIPPED

(By United Press.)

Rome, Oct. 7. (By Mail.)—An Austrian airman captured recently on the Italian front provided some information that bears testimony to the extent to which Austrian aviaors are dominated by the entente flying men in Italy.

He stated that before any war flight is made, on his particular area, permission must first be obtained from the army operations branch. Hostile aircraft may be flying over the aerodrome, yet it is not permissible for a scout to ascend unless permission is first obtained from the H. Q. Austrian pilots, he said, even had difficulty in obtaining permission from squadron commanders for practice flights.

This prisoner said, that in six months at the front, he had flown over the lines on only five occasions. He explained that this state of affairs was due to the fear of losing pilots and machines.

Statements of prisoners always are received with caution, but there is no doubt that theallies have obtained a very marked superiority over the Austrian airmen.

Talk No. 3

War Costs and Rates

EVEN before the war came along upsetting values and disturbing the balance between costs and revenues, telephone service had been constantly expanded and increased in value, with no corresponding increase in rates.

In the telephone business the burden of such added costs is especially severe, because as a telephone system grows, even in normal times, the cost per telephone increases.

For 1918 our wage bill will total over $7,000,000 as compared with $5,100,000 in 1914.

The price record of telephone material since 1914 shows increases ranging from 50 to 200 per cent. Copper wire advanced from 18½ to 36½ cents a lb.; lead cable from 74 cents to $1.59 a foot; conduit from 5½ cents to 10 cents a foot; poles 67 per cent.; dry batteries 107 per cent.; desk telephone sets 111 per cent.; telephone transmitters 93 per cent.; receivers 60 per cent.; stationery 98 per cent.; bar iron 178 per cent. pig iron 230 per cent., and many other raw materials over 100 per cent.

Ordinary variations in the cost of materials are expected and provided for, but only a complete readjustment of our charges for service can enable us to carry on in the face of such increased costs for operation and maintenance as we are now obliged to meet.

Esquimau Lore In Story.

Nome—"Adventures of 'Ki-ya-yuk-tua-look,'" a tale of the wanderings of a character in Esquimou lore, was the only article published in the recent issue of "The Esquimau," a native school publication issued here. The story, written by a native, is believed to be as vivid to the natives of this country as the stories of Ulysses were to the Greeks and the Sagas to the Norsemen.

Joe Sekonik, an Esquimau, the author of the tale, is said to have spent much time gathering his material from the old people of the Kavalina section near here, many of whom heard it from their fathers.

According to the tale, "Ki-ya-yuk-tua-look," the hero of the story, was the father of the Kavalina tribe. The hero wandered into many parts of Northwestern Alaska, meeting strange adventures, fighting hostile natives and finally killing a giant. The tale tells of the life of the early Esquimaus, of their belief in magic and their harsh treatment of strangers. — Fairbanks (Alaska) Weekly Citizen.

World's Largest Dishes.

The largest food dishes in the world were recently bought of the Indians of Vancouver Island, British Columbia, for the museum of the American Indian, New York city. These big dishes are as large as a man. They were purchased from a tribe named Kwakiutls, which in English means "Smoke of the World." They are used for special festivals, when great numbers of Indians gather to celebrate some religious or ritual festival. The dishes are carved out of wood and stews and soups brought to boiling point by dropping hot stones into the food. Carvings at the ends represent the clan to which the dish belongs.

A Miracle.

Pte. William Price, R.A.M.C., of Toronto, in a late letter home tells of how on a recent Sunday evening a giant shell (eight inches in diameter and four feet long) passed through the roof of a barn used for service—and didn't explode. The subject of the evening's address had been "Miracles."

Skilute Is a Game of Skill.

Magistrate Weir of the Border Cities has decided that skilute is a game of skill and may therefore be manufactured and sold by the inventor, Mr. Fisher, of Waterloo.

The foundation for the meanest man is laid when a small boy turns the worm hole in an apple for his companion to bite from.

A woman will keep awfully silent about her own age, but she'll move heaven and earth to find out how old her pretty neighbor is.

We don't know just what the new waffle weave that the fashion editor speaks about is, but the name certainly recalls tender memories.

A militant threw a petition at King George's head, but missed him widely. English suffragettes, at least, should not despise the science of baseball.

Twenty years ago people thought it made them look cheap to carry two pounds of liver home. If caught as it they would explain that it was for the cat.

How can the United States hope to retain the confidence and respect of its neighbors as long as it exports 300,000 gross of fountain pens every year?

-THE WIFE-

BY JANE PHELPS

Ruth Convinces Brian That They Must Move.

CHAPTER XXXII.

Ruth had not given up the idea of living in better quarters. It would be more convenient for her to be nearer the shop and just as much so for Brian. She grew to hate the little, dingy hallway and stairs, the ugly paper in the rooms. The commonness of it all, had grown even more distasteful than at first, by contrast.

Each night as she left the artistic surroundings of the Fifth Avenue shop, and entered the door to the little flat, her revulsion grew greater, until finally she got up courage to hint something of her feelings to Brian.

At last she made up her mind that that she would speak to him. She could hardly wait to get home, now that she had decided, so anxious was she to speak to him about it. She had again taken to spending part of her noon hour looking for a place that suited her, and had found one that she considered ideal. It was in the very building she had looked for one, before she had her raise. And when she did reach home, and faced Brian, she couldn't say a word. Brian, however, sensed she had something on her mind and asked:

"Well, what is it?"

"Oh, Brian, I saw the dearest little apartment to-day! Not much bigger than this, but so light and airy. It is in a building not so far up-town, with an elevator and everything. And dear, it isn't decorated, and the superintendent told me he would let me select all the decorations. Do let's take it, dear. It would be better all around. A lawyer needs to live in a nice place; it is such a nice profession. Then, too, he is apt to meet a different class of people and so get some business." Ruth had grown tactful with Brian.

Ruth's mind was of the sort that goes straight at its object. She hated to beat about the bush, to weigh her words. Like most women, she was guided to a great extent by her emotions, intuitions and instincts. She "felt things" and felt hurt when Brian did not also "feel" them. She waited for his answer.

"How much was the rent?" he asked. He spoke slowly, heavily.

"Only fifty dollars a month. Just fifeen more than we pay here, and it is worth twice as much."

"Well, there may be something in what you say about a lawyer's needing to live in a good locality. Perhaps we can arrange it. I expect to get some new clients soon until then I guess I can stretch what I have, so that it will cover the extra rent." He entirely ignored Ruth in the matter. He let her understand tha if he consented to the change, it was because she had convinced him that it was good for a lawyer to live in a better apartment than the one they now occupied.

He knew as well as did Ruth, that he alone could not pay fifty dollars rent and have anything left to meet his share of the other expenses, as they had been doing. But it pleased him to ignore that side of it, and Ruth was too delighted at her success to cavil.

The next day she confided to La Monte that she hoped soon to be living nearer the shop. He in turn told Mandel.

"I hear you are going to move," her employer said to Ruth a day or two later.

"Yes, I have found a small apartment, and it is not yet decorated. That, I think, decided me to take it. The one we have now is wickedly ugly. It has got on my nerves."

"I think you are wise. One's surroundings effect a person more than they are sometimes aware; especially an artistic person like yourself. You say the place is not decorated. If you will ask La Monte, he will show you a lot of stuffs we have had left from different jobs we have finished, some of them years ago. If there is anything in the lot you can use, take it and welcome."

"Oh, thank you!" Ruth replied with fervor. She well knew that there would be some beautiful things in such a collection.

"Don't thank me. Just help yourself."

Ruth could scarcely wait to see La Monte and give him her employer's message. He looked surprised for a moment, then led the way to a small closet. He unlocked the door, and said:

"I'll turn you loose. If Mr. Mandel told you to take all you wanted, you will find much that will make your apartment very attractive. Some of the stuffs are exquisite, although there is no great quantity of any one thing."

Left alone, Ruth commenced to pull the things off the shelves. Her little exclamations of delight when she found a piece of brocade or tapestry large enough for a pillow or a drape, delighted and amused the man listening a short ways away.

Arthur Mandel had followed Ruth, anxious to see how the first gift he had proffered would be accepted. They meant nothing to him, these pieces of fabrics so lovely it was a joy to handle them to one who realized their beauty; yet he would have not sold them, save for a round price. Ruth's pleasure in them more than repaid him what he had lost by giving her to know she had been obfolding them up and laying them back, in orderly precision, he hurried away. He had no intention of allowing her to know she had been observed.

GUNNERS ARE PRAISED.

Splendid Work Done by the Canadian Artillery.

The most striking thing about the Canadian battlefield in the recent offensive is the extraordinary good shooting our gunners made. This was specially so along the enemy front line and support. In the northern area of our sector—immediately west of Marcelcave—this ran over a wide sweep of prairie, pock-marked throughout with shell holes in regular sequence, like one of those round marble boards with which children play

Nothing could have lived there. Nothing did live, as was attested by the hundreds of Boches dead. A remnant, no doubt, escaped through the town, but, with our men hard on their heels, they left all their war material and even their personal effects. Hundreds of our boys came back fully equipped with Boche gear. South of here, too, we secured a dozen heavy guns of various calibre.

Dead horses on this plateau testified to the heavy shelling against our cavalry as it pushed forward early Thursday afternoon. Where a line of infantry, patiently working it way forward, mopping up as it goes, is almost indistinguishable from the dun color of the surrounding landscape, the horsemen stand out boldly against the skyline.

This plateau, quite fairly characteristic of the rest of the Canadian sector, except the heavy wooded areas in the centre—Hangard Wood and so on, which only fell after a bitter struggle—offers no natural impediment. And the enemy, over-confident of his power in the open field and with the fixed idea of breaking away from trench warfare, had taken very little trouble to dig himself in. His trenches are elementary, and the barrage wiped out much of their outline. There is surprisingly little wire.

More might have been done, because a vast amount of it was captured. But the Boche was lazy and arrogant — the wondrous superman was caught napping.

Much of this plateau is in wheat, and should have been in stock before this. It afforded good cover to snipers—and now to corpses. The tide of battle has ebbed and flowed over it since last March, and it will not pay for the reaping.

It was along these trench lines that our airmen performed so gallantly. They were prepared to aid the attack by bombing the front and support lines, but the fog came down in such dense folds that they must either abandon the task or take perilous risks. So they flew as low as one and two hundred feet along the trenches, sweeping them with machine-gun fire. This gallant act accounts for our relatively heavy losses in air craft. Their poor crumpled frames lay here and there upon the plateau, but it had not been in vain—it had added to the terror of that sudden crushing assault just before dawn glimmered in the east.

Plodding across that field were little knots of stretcher-bearers and burial parties. Occasionally a shell broke among them, but they carried on their grim task unheeding. On that high and once fertile plateau one looked over what had been the smiling land of France, dotted with bosky villages and graceful church spires. Along these roads children came singing from school. Hereabouts was garnered much of the nation's agrarian wealth. Below that eminence in former days of peace the broad valleys shone in the sun like the bright chequered pattern of a patchwork quilt—the many hues of the ripening crop, wheat, oats, millet, vetch, peas and beans, undivided by hedge or fence, but melting the one into the other in their little erratic squares and oblongs—undistinguished indeed save by the bright hues of nature's pallet.

Now all is desolation. The hand of the Hun lies heavy on the land. Tottering walls and empty shells are all that are left of the villages; the church towers are levelled in sad heaps of stone and mortar, or, less happy, expose to heaven scarred flanks and desecrated altars. Not a living soul is to be seen but men in khaki. Along this road a monument, "To the heroes of the army who on this spot made their heroic stand in the war of 1870"—mentioning them lovingly by name. Officer This and Soldat that; it has been torn in two by a shell.

The Canadian army says the Hun must pay for all this; that there must be no peace until these things have been avenged, and such poor reparation exacted as can most adequately meet the case. In these past few days he has paid the first instalment of this heavy score. In the opinion of the army, the account cannot be liquidated until he has been driven out of France and the war carried into his own country. The Canadian force, with these things ever before it, is not mealey-mouthed about them. Justice cries aloud for retribution.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Molly's Man in the Service

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"I didn't know as you had a man in the service," commented Mrs. Dean from her citidel behind the coffee urn at the head of the long boarding-house table. She nodded in the direction of the newest and quietest of the young women who tenanted her rooms and partook of the bounty of her plate and then looked up to Mrs. Dean with the suspicion of a blush on her face.

"Didn't you?" she said and then the other boarders whose noses were not buried in their morning papers looked back at Mrs. Dean to see how she would take Miss Pringle's calm rejoinder.

"I happened to see the service flag flying in your window—that was all," she sniffed. "I always go in to inspect after Maggy said it was something new. Well, thinks I, Miss Pringle has been keeping no brothers in the service, Miss Pringle, and we hadn't yet seen any soldier beaus around here evenings, or any other beaus for that matter—so I says to myself Miss Pringle is a sly one—she's got her Sammy at the front like the rest of them."

Miss Pringle's color deepened and she studied the brown and buff of her pancakes with even more scrutiny. Some of the boarders who had been deep in their papers felt the oppression of the silence that followed and looked up, so that almost all eyes were on Miss Pringle. But she made no comment. And after breakfast in more than one group of dispersing boarders the question uppermost was "Did you see poor Miss Pringle?" "Poor girl I suppose she has a young man at the front—she's never mentioned him and I've never seen a picture—I didn't think she had any beaus—but you never know, still water runs deep." Such were the other comments.

As Miss Pringle passed, still a little embarrassed, from the dining room a tall, lonely-looking young man stood back to hold the door open for her

For Healthier, Prettier Hair

VELNOR SHAMPOO IN CONCENTRATED FORM

She had seen him several times before. He was one of the new boarders—had a back hall bedroom somewhere in the higher regions of the house. Apparently he had no claims to stellar consideration from Mrs. Dean. She had never introduced him to any of the pretty girls of the house and she never, never asked him to have more sirup on his pancakes. He had heard Mrs. Dean's prying remark to Miss Pringle, for as she passed him to leave the room he looked into her eyes for just a second.

"Don't let her worry you," he said. That was all; but Miss Pringle felt that in that anthill of a house she had at least one friend. And Molly Pringle needed a friend—she needed to know that someone believed in her—for as a matter of fact she knew herself to be a fraud. The service flag was merely a flag that fluttered outside her window because other girls she knew had similar flags fluttering from their windows. She hadn't meant to cheat but when the man with the little flags on the street corner called out every evening as the girls from the store were passing: "Got a man at the front? Buy a flag to show you've got a man at the front," other girls stopped and bought flags, some with one star, some with two, some with three, and hurried away seemingly much happier for the small purchase. Molly had no man at the front or anywhere else, for that matter, but still she bought her little flag and let it wave from her boarding-house window. Then she started to work knitting mufflers and sleeveless sweaters and wristlets for the general Red Cross supply; and, as she worked her needles far into the night, she pretended that they were all going for her soldier—for the Sammy for whom the flag in the window was waving. Then she bought some soft green wool and started knitting a sweater for herself. After knitting an hour for her Sammy she would knit fifteen minutes for herself—that was what the other girls did—the other girls in the store who had real Sammies.

Sometimes Molly took her soft green knitting into the boarding-house sitting room—when she was waiting for dinner that was not really quite on time. She hesitated about taking down the soldier knitting for fear another inquiring remark might come from Mrs. Dean. The girls had watched her knit and had told her she was a rapid worker, and once she had wound a skein of worsted on the back of a chair and another time the tall, forlorn young man, who had once held the door open for her, seemed to rise up from a shadowy part of the room and offered to hold the yarn for her. He had held to the last end of the wool and as it crawled through his hand, as Molly wound the ball to completion, he looked at it and stroked it with his other hand.

"It's a very pretty color," he said, and then, having accomplished his usefulness, he settled back into the shadow of the room.

Once after that the young man approached her apparently with some embarrassment and asked her why she did not do her knitting in the living room any more. He explained the question by saying that he had hoped to help her wind another skein sometime. But after that Molly did her knitting in her own room.

One evening a half hour after dinner time Molly was alone in her room sitting up on her little couch by day and bed by night, knitting. There was a tap at the door and Molly, not wishing to put down her knitting—it was the fifteen minutes during which she knitted on her own sweater—called out "Come in," without rising. The door opened and the tall young man who had wound her wool stood there.

"Won't you come in?" said Molly, rising and motioning to the one chair in her neat little room.

The young man first said that he couldn't and then did come in and, after five minutes of embarrassed searching for a cue to his errand, finally came abruptly to the point. He wanted to get from her a little of the soft green wool, just enough to make three or four rows on a man's sleeveless sweater. He told her he had tried to find some stray pieces when she was knitting downstairs but had been unsuccessful.

Molly wound off a generous ball from a fresh skein, gave it to him and asked no questions. As he rose to go he glanced toward the service flag that she had pulled into her room for the night. He walked over to it and fingered the flag.

"Is it a brother?" he asked apparently with some difficulty.

"N-o-o," said Molly, blushing guiltily. "That is, I have no brothers." Molly was prompted to add, "I'm not blushing for the reason you think I am," but of course she didn't.

It was not till after the neighborboarder had left her room that she began to wonder why he had asked for the length of green wool and her curiosity increased so that, as the time passed, she determined to ask him. Still when she met him at breakfast it was not entirely easy. Then when she came home for dinner and paused in the sitting room she heard the latest boarding-house gossip.

Yes, the tall young man was going—he had his commission in the engineers' division, or something of the sort. He had known that he would get it all along and had never said anything about it—and now he was practically gone. It really was too bad—Mrs. Dean told some of the pretty girls—that they had not known before. He was not such a bad-looking young man, only very quiet. He would not be back for dinner—he would perhaps come back for his things after dinner and that would be the last of him.

Molly was devising a scheme whereby she might make sure of seeing the young man. The excuse she made to herself was that she wanted to know what he was doing with the green wool. She left her door ajar into the hall and when she saw him passing to his room to get his things she called him. He came into her room—told her he had come back specially to see her as he could have sent a messenger for his things. "I wanted to tell you about the wool," he said. "I know you won't laugh at me. I'm a queer sort of fellow—I never knew any girls. I guess they don't see much in me. And the other men were all having their girls knit sweaters for them with a stripe of the color of the sweater they made for themselves along the edge, and—well, it was foolish of me—but I wanted a sweater like that. I didn't want the fellows to know I didn't know any girl that would make one. So I knitted one for myself and when I came to the edge I made up my mind I wanted to wear the color you were going to wear."

"Why didn't you let me knit the sweater for you?" begged Molly, almost in tears.

"Well, you see, you had your Sammy." He pointed toward the little service flag.

"I think that that flag is for you," she said. "I got one because the other girls did—I wanted to have a man at the front, too."

And the next day when Molly told the girls she was engaged to the young engineer Mrs. Dean said she had known it all along and before long she told her boarders that she made the match.

"My Nerves Were So Bad at Times that I Could Not Keep Back the Tears"

WHEN the nerves collapse there is such a feeling of utter helplessness that strong men, as well as women, cannot do otherwise than weep.

The average physician is sadly at a loss when consulted by a nervous patient, and we have, from such an eminent authority as Dr. Richard Cabot, the statement that half the ordinary practitioners' work is with derangements of the nerves.

Think of the headaches, backaches, neuralgic and sciatic pains, the sleeplessness, indigestion and tired, depressed feelings that give the doctors their business, and you will realize the truth of this statement of Dr. Cabot.

The conditions under which people have lived during the last few years has meant enormous strain on the nervous system. The fear, the worry, the anxiety have wasted nerve force at such an enormous rate that persons of nervous temperament have been unable to stand the strain—the result is nervous collapse.

Recovery must necessarily be slow, and the average doctor, accustomed as he is to treating symptoms only, finds difficulty in bringing about restoration, and often fails to realize the helpless and discouraged condition of his patient.

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies in condensed and easily assimilated form the vital substances with which Nature rebuilds the starved and wasted nerve cells it stands out to-day as the greatest of nerve restoratives.

A careful reading of this letter will give you an idea of just what you may expect from the use of this treatment, because it describes an average case:

Mrs. S. Sharp, Midland, Ont., writes:—"About eleven years ago I had a serious nervous breakdown, and was so bad at times that I could not keep back the tears. I also had a queer feeling in the back of my head; sometimes it seemed to be going backwards. I could not do any sewing, and finally could no do work at all. I tried other remedies and doctors' medicine, but they only gave me temporary relief. Last fall I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and had not taken very many until I found I was getting better. I kept on taking them, and am at present greatly improved. I am now able to do my work, and they have strengthened me splendidly. I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for nervous trouble of any kind."

The next step is to make the test of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in your own case. If you are careful to see the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., on the box you buy you will be sure that you are getting the genuine. 50c a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Tobolsk, a Trade Center.

At one time Tobolsk was the capital of western Siberia, and an important station for the detention of political prisoners. It is fortunately situated, near the junction of two important rivers, one of them the Tobol from which it takes its name. Not far away lie the ruins of an even older city, which dominated the region before the Russians conquered it. Tobolsk itself was founded by the Cossacks and built largely by the labor of political prisoners and prisoners of war. It has a single cathedral, inclosed within a high towered wall, built in imitation of the Kremlin in Moscow by Swedish prisoners of war. The ambitious idea of imitating the thousand churches of the Kremlin in far off Siberia never got farther than this first cathedral. The rest of Tobolsk is a typical little Siberian city, with a so-called palace and wide grass grown streets bordered by low wooden houses. There are a few shops and banks of more ambitious structure, for Tobolsk is the center of quite a trade.

Philippines Need Tractors.

Long-continued ravages of rinderpest have greatly reduced the number of carabao in the Philippines, writes a correspondent. The continued expansion of agriculture in the islands, therefore, will create a good demand for a light farm tractor to be sold at a reasonable price. Purchases of heavy tractors which sell at high prices will be limited to a few of the larger hacendas, but the market for light tractors for small planters and co-operative groups will be general. No such tractor so far introduced into the islands has been satisfactory.

the journey of a ten dollar bill

I am a Ten Dollar Bill.

I may also add that I am a Canadian Ten Dollar Bill and naturally doing all I can to help our fighting boys win this war.

I was crisp and clean then.

About a year ago when I was only a few days old, I was handed out by one of our chartered banks to a storekeeper named John Doe. I was crisp and clean then, with a bright yellow back. I have spent a mighty busy year, and faded out a lot, but, believe me, my usefulness is as great as ever.

When I first started out in life the Victory Loan Campaign of 1917 was on. In fact, my very first job in life was to help pay for a Victory Bond John Doe had bought. Together with millions of other bills, large and small, that answered the 1917 call, I was sent to Ottawa. But I didn't stay at the Capital long.

"Here's the ten dollars I owe you."

The very next day I went to pay a lumber dealer in British Columbia for some spruce he had sold the British Government for aeroplanes. The lumber dealer immediately put me in the bank.

But just as I was getting used to my surroundings I was taken from the bank and soon found myself slipped in a small yellow envelope with some other bills and handed out one Saturday to one of the lumber company's employees, who carried me home with him, where I remained all night.

He carried me home with him.

The next day in he goes to a storekeeper:—"Here's the ten dollars I owe you," he said to the storekeeper, who immediately "rang me up" in his till.

But my stay there was brief. Next day the storekeeper totalled us up, and I heard him say to his assistant: "Collections are splendid again. I can pay all my accounts this month."

I came into the possession of a traveller.

Shortly after this I came into the possession of a commercial traveller, and I next saw the light of day in a small restaurant in a grain town away out on the broad prairies. No sooner had I got comfortably settled in the safe when in comes a farmer with an elevator receipt which he had received for a load of wheat. "Cash this for me," he asked, and I passed into the farmer's wallet, but only for a few minutes—for on his way home he spent me at the hardware store in town for gasoline to operate his threshing outfit.

I next saw the light in a restaurant.

I am not going to take your valuable time going into details of the different hands I passed through in my trip east—through Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, until I found myself in the services of a firm in Montreal engaged in making munitions. Here I took another trip to the bank.

In the service of a firm making munitions.

It was very peaceful and quiet in the bank vaults. But I was glad they did not keep me there long. I don't want to be idle when there is so much war work to do. And I wasn't, for on Friday I once more found myself in a pay envelope. The man who got me said to his wife that evening—"Here is the money for the household expenses." The following Monday I was traded for shoes for the man's children.

The shoe dealer almost immediately sent me to a leather firm. They turned me over to a tannery. The tannery passed me on to a farmer to pay for some hides. The farmer bought a tractor and sent me to the city. Here I was once more enclosed in an envelope and handed to a workman on pay day. He used me to help buy a suit of clothes. The tailor sent me away down east to square his account with a cloth maker. He turned me over to a coal dealer. He spent me for fish, and I took a short trip on a fishing boat and heard the men talking about U-boats and I looked anxiously around the horizon. But we got safely home with a fine catch. The fisherman needed some new tackle, so once more I started inland.

The farmer bought a tractor and sent me to the city.

He spent me for fish.

I am a Ten Dollar Bill—that's my face value. You can see I am plainly marked "Ten Dollars,"—But the strange thing is that during this year I have bought hundreds of dollars worth of goods, paid hundreds of dollars worth of debts on my journey from place to place in Canada. And what I am doing, forty-two million other ten dollar bills who volunteered to serve their country at the last Victory Loan, are also doing.

"Cash this for me?" he asked.

Older bills I have met—bills that were in circulation before the war—tell me that Canadian people don't use us for the frivolous purposes they once did. This, of course, is as it should be, because we must defeat the Germans. We must maintain our boys at the front, which we could not do if my efforts and the efforts of my fellows are ill-spent.

Now, Canadian ladies and gentlemen, I am going to bring my talk to an end by telling you the queerest thing of all about my travels.

My present home is in the bank, the officials of which gave me permission to come here and address you in the interests of the Victory Loan 1918. I am at this very moment lying at the credit of the same John Doe, storekeeper, where I was last year. I heard him say when he handed me to the bank—"Put that ten dollars to my credit, please. I am going to buy some Victory Bonds next week."

I was traded for shoes for the children.

So, I presume, I am destined for another trip to Ottawa, and another busy year going up and down the country—keeping factories, farms, lumber camps and stores paid for their goods and their labor. And I am proud to be of such service to my country.

He used me to help buy a suit of clothes.

Just one thing more and I am through: I hope each Canadian will do everything he can to defeat the Germans, because, if he does not, I, as a Canadian Ten Dollar Bill, will not be worth much — and German money, which I understand, is called "marks," will travel up and down Canada in our places, and my race will disappear from the face of the earth.

Thanking you greatly for your attention, ladies and gentlemen.

We got safely home with a fine catch.

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee, in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

SERIOUS FIRE WAS AVERTED IN HASTINGS

Bucket Brigade Saved a Farm From Destruction.

HASTINGS, Nov. 6.—Citizens were somewhat alarmed on Tuesday morning by the sounding of the fire alarm, but no serious results followed. Some children had started a bon fire near the residence of Mrs. Langley, Front street, which caught in the barn and only for timely assistance the building would undoubtedly have been destroyed. A bucket brigade was soon on the scee and the blaze quickly extinguished.

The death took place of Mrs. Jas. Robb of Western Canada. Deceased had been in failing health for some time and took the trip east with the hope of regaining strength, but all to no avail as she gradually sank until the end came. Her death occurred at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Breckenridge of Westwood.

A Tramp in Autumn

THE Canadian autumn is not a season to be trifled with and one is apt to find oneself too breathless for words before its magnificence. It is an epic of color in which all the splendor of the year seems to flame for an instant into a mighty finale of scarlet, gold and crimson.

The Ottawa river and its tributary, the Gatineau, which enters opposite the city, roughly parallel each other for a distance, and at one place a walk of 20 miles from a tiny station on the Gatineau will bring you over the hills to an even tinier station beside the Ottawa—provided you can do the distance over the vilest of roads in the bare seven hours between trains and dark on an October day. We thought we could, we, that is the boy, who is really a girl, the botanist and I, for we had made many other trips in the neighborhood not quite so long, and had learned to get out of holes when we got in them and to find our way about when paths gave out and promising bush roads ended in a timber cut.

So here we are at our Gatineau river station, half-past ten in the morning, and off we start, pack on back, up the hill. The morning is suspiciously bright for October and the botanist shakes an experienced head, but thinks it won't rain before dark. The autumn woods are glorious; maple trees are vivid scarlet, green and crimson, here are birches dropping a golden largesse on the ground, while the dark pines seem to stand aloof both from magnificence and from change. We come to a village, a thing of sawmills and sawdust where a little river is dammed into a log-packed lake, and the sound of a buzz-saw drones into the silence. With a whoop and a rush the children break out from school, stopping an instant to stare and gabble shrill wonder at anyone's madness in walking when they might ride or stay at home.

For us this village is the first parting of the ways and our maps are inscrutable. The botanist knows the patois and volunteers for service. He comes back mystified. There is a road all right, and a diagram in the dust has fixed the next few miles of it in his head, but as for the stopping place, there used to be one, that is all! On we go until our desires and a hillside brook suggest lunch. The boy prides himself on his camp cooking, but the botanist of a thousand camps bids him sit still for once and see how it is really done—and the result is received with cheers. We sit around the fire for a minute or two, but the 10, 15, 20-mile verdict of the villagers is still in our ears, so we pack up and put our very best foot foremost.

The suspicious sunshine has given way to wispy clouds and a sighing wind and the botanist withdraws his time limit about the rain. We are out on the height of land now; on either side of our water-puddled path stretches a black bog and away in the west a little lake glints. At last we meet a plodding figure, the first we have seen outside the village, and he knows something at any rate, even if it is not encouraging. Three miles more to the lip of the Ottawa Valley and another three to the station, and as for that hostel, he had heard there used to be one, but "he came from up the river." We look at each other rather blankly; the further we go the further seems to go out shelter before us, but we are getting reckless and we can't go back anyhow. So we trudge on, for we are desperately anxious to see the Ottawa Valley by daylight.

We just do it—just and no more—for quite suddenly in the fading light we walk right out on the edge of a mighty cliff sweeping straight to the river flats. In the distance the great river lies like a silver ribbon unrolled in the dusk, and here and there amongst the flat fields farm houses or barns—it is too dark to decide which — suggest a roof over our heads at least. We are in a real hurry this time, for a light has just been lit somewhere far below us, the road twists interminably and we have, so to speak, run from scent to view. We find the cottage and now our inquiries are solely concerned with beds and breakfasts, for the miles lie behind us.

"Yes," says the cottager, in words of portent, "there used to be a place up the road a bit, but it was burnt down three years back." As they say in the movies, we register consternation; no wonder we never got past rumor! The cottager proceeds, "The station house might take you in if the boys aren't at home, they work up the river." Consternation turns to hope once more, and on we go for the last lap of the race. Soon our feet thumb a bridge beneath which gurgles a stream, and we decide to stop and have supper; so we scramble down and scratch about in the dark for dry wood and leaves or anything that will burn.

We are soon on the road again, and with our packs the only light things in our world we stumble along in ruts and holes. The rain begins to fall straight and softly. Another mile and we are on the station platform knocking at the house door, and are bidden entrance in an unmistakably English voice.

In the morning the rain is still pouring down, so after a country breakfast we make a bolt for the train and are puffed back to town as we plan to make the walk again, this time from the other end so as to get the view of the Ottawa Valley by daylight and to end up at a small hostel which we knew for certain to be standing beside the Gatineau river.

Combing Won't Rid Hair Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this to-night, and by morning, most it not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Revolution Breaks Out in Several Parts of Germany

German Battleship Crews Mutiny at Kiel and Kill Their Officers—The Red Flag of Revolution is Hoisted—Movement is Spreading.

DEMAND END OF WAR

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Members of the battleship Kaiser at Kiel have mutinied and hoisted the red flag. Officers attempting to defend the German flag were overpowered and two of them, including the commander, were killed. A number of others were wounded, according to the Cologne Gazette. Three companies of infantry were sent from Kiel to restore order. They immediately joined the revolution and a fourth company was disarmed. During last night Hussars sent to Kiel from Wandsbeck were encountered outside of Kiel by sailors armed with machine guns and forced to turn back. The Soldiers' Council has decided that all officers must remain at their present posts, but must obey the Council, which controls all food supplies. Machine guns are mounted in various parts of the city.

Refused to Salute.

Cuxhaven and Wilhelmshaven are quiet. An Amsterdam despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co., says that two battleships, Kaiser and Schleswig-Holstein were seized by mutiniers and that twenty officers, including two captains, were killed. It is reported that the garrison at Kiel refused to march to the harbour and that the sailors threatened to blow up the battleships if attacked. They are defending the ships and refuse to return to their duties until a treaty of peace is signed. Admiral Souchon, Governor of the port, having asked the mutineers what they wanted, has approved all their demands, including even their refusal to salute the officers, it is said.

Revolution Spreads Into Other Parts of the German Empire

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 7.—The revolution which broke out in Kiel when German sailors seized two German battleships, is reported to have spread into a part of Holstein, where several garrisons have deserted and are marching on Kiel, waving red flags.

The airdrome at Apenrade has been seized by the revolutionists, who arrested the airmen. Altona and Fleusberg also are reported to have been evacuated.

Revolution Extending.

The revolution has extended to the major portion of the Province of Schleswig.

Semi-Official Report.

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 7.—The Wolff Bureau, the semi-official agency of the German Government, has officially confirmed the reports that great riots have taken place in Kiel. It is declared, however, that order has been restored. The general strike continues.

Confirmation also was made of riots and a general strike at Hamburg and Lubeck.

Strike Extending.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 7.— Strikes at the Imperial wharves at Cruxhaven and Wilhelmshaven are expected to occur to-day, an agency advice from Amsterdam says. Authorities have ordered the arrest of sailors under suspicion. The strike of dock workers at Hamburg, involving 10,000 men, is reported by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Amsterdam, Socialist leaders in Germany have informed the Government they cannot guarantee freedom from revolution unless the armistice is signed immediately. The miliary governor of Kiel, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen, has accepted the following demands of Workers' and Soldiers' Council:

The release of all military and political prisoners.

Complete freedom of speaking and writing.

Released prisoners must not be punished.

Officers who acknowledge and comply with measures of Council shall be permitted to remain or to leave the service.

Three Companies Mutiny.

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 7.—Three companies of German infantry, despatched to suppress the revolution in Schlesweg-Holstein, threw their arms into the water, it was reported here to-day. A fourth army was disarmed.

Mutinous sailors mounted machine guns at vantage points aboard the warships at Kjel to repel attackers. They demand an immediae peace.

Cavalry reinforcements, coming up the roads from Wamsbeck, were fired on by the sailors. Two of the cavalrymen were killed.

The rebels have formed a naval soviet and have taken prisoner Admiral Soucheon, the Governor of Kiel.

Machine guns have been posted at various points about the city.

In Hands of Revolutionists.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The entire German navy and a great part of Schleswig is in the hands of the Revolutionists, according to reports received in Copenhagen from Kiel.

Following points were passed by the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council:

First, Secretary Haussman will take care that demands of Soldiers' and Workmen's Council shall be forwarded to the Reichstag.

Second, the immediate cessation of all military measures directed against the movements of the Council.

Third, the navy has been ordered to leave harbour.

Fourth, military prisoners to be released.

Conflicting Reports Lack Official Confirmation---German Envoys Said to Have Passed Through Into the Allied Lines and Will Confer With General Foch This Evening---France is Enthusiastically Celebrating the News---Populace Wild With Joy.

LAST MINUTE BULLETINS LACK DEFINITE NEWS

Germany and the Allies signed an armistice at 11 a.m. to-day, hostilities ceasing three hours later.

As Marshal Foch's terms are known to include provisions which will prevent the resumption of hostilities, the greatest war of all time has come to an end.

At the time the document was signed the Allied armies were smashing forward on a 150-mile front, from the Scheldt to the Meuse, tearing the German defense to pieces and driving the enemy into utter route. The Americans took Sedan this morning, and great gains were made at all points on the battle front.

Before the terms were submitted to Germany, the Kaiser was forced to apply to Marshal Foch and Admiral Wemyss, as military representatives of the Allies, under a flag of truce.

The German Delegation Was Forced to Enter the Allied Lines Under a White Flag of Truce.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The greatest war in history officially came to an end at 2 p.m. to-day.

The Allies and Germany signed an armistice three hours earlier on the field of battle. The German delegation had come into the Allied lines under a white flag.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The United Press bulletin which brought the first news to America of the signing of the armistice with Germany was signed personally by Roy Howard, President of the United Press, now in general charge of the United Press organization in France. The despatch also carried the signature of William P. Simms, Chief of the Paris Bureau.

Canadian Press:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—It was officially announced at 2.15 this afternoon by the State Department that the Germans had not signed an armistice.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—(3.15 p.m.).—By the Associated Press. — Four German officers bearing white flags, it is officially announced, probably will arrive at the headquarters of Marshal Foch to-night.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Secretary Lansing authorized the statement that the German armistice delegation would not be received by General Foch until five o'clock this afternoon.

The German Army Was Beaten to Its Knees and Compelled to Accept Unconditional Surrender.

(By J. W. T. Mason—United Press).

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The end of the war has come with the German army beaten to its knees and compelled to accept unconditional surrender.

The final day of hostilities found one-half of the German troops in France trapped south of the Ardennes by the brilliant offensive of the American Army, which closed the Luxemburg way of retreat and captured Sedan in a series of remarkable drives extending over the final week of the conflict.

Machine Smashed.

The Prussian military machine has been broken beyond the possibility of repair during the retreat of the past four months. The German surrender is not due primarily to the desertion of Germany by her allies, but to the fact that the forces of democracy arrayed against Germany on the Western front have overthrown the German armies on the field of battle.

The day of surrender sees the Kaiser's great forces so entangled in the meshes of their own retirement as to make it impossible for them ever to have reached the German frontier except as a remnant. Marshal Foch's extraordinary successful strategy since mid-summer has now reaped its fruit.

Had the war continued, it would in reality have become a massacre. The Germans have lost such frightful casualties in their effort to get out of France and Belgium as has threatened annihilation of all of Germany's military man-power. There is no truth in the reports that the last phase of the war was shown the Germans as masters in the strategy of defence. The effort to reach their own territory in safety has been a ghastly failure.

Hindenburg Was Only Half-Way Home.

The war ends with Von Hindenburg only half-way home and unable to make the rest of the distance with an army fit to defend the Rhine. The German defeat is complete, overwhelming, obliterating. No more will be heard of the military invincibility of Prussia. It has been ended for all time in one of the most stupendous downfalls of history. It has been ended, too, in a manner that may be proudly regarded by the world's democracies. They have fought the war to a finish and have delivered the knock-out blow which has saved civilization from a return to mediaeval despotism. Now comes the Peace Conference, with all its possible pitfalls, calling for continued unity among the Allies and America. Germany's last chance is the peace table. With that gone, democracy's work will be triumphantly completed.

United Press:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(1.50 p.m.).—When Secretary of State Lansing left for his lunch at 12.45 he had no official word of the closing of hostilities. He was of the opinion that the Kiel disorders and other internal disturbances had hastened the very quick compliance of the Germans to the armistice terms.

Stock Exchange Closed To-day

The Peace Stocks Touched High Records.

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—On account of the pandemonium that followed the announcement of the signing of the armistice, the Governors of the New York Stock Exchange, announced that the Exchange would close at 2.30. The jubilation was so great that trading was almost impossible. The market was very strong at 2 p.m. Some peace stock reached their highest records.

LABOUR MEN WILL SURVEY RANKS FOR MUNICIPAL RACE

As the most expeditious means of preparing a slate for the municipal elections in January, the Trades and Labour Council last night appointed a committee to bring in a report at the next meeting of Union men possessing the requisite property qualifications and who are endorsed by their locals. It was stated that the restrictions fixed by statute was a serious obstacle to Labour in securing representatives for elections. Men who were recognized as leaders in the Trades Union movement in many cases could not meet the property qualifications demanded by the election law. The Provincial Government had been repeatedly urged to abolish this restriction, but without success. However, the Labour Council hopes to receive at the next meeting the names of Trades Union men who can be confidently proposed as candidates for the City Council and with an excellent chance of election. The committee is composed of Messrs. M. L. Campbell, T. H. Lane and T. J. Stenton.

Mr. Alex. Murray reported that the number of citizens who had not yet received a supply of coal was now reduced to slightly more than three hundred.

City Clerk Armstrong will be invited to address the Council at a meeting in the near future.

CELEBRATING IN TORONTO

City Went Wild Following Receipt of News.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—This city went into furious demonstrations of joy on the receipt to-day, at about one p.m., of unofficial news that an armistice had been signed on behalf of Germany.

Whistles were blown continuously, and bells rung all over the city.

Business was suspended and the streets quickly crowded with celebrating thousands.

PROCLAIMED A REPUBLIC

Special to The Examiner:

BERLIN, Via Zurich, Nov. 7.—Poland was proclaimed a Republic on Monday by Premier Swiezyinski, it was announced to-day.

To Those Who Like Real Good Bed Sheets

On Friday and Saturday the Hall Store is offering some exceptional values in the very finest of imported English Bed Sheetings, in both plain and twill weaves, in full bleached qualities, in 8/4-9/4 and 10/4 widths, and the sale price is $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 per yard, according to the width chosen. There is not a yard of this genuine good old English sheeting that is not worth less than 75c. a yard more than they are offering it at on the above days.

For housewives accustomed to making their own sheets an early purchase is advisable.

GERMAN DELEGATION MUST ADVANCE TO FRENCH OUTPOSTS

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 7.— (11.10 a.m. despatch.)—If the German plenipotentiaries wish to meet Marshal Foch and ask for the armistice terms, they must advance to the French outposts by way of the Chimay Fourmies La Capelle Guise road, in order to be conducted to the place of interview, a Paris wireless despatch declared to-day.

Hospital Will Be Closed at the End of the Week

By the end of the week, if any of the eight patients who are still in the Emergency Hospital, are unable to return home, they will, it is anticipated, be sent to other hospitals, where conditions are much better.

Dr. C. H. Amys said to-day that since Thursday of last week the situation has cleared up splendidly and there will probably be no further need for the hospital.

At present, with the rapid decline of patients at the hospital, the staff has been lessened to three nurses and two V.A.D.'s.

BONDS ALL THE SAME

By purchasing in huge quantities, large institutions are often able to buy supplies at reduced rates. But they cannot buy Victory Bonds at reduced rates. A big insurance company which announces the purchase of $10,000,000 worth of bonds, is paying exactly the same as the man who buys a single bond of the lowest denomination; and gets the same rate of interest—no more, no less. The smallest buyer of Victory Bonds "gets in" on the same terms as the "big fellow."

SHIPPING CONSTRUCTION EXCEEDED THE LOSSES BY HALF MILLION TONS

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 7. — The construction of merchant vessels in Allied and neutral countries, exclusive of Great Britain, reached 972,735 tons during the last quarter, according to official Admiralty figures. The British construction totalled 441,390 tons.

The world's output during that period exceeded the losses by nearly half a million gross tons.

FRANK JENNE Says:

I never advise a customer to buy a cheap suit because it is cheap. This applies particularly to blue serge suits. A good blue serge suit will always hold its head up, whilst a cheap suit always looks cheap. I have blue serge suits, dye guaranteed, from $25.00 to $40.00. "Come to me," as there is one to fit you.

QUICK ACTION IS DEMANDED

Germans Will Have to Show Some Speed in Signing the Armistice Terms or Suffer the Consequences.

WILL LIKELY ACCEPT

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — Signing the German armistice terms was regarded here to-day as certain and imminent.

There was no official confirmation, however, early to-day of reports that the signing has already occurred.

The Government proposed to make public the important tidings as quickly as they came.

It seemed likely that no news as to the nature of the terms need be given officially until the German Commission, reported as passing the Allied lines, has taken action.

It was suggested at the State Department that this Commission might wire back to Berlin the nature of the terms before getting full authority to sign or reject. The signing seemed to authorities to be the only course sanely open to the enemy. Rejection is scarcely given a thought, though if Germany elects that course, the United States and Allied war plans contemplate a punishment that will bring the German to his knees. As seen here, the German nation is too steeped in the ideal of peace, too discouraged at its allies' defection, too badly battered at the front and too certain of ultimate crushing defeat to balk at this late moment. Once the armistice is signed, it is likely that the whole German system will sweep the Kaiser out provided he has not already abdicated, according to the view of State Department authorities.

All reports coming here indicate that the armistice will be concluded quickly. That a time is on it, is certain. Whether that permits the Reichstag time to deliberate over the terms is unknown, but the whole crux of the situation is known to be that Germany shall not dicker, shall not postpone, shall accept acknowledged defeat in the field or reject and go on to a definite doom.

THE WAR IS OVER?

And so is the need to pay high prices for groceries. The Cash Grocery at the corner of George and Dublin streets, has a splendid stock of fresh, new groceries, and is selling them at remarkably low prices. Call in and see us for your next order. 'Phone orders given careful attention. Call 506. W. Barringer.

"Can You Show Me Something Good in Suitings?"

Tell your wife to ask Frank Hourigan to show her some first-class samples of woolen goods for your next new suit or overcoat. Some lovely weaves have just made their first appearance with his new stock. If you are particular and would like to call in yourself we'll show you. You can trust us we'll never knowingly give you what we can't recommend up to the hilt, at The Store with the Tartan Front, 161 Hunter street. Tailored to measure, as usual. 2d-108

Christmas Parcels Flood Post Office

Four Hundred Parcels Were Handled This Morning.

Christmas parcels for the boys at the front have been posted at the rate of 200 a week during the last week. This morning was a record when 400 went through. These Postmaster Edgar said are to a great extent from societies and churches, who remember their members. While it is best to be on the safe side the postmaster said the 15th of the month is early enough.

PROFITABLE PATRIOTISM.

If the terms of the Victory Loan ...ere less favourable to the investor, ...e money required should be forth...oming. The patriotic spirit of the ...ountry should respond to the call ev...n if it required some sacrifice. But in ...is case patriotism and profit are ...ombined in an unusual degree. WHAT IS THE MATTER?

The apathy that is being shown in ...any parts of Peterborough county ...owards the Victory Loan campaign ...s something that is difficult to un...erstand. Peterborough is surround...d by a good farming country. On all ...ides of the city splendidly cultivat...d farms, substantial dwelling hous...s and modern machinery indicate ...rosperity and the indications are not ...belied by the number of motor cars ...hat are found everywhere through...ut the country. In every township ...ere are wealthy farmers, men with ...substantial balance in the banks, ...he very class of men that would be naturally expected to be the first to invest in the Victory Loan and to apply for large sized allotments, too.

The figures of the campaign, however, do not bear out any such expectation. Many of the farmers of the county seem to be utterly indifferent to the call of Canada and refuse to become interested in this nationally important undertaking. The township of North Monaghan, with its many rich farms and prosperous citizens had half way through the Victory Loan drive subscribed only $6,100, and the greater part of this amount lent by twenty-nine investors, was taken by the workmen living just outside the city limits, and not by the farmers of the township. In the whole township of Ennismore up to yesterday, there had only been one subscriber to the Victory Loan, he taking four thousand dollars worth. Some of the other townships are not doing much better, and practically the whole burden of the task is being thrown upon the city of Peterborough and upon the villages in the county, Norwood, Lakefield and Havelock all making a showing in this respect that shows up in marked contrast to the miserable record of the rural sections.

Frequently the charge has been made that farmers as a class had not awakened to a sense of their responsibility in the crisis in which Canada and the Empire has been engaged. It is true that the response to patriotic appeals has not been as spontaneous in the townships as among city people, and perhaps there may have been some reason for such a state of affairs. But it is almost impossible to find any reason that would excuse the present attitude of Peterborough county farmers towards the Victory Loan. They are not being asked to make any sacrifice in this campaign—they are simply being asked to invest their surplus saving now drawing only three per cent., in their country's war loan at five and a half per cent., almost double the interest, and with their investment secured by the whole resources of the Dominion. They have felt the strain of the war probably the least of any class in Canada, and at this moment when they can make their money work for Canada as well as for themselves, they turn a deaf ear to all appeals and keep their cheque books tightly closed.

Rural Peterborough fell down badly in last year's Victory Loan campaign and there is no noticeable improvement shown now. Surely the people of the townships are not going to allow the task of raising the county's objective to fall almost entirely upon the shoulders of the urban dwellers? There is still plenty of time to raise the allotments of the townships to somewhere near the proper mark. It is to be hoped for the good name of Peterborough county and for the sake of the many gallant young lads who left the farms to go out and fight for the Empire, that there will be a revival before the end of the campaign.

A WAR INDEMNITY.

There is much food for thought in a pamphlet written by Mr. W. T. R. Preston, of Port Hope, on the subject, "Shall Canada Claim a War Indemnity?" a copy of which has been forwarded to the Examiner. Mr. Preston goes into the whole subject at some length remarking that "no more important and far-reaching question has arisen in the Dominion during the fifty years that have elapsed since the scattered provinces became united under a Federal system of government." Certainly, this matter of Canada's war claims at the peace conference is one of the most momentous importance, and yet in government circles there has been a complete silence. It has been announced that Sir Robert Borden is to represent Canada at the general peace conference, when that body is called together, but the people of Canada have been left in total ignorance as to what attitude the Government of this country will take in furthering the interests of Canada.

Mr. Preston strongly urges that Canada shall demand an indemnity from Germany, and his arguments are certainly worthy of the deepest and most earnest consideration. Says the writer:

The cost of the war to the Dominion of Canada, even should an armistice be shortly effected, by the time demobilization is completed will be not less than $1,500,000,000.

The loss of population, including killed, missing, remaining abroad and thus rendered ineffective as wage-earners, will likely exceed 250,000.

The expenditure for pensions calculating 250,000 who will have been physically disabled, or health so seriously affected their earning power is lessened, and the dependents of the killed, who must be amply provided for, will probably call for $50,000,000 annually.

Every dollar of this expenditure must be claimed and paid by Germany. A clearly defined and itemized account must be prepared and presented to the Peace Conference by the Prime Minister.

It should be remembered that the sacrifices that have been made by Canada are far from being properly understood either in Great Britain or by the Allies. During the last one hundred years, the United Kingdom has allowed from 200,000 to 500,000 annually to emigrate, and without inconvenience to the nation. The Dominion on the other hand, cannot afford to lose even 25,000 of the population without seriously affecting the prosperity and the future position of the country. Through this war we will have lost a quarter of a million, with no prospect of replacing them by immigration. Every country will close its doors against its manhood emigrating. Great Britain has already enacted legislation to this end. Therefore our case from the standpoint of national sacrifice merits the support of all the Allies at the Peace Conference.

Canada is one of the Allied combatants—sixty thousand of her sons lie buried in France and Flanders as evidence of the national courage and valuor. There are no territorial possessions which the Dominion aspires to acquire. A monetary indemnification is the only possible recompense to meet the just rights of the Dominion. By no possibility could Canada have avoided assuming the responsibility of engaging in the great conflict, nor has the country the remotest desire to shirk its responsibility.

Germany forced this war—therefore Germany must pay. Germany alone with a population of sixty millions is better able to pay $2,500,000,000 in addition to all other claims, than this country, with a population of eight millions, can bear such a burden. I am not calling for vengeance, but demand justice.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Stick it, Canada!

Lend as they fight.

Pave the way to Victory.

Lend your Dollars.

Buy Victory Bonds.

This is a good time to begin your Christmas shopping.

Leave the peace terms to Foch and let's get on with the Victory Loan.

If the war goes on the money will be needed to keep Canada's army going. If the Germans decide they have had enough, it will be required to bring the boys back.

Otonabee is setting the pace for the townships in the Victory Loan drive and at the half way mark was ahead of her schedule.

Smith, too, is beginning to get up speed, but some of the other townships have apparently been left at the post.

Ratepayers are entitled to an explantion from the city council as to the attiude of the city fathers towards the building by-law.

There are apparently too many builders in the council and not enough constructionists.

Peterborough has passed the million dollar mark. All together, let's make it at least two millions by a week from Saturday.

You may never get another chance of investing in government bonds at 5 1-2 per cent.

Daylight Saving Popular.

Daylight saving has proven so successful, according to reports received at Ottawa, that it is proposed to re-enact the present law next year. Even if the war ceases in the meantime, and the need for it for production is no longer apparent, it is felt that it should be again adopted from the standpoint of health. It gives people in the cities an hour longer for recreation and is a wonderful boon for sports.

The great advantage from daylight saving this past summer has been the impetus it has given to war gardening in the cities. The production from urban gardens in Canada, it is claimed, will prove enormous when the returns are in. At present there is no way of estimating the yield.

"Daylight saving was satisfactory in every way," said the chairman of the War Gardening Work of the Canada Food Board. "It is the only source of surplus labor in the cities and towns which is otherwise employed in the day. The extra hour in the evening made it possible for war gardeners to add wealth to the estate which was invaluable and beyond estimate."

The only objection which was made to daylight saving when it was adopted was from the farmers. Rural representatives protested so vigorously in the House of Commons that the measure was almost defeated. However, while the farmers claim it has been of no value to them, it is not believed they will carry their protests to the Commons again, and it is taken for granted at Ottawa that daylight saving will come into effect again next spring.

BIG PRICE PAID FOR CHEESE ON THE LOCAL BOARD

Representative of Montreal Commission Company Took the Entire Offering at 25 3-4 Cents.

Buying for Grant of Montreal and apparently with a blanket order to get the cheese at any price, William Weir of Otonabee broke up yesterday's meeting of the Cheese Board; the last of the season, when he boosted the price to 25 3-4 cents and took the entire offering of 962 boxes. The price fixed by the Commission of late has been 25 cents, two cents more than the summer's top quotation, but the present demand for local orders has set the buyers scrambling at nearly all the recent meeting of Boards up and down the dairy belt. The regular buyers evidently were restricted to prices under 25 cents, with an elastic limit that stretched only a few points above it. They too needed cheese for home consumption, and whatever their limitations they followed Mr. Weir up to 25 3-4 cents and dropped him there when it became evident that he was determined to fill his order. He is not a stranger to the Board on which he has represented Lang factory as salesman, but as a buyer for the Grant commission house he was in a new role.

The factories boarded as follows:

Keene	50

Selwyn	65
Villiers	65

Oakdale	70

Wants Extension of Car Line on Park St.

The Board of Trade has written to the Attorney General of Ontario seeking permission to apply to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board for an order directing the Hydro-Electric Commission to extend the street car line on Park street south to Lansdowne street instead of making the long proposed extension of the Charlotte street line south on the Monaghan Road to Patterson street.

"JUST TERMS" AS THE HUN SAW THEM IN 1871

FROM COUNT VON MOLKE'S "HISTORY OF THE FRANCO-GERMAN WAR."

The negotiations (between the commander of the French armies and Gen. Von Moltke) were held at Douchery, during the night, between September 1st and 2nd. The Germans were forced to consider that they must not forego the advantage gained over such a powerful enemy as France. When it was remembered that the French had regarded victory of German arms over other nationalities in the light of an insult, any acts of untimely generosity might lead them to forget their own defeat. The only course to pursue was to insist upon the disarmament and detention of the entire army, but officers were too free on parole.

General Von Moltke declared it impossible to accept such hard conditions. The negotiations were broken off and the French officers returned to Sedan at 1 o'clock. Before their departure they were given to understand that unless the terms were agreed to by nine o'clock the next morning, the bombardment would be renewed. The capitulation was signed by Gen. Von Wimpffen on the the morning of the second, further resistance being obviously impossible.

COUCHED, COUGHED ALL NIGHT LONG

Terribly wearing on the system is the cough that comes at night and prevents sleep. Sometimes it is a constant cough, cough that will not be quieted.

Sometimes it is a choked-up, stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult, and sleep impossible.

Whatever kind of a cold or cough you have, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy you need to cure it, for the simple reason that this valuable preparation combines all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Miss Margaret Landly, Bristol, P.E.I., writes: "I am writing to tell you the benefit I have received from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Last fall I took a severe cough and cold in my head. I was unable to do anything. At night I could not sleep, but cough, cough, all night long. A friend advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before the second bottle was used, I was entirely cured, and I have found this the best cough medicine I can buy."

Do not accept any other "pine" preparations when you ask for "Dr. Wood's." This remedy has been on the market for a quarter of a century. It is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MR. S. D. CARVER OF THIS CITY RETURNS FROM HUNTING TRIP

Beaver is Very Plentiful in the North Country, Says Mr. Carver —A Long Journey by Foot.

Mr. S. D. Carver of Peterboro, has just returned from a hunting and fishing trip in Snowden Township, Haliburton County and has passed over the once great timber limits of the Irwin & Boyd Company. Great forest fires have swept over thousands of acres of this district leaving it a No Man's Land where the huckleberry only, thrives.

BEAVER PLENTIFUL

Mr. Carver says that the beaver is very plentiful in the north country and saw some of the marvellous transformations which this industrious animal has wrought. They have repaired the dams that were once used by the lumber company. This is done so that they may float the poplar, which they feed upon in the winter time, down stream to their winter abode where they store it under water. It is nothing short of marvellous the way the beaver can cut down the poplars with his tiny saw-edge teeth and transport the logs to the ready-prepared streams.

Irwin Lake is the chief body of water in this desolate area and the nearest railway is twelve miles distant.

This whole distance must be traversed by foot.

THEN GRUDGE YE NOT

(Awarded First Prize in Victory Loan Poem Contest.)

Since neither word of ours can raise,
Nor prayer of ours restore,
The dear lost lads of other days,
That legion "gone before,"
How shall we grudge the yellow gold
To beat their feomen down,
Where the Red Prussians pitiless hold
Sacked city, pillaged town?

But if some faith of ours could know,
Some prayers of ours awake,
The dear lost lads of long ago,
That perished for our sake;
And at the dusk their spirits dim
Come whispering sweet and far
From that fair land beyond the rim
Of things that mortal are—

If such could be, would there not ask
(Vague voices from the wind)
That we should help—ah, humble task
Their comrades left behind?
Then grudge we not the yellow gold
To beat their foemen down,
Where the Red Prussians pitiless hold
Sacked city, pillaged town.

GENERAL MYERS DOESN'T SEEM TO LIKE HUNS

(By United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 7.—The Germans have been likened to the Seminole Indians, with the odds all in favor of the noble red men.

"The Seminole Indians were cultured gentlemen and Christian philosophers beside the Germans," declared Sam Myers, Montana, in the senate, urging fitting punishment for the Hun.

Myers thought some such punishment as General Jackson meted out to the Seminoles, the cut-ups of their day, would be appropriate for Germany.

"When they refused to surrender unconditionally he burned their towns and villages and camps and pursued them into swamps and surrounded, and practically annihilated them," said Myers, referring the Indian rebellion.

"The punishment administered to the Seminoles by General Jackson, would be, in my opinion, a hundredfold more fitting to the German armies," he added.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS NOT TO BE WARMER THAN 65 DEGREES

HOUSEHOLDERS ARE URGED TO CONSERVE FUEL

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—"The temperature in all buildings must be kept down to 68 degrees at most," is announced by C. A. McGrath, fuel controller. The fuel situation has become so critical that it is urgently necessary to avoid waste, and a conference called by Mr. McGrath has just been held, at which ways and means of saving on limited supplies of hard coal were discussed with the fuel administrators for the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

It is the duty of owners of large buildings of all kinds to place thermometers in prominent positions, along with a notice specifying the maximum heat allowed, in view of the urgent necessity for fuel conservation.

It is equally important for the householder to keep with in reasonable limits the temperature of his home. The insurance of specific regulations on the subject is still under consideration.

DEBUSSY'S DEATH REMOVES GREAT FORCE IN MODERN MUSIC

As Leader of the New School, He Wielded Powerful Influence On Composers

When word came of Claude Debussy's death in Paris a week or so ago, the news caused more than a passing stir. The cable flashed it along with dipatches of world battles and epoch-making events; for the greatest of modern French composers had passed away.

Debussy's Works Widely Performed

Debussy is known to all American concert-goers, although he is by no means understood or even altogether liked by many of them. He is the composer of the opera "Pelleas and Melisane," of "L 'Apresmidi d'un Faune," made popular by the Russian Ballot, of several symphonies and a vast number of shorter pieces—delicate, dreamy, full of color and atmosphere—that hold an important place in the repetoire of most of our concert artists.

Yet it is probably not his works themselves which will constitute his most enduring title of fame. Indeed the critics from far and near are already engaged in a lively debate as to their intrinsic value, a debate which promises to gather momentum and zest as the years go by.

Debussy's Powerful Influence

But on one point the musical judiciary has handed down the unanimous decision, viz, that Debussy was preeminent as a pioneer in the paths of the new music—the music of color and atmosphere rather than melody of mood rather than thought and dramatic action. He is the founder of the impressionist school of music as Whistler and Manet were in painting. His influence on the younger composers is questioned neither by the critics nor by the composers themselves. The present Italian school owes him a debt of gratitude. It is quite possible that one or another of his disciples will present to the world a greater work than the master himself produced, but the masterrdd himself produced, but the world will not forget who blazed the way.

Characteristics of his Music

His is not the music of inspired lyric passages, of poignant moments, such as haunt us after hearing Brahms or Beethoven. These things, indeed, he ignored, perhaps even dispised. But he gives us instead wonderful subtle effects of light and shade, of revery, of feeling almost subconscious, which fascinate while we listen, although they may leave with us no definite thought or stimulus

The Composer as a Man

Rather little is known of Debussy's life outside of the salient facts. He was reticent about his personal affairs, was considered unapproachable to strangers. But with his intimates he was popular because of his geniality, humor and rich imagination. He seldom went into society, but occasionally when he did, and when the right mood was upon him, he would delight all present with his powers of improvisation, weaving irridescent chords and harmonies in a fantastic web of color and brilliancy.

Throughout his life he won many signal honors, not the least of which was the Grand Prix de Rome, awarded him at the age of twenty-two for his cantata "L 'Enfant Prodigue." In later years he was able to gratify his taste for extensive travel and visited Italy, Russia and many other countries. Though he died at the comparatively early age of 58, he had at least enjoyed a life rich in accomplishment, recognition and friendship, a lot that does not fall to all great masters.

ARTISTS CO-OPERATING IN ACQUAINTING SCHOOL CHILDREN WITH GOOD MUSIC

We cannot grind with the water that has passed under the mill We cannot make our country musical by influencing the tastes of adults. The field of cultivation is the children. The Europeans have a greater appreciation of music because, there, the children are nourished with music. Realizing this, an agitation has commenced for the public schools to make the study of music obligatory. It is spreading all over the continent and the most distinguished educationalists are joining in the agitation. In this connection it is interesting to note the statement of Florence MacBeth, the soprano. Miss MacBeth had been singing to some school children in the East side of New York and at the conclusion of her programme, she commented on what intelligent appreciators of good music these same children were. In the interview this artist continued: "I believe that the great need for music in this country can be met only through the children. That is, to develop fuller appreciation of what is best in music, one must start with the school children. In several cities they arrange special series of recitals by artists, which are given in the public schools. I know I sang at one in Duluth before an audience of 3,500 children and the thing that made the greatest impression on the little tots was the doll song from "Tales of Hoffman" which I gave in costume.

"After the concert I was asked to stand on a chair and the children were allowed to walk all around and examine me. Many slyly touched my dress with their fingers or poked my side to see if I was really alive. I never moved an eyelash until one little fellow planted himself in front of me and putting his head on one side, winked knowingly at me. I immediately returned the 'high sign' which brought this ejaculation, 'ah, you ain't really a doll. You're a girl'"

It is to be hoped that this co-operation between the artists and the school authorities will spread.

A CHEERUP SONG

During these trying days of cloud and strife when the whole world is in need of the cheering inspiration of music, when we feel the necessity of allowing music to come into our daily lives in that intimate and effective way it can, we must commend the sentiment of a little fling at poetry taken by a contributor to the Houston Post.

Condensed it is this:

"If you are built
So you can't sing
A happy sort
O' cheerup thing,
You better hadn't
Sing at all.
Why even nights
The little frawgs
Sends cheer-o songs
Across the bogs;
An' if you're sour
An' grumpy blue,
A frawg is of
More use than you.
If you can't sing
A cheerup thing
Hide out, by jing!"

ITALIAN SOLDIERS FORM ORCHESTRA

Finding that twenty-five out of every hundred Italian soldiers stopping at the rolling canteens of the American Red Cross along the Italian front are able to play some instrument, Lieutenant McKay, in charge, has ordered a number of mandolines and guitars. From volunteers he has organized an orchestra to entertain the 2,000 to 2,500 men who daily enjoy bread, jam, hot coffee, cigarettes at this one canteen. The personnel of the orchestra changes as the men come and go to the front. The phonograph which plays when orchestra is not on duty has proved so popular that it will be loaded on a mule and sent to outlying batteries along the mountainous Italian front.

Lakefield Soldier Was Killed While Helping Wounded Comrade

Gunner J. Sabatino Was Hit in the Head With a Rifle Bullet—The Grave in France.

Particulars are given in the following letter of the death of Gunner Joseph Sabatino ,who lived in Lakefield, and enlisted with the 10th Battery, C. F. A. He was killed on September 27, 1918. The letter was written to Miss Ray of Lakefield:

France, Oct. 11, '18.

My Dear Miss Ray—

I can hardly tell what makes me write this letter to you. It must be that I have often heard J. Sabatino speak of you, and if you would read this letter to his mother, it may help her in her hour of sorrow.

I happened to be with poor Joe when he met his death. He was going to help a wounded comrade when he was hit in the head with a rifle bullet. He never spoke. In fact it was so sudden that I thought that he had dropped on the ground to escape shell fire. I spoke to him and receiving no answer I lifted him up and saw at once that he was gone.

It was impossible to get the body away at that time, but the next morning, September 28th, we went up again and took the remains back out of shell fire, and buried him well behind the lines. We erected a neat wooden cross with his name and his number on it.

Believe me, Miss Ray, a better soldier than Joe will be hard to find. He was everybody's friend and very popular in the battery. We all feel the blow keenly. I knew him since he first came to France ,and in all my experience I never once saw him illtempered. He was ever willing to help everybody, and we all know that we have lost a true friend.

If there is anything else I can do to get the location of the grave, etc., I will only be too glad to do anything in my power. Hoping that this war will soon end. I remain,

Yours truly,
Gunner C. Shoebottom,
10th Battery, C.F.A., France.

NEW ONE CENT COIN MAY SOON BE ISSUED

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—The Minister of Finance is considering the design of a new one-cent copper coin. The present one-cent piece, while of excellent design, is of so large a size as to make it inconvenient to carry more than two or three in the pocket. The new coin will be slightly larger and slightly thicker than a ten-cent piece, so as to be readily distinguishable to the touch. It will take some time to have the die made and the coins issued for circulation.

A SLUGGISH LIVER CAUSED SEVERE HEADACHES

The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.

Healthy bile in sufficient quantity is Nature's provision to secure regular action of the bowels, and when the liver is sluggish it is not working properly, and does not manufacture enough bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products from the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in, followed by sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, heartburn, water brash, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, etc.

Miss Dian Clark, Myer's Cave, Ont., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you concerning the good I have received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a sluggish liver. When my liver got bad I would have severe headaches, but I got better after I had used a couple of vials of your pills."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills gently unlock the secretion, clear away all waste and effete matter by acting directly on the liver, and make the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PALMIST DISCLOSES LOCATION OF BODIES

QUEBEC, Nov. 6.—Some days ago Arcadious Gagne, at St. Pierre, Montmagny, was buried with his son under a landslide near his home. No trace of the bodies could be found, so the family went to a palmist, who indicated the spot where the bodies were, and it was there indeed the two bodies were found, at the spot indicated by the palmist.

WAR AND THE SUGAR BOWL.

Sugar is scarce. There are fewer ships to carry supplies from the East Indies. They are used in carrying troops and munitions. The West Indies, from which Canada draws her supplies, must furnish sugar for twice as many people as last year. If we put ships into the sugar trade, and if we continue to use that second needless spoonful of sugar in tea and coffee we shall have to, it will lengthen the war. Therefore save sugar. Use strictly no more than 2 pounds for each person in the family in a month.

Allied Forces Land a Few Knockout Blows as Peace Terms Are Signed on Field

Sedan Has Been Entered by the Americans—Large Quantities of War Material Captured by the Allies.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, November 7. — British forces are continuing progress along the Franco-Belgian battle line. Northeast of Valenciennes, they have reached the outskirts of Quievrain and Crespie, close to the Belgian border.

Further south the town of Angre has been taken. Southeast of the Mormal forest the British have captured Monceau St. Vaast and Domierre, three miles north west of the railway junction of Avesnes.

FRENCH OFFENSIVE.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, November 7. --(Official.)—Along the entire French front the pursuit of the retreating Germans was taken up again this morning.

The French have thrown cavalry into action on their right, where the mounted troops are pushing in the direction of the Meuse.

SEDAN CAPTURED.

(United Press.)

(By Webb Miller.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, November 7. — (Noon Despatch.) — The first army to-day speeded up its already swift advance upon Sedan, and is bearing down rapidly upon the city, now only a few kilometers distance.

American aviators report that the Germans are hurriedly retreating behind the city.

East of the Meuse, observers declare that at some points the enemy retirement is practically a rout, great quantities of equipment and material being abandoned.

The Americans made further progress on the important heights behind Bund-Surda on the Meuse, and gained the rest of Cote St. Germain.

SEDAN ENTERED.

WITH AMERICAN ARMY ON SEDAN FRONT, Nov. 7.—1.45 p.m.—American troops to-day entered that part of Sedan that lies on the west bank of the Meuse.

LATE DESPATCHES INDICATE

Maximilian Published a Proclamation.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—(1.40 p.m.).—Chancellor Maximilian has published a proclamation to the German people, announcing that a delegation to receive the terms of the armistice has been promptly sent to the Western front.

The maintenance of order and discipline, with the free consent of the people in these decisive hours, is an absolute necessity which any democratic Government must make its duty to the nation, the proclamation continued.

Citizens of France Went Wild Over News.

United Press:

BREST, France, Nov. 7.—(6.30 p.m.).—When the news of the signing of the armistice was received here late this afternoon the city went wild with joy.

The newspaper "Tola De Peche" issued bulletins and extra editions, while the factory sirens were blown and whistles on boats joined in the tumult.

American soldiers were kissed and cheered by the population.

Brest is a great landing port for American soldiers in France.

Premier Hearst This Afternoon Issued an Expression of Gratitude Following Receipt of Peace News.

United Press:

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—Premier Hearst this afternoon made this statement: "With a deep sense of gratitude to Almighty God and supreme pride and glory in the immortal achievements of our Empire and its Allies, the Canadians have received the news that a victorious peace has been achieved. This involves nothing less than the complete overthrow and defeat of German militarism and all that it represents, as well as ample guarantees for reparation and restoration so that never again will such a criminal conspiracy against the human race be attempted."

It Is Assumed That the German Envoys Have Passed Through Into Allied Lines.

Canadian Press:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Navy cable censors reported to-day that an unofficial message had come through from abroad, announcing that the Germans had signed the armistice terms delivered by Marshal Foch. No authority was given for the statement, and while it added to the air of expectancy everywhere, officials said nothing except an official despatch could be believed. Neither the American Government nor any of the Allies' Embassies or war missions had been advised even that Marshal Foch actually had presented the armistice terms. It was assumed, however, that the German envoys had been conducted through the French lines some time during the day.

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—One New York news agency carried the story that the armistice was signed, to be effective at 2.30 p.m. today, but there is nothing official or corroborative yet.

Foreign Office Announces That It Has No Official Statement Respecting the News.

Canadian Press:

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The New York News Bureau sent out a despatch under London date, reading as follows: "At 3.30 o'clock this afternoon the Foreign Office announced that it had no confirmation of the report that Germany had accepted the armistice conditions."

News Sweeps Old New York Off Her Feet.

Canadian Press:

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A wave of almost frantic acclaim swept New York from one end to the other when unconfirmed reports were published that Germany had signed an armistice. Although these reports had received no official confirmation, either in London, Paris or Washington early this afternoon, they were nevertheless credited by the public here. They were distributed shortly before noon, whereupon a great celebration began, which grew in volume and enthusiasm as the news spread.

Official Report Received From Berlin.

United Press:

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—(By Wireless to London).—"From the departure of our plenipotentiaries to the Western front, it is concluded that the formal development of the armistice measures will follow shortly," it was officially announced here to-day.

The Berlin wireless was despatched before the armistice was signed, and indicates plainly that Germany fully had made up her mind to accept the Allied terms.

The total for the County of Peterborough is $1,174,500.00. Peterborough city now has a total of $857,800.00, which includes the amount obtained by the team members and the specials.

The Vermont Marble Company continues to be conspicuous. They aready have obtained 100 p.c. of the number of their employees and nearly 20 p.c. of the annual payroll. On the top of this the firm itself comes across today with an appliaction for $10,000.

We are hearing rumblings from the Matthews-Blackwell employees, and the distant noise foretells an early award of an Honour Flag.

The Dominion Victory Loan committee issue a warning to the people of Canada that owing to the seemingly early armistice and prospects of early peace, that no one should think their money is not required. Even were peace to come immediately, Canada would require the full amount for which she asks under the Victory Loan to sustain our armies in the field, feed the boys and eventually transport them home. Everybody must realize that peace is not yet signed, although an armistice may be granted in the near future. It may be months before actual peace is declared.

Purchases in Detroit.

That the United States is watching the progress of Canada's Victory Loan is shown by the telegraphed reports in American papers. Some Canadians who are living across the line have been among the purchasers of the new bonds. One of them wrote from Detroit this week to the local committee sending several hundred dollars and asking for full information.

G.T.R. Going Well.

The local G.T.R. staff have evidently earned one of the honour flags. Their list showed forty-one names several days ago, and the number has been increased since then. Practically everybody around the yards and in all the offices has a bond of some denomination or other. In fact the Grand Trunk is just about one hundred per cent., but it is understood that their purchases are added to the company's total in which the bonds taken by all the employees are pooled. Hence the bonds of the local staff are not credited to Peterborough.

Henry Hope Men Organized.

The employees of the Henry Hope Company have organized, and under the leadership of Mr. Jack Costain are reported to be on the trail of an Honour Flag. Rev. J. R. Webb, Mr. G. O. Cameron and Mr. W. B. Cumming visited the fatcory yesterday and addressed the men urging the need of making the Loan a success and of the desirability that every man, if possible, take his share of Canada's half billion with which the Kaiser will be done to a nice brown, and in the event of an early peace every cent of money will be required to bring home the men and generally clean up.

Mr. Cumming remarked this morning that he expected the Henry Hope to make as good a showing as any of the local industries.

FARM VERSE.

City Man Sings of Life In the Country.

It comes from New York, but it is a breath out of the west just the same. No one who has not lived on a farm could have written the lines in "Farm Voices," a delightful hour's reading, by Don Seitz, of the New York World. Homely subjects that will recall myriad memories to former farmer boys furnish the themes for Mr. Seitz's verses. "Sheep," "The Snake," "The Woodbox," "The Hair Snake," "Buckwheat," "The 'Coon Hunt," "Going Barefoot," "Soap Boiling" and "Maple Sugar" are characteristic themes, treated mostly in dialect. Here is "To the Bullfrog":

Biggest noise in natur'
'Cordin' to his size;
How he ever holds so much
Allus a surprise.

Biggest jumper, too, they say,
Reck'nin' by his legs;
Man could hop 'most to the moon
If he had such pegs.

Kinder dreary, though, his note,
In the early spring;
Makes me feel lonesome
When the bullfrogs sing.

East or west boys will have memory of the frequent applications of goose grease:

I heard the schoolmaster say
Some geese saved Rome
By cacklin' at the right
Minute. Wouldn't wonder
If it was so.
A goose has got more
Sense than anything
That grows upon a
Farm. Goose grease
Is good for rheumatis.
The feathers make
Soft pillows, and
The big white birds
Take care of themselves,
Which is more
Than most Folks can.

Time turns backward while one reads of the things that this seasoned newspaper man recalls from his early experiences, as in the case of the turkey:

He struts and prunes around the place
As if he came from a royal race.
'Stead out of the woods like wolves an' bears,
Which don't prevent him puttin' on airs.
Once, just for fun, we set out a glass
Beside the coop where the gobbler'd pass,
To see what he'd do. He done it all right,
For no sooner had the bird caught sight
Of his han'some self in the mirror's sheen
That he goes to work to flutter an' preen
Like some vain maid with her looks entranced—
Fist so the gobbler strutted and pranced
Before the mirror an' gobbled an cooed
As if he saw some one to be wooed
In the figger before him, not knowin the while
It was just himself a-puttin' on style!

No Chance.

"I think it's wrong for a married man to gamble."

"It's worse than wrong; it's idiotic. His wife gives him fits if he loses and confiscates the proceeds if he wins."

LOOK AT A CHILD'S TONGUE WHEN CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK

TAKE NO CHANCES! MOVE POISONS FROM LIVER AND BOWELS AT ONCE.

Mothers can rest easy after giving 'California Syrup of Figs,' because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

WIDOWS ARE BURNED.

Attempts Have Been Made to Have End Put to Hindoo Custom.

On Monday, August 30, 1858, at Udairpur, in northwest India, its maharajah, or "great king," Junan Singh, died, and when his body was consumed on the pyre, two of his queens and six of his concubines were burned to death at the same time. Such self-sacrifice is called "suttee," or properly "sati," meaning "good woman" or "true wife," because it was expected as a proof that she was faithful to her deceased husband. It was regarded as showing the affection that she had felt for him during this life, and that she desired to attend him, if he needed any such partner, in the future one. It has been thought, however, that women were taught this duty as a means of the successor getting rid of the burden of supporting them, especially as they might not marry a second husband. Lord William Cavendish Bentinck, when Governor-General of India, from 1828 till 1835, had formally abolished these "suttees" on Dec. 7, 1829, but they continued occasionally to take place as on this occasion. On March 1, 1877, several wives of Sir Jung Bahadoor, Prime Minister of Nepal, a state on the southwest slopes of the Himalaya hills, thus perished. The Greeks found this custom in India when they reached it under Alexander the Great, in B.C. 327, but the original ancient laws of India required of a widow only to lead a chaste life. Akbar, the greatest sovereign of Hindustan, from 1556 till 1605, made the earliest attempt to stop it. But as late as 1905 a "suttee" was held in Behar, a district of Bengal, and the British rulers were obliged to sentence to penal servitude those who assisted on that occasion.

ESCAPED FROM GERMANY.

Two Chums Get "Out of the Jaws of Hunland."

"Out of the Jaws of Hunland" sounds like the title of the sort of book in which we used to revel in the days when we considered G. A. Henty the greatest writer of English romance, with David Kerr a close second. As a matter of fact, it is the tale of the experience of two young Canadians, Corpl. Fred McMullen, sniper, and Pte. Jack Evans, bomber, who fell into the hands of the Germans in the spring of 1916, but refused to remain prisoners until the end of the war. McMcullen's home is in Toronto, and since his return from the front he has been employed by the Harbor Commission. Before the war Evans was a tiremaker for a firm in Oshawa, but since his return from Germany he has prospered in the business world. He discovered his ability as a speaker, and for several months he has been addressing audiences in various parts of the United States, telling them his experiences and giving them an opportunity to meet a Canadian who has done something in the war. That fact ought to be cheering news for people in this country who will tell you that we have been represented too largely in the United States by men who have made their overseas journeys merely to England or with Cook's tours of the front, and whose war experience has been little more than a prolonged orgy of listening to themselves talk.

This book of adventure has been put together in rather an unusual manner. It is not a joint story. Each man tells his own adventures, and pieces of their experiences are run alternately. As a matter of fact, they worked quite independently in getting away from the Germans. As they say in the introduction of their tale: "One of the funny things about it is that we enlisted about the same time, in the same battalion, went through about the same training, were captured on the same day within a quarter of a mile of the same spot in the same line, were examined in the same railway station, one of us in a room above, the other below, at about the same time; were at different times in the same prison camps, even occupied the same cell when they brought either one of us back, after trying to make a getaway of it; got away, the last time, within a few days of each other and, though starting in different German provinces, hit the Holland border and got over the line at nearly the same spot. All this happened, and yet, till we met each other incidentally in old Gravesend in England, neither of us had any idea the other was anywhere but scrapping it out back in the trenches with the rest of the C.M.R. boys. Since then we have been mighty good pals."

Both men tell their story in an easy conversational manner. They talk "Canadian"—that is, the easy colloquial English which boys learn to speak in our public schools. They are an observing pair of writers, and give a clear impression of what they saw and endured in Germany. They make it evident that life in a German prison camp was no bed of roses, but they do not emphasize their sufferings unduly. They claim that, thanks to the Red Cross parcels, which always came through to them, seldom being stolen, they were frequently better fed than the Germans, either the guards or the civilians. Their captors looked with envious eyes on their pieces of soap and the real boots that they wore.

The story of their various attempts to escape, culminating in success, and in the ninth chapter, and the tenth chapter is devoted to an account of their impressions of conditions in Germany. From what they saw, these two men are sure that the shortage of food and clothing cannot be exaggerated. They say that the German soldiers have rations which a British Tommy simply would not endure. These Germans can be bought, at least Corpl. McMullen and Pte. Evans judge so from their experience, and they say: "In some ways they were ready to suffer a good deal for the fatherland, but there were mighty few of them who couldn't be won to do anything with the proper bribe." That is a German trait we had not heard about. The authors do some very plain talking for the benefit of Canadian boasters and grumblers. For example, they tell us: "Most people think that a good deal of war work is being done in Canada. Say, if they knew conditions as we saw them in Germany they would think a mighty sight less of it. What would we think, for instance, if not only every man who was at all fit was forced to go to fight, but if every woman was forced to put herself under close registration and to work wherever and at whatever job the authorities saw fit? What would we think if not only the children in their teens but also the little tots of ten and eleven were forced into war work and, entirely aside from any direction by their parents, were put to labor which we would consider much beyond them, and in hours which the men of our laboring class would not stand at all? And yet we saw all this happening right around us in Germany."

Canon Scott.

Canon Scott, who is reported wounded in arms and legs, had a name throughout the Canadian Corps for absolute fearlessness, especially when taking stretcher bearers under fire. He received the D.S.O. recently for going over the top with the battalion, on which occasion he took three German prisoners. Once when he was preaching his sermon was interrupted by the explosion of a shell. He calmly remarked he never heard the shell, but thought it might be a friend going to spare him death by a cancer. The men laughed and the sermon was resumed.

Car of Cobbler Seed Potatoes in City

Mr. Walter J. Oke unloaded a car of New Brunswick Irish Cobbler potatoes which he bought for seed. Mr. Bruce Johnston and other gardeners who will share in this importation of over five hundred bags pointed out that the car lad was a "beautiful sight." The Cobblers were of excellent color, large and of uniform size. According to the local growers the New Brunswick seed is a guarantee of good crops and on that basis next year's production campaign is already getting under way.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

What It Is and How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances

SHOULD BE PRESCRIBED BY EVERY DOCTOR AND USED IN EVERY HOSPITAL

Says Editor of "Physicians' Who's Who."

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Clinical tests made in St. Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C., showed that two patients gained in weight 23 and 27 pounds, respectively, through the administration of this organic phosphate; both patients claim they have not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing quantities. Frederick Kolle, M. D. editor of New York Physician's "Who's Who," says: "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Jos. D. Harrigan, Former Visiting Specialist to North Eastern Dispensatory, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic, or run-down, take a natural, unadulterated substance such as bitro-phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-Phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate compound referred to in the National Standard Dispensatory as being an excellent tonic and nervine, and a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia. The standard of excellence, strength and purity of its substance is beyond question, for every Bitro-Phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the U. S. Pharmacopoeia test requirements. Bitro-Phosphate is therefore not a patent medicine and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics or widely advertised "cure-alls."

Caution:—Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Over Three Hundred Citizens Are Still Without Coal

Fuel Commission Met Last Night and Recommended the Use of More "Mine-Run" Coal—Number of Citizens Without Coal Has Been Cut Down to Less Than One-Third.

Three hundred and twenty-nine citizens are still without a scuttleful of coal. In answer to the request of the Fuel Commission that all public and other buildings use as much mine-run coal as possible, St. Luke's church replied that they were holding their coal in reserve at present and were burning wood. The Collector of Customs reported that the Customs building had 44 tons of hard coal on hand. The Post Office replied that they were not under the jurisdiction of the city but under that of the Public Works Department as regards coal.

Must Prove Case.

Samuel Edwards, who owns a few acres just outside the city, wrote to the Commission complaining that the coal dealers would not sell him coal because he was a farmer. He will be informed that if he can prove to the coal dealers that he is not a farmer he may get coal.

It came out in a discussion about the coal supply of the schools that they were co-operating with the Commission and buying mine-run coal.

Are Co-operating.

All up-town business places, including the theatres, will receive a letter from the Commission asking that they co-operate and burn as much soft and mine-run coal as possible.

The banks, J. C. Turnbull Co., W. H. Bardburn Co., Grand Theatre, Y. M.C.A., and the Braund buildings on Charlotte St. were mentioned as some who already used soft coal.

While the meeting was under way a lady on Park street 'phoned and asked that they be allowed more coal. The house this winter will constitute two dwellings, and they have only one ton of coal and have not burned any as yet. The Commission's records were referred to and the house in question was credited with 4 1-2 tons. The Park street lady will receive no more coal. The churches are in the soft coal line, the departmental stores, places of amusement and all concerns will be asked to do likewise, thus conserving the narrow margin of hard coal which is at present in the city.

Citizens are greatly irritated over the fact that coal dealers in the city are charging the same price for inferior coal as the better grades of coal, whereas under order-in-council they are only allowed to charge $2.50 per ton above costs.

ENGLAND FINDS WOMEN POLICE SATISFACTORY

(By United Press.)

London, Oct. 18. (By Mail.)—Now that many American cities have their own women police, it may be interesting to learn how England's women police have developed into a real force for the maintenance of order and public morality.

The forces have been formed from voluntary workers as a means of helping refugees and young English girls and boys who were in need of aid or advice. In three and a half years 1,000 women have been trained for the work and have found appointments.

At present women are policing 20 munition factories, where they perform all the duties that could be expected of masculine police. The women's police service has also supplied police for 18 towns, in four of which women have been sworn in as constables.

STAKE YOUR ALL ON CANADA

THE war has brought great prosperity to Canada. Millions of Dollars in war contracts have come to her doors. Wages were never so high. Money was never so plentiful.

This is not the gift of the gods. It is a prosperity that must be used and conserved for the nation's welfare. No man lives for himself alone. He must share in the common sacrifice, in the common endeavor to make that nation great in War and in Peace.

Canadians are to-day asked to loan for Victory, to loan for Continued Prosperity, to loan for Progress in time of peace. They can do this through the purchase of Victory Bonds. It is everyone's duty to buy Victory Bonds to the full extent of his ability. That is the civilian's part. It is the only way he can recompense those who have fought his battles. FOCH SENDS CONGRATULATIONS TO THE AMERICAN COMMANDER

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTH-WEST OF VERDUN, Nov. 3.—Marshal Foch has sent the following telegram to Gen. Pershing: "The operations begun on November 1 by the 1st American army already have assured, thanks to the valor of the high command and to the energy and bravery of the troops, results of the greatest importance. I am happy to send you my warmest congratulations on the success of these operations."

ITALY BUILDS SHIPS

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, Oct. 8. (By Mail.)—Italy is more than doing her bit in the matter of shipbuilding for the purpose of replacing the ships sunk by submarines and defeating the submarine warfare generally.

During the year ending Sept. 15, according to official figures given out today, Italy has constructed 120,000 tons of shipping. Work already in progress renders it certain that this total will be exceeded during the coming year.

Since Italy's entrance into the war she has completed construction and installation of 15 new shipbuilding yards, while 7 others will be ready for service during the coming year.

CONFLICTING NEWS FROM FRANCE ON PEACE APPROACH

An United Press cable received by the Examiner at 12:30 noon to-day reported that Germany had signed at 11 o'clock this morning the armistice dictated by the Allies and that hostilities had ceased at 2 p.m. The cablegram was signed by the President of the United Press and also by Mr. Philip Simms of the same organization. Subsequent telegrams by the Canadian and Associated Press deny this report and the late afternoon news indicates that Marshall Foch and his staff will not meet the German emissaries until five p.m.

In view of the conflicting news which reached the public in both America and Europe this afternoon, and of the lack of official Governmental statements, the rejoicing which is the natural expression of the exultation with which the official information will be greeted should be withheld until the last doubt has been removed. There is universal belief that the dawn o fworld peace is only a few hours distant, and this afternoon's countercurrents of news is but the rumbling of the breaking clouds of the long German night under which the world has struggled up to the light of triumphant democracy.

Locked Up Gasoline Tanks Following Government Order

Sarnia Garage-Owners Refuse to Sell It.

SARNIA, Nov. 7.—All Sarnia garages have locked up their gasoline tanks following a meeting of the owners. They met F. F. Pardee, M.P., and after a thorough discussion decided to discontinue the sale of gasoline until some amendments are made in the recent Government order limiting the profit to 10 per cent.

The new regulations call for the taking out of a permit, the maximum fee being two dollars. A record must be kept also of every sale. The sale of gas on Sunday is also prohibited under the new ruling of the fuel controller.

The Sarnia garage owners' chief objection is to the margin of profit allowed. They claim it is not sufficient and that it would not pay them to handle gasoline owing to shrinkage, which, it is claimed, amounts to 6 per cent. In the meantime Sarnia's autoists are unable to procure their supply of gasoline and unless something is soon done this city will be experiencing gasless Sundays every day in the week.

FINED $210 AND COSTS

Tharon McMullen of Havelock appeared before County Magistrate Langley on an adjourned charge of having liquor in a place other than his residence. License Inspector Williams conducted the prosecution and McMullen conducted his own defence. Evidence of reliable witnesses showed that the defendant had been indulging in a spree on the morning of Oct. 12th last, and while under the influence had visited a certain residence at Round Lake which the defendant alleged to be of questionable repute, where he ran foul of its mistress, and the evidence of whom was largely responsible for the verdict of guilty by His Worship. McMullen had to face another charge of being drunk on a public highway, on which he was also found guilty and fined $10.00 and costs. Both of the fines were paid forthwith.

BAN TO BE LIFTED IN HAVELOCK

The Havelock Board of Health ban on churches and schools is to be lifted next week, and on Sunday next we will have church as usual, the schools opening on Monday morning. The epidemic in Havelock is nearing its finish. Nearly all the old cases have recovered and few new ones are reported.

Library Will Open Saturday

Nearly Two Thousand Books in Circulation.

The library will be open to the public on Saturday next, November 9th.

As there are about 1800 to 2000 books in circulation, the Librarian requests as many as can find it convenient to do so, to bring their books in the morning and afternoon, rather than leave the matter till the evening, when there is always a rush even on normal occasions. It will be a great help to the staff and will tend to diminish chances of the over crowding, against which we are especially warned at the present time. The Health Officer in suggesting that all safeguards be taken desires it to be understood that nobody suffering from a cold or a cough should return a book to the Library in person, or make use of the reading rooms, as in doing so there is danger of spreading the infection.

JERUSALEM FELL TO TWO TOMMIES

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Major Allen Burgoyne, lecturing before the Royal Photographic Society, told a good story of the surrender of Jerusalem. He said that the city was actually surrendered to a couple of British regimental cooks, who were out trying to get some salad, when the Arabs came out with the keys of the city. One Tommy asked what they were expected to do with the keys of the "blinkin' city."

Major Burgoyne said that the scene was accounted so historic that it was reconstructed and photographed.

BEST BEEF FOR OUR BOYS

(By United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 7.—Beef "de luxe" of the same high standard as that served at training tables and the best hotels in the land, will be fed the fighting Yanks in the future.

Quality beef only, based on its excellence, irrespective of weight, will be sought for America's fighting forces. Our associates in the war will also benefit by the plan.

Details were completed at a recent conference of Secretary Daniels, army officials, Secretary of Agriculture Houston and Food Administrator Hoover.

You are gone, but you are with us,
For we see you thro' our tears;

FLU SPREADS OVER CIVILIZED WORLD

Germ Eludes Bacteriologists and Health Authorities Are Baffled

The Influenza Epidemic continues unabated. Its ravages are not confined to this city or even to Canada, and cable reports indicate that it is rapidly spreading over the civilized world. It has baffled medical skill to an unusual extent and has claimed more victims perhaps than any other epidemic in a score of years. The germ has eluded the Bacteriologists and medical men now agree that the best cure is prevention.

The surest prevention is to build up the bodily powers of resistance and to get the system into the best physical condition possible. It is now universally agreed that it is possible to perfect the powers of resistance of the human system so that it can throw off almost any infection not excepting Spanish Influenza.

It has been discovered that persons who are weak and rundown are the earlist victims, and if you find yourself tired or weak and losing flesh or if you are in a generally run-down condition and below your normal weight, this warning should be heeded promptly.

If you are in this condition nothing on earth will build you up and strengthen you like Tanlac, which contains the most powerful tonic properties known to science. As a reconstructive tonic and system builder it is without equal and contains the very elements needed by the system to give you fighting strength to ward off the Influenza germ. This is a satement of facts and is supported by the recognized authorities and reference works, including the United States Dispensatory and the Encyclopedia Brittannica and leading text books used in the school of medicine. This statement is further proven by the fact that millions of persons who have actually taken Tanlac have testified to its extraordinary merit as a medicine, and by the fact that Tanlac is to-day having the greatest sale of any tonic on the market, over Eleven Million bottles having been sold within the past three years.

Tanlac is also the ideal strengthening tonic for persons who are suffering from the after-effects of Influenza, Grippe or bronchial troubles and hundreds of thousands are using it daily with the most gratifying results.

In connection with the Tanlac treatment it is necessary to keep the bowels open by taking Tanlac Laxative Tablets, samples of which are included with every bottle of Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd. In Havelock by A. C. Denike. In Lakefield by Lawler Drug Co., Ltd., In Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter. In Gelert by A. J. Scott. In Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

GRAIN MARKET

The report that the war was at an end did not have the effect on the grain markets generally expected. The reason given for this was that the news to a large extent had been already discounted. The November corn option closed 3c down, but December and January both closed 1-2c and 1 1-4c, repectively, higher than yesterday's close. The cash oats market was easier, Fort William prices going fro 1-2c to 1c.

Now that people are turning their thoughts towards Christmas preparations, a recipe for sugarless candy may prove useful:

Peanut Brittle.

1 Cup white corn syrup.
1 Tablespoon vinegar.
¼ Teaspoon salt.
1 Teaspoon vanilla.
1 Cup freshly roasted peanuts, halved.

Cook the corn syrup, vinegar and salt in a saucepan until a little dropped in cold water forms a soft ball. Put the peanuts and this syrup into a frying pan and stir until the syrup becomes a golden brown. Have ready a shallow greased pan, pour candy in and spread out in a thin sheet. Allow to cool. Then remove from the pan and crack into pieces.

USED FOR SHAVING.

Many men are troubled, more particularly in the cold weather, with a sort of roughness of the skin or eczema caused by shaving. The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment after the shave soon cures the trouble and by using it after each shave you keep the skin soft and prevent irritation and consequent roughness. Its antiseptic qualities this ointment prevents and cures Barber's Itch.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Ruth is Sent Away Again. Brian Goes Out With Mollie King.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

The day after Ruth's talk with Brian, and after she had told La Monte of her intention to move, Mr. Mandel called her into his private office.

The Cary house was nearly finished, to take the noon train for Philadelphia. There is a home in the suburbs I have been asked to look at, and then submit plans. It is impossible for me to go with you, but La Monte will give you all the necessary information."

"Shall I be there long?" Ruth asked. It had come again. She would have another disagreeable scene with Brian.

"Oh, two or three days. Stay at the Bellevue. Go home and pack up what you want to take with you, then return here. La Monte will have your instructions ready when you come back."

Ruth nodded. She realized that the call on her was as a business woman, and so she obeyed it without qualm or hesitation. Yet she dreaded the going because of Brian.

She called him up on the telephone as soon as she reached the flat and told him what she had to do. This time there was no gasp, no asking her to repeat the message. He listened quietly, then said:

"If you will let me know when you are coming back, I will meet you."

"Indeed I will! that will be lovely. Mr. Mandel said it might take me three or four days. I am to stay at the Bellevue-Stratford. It will take no longer because I am going to go alone and so will have it all to do myself."

Ruth had added that last sentence thinking to comfort Brian, and to dissipate any jealousy he might feel if he imagined Mr. Mandel had accompanied her. She knew that it disturbed Brian not to have her at home; also that it troubled him not to know where she was and what she was doing every minute of the time. Philadelphia was a big place, and during the day she would not even be there, but out in the suburbs attending to her work.

Ruth had lately met some friends of Brian's, one or two married couples (the women had been shocked that she worked, and had shown it very plainly), and two or three young women and their escorts. Brian, before he married had been something of a Bohemian, and from what he said —and what she had gathered from the conversation of others had been quite friendly with Mollie King, an artist living in the Latin Quarter of New York—Greenwich Village.

Ruth, speeding to Philadelphia, her mind fixed on the work she had to do, plans laid out on the table the porter had brought her, little dreaming that Brian, lonely, disgusted at the idea of eating his dinner alone, had called Mollie King on the telephone and proposed they dine somewhere together.

"Where's that clever wife of yours?" Mollie had asked when she received the unexpected invitation.

"She is over in Philadelphia. I shan't eat alone, Mollie, so if you don't come I shall ask someone else."

"Oh, I'll come alright. Where shall we go?"

"Meet me at the Brevort for old time's sake."

"No one wants you to eat alone. You couldn't lose little Mollie tonight if you tried," she told him, all the time wondering if there was any trouble between good old Brian, and his stylish, clever wife. She hoped not; she liked them both.

She found Brian waiting for her. He had engaged a table one in the same old corner where they used to sit before Brian married Ruth. With much laughter and many reminiscences they ordered the dishes they used to order. Strangely, the waiter who served them remembered them, and covertly watched them, wondering if they were married.

They had a delightful evening, Brian had taken Mollie home to the little studio high up against the roof of one of the old houses in the quarter, and had gone in, in the same old fashion, and smoked his cigar, while she puffed away at a cigarette to keep him company.

When the clock in the church tower not far away struck twelve, they both started.

"Scandalous!" Mollie laughed. "Out you go this minute."

"I should say it was scandalous. Really, Mollie, I had no intention of boring you so long. I had hoped you would go with me again, some night. Now I know you won't."

"Ask me if you dare!" she flung back, her bright eyes mocking him.

"Will you dine with me to-morrow night at the same time and in the same place, Miss King?" Brian asked with mock humility, his eyes dancing.

"Certainly, Mr. Hackett! I accept your invitation with much pleasure." And Mollie swept him an elaborate courtsey.

"Mollie's some nice girl all right! It was a heap sight better than staying at home alone. I must tell Crawford not to get dinner home, to-morrow night. No use wasting good grub," Brian soliloquized as he prepared for bed.

To-morrow—Brian Takes Mollie King to Dinner a Second Time.

Where Father Cooks.

In olden times, when, as Barrie tells us, "the world was so young that pieces of the original egg-shell still adhered to it," long before the Tai Pings or long-haired rebels ravaged this part of China, the two provinces of Kiangsi and Fukien were quarreling. The men went out to fight and left the women at home, even as we do to-day. The women did not know anything about planting crops or puddling rice fields. At first they just let things slide, hoping the men would soon return.

But the fends grey fiercer and more men were called out. The fighting reached the Kan and Rsai Kiang. Finally all the strong men disappeared from their ancestral halls. In the swift years that followed the women found, to their surprise, that they could make the rice shops prosper. More junks were sailing up the river than in former days and clean little houses lined the shore for long distances.

But although everything was going beautifully and the women were making more money than they ever had before, the feeling gradually grew that no town could be complete without husbands.

A vote was accordingly taken and the majority decided that husbands should be imported.

Enter husbands from a neighboring clan. The women having conceived the scheme, worked it out logically. Husbands were soon given to understand that they were husbands only, and imported at that.

"We shall still be managers of our lands and rice shops. We will run this town and see that no harm befalls the province. You are to look after the children." So the dictum ran and the men mildly subsided into mere men and became very useful to the community.

So the women managed with a high hand in Hsia Kiang, just as our men did in the Flint Age. And the women in Hsia Kiang have kept on managing just as our men have liked on managing just as our men have liked to manage a man-made world even to the present day.—World Outlook.

Policy, Not Politeness.

Gibbs—I noticed you rise in the car this morning and give your seat to a stout lady. Dibbs—Yes; it was a question whether she or I was going to stand on my feet.

Train Momentum.

The momentum of a modern twelve car railroad train running a mile a minute is equal to that of a ton weight falling from a height of twenty-one miles.

KIDNAPING VOTERS.

Once a Regular Feature of Political Warfare in England.

In England a generation or two ago kidnaping was a regularly organized feature of political warfare. On the eve of an election especially men of influence on either side would mysteriously vanish to reappear later with strange tales of forcible seizures, mad races across country in post chaises driven by yelling postilions, followed by longer or shorter terms of gilded imprisonment in great mansions, where they were wined and dined in sumptuous style and treated right royally in every way, only their liberty being denied them.

Quite humble voters, too, were forcibly abducted, but these did not always fare quite so well. Thus one victim made complaint before a magistrate that he had been decoyed from his house by a ruse and kept shut up in a coal hole for three days.

Wholesale kidnaping of voters in batches, too, was not unknown, the process being rendered easier by the custom of candidates paying the traveling expenses of their electors to and from the polling places.

For instance, at a certain Newcastle election a whole shipload of freemen of the borough, dispatched from London by sea, were taken by the captain —who had been heavily bribed—to Ostend and there left stranded.

During the same contest, too, and under similar circumstances a number of Berwick electors who happened to reside in London were dumped down in Norway, and a group of dirty Ipswich voters found themselves on the day of the poll cooling their heels upon the quay at Rotterdam. — Pearson's Weekly.

MARRIAGE FAILURES.

Two Crises In Wedded Life That Are Mainly Responsible.

That there should be such involved discussion and so many amazingly contradictory theories about the cause of the failure of marriage is surprising.

The plain fact is that marriage is always the end of romance and the beginning of history. This is so true that Homer tells us the women of ancient Greece reckoned their ages not from the birth date, but from the wedding day. A good many husbands in this twentieth century are a good deal more certain about the number of years their wives have lived since marriage than about the summers and winters they had numbered before they became wives.

Failure to recognize the difference between romance and history causes failure of marriage. Romance is all play; history is a serious business. Courtship is pie; marriage is potatoes. The comedown from pie to potatoes sometimes overstrains matters seriously. But if this crisis is safely passed another awaits.

Love is the spice of life, but friendship is the nourishing food without which life, except to unusual individuals, becomes a burden. The marriage which is all spice and no food soon gives one or frequently both of the parties thereto acute indigestion. When the ecstatic emotions of the honeymoon have fled, marriage must find some other subsistence or it cannot thrive. And the only satisfying food is friendship.—Mother's Magazine.

Trivial Causes of Wars.

A bucket was once the innocent cause of a terrible war. Nine centuries ago some soldiers of Modena stole a bucket as a joke from a public well at Bologna. When they refused to restore it scrimmaging commenced between the soldiers of the rival states and a war ensued, which spread until it involved the greater part of Europe. In more recent times a debt of a few shillings of which the bey of Algiers demanded payment through the French consul led to a war which lasted twenty years, cost more than 500,000 lives and made Algeria a French possession.

Your Labor Counts—every ounce of work you do helps some soldier who is fighting over there! This war is being fought as truly in the household and in the work-shop as it is in the trenches.

Some of our Canadian women are borne down physically and mentally, by the weaknesses of their sex. They suffer from backache, dragging sensation, very nervous and pain in top of head. If they ask their neighbors they will be told to take a Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce's which has been so well and favorably known for the past half century.

Weak women should try it now. Don't wait! Begin today. This woman's tonic and nervine will bring vim, vigor and vitality. Send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c for trial pkg., tablets.

Paris, Ont.—"About three year ago I was ill in bed and suffered severe pain. The doctor said I had gall stones, but his medicine did not help me. A neighbor had been taking 'Favorite Prescription' and it had benefited her so much that she urged me to try some of hers, and that first dose helped me so much that I sent at once for a bottle. I was very much surprised at the prompt relief this medicine gave to me after the doctor had failed, and I have never had such a spell since, but whenever I feel the least bit run-down or in need of a tonic I take the 'Favorite Prescription' again for a few days. It has never failed to restore me to perfect health."—Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, P. O. Box 752.

A Birthday In France.

"Yesterday," writes a corporal to his mother, "was my birthday, and I celebrated royally last night. Two fried eggs, a slice of bread and a cup of black coffee in one of the quaint little roadside wine houses near here. This repast is about the limit in 'high life' in this village—it was quite a plunge for me. Just as I had finished a burly Tommy came in and seated himself at a table. Madame approached. 'Woofs,' he commanded. She was puzzled. 'Je no comprend pas,' she murmured. 'No, none of that stuff,' said the Tommy. 'All I want is a couple of woofs.' She called her husband, who came in a questioning manner. 'For the love of Pete,' yelled the soldier, 'all I want is a couple of woofs.' 'Ne comprie,' said monsieur. 'No, I don't want no comprie, just ordinary woofs. Monsieur and madame conferred. 'What's the matter with these yaps [illegible]?' to the couple he yelled. 'Woofs! woofs! I want woofs.' Then, pulling a book from his pocket, he opened it and showed them a line in triumph. All smiles; they understood and hurried to the kitchen. 'The fools don't know their own language,' he confided to me. Curious, I inspected the page and line of his soldier's dictionary. 'Just as plain as day, he said. 'The French for eggs is o-e-u-f-s, woofs!'"

Where He Was Born.

Our company is getting ready to leave, writes a soldier. Sergt. Reynolds, inquiring how many men were foreign born, asked Pte. Butler, who had just come into the ranks: "Butler, where were you born?" Butler, not knowing what was going on, didn't understand. Sergt. Reynolds—I said where were you born? Butler—Upstairs over the kitchen, sir.

Buried the Wrong Man

Montreal, Que., Nov. 8.—Somewhere out on the Great Lakes on the barge, S. A. Dunn, there is a sailor officially dead, according to Deputy Coroner Price, of Montreal, who has made the pronouncement over the body of a man named Arthur Marier, whose corpse was taken from the Lachine Canal, September 15. The wife and daughter of Arthur Marier, two sisters and two soldiers, identified the body at the Morgue as Arthur Marier, yet the sailor has not gone to "Davy Jones," locker according to Arthur Marier, on board the barge S. A. Dunn, plying between Toronto and other ports along the Great Lakes. He is somewhere on the water and Capt. Bergeron says "he is alive and well, thank you," according to a telegram the captain sent to Chief Lorrain.

The barge left Toronto last Saturday and until the boat can be intercepted by wireless or the captain communicated with at some port, Marier is a dead man. He has told the captain that he is not, and the skipper, after shaking hands with him, said he believed him. But he is dead all the same and his body is underground here. He will be dead just so long as he fails to appear in person before the coroner and prove that marks on the left cheek, a mole on the body and two distinguishing peculiarities on the back are the identical spots that the Arthur Marier, buried in a cemetery here was identified by.

Arthur Marier, sailor, will receive a photograph of Arthur Marier, dead here, as soon as the barge docks at Toronto. He is the only man who can say that he is alive.

What Wood in Form of Fuel?

Some Facts Concerning Its Value as Fuel in Comparison With Coal.

As many persons may have noticed, there is a brisk demand for wood, which Peterborough householders expect to use for fuel. It is a novelty to them and though its price seems to be regulated mainly by the amount of money which the buyer can collect for the purpose, he frequently does not know whether or not he is paying more than the fuel is actually worth, and, while he knows in general terms, that wood is sold by the cord and coal by the ton, he has no idea of the relative value of the two units.

A standard cord of dry hickory, oak, apple or sugar maple has as much heating value as a ton of coal and is likely to cost considerably more than the coal, if the latter was obtainable. A cord of white ash wood is probably equal to a ton of coal, but the buyer is not likely to find a cord of it in the market. Birch, especially black birch; beech, red maple and elms, with the swamp woods, generally, are slightly less valuable than the aristocrats already mentioned, but are preferable to the soft woods, such as chestnut, cottonwood, pine, spruce and hemlock. From one and one-half to two cords of these latter are needed to equal a ton of coal.

The householder who uses wood in the furnace, for the first time, will have several things to learn, and will learn them after a short time, the first of these being that wood soon burns out, if it is dry wood, and that it gives out little heat or refuses to burn at all if it is green. Then, after a little, he will find that a combination of three parts dry and one part green wood will work fairly well, as requiring less attention. He will discover that the furnace produces smoke instead of gas, and produces it in generous quantities, but eventually, he will become used to it. Smoke, with some heat, is preferable to neither smoke nor warmth.

affords as a strengthening and nourishing factor. A very little of Scott's every day, during a time of stress, furnishes elements of nourishment essential to the blood and tends to confirm a growing child in robustness. For your boy or girl, you will not be satisfied with anything short of Scott's.

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.

HON. DR. CODY RETURNS FROM OVERSEAS WITH COMPREHENSIVE SCHEME.

Toronto, Nov. 8.—After an absence of over a month, during which he visited the battle front in France and the training camps in England, Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Education, has returned home convinced that one way at least that the government can assist the men after they return is to provide the means of training them to become school teachers. Quite a large number of men at the front were taking courses to fit them as teachers, when they enlisted. These will be provided with funds to enable them to complete their training. Similar assistance will be given to those desiring to begin such a course for the first time if Dr. Cody's plan is followed out.

While overseas, Dr. Cody made a thorough study of technical education and industrial training in the upper grades of the Public Schools. There was a growing realization in England, he delared, of the fact that the country must encourage such training to a far greater extent than in the past.

The Minister also studied the question of compulsory education up to 18 years of age. In England the final four years were part-time education of a specialized nature, which did not interfere with the pupil being also employed in industrial plants. Extension in the Minister's opinion, cannot be adopted in Ontario until provision has been made for specialized training during the added period. He was much impressed with the English method of linking-up the training of teachers with the universities and will take this feature up with the Government.

BE READY FOR EMERGENCIES.

The best way is to always keep a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, ready for emergencies. Then when croup or colds come suddenly they can be promptly cured before they have time to reach an acute and dangerous stage. To meet this requirement we have put the syrup up in family size bottles which contain nearly three times as much as the 25-cent bottle and sell at 60 cents.

ITALY TO ORIENT AIR MAIL PLANNED

(By United Press.)

ROME, ITALY, Oct. 18. (By Mail.) —The Italian government has just approved plans for maugeuration of an aerial postal and communication service between Italy and the Orient.

The project is a continuation of the one that already has been officially provided for in France.

The Italian project takes up the service at Nice and provides for its continuation to Rome and Brindisi, from which port on the Adriatic an aerial line will be established to Vallona, the new Italian naval base on the eastern coast of the Adriatic, and from there on to Salonika.

Trial flights have been made over the entire proposed line from London to Salonika, and every detail has been worked out.

It is expected that the entire service will be inaugurated in the very near future. For the time being, it will be used largely for carrying governmental and military dispatches between the governments of England, France, Italy and the Allied base at Salonika, but later on may be developed to such point as to be able to handle a postal service for the public as well.

GREAT IN DISASTER GREAT IN VICTORY

James M. Beck of New York Pays Tribute to Britain.

GREAT IN DISASTER, GREAT—C London, Nov. 8.—(British Wireless Service)—England was nobly great in the hour of disaster, but she is supremely great in the hour of victory, declared James M. Beck of New York, a member of the Committee of the American Pilgrims, at a luncheon given in his honor by the executive committee of the British Pilgrims. In New York bells were rung and whistles blown to celebrate the surrender of Austria-Hungary., but England, whose soldiers had defeated Turkey and achieved victory over the Prussian terror in France, remained silent in the hour of her triumphs.

America Mr. Beck added, was in full sympathy with Great Britain. All it cared in the war was retributive justice. Tuesday there was an election in the United States but there was no division in opinion upon the point that the war should be prosecuted to a conclusive victory. Americans might differ upon domestic politics and even on minor details of peace proposals, but they were a unit in supporting President Wilson in carrying on the war for freedom to a victorius end.

WHITE FLAG HOISTED IN SUBURBS OF GHENT

The Germans Have Decided to Abandon the City.

On the Battlefront in Belgium, Nov. 8.—A wireless despatch was received yesterday afternoon at the headquarters of Gen. Beaurains from the Germans saying they had decided to abandon Ghent and asking the Belgians not to fire on the suburbs of the town where white flags were raised.

Nov. 10, 1918.

Jacob Deceives his Father. Gen. 27:18-29.

Golden Text: Speak ye truth each one with his neighbor. Eph. 24:25.

1. Verses 18, 19. Where can you draw the line between innocent and wicked deception?
2. Why is a lie never justifiable?
3. What is your definition of a lie?
4. Verses 18, 19. What was the loss and gain of Jacob lying to his old father?
5. What is the difference in a blessing gained by fraud and a curse richly deserved?
6. When and why if ever is it right to do evil that good may come?
7. Verses 18, 19. Rebekah, Jacob's mother, had incited him to this deception, thinking to help God thereby to carry out his purpose, in what singular way did she suffer for this pious fraud?
8. Verses 20, 21. When a lie has been told to obtain gain, why is it impossible to finish the transaction without telling other lies? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the Club.)
9. If we break one of God's commandments why does that virtually break all God's commandments?
10. Verses 20, 21. Why is a pious liar more dangerous than any other kind?
11. If we have a distinct promise from God why is it never necessary for us in any conscious way, to help him carry it out?
12. Verses 22-24. How can you illustrate that starting out to gain a thing by fraud, every step of the process we need to invent other lies, and perpetrate other deceptions, to carry out the scheme?
13. Verses 25-27. Why did Isaac want to give the blessing to Esau when he must have known that God intended it for Jacob, as God had told Rebekah before the children were born? (See Gen. 25:23.)
14. How may we avoid being swayed by our own preferences, and be sure that we are carrying out the will of God?
15. Isaac seems to have been influenced greatly by the fact that Esau had been in the habit of bringing him venison to eat; to what extent should we be controlled by our stomachs?
16. Verses 28, 29. What did Isaac's blessing conferred upon Jacob, actually consist of?
17. Isaac's idea of true blessedness at this time seems to have been wholly material, temporal and physical, but what is the supreme wish and blessing of a cultured spiritual Christian father when on his death bed, for his children?
18. What are the relative advantages of this life, of great earthly possessions, and of great spiritual visions and companionship with God?

Lesson for Sunday, Nov. 17, 1918, Jacob Fleeing from his Angry Brother, Gen. 28:10-22.

MAKING AN AIR FLEET

MANY AIRPLANES BEING BUILT IN THE DOMINION.

Nearly 3,000 Machines Are Now In Use In the Training Camps Where Airmen Are Being Prepared to Fight the Hun — An Interesting Account of the Factories.

IF the man on the street were asked how many airplanes had been built in Canada since the spring of 1917, when airplane-building began in this country, he might guess as high as 300. Half a dozen or a dozen machines sailing in the air above a training camp looks like quite a flock to the every-day citizen on the ground.

Since the latter part of 1917 nearly three thousand airplanes have been built in Canada. All of these are in use in Canadian training camps except a few which were sent to the winter training camp at Fort Worth, Texas, and left there.

Last year the Imperial Government asked the Munitions Board in Canada to establish a plant for building airplanes. The board with characteristic thoroughness went at the job, and before long a good many million dollars directed by the best organizing ability available were put to work.

The magic of money and brains combined resulted in the establishment of a great plant that covers acres of ground and the floor space of which would make a good-sized farm. In forty-five days after the first sod was turned the wheels were turning and many hundreds of men were working on the first batch of airplanes. Since that time machines have been coming out in a steady stream at the rate of 300 a month.

Besides the factory great training camps and airdromes, with a gunnery school of the Royal Air Force, have been established. In British Columbia over sixty logging camps and many sawmills are cutting airplane timber and lumber.

The writer enjoyed a personally conducted tour of the airplane factory recently, and was shown many wonderful things, many which one's fingers fairly tingle to put on paper, but which cannot be made public yet.

Any sort of well-organized industrial plant is interesting, but a factory where airplanes are made is invested with a romance which attaches to the most romantic engine of war which has been developed in the present struggle.

The lumber comes from the mills of the far away British Columbia coast. This lumber looks like white pine, but it has the resiliency of elm, the toughness of hickory, and lightness and color of pine.

The giant trees, known as silver or Sitka spruce, from which it is cut, are from six feet to twelve feet in diameter, and they raise their plumed heads 300 feet into the soft Pacific airs, straight as an arrow. A tree eight feet in diameter was a seedling when Columbus discovered America. A 12-foot veteran was several hundred years old before Capt. Vancouver sailed up the Gulf of Georgia and discovered its habitat. And today they are yielding up their great trunks that freedom may be preserved on the earth and that the Hun shall not dominate and desecrate the beautiful land from which they have sprung.

In the airplane factory are piles of lumber in sheds and kilns, and in freight cars on sidings, carefully selected from the great trunks of those trees. At the mills where the logs are rough sawed about 30 per cent. of the log is selected for re-selection. Every plank is rigidly inspected. A knot as big as a needle, where some ancient twig became submerged in the trunk's growth, will condemn a plank for airplane construction. Every board must be absolutely clear of checks or knots.

If the end of the plank shows less than five annular rings it indicates that during a period of its life the trees grew rapidly, and consequently the grain will be coarse and unreliable, and that plank will go into the discard. The slower the growth the finer and denser will the grain be.

Then none of the outside or sapwood of the log is suitable for this purpose, neither may the heart of the log be used. So that when the sawyer has taken what he needs, according to his rules, two-thirds of the log will find its way to storage piles, some to go as lumber for ordinary uses, some to be ground into pulp at the paper mills of the Pacific coast.

At the factory the lumber comes under a still more rigid inspection and selection. It comes in pieces of from two to four inches thick and from four to eight inches wide and up to sixteen feet in length. Of course planks are cut at the coast mills up to forty and fifty feet long, but all the long stuff is shipped to England for the wing beams of battle and scout planes.

From the lumber at the factory only perfect pieces are selected for the wing beams. A piece not suitable for wing beams may contain shorter pieces for braces and the cross beams and standards. There is therefore very little waste at the factory.

As yet only instructional machines are built in Canada, but after the war it is very probable that commercial machines will be turned out, for there is little doubt that the airplane will become almost as common as the motor car for many purposes.

"Will it be possible after the war for a man to operate a machine with, say the average mechanical knowledge required to drive a motor car," the writer asked the manager.

"There is no reason why such a machine can not be built and it is quite safe to say that such machines will be on the market. Machines for commercial use will be much simpler and less expensive than war planes," he continued, "because they will not be subject to the tremendous strains put on war planes in the manoeuvring of fighting. The control of a machine is very simple," he added.

"Are the engines self starters?" he was asked.

"No," he said, "if the engine stops in midair there is only one thing to do and that is to volplane to a landing. Usually the engine is shut off before landing anyway. But the stoppage of the engine in midair involves no great risk if the driver knows how to control his machine," the manager concluded.

The writer saw a very wonderful thing in the airplane factory, but the censor would probably delete any detailed reference to it. Nothing like it to-day is on the earth nor in the waters nor in the sky. There are seven tons of retribution to the Hun in its composition and when it takes the air it will be as though an ocean liner had suddenly left its own element, and on the wings of the morning has descended upon the enemy. Those who first gaze upon this monster may readily imagine that a city block has taken to the air. But all this chronicle can further say about it is "wait and see." It is being built for one of the Allies and many more such machines are under construction in various parts of this continent and for aught the writer knows, in Europe as well. One thing the building of that war engine in a Canadian factory proves is, that anything which can be built in any airplane factory in the world, can be built in Canada.

One interesting phase of airplane building is the inspection which every machine and every part must undergo by inspectors of the Imperial Government. Every brass screw, every bolt, is counted and checked. Every little detail of construction noted and passed upon. Even a slight roughness in the finish must be rectified.

Heart Palpitated

Could Count Every Beat

When the heart begins to palpitate, it will beat fast for several seconds, then slow, then start to flutter, and a feeling of utter depression will come over your whole system, accompanied by weak, fainting and dizzy spells.

When the heart gets into this condition, you become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social, business or household duties.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief to all sufferers from any heart weakness or nerve derangements.

Mrs. Walter Greives, Apsley, Ont., writes:—"I had been run down, and doctors told me I was anaemic, but did not help me with their medicines. I could not sleep nights, my heart palpitated so, and I could count every beat.

I used to have such dizzy spells I would have to go to bed. I was not able to do any work for eight months. A cousin of mine had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and told me what they had done for her. I took eight boxes of them, and now I am able to help every day with the work. I am so thankful to tell others what they have done for me, so that they may try this great and wonderful remedy. I hope this may prove good to some one who is suffering the way I did."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

AN APPRECIATION

In the death of Mina E. Throop, which occurred in Peterboro, Wednesday, October 30th., of pneumonia following Spanish Influenza, a brief and promising life, was called to the higher service beyond.

She was the youngest daughter of the late John and Emma Throop and was born in Peterboro, June 11, 1890.

For many years she taught in the school of the Hiawatha Indian Reserve, and to these people her services were more as missionary and spiritual leader, acting as Superintendent of the Sunday School for some time. She was greatly beloved among the people of this settlement, and many through her life and influence have been persuaded to become followers of her Christ, because her Christianity was a constant attraction. She was wonderfully kind, gracious, loving gentle and thoughtful in spirit and in life. Her memory is a benediction and because of the inspiration of her life many humbly seek to better tread the paths of God. His cause was ever uppermost in her thought. She counted no service of time or strength or means too much to give her Lord or one of his needy ones.

She was constantly breathing out the fragrance of her Christian life on all who came in contact with her. She was one of those rare characters who gather the sunshine and scatter it sweetly where needed, assistance is ever made known, one of the few who in life's course completely are lost to themselves, but their Saviour enthrone.

Her life was of short duration, and death came with startling suddenness but found her calmly trusting her Saviour and ready for the Master's will.

To many the occasion will seem sad because the end was so sudden and unexpected. But there is nothing sad about sudden death, when the life has been pure, and the conduct exemplary.

The untimeliness of this death makes it seem deplorable. To see a person of character and culture in her bloom and beauty almost in the morning of life, taken away so unexpectedly awakens a sentiment of genuine sorrow and a feeling of sincere regret.

But Mina was a Christian, and would have her loved ones view her Coronation Day in the light of Christian faith. She like her Master lived long enough to finish her work.

Her life was marked by many graces her unfailing submission to God's will her bright cheerfulness. She had no gloomy ideas of a Christian life. Christ was her dearest personal Friend.

No wonder she left us for heaven
The dear Lord had need of her there
Her soul had attained its full stature
Pure, noble and wonderously fair
And Jesus took her.

Her labors among us are ended
But the work is still to be done
We must pick up the threads where she dropped them
The weaving must still go on Though hearts are breaking

Let her life be our inspiration,
Like her, let us do the "next thing"
No service too small, or too lowly
To do in the name of our King
Full consecration.

We know she is safe with her Saviour
She is one of the glorified throng
We must trust Him for light in our darkness
And lean on the strength of His arm
He will not fail us.

Our sister Mina is only promoted to a higher service. She is with those who serve Him day and night in his temple and will go no more out forever.

Her funeral service was held at the residence of her brother-in-law, Mr. S. Taylor, and was conducted by Rev. R. A. Whattam of Mark St. Church, of which the deceased was a number and attended whenever possible to do so. Rev. A. Thomas of George Street church assisted and brought comforting assurances.

Besides a host of sorrowing friends she leaves to mourn her loss, members of the family, mother of Toronto, four sisters, Mrs. John Nurse, of Tower Farm, Bewdley, Mrs. James A. Reid of Banff, Alta., Mrs. Samuel Taylor of Peterboro and Mrs. R. J. Gray of Otonabee, with whom she made her home, also one brother Lieut. A. B. C. Throop of Queen's University.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a

FEARFUL PLIGHT OF AUSTRIANS

Duke of Aosta Now Gives His Impressions.

WAS ALMOST A MASSACRE

Italian Commander Tells How the Austrian Offensive on the Piave Was Stopped—Teutons Suffered Terribly Under Concentrated Fire of the Allied Guns and Death Toll Was Large.

HOW the Austrian offensive along the Piave river was stopped was described recently by the Duke of Aosta, commander of the Third Italian Army, which was located south of the Montello Plateau during the fighting, in an interview with the foreign editor of the Matin. He said:

"We had to deal with an enemy who had prepared everything minutely, but we were forewarned. I did not have a moment's uneasiness.

"I let him advance across the Piave along certain fronts as far as Monasterio, and then, when he was just where I wanted him, my batteries opened a concentric fire. What butchery. The Austrians will long remember it. The next day I viewed the battlefield. God knows I saw massacres during the three years I fought on the terrible Carso Plateau but my eyes never before gazed on such a spectacle."

DUKE OF AOSTA.

Discussing the war situation as a whole, the duke said:

"What the Allied troops are doing against the German army fills me with admiration and wonder. I freely admit that I never believed this vast offensive would be possible before next spring. That it could be launched this year in the middle of the German attack and lead to such victories is a marvel, and also is proof that for Marshal Foch the problem of reserves has ceased to be a care.

"Reserves! The whole question lies there. If one is certain of being able to reinforce and relieve the troops engaged while the action is proceeding one can be assured of victory.

"But," continued the duke, "now that we have the upper hand, there must be no stopping. We must beat them completely. We owe it to ourselves. On our front, also, the enemy has allowed himself to be inspired by savage barbarity.

"The air attacks on our open towns, the slavery imposed upon the population of the invaded territory and a hundred other revelations of his infamy have awakened in all Italian hearts the ancestral hate for the oppressor of our race. For my part I cannot imagine a peace giving the Germans and the Austrians the right to come peacefully to trade and travel in our country.

"But let us leave politics. I am a soldier, and that is all I want to be—a soldier like the youngest of them here. Those around me know that, and I think they return it in devotion and affection. Go and see them. You will behold heroes—those who have repelled the enemy, those of Venice who have occupied the delta of the Piave. They live, cling on and fight under such conditions that one must bow before them. Thanks to them, Venice breathes freely, awaiting the day of revenge."

Doers Are Not Talkers.

Friends who have been and seen and who had come home again had gone off blithely and unselfishly, to drive ambulances, to nurse the wounded, to know the storm centre for themselves; and they had come back sobered, which was intelligible, and silent, which was unintelligible. That they should be so strangely reticent in speaking of the grim total fact and of their inner reaction was unnatural. They had been willing to communicate a few items from their adventure, but of their total experience they would not speak. The cleverest raconteur broke down. The most discerning philosopher found himself beyond his depth. A touch of the ineffable seemed to have entered into the lives of all such who had seen and shared, however briefly and humbly, in the strain and stress of the storm centre.—Atlantic.

THE TOMB OF TUSITULA.

Samoan Natives Keep Stevenson's Grave Buried in Flowers.

It was in December, 1894, that Stevenson died at Vailima, near Apia, on the Island of Upolu, in the Samoan group. Lovers of this quaint character—the modern who was an ancient, the ancient who was a modern, the contemporary who became a classic because he translated new things into thoughts for all time—will be glad to know that since then he has slept in a distant grave, but not in a neglected one. For the natives of that island keep his tomb on the lonely mountain-side fragrant with flowers. "The tomb of Tusitula," they call it—that was the great Scot's Samoan name.

Stevenson went to live in Samoa in 1887. He was a comparatively young man, but he had seen the vanities of the world, and, captivated by the climate, the scenery, and the kindly character of the natives, he at once determined to live out whatever space of life might remain to him in that fortunate island. And there he did live for seven years. Long ere he died he wrote his own epitaph, and that epitaph is graved on the brass tablet that was put there in 1895:

Under the wide and starry sky
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad did I live and gladly die
And laid me down with a will.
This be the verse that you grave for me:
"Here he lies where he longed to be.
Home is the sailor, home from the sea,
And the hunter home from the hill."

TROGLODYTES OF TRIPOLI.

They Live Underground, Some of Them Never Seeing Daylight.

In the region of Gharian, in the hinterland of Tripoli, there is an invisible town with 7,000 inhabitants. This city of the Troglodytes was visited by Miss Ethel Braun and is described by her in her book, "The New Tripoli."

This city is excavated out of rock and earth. Its inhabitants live underground, some of them never coming to the surface. "The richer ones," writes Miss Braun, "are born in these dim dwellings, never leaving them until they are carried out to be buried." The rich families have, however, one reception room over the ground at a height of six or seven feet.

Describing the Troglodyte prison, Miss Braun tells of an Italian lady's experience while visiting the female prisoners.

"They had never seen a European woman before and asked her to take off her hat. No sooner had she done so that in a twinkling all her hairpins were pulled out, to be kept as souvenirs by the women, who looked upon them as most precious mementos."

The friendly Troglodytes made Arab tea for Miss Braun. "Shai, as it is called, made with powdered tea and much, very much, sugar, so that it tastes just like a syrup," and they were very excited at the event of her visit.

Impudent Thieves.

The lepero of Mexico is reported to be one of the smartest and most impudent thieves in the world. Brantz Meyer tells of an English traveler who, within an hour or two, in the principal streets of Mexico, had first his hat hooked from his head by a line from an upper window, and was then accosted by three leperos who divested him of his coat. The three bade him wait, and within a few minutes one returned and handed him a pawn ticket.

"We wanted $30, not the coat," he explained. "Here is the ticket with which you can redeem it for that sum."—London Mail.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Stunning Blow

By MARTHA V. MONROE

During the transition of the government of Mexico from Madero to Huerta a young American was in the capital of that country to see what was to be seen. Paul Stanford was wealthy and had not settled down to any business or profession. He spent his time wherever there was any excitement During that long period when the Balkan states were preparing to resist their masters, the Turks, Stanford was here watching the preliminary movement and joined in one of the expeditions which set out from Bulgaria.

And now when Mexico was in a turmoil he was observing the struggle among the various factions. One day while dining at a restaurant he made the acquaintance of a Mexican who sat at the same table with him. Senor Jose Sandoval offered to show the American the sights of the capital and piloted him from one curiosity to another, thus acquiring his fervent friendship. Then Sandoval offered to introduce his new acquaintance to some of the Mexican ladies. Stanford assented and was taken to call upon Senorita Maria Molina.

Stanford's women acquaintances were not added to, because he was satisfied to spend all his time with Senorita Molina. She was very pretty and had all the coquettish ways of a Spanish girl.

"Well," said Sandoval one day, some time after the introduction, "what do you think of the senorita I have made you acquainted with?"

"She is very fascinating, but at the same time very unsatisfactory."

"Unsatisfactory? What do you mean by that?"

"I can't make her out. I don't know whether she is fooling me for a purpose or whether she has given me a bit of her heart."

Sandoval looked at the American scrutinisingly. "Explain," he said.

"There is something about her that makes me distrust her," replied Stanford.

"Well, then, why do you not take pains to learn something about her?"

"How can I do that?"

"Observe when she goes out; then go into her house and—well, look about you."

"Spy on her?" asked Stanford sternly

"Call it what you like. You are in love with her. Being in love with her I presume you wish to marry her. Are you so squeamish that you would marry a woman who may be an adventuress rather than satisfy yourself that she is a proper person to be your wife?"

Stanford listened, but did not reply Sandoval continued:

"I am too fond of you not to try to prevent you from making a misalliance. Either do what I suggest or drop Senorita Molina at once and never see her again."

Stanford acted upon neither of these alternatives at once. Indeed, he never intended to act upon either of them But one day he called on his enchantress during her absence from home, and Sandoval's suggestion came buzzing about his ears like a bumblebee But he could not stoop to spy upon the woman he loved. Having been told that Senorita Molina would not be long gone, he sat down in a corner to wait for her. He fell into a doze, from which he was awakened by a man's voice in the hall speaking in Spanish.

"Senorita, I have brought word to you at the risk of my life. The general says that you have done so much for the Constitutional cause that he hopes you will not refuse to do this one thing more. The president must be"—

Here the man's voice dropped so low that Stanford failed to hear him. There was a reply, also in a low voice—Senorita Molina's—and then a man's footsteps were heard leaving the house, followed by a woman's going upstairs.

Stanford did not like the idea of the lady's knowing that he had her secret. It occurred to him to leave before she should come downstairs. The twilight had come on, and, going out through the door, he made his way under some trees and disappeared.

The next day he met Sandoval. The latter noticed that he looked troubled. "Have you met Senorita Molina lately," he asked of the American.

"I have not had a word with her since I saw you last," was the reply, and Stanford turned the conversation into another channel. But what he had overheard troubled him. He believed that he knew what was meant by the unfinished sentence. He was horrified that the girl he loved should be an assassin. He brooded over the matter till he felt that he must prevent her from staining her fair hands with blood. Whom could he trust? No one but his friend Sandoval. He told Sandoval that the president's life was in danger and asked him to impart the warning to the man it concerned. Sandoval did not ask him where he had acquired the information. But two hours after the interview Stanford called on Senorita Molina, to learn that she had been arrested and taken away. The next day he received a farewell from her written before she was to be secretly executed. She said she loved him.

Before leaving Mexico Stanford learned that his friend Sandoval was a member of the secret police. He had used the lover to trap the woman he loved.

Stanford has never recovered and never will recover from the blow.

IN MISERY FOR YEARS

Mrs. Courtney Tells How She Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Oskaloosa, Iowa.—"For years I was simply in misery from a weakness and awful pains—and nothing seemed to do me any good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and got relief right away. I can certainly recommend this valuable medicine to other women who suffer, for it has done such good work for me and I know it will help others if they will give it a fair trial."—Mrs. LIZZIE COURTNEY, 108 8th Ave., West, Oskaloosa, Iowa.

Why will women drag along from day to day, year in and year out, suffering such misery as did Mrs. Courtney, when such letters as this are continually being published. Every woman who suffers from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, nervousness, or who is passing through the Change of Life should give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its long experience is at your service.

We wanted Music in our home, so we got a New Edison.

Somehow we had a deep-seated notion that Music that is merely a resemblance, that is only an imitation, is simply not Music at all. To have contented ourselves with anything but the actual voice or playing of the living artist would be enduring something that is not Music.

Talking machines imitate Music. Only the New Edison "Re-Creates" Music, and so truthfully that, as we listen to it, it is difficult to believe the living artist is not actually present.

Wouldn't you like to hear this really marvellous invention of the world's greatest inventor? With the New Edison there are no needles to change. Can play all makes of records. Easy terms if you wish.

Good That He Returned.

"Boy, watch my horse till I come back!" called a man to a boy lounging around the station, as he hastened to old farewell to a departing friend.

"Sure!" said the boy, taking the reins.

Just then the locomotive whistled and the horse, rearing suddenly, started at full speed up the road.

The boy stared after the fleeing animal, and, as the owner appeared, exclaimed with relief:

"It's a good thing you came now, sir, for I couldn't have watched him much longer."—Ladies' Home Journal.

WORSHIP BY DAYLIGHT

LONDONERS WILL HAVE NIGHT SERVICES ONLY IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

LONDON.—A suggestion made by Sir Albert Stanley, President of the Board of Trade, that all church services be held in daylight on account of the serious coal shortage is to be adopted, it is announced, in many London churches. An exception will be made, however, in the case of Westminster Abbey.

"The evening service," said Canon Charles of Wesminster Abbey, "is a special litany, and it appals to a large number of people who cannot attend werhip in the afternoon, and for that reason it is considered necessary not to make any alteration."

Evening services at St. Paul's Cathedral were discontinued last year as a precaution against air raids, on account of the difficuly of subduing the Cathedral's lights.

Careless Mistress.

"Mary, why didn't you sound the dinner gong?"

"Please, 'm, I couldn't find it."

"Why, there it is lying on the hall table!"

"Please, 'm, you said this morning that was the breakfast gong."—London Sketch.

Try Magnesia For Stomach Trouble

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gassy Stomachs and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless, if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form. Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach, which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn, and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that, provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow, and moreover the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

MANY CITIES NAMED FOR PEACE PARLEY

The Hague, Brussels, Geneva, Lucerne, Rheims, and Versailles Suggested.

Paris Nov. 8.—Diplomats here are interested in the choice of location for the peace negotiations. Some of them think the Carnegie peace palace at the Hague should be chosen for sentimental reasons. They point out that the Hague is convenient for the British, Belgians and Germans and could be easily reached by land from Paris.

Other statesmen prefer a place in French or Italian Switzerland, such as Lausanne, Geneva or Lucerne. They are easy of access from France, Italy Austria and Germany. Still others propose Brussels, as being gratifying to the Belgians, who have suffered so greatly.

Notoriously Clever Bank Robber Slain By His Own Gang?

"Eddie Fay," Reputed To Have Purloined Over Two Millions, Is Victim.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Edward Joseph Fay, a world notorious crook and abnk robber, and known as "Eddie Fay," was found shot to death in an alley here. There was a bullet wound in his head just below the right ear. The police believe he was slain by a member of his own gang following a dispute over the division of loot.

Fay's career of crime extends all over America and parts of Europe. He became internationally known fifteen years ago when he was arrested in Paris with "Mickey" Gleason, also of Chicago, for robbery of a Paris bank. They were sentenced to Devil's Island, a French prison surrounded by cliffs, and Fay later escaped. He was the first to make a successful break for liberty from that prison.

The police estimate that Fay has stolen more than $2,000,000 from banks throughout the country.

15,600 Death Claims Paid by U.S. War Risk

INSURANCE RECEIVED BY DEPENDENTS $118,000,000.

Total Payments Made by Bureau, Including Allowances, Are $230,000,000, for Which 7,486,434 Checks Were Necessary — Only 24 Disability Claims.

WASHINGTON.—The War Risk Insurance Bureau of the Treasury Department has paid up to date more than 15,600 death claims under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Insurance Act.

This big total reflects the toll of life the American forces have paid in the big drives in France. The claims paid totalled $118,000,000, which went to dependents. As against this big total only 24 disability claims have been paid, totalling $142,500.

Total payments by the bureau, including allowances made under the law, are $230,000,000. The issue of 7,486,434 checks was necessary in making those disbursements. In October alone the bureau sent out 967,240 checks, of which 934,157 were for allotments and allowances, 6,074 for compensation, and 17,009 for insurance claims.

War Department authorized immediate construction of buildings to accommodate 25,000 men for the infantry school of arms at Columbus, Ga.

German Delegates Are Now in Conference at Allied Headquarters

The Terms May Have to be Referred to Berlin, in Which Case Seventy-two Hours Will be Allowed for a Reply—It May be Several Hours Before Any Definite News is Received.

GERMANY IS SPARRING FOR TIME

(United Press Service.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. — The German delegates enter the conference at General Foch's quarters at nine a.m. Paris time to-day, the State Department announced shortly before nine o'clock.

If it is found that the armistice needs to be referred to Berlin, seventy-two hours in which to make their reply will be allowed from the time that a decision is reached, the Department said.

DEFINITE NEWS IS NOT EXPECTED FOR SEVERAL HOURS

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—On the basis of press despatches from France that German envoys would meet Marshal Foch to-day, officials did not expect any definite news as to Germany's armistice terms decision for several hours.

THE GERMAN PLAN IS TO CLOUD ISSUE AND GAIN TIME

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Text of wireless exchanges between Marshal Foch and the German High Command shows signs, the morning newspapers declare, that Germany is still determined to cloud the issue in every possible way, apparently with the object of at least gaining time, if they cannot gain anything else.

PRESIDENT WILSON WILL ANNOUNCE THE SIGNING OF ARMISTICE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. — The statement was authorized at the White House this morning that whenever word came of the signing of the armistice in France, President Wilson would announce it himself.

ALL GERMANY IS STRIDING RAPIDLY TOWARDS REVOLUTION

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The Matin says: "Berlin and all Germany are striding rapidly toward revolution. The substitution of a responsible secretary of State for Admiral Von Hintze was inspired by this grave peril. The commission sent by the German Government must have with it a man able to sign immediately, without referring to Berlin. An attempt mus be made at any price, in he wards of Prince Maximilian of Baden, to open negotiations in favour of peace."

GERMAN GOVERNMENT IS THE VICTIM OF A PERSISTENT ILLUSION

"Needless to say the German Government is the victim of a persistent illusion. Marshal Foch will refuse to come out of his province which is strictly military, and he also will certainly refuse any suspension of hostilities until armistice is accepted."

"It is probable that the idea dominating the men at Berlin is much less to convince rebels and the General Staff of the necessity of giving in," says the Echo de Paris, "than to deflect the pourparlers toward a 'humane' peace. Germany's representatives soon will be undeceived."

Other commentators write in the same vein, and invariably conclude by asserting that German capitulation is not far away.

ARMISTICE MUST BE SIGNED BEFORE ALLIES CEASE FIGHTING

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. —An official diplomatic despatch from France to-day emphasized the fact that Marshal Foch is empowered only to deliver armistice terms to Germany and receive their acceptance, and that peace negotiations are not the business of the military commander. Any suspension of hostilities before the armistice is signed, even if asked on philanthropic grounds, is declared to be out of the question.

GERMAN ARMISTICE DELEGATION ARE IN CONFERENCE WITH FOCH

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The German armistice delegation entered a conference with Marshal Foch at 9 o'clock this morning, French time, the State Department announced officially to-day. The announcement is made also that if it is found German delegates must refer armistice terms to Berlin, they will be given 72 hours from the time the decision is reached, in which to answer.

ENEMY WILL HAVE TO SIGN ARMISTICE TERMS BEFORE SUNDAY

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Information reaching Washington through diplomatic channels, indicates that if the German armistice envoys are not ready to accept immediately the surrender terms offered by Marshal Foch, the Marshal will give them until Sunday to sign.

GERMAN DELEGATES ASKED FOR IMMEDIATE SUSPENSION OF ARMS

(United Press.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The German delegates arrived this morning at Marshal Foch's Headquarters and are reported positively to have asked for an armistice.

The text of the Allies' conditions was read aloud, and then handed to the enemy delegates. The later asked for the immediate suspension of hostilities, which was refused.

GERMAN REPRESENTATIVES PROCEEDED TO HEADQUARTERS EARLY THIS MORNING

The Germans, it is stated, have seventy-two hours in which to reply.

The enemy rapresentatives arrived at the meeting place designated by Foch last night and spent the night in a house which had been prepared for them there. They then proceeded to Foch's temporary headquarters — probably in the Department of the Aisne—this morning.

Marshal Foch will have with him during the armistice conference both a British and American representative.

Pte. V. E. Tobin is Getting Better

Was Hit While Going Up to the Line.

Mrs. E. Tobin has received the following letter from her son, Pte. V. E. Tobin, who was wounded on Sept. 27:

Dear Mother,—Just a line to let you know I am getting along fine, and am able to be up and walk around again. My shoulder is all better, but my hand will take some time before it is entirely well, in fact mother, I think the blow I got on my hand will cripple two of my fingers, the little finger and the one next to it. The piece of shrapnel that hit by hand must have been a big piece, for it didn't stay in it, it just hit the back of my hand at the side and fractured some bones. But I was lucky I didn't lose my life for the shell that hit me didn't land twenty-five yards from me and killed two horses and their drivers, and wounded a lot of other fellows in my platoon, and I think I was the luckiest of the bunch, for most of their wounds were body wounds and very severe wounds too.

It seems strange to think I was hit while going up the line, and yet came through the battle of Arras and the other battles without a scratch.

Well mother, now that you know the full particulars there will be no need of you worying about me(as I am O.K. I will write soon again and hope it won't be long before we will be all home once more.

Your loving son,
VINCENT.

Admiral Wilson Authorized the Announcement

United Press Cable Respecting Signing of Armistice Was Approved by Admiral Wilson.

U. P. STATEMENT

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Yesterday's announcement of the signing of the armistice between Germany and the Allies was made by Admiral Wilson at Brest, and was filed to the United Press with the Admiral's approval. This information was received by the United Press in a cablegram from Roy W. Howard shortly before noon to-day.

Practically at the same time another message from Howard was delivered to the United Press stating that Admiral Wilson made the announcement in Brest at four p.m., French time, but that later he was notified that it was not confirmable. This latter message filed by Howard did not show, in the form in which it was delivered, whether it was sent yesterday or how long it had been held up.

Howard's cablegram clearly showed that Admiral Wilson acted in good faith, stating that he supposed the announcement was official and therefore gave his approval to the filing of the message to the United Press in New York.

The United Press to-day asked the Government to ascertain how long Howard's message had taken to reach New York, stating that Admiral Wilson had authorized the announcement.

STATEMENT BY ADMIRAL WILSON

(United Press Service.)

BREST, France, Nov. 8.—Admiral Wilson, United States Naval Commander of the American Forces in French waters, to-day made the following statement for the information of United Press editors:

"The statement of the United Press relative to the signing of the armistice was made public from my office on the basis of what appeared to be official and authoritativ ienformation.

"I am in a position to know that the United Press and its representative acted in perfectly good faith, and that the premature announcement was the result of an error, for which the agency was in no wise responsible."

STATEMENT ISSUED BY UNITED PRESS

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—In view of the French official statements to-day, showing continued fighting on the west front, the United Press issued the following statement from its general office here.. "Our cablegram received from Paris at noon yesterday, signed by Roy W. Howard, President of the United Press, and William Philip Simms, Manager of the Paris Bureau, reporting the signing by the Allies and the Germans of an armistice, was written in plain English and not susceptible to any possible misconstruction as received in this office.

"No censor could have had any doubt as to its plain meaning.

"After the receipt of the second message reporting the celebration in Brest we have received no further word whatever from Mr. Howard or Mr. Simms, although messages were despatched to them as early as 1 p.m. yesterday.

Following is the exact cable, copy of the original message as transmitted to the United Press:

Unipress

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Urgent, armistice Allies-Germany signed eleven smorning, hostilities ceased two safternoon, Sedan taken smorning by Americans.—Howard-Simm.

Unipress is the cable address of the United Press. The word "urgent" merely indicates that the message was filed at "urgent rate." The word "safternoon" and "smorning," meaning "this afternoon" and "this morning," are ordinary and accepted cable contractions.

It is absolutely inconceivable to us that Mr. Howard did not file further despatches and our other only possible conclusion is that the remainder of his messages were held up by a censor.

"Investigation of the matter is proceeding and we expect that it will be cleared up within a very short time."

Resolution Sent to Dept. of Education

The Board of Education's resolution urging the Department to replace the German word kindergarten with an English equivalent was forwarded to the Hon. Dr. Cody yesterday. At Tuesday night's meeting of the Board this resolution was moved by Mr. J. M. Greene, and seconded by Mr. G. N. Gordon, and was passed unanimously.

Closure Ends To-night

All places and public meetings that have had the closure applied by the M.O.H. will be at liberty to open at 12 o'clock to-night, as the ban will be lifted at that time.

C. H. AMYS,
Medical Officer of Health.

AERIAL FORCES ACTIVE DURING OCTOBER MONTH

Long Distance Flying Was Only Possible on 20 Days Out of the Month—Junction Points Bombed.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(British Admiralty Wireless)—During October, despite the prevalence of fog and thick mist throughout the Rhine Valley, the British Independent Air Force made sixty-four raids over important German towns, exclusive of numerous raids upon German airdromes at Frescaty, Halbacau and Jametz. This achievement is the more striking in view of the fact that long-distance flying was only possible on twenty days out of the month. Of these, only seven days could be described as fair, while nine were highly unfavourable for flying operations. Hundreds of tons of bombs were dropped during the raids.

During the month there were twenty-five raids upon Metz and Sablon. The famous railway triangle is of exceptional importance to the enemy at present when, apart from the question of supplies for his fighting lines, very large enemy forces are in rapid retreat toward the Rhine.

Photographs Taken.

Photographs taken during the recent raids show as many as twelve or fifteen enemy troop and ammunition trains crowded into the southern arm of the triangle alone at one time.

Although it is not possible on every occasion to secure direct hits upon waggons containing ammunition and other highly explosive substances the permanent way and intricate network of crossings is extensively damaged almost daily by the British bombing squadrons, necessitating the constant employment of large repair gangs and causing great delay to the enemy's military transport.

For similar reasons the important enemy junction at Thionville had been repeatedly attacked during the month.

A CLEAN SWEEP. SALE AT SUKLOFF'S

Everything in Stock Has Been Marked Down.

During the quietness of the last few weeks due to so much illness, we took the opportunity to mark down our stock of goods in every department.

The business that was lost to the city must be done now and we are taking this means of moving our stock by a Clean Sweep Sale which just means what it says.

The Body Has Been Recovered

Reported Death of Howard Darling is Confirmed.

It has been definitely ascertained that Howard Darling, brother of Mr. Russell Darling of Smith township, lost this life on the "Princess Sophia" a Canadian Pacific steamer which was lost with all hands off Juneau, Alaska some weeks ago. The body has been recovered and will be brought to Peterboro for interment.

REPUBLICANS WILL CONTROL SENATE

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Latest reports to-day on the few districts still remaining doubtful in last Tuesday's elections, indicated a Republican control of the next Senate by a bare majority, with no change in the substantial Republican majority already assured in the House.

Separation Rates Have Been Raised Dating From Sept. 1

Soldiers' Dependents Will Get Larger Allowances by New Order—Five Dollars a Mouth More.

ORDER-IN-COUNCIL

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 8. — An Order-in-Council has been passed increasing the rates of separation allowance payable to the dependents of private soldiers, non-commissioned officers, first-class warrant officers, and lieutenants serving with the Canadian Expeditionary Force, effective September 1, 1918, as follows:

1. Dependents of private soldiers and non-commissioned officers from $25.00 to $30.00 per month.

2. Dependents of first-class warrant officers, from $30.00 to $35.00 per month.

3. Dependents of lieutenants from $30.00 to $40.00 per month.

As the majority of the November cheques had already been printed before the Order-in Council was passed, it is not possible to include the adjustment in this month's issue, but the amount due on account of these increased rates for September, October and November will be included in the issue of December cheques.

The distribution of December cheques will be made from militia headquarters as well as by unit paymasters by the 16th of December.

Where the dependents of a soldier are receiving their separation allowance from the unit paymaster, instead of from Ottawa, the adjustment will be made by the unit paymaster and not from Ottawa.

C. G. E. EMPLOYEES ARE STILL BUYING

The employees of the C.G.E. are still buying Victory Bonds. Mr. Layfield, the organizer, has so efficiently handled the canvass that he can't stop the men buying them. There are now over 830 bond-holders, while the total number of employees is 899. Some of these are still away sick and will probably return to bring the percentage considerably higher.

Honour Flag For Matthews

Presentation Was Made at Noon To-day—Victory Loan Total.

This afternoon the Victory Loan totalled $1,323,950 for the city and country and the canvassers are confident or going over the top before November 16th. The gradual return of factory employees is speeding operations up satisfactorily.

WON HONOUR FLAG

At noon to-day the Honour Flag, which goes with the purchase of Victory Bonds by 80 per cent. of factory's employees, was formally presented to the Matthews-Blackwell company by Mr. W. H. Bradburn. Preceeding the presentation cars containing some of the canvassers escorted by Piper Yeoman motored down George street the front car bearing a Union Jack. Upon the arrival of the party employees and managers of the factory assembled upon the roof and the formal presentation was made amid enthusiastic cheers.

Replying to a speech by Mr. W. B. Cumming the county organizer who told the men that they had done their bit to bring about peace and congratulating them on behalf of the Dominion. Mr. T. F. Matthews said that the loyalty of his employees had always been conspicuous in any loyal project In Red Cross canvassers they had never been found wanting. Now he congratulated them upon more than winning the flag by over 80 per cent. of the men buying bonds.

TELEGRAPHED TORONTO

Mr. Matthews telegraphed the news of the company's victory immediately to the head office in Toronto.

Peterboro Had Small Celebration

Large Crowd Congregated in the Streets.

Peterboro's acceptance of the premature announcement that the armistice terms had been signed by the enemy took the form of a small-sized celebration in which a composite band took part. In the evening a big crowd congregated in the streets and stage was all set for a real celebration in event of news being received confirming the report. Mayor Duncan had planned to declare to-day a public holiday and other arrangements had been made to adequately observe the occasion.

BRITISH ARE ADVANCING

Several More Villages Have Been Captured—Sharp Fighting at a Number of Points.

ON FRENCH FRONT

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 8.—British are continuing the advance along the entire battle front. Field Marshal Haig to-day announced the capture of three villages in the region between Mons and Maubeuge.

British troops captured the village of Haumont in sharp fighting yesterday evening and advanced to within less than two miles of the fortress city of Maubeuge.

On French Front.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 8.— French troops resumed their advance along the whole front this morning. The War Office to-day reports that French units have reached the railway junction of Liart, about twenty miles north of Rethel.

The French early to-day captured Singly, less than eight miles south of Mezieres, and Frenois, about one mile west of Sedan. 1,500 prisoners and much material were captured yesterday.

Artillery Action.

(By Webb Miller—United Press).

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 8.—The Germans are attempting to make a stand behind the Meuse.

Heavy artillery firing is going on on both sides of the river, particularly in the region of Sedan. Further south there is considerable machine gun fighting.

Little to Report.

Canadian Press:

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE SEDAN FRONT, Nov. 8.—Beyond artillery and machine gun-fire, which was particularly active in the region of Sedan, there has been little to report from the battlefront since last night. No infantry action has been reported.

Peterboro Boy Defends Y.M.C.A.

Pte. A. Drummond Was a Steeplejack Before Enlisting.

The Examiner is in receipt of a letter from Pte. A. Drummond. He speaks very highly of the Y. M. C. A. work in France and Flanders, and registers a protest against the "kickers" at home.

Before enlisting he was a steeplejack and painted St. Paul's church tower.

The letter follows:

I feel it is my duty to speak a good word for the work done by the Y.M.C.A. out here in the firing line, for the men who need it.

Perhaps it will be news for the party who made the kick that the Y.M.C.A. at the time of the drive were serving tea and biscuits to the wounded, not miles behind the front line, but right up with them, and as the infantry advanced so did they; in order when the boys when wounded would be looked after. And then again whom would we get our cigarettes from, our writing paper, and various other things, if the "Y" were not here? I have not seen any other outfit up here doing anything for the boys who need it when on the move. But when we are on a quiet front and dug in one sees the chaplain service and perhaps an army canteen, but that is all.

So if you hear anyone running down the Y.M.C.A. put him down as a kicker or one who has never been nearer than the base to the front line.

Yours respectfully
Pte. A. Drummond,
(A Peterboro boy.)

THE PEACE NEWS.

The news that Germany had accepted the Allies' terms for an armistice, and that hostilities were at an end, an announcement that has not yet been officially confirmed, was the cause of wild demonstrations in cities and towns throughout Canada and the United States yesterday, the unofficial intelligence being accepted by the people everywhere as anticipating the official announcement by only a short time. The report of Germany's capitulation was not, as some people last night seemed to thing, confined to Peterborough alone, but as a matter of fact quickly spread all over the continent and there were hilarious celebrations in many of the larger cities as soon as the first flash was given out. The source of the news was so reliable, and the nature of the intelligence so probable, that everywhere it was expected that there would be an official message confirming it in a short time, and so the people felt justified in celebrating the report, although the fact that it had not been confirmed prevented the "cutting loose" that will undoubtedly take place when officialdom announces definitely that the Germans have had enough.

When that will come, no one knows, but in the meantime the patriotism of the citizens should be centred around the Victory Loan campaign, which, next to the actual ending of the war itself, is by far the most important matter about which Canada is concerned at present. Canada's driving power in the war and her prosperity after peace is signed, depend alike upon the success of the Victory Loan.

MUST NOT SLACKEN.

Once more let it be understood that the signing of an armistice with the enemy does not mean that Canada's Victory Loan will not be needed. That statement has been re-iterated almost daily, but no matter how often it is repeated there is a possibility of the success of the Victory Loan being endangered through a belief that with the end of hostilities, the loan is no longer necessary.

The signing of an armistice merely means the suspension of hostilities until a peace conference can be held. Although actual fighting will be stopped, there will be no appreciable decrease in war expenditures, for the allies must maintain their armies in the field until the formal signing of peace documents. After that the forces must be demobilized, an operation that with the Canadians who must arrange for the transportation of hundreds of thousands of men across the Atlantic, will be a long and expensive task. Great Britain's purchases in Canada will still have to be financed, in short the whole war budget will be required for a considerable period after fighting has stopped.

This is to a real Victory Loan—a loan floated at the moment when the efforts and sacrifices of the allies are being crowned with success. Surely with the spirit of victory in the air and the end of the terrible conflict at hand, there should pour forth from Canadian people an avalanche of money that will testify to the gratitude and thankfulness of the Dominion. It is a glorious moment for the carrying out of such a glorious enterprise as the raising of the Victory Loan.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Stick it, Canada!

Lend as they fight.

Peace or no peace, The Victory Loan must be floated successfully.

Last night's demonstration may have been premature, but it came as a relief after three weeks of dullness caused by the influenza epidemic.

The doctors' advice to keep out of crowds was ignored completely last night.

The Veterans were ready to celebrate and waiting for the official news. Well, there's nobody in Peterborough with more right to cheer when peace is declared than the men who have been over and done their bit.

Even if the German navy did not come out, two of its Admirals did—to meet General Foch.

One of the Great War Veterans' remarked that the German peace delegation must have got hung up on the wire.

Perhaps the Allies' line was advancing so fast yesterday that the enemy's peace envoys got caught in the rush.

Last night's rejoicing was just a rehearsal for the real thing.
